Vol. 143

WASHINGTON, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1997

No. 159

House of Representatives

The House met at 12 noon and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore [Mr. PETRI].

DESIGNATION OF THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC,
November 12, 1997.

I hereby designate the Honorable THOMAS E. PETRI to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

NEWT GINGRICH,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

PRAYER

The Reverend Dr. Ronald F. Christian, Lutheran Social Services of Virginia, Fairfax, VA, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, at this noon day hour when in this House Your servants come together as a body to accomplish Your work on behalf of us all, we acknowledge our utter dependence on Your many and various gifts and seek Your benediction on our humble efforts to do Your will.

As the psalmist reminds us all, that unless You add Your blessings to our work, we who desire to build the city labor in vain to build it.

Therefore, bless all those who stand guard and keep watch in our land, keeping us safe by night and day from the many perils that may befall us.

Bless the hearths and the homes of our land in such a way that little children may experience love and know security and all people live together in harmony.

And bless the worn and beaten paths to the centers of worship in our land that all people will give thanks to their Creator during this harvest season and that all people will seek Your guidance as we gather to walk the road toward peace and happiness for all. Amen.

A PROPER BALANCE OF EXPANDED TRADE AND PRESERVATION OF AMERICAN VALUES

(Mr. PALLONE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, in the aftermath of President Clinton's decision to withdraw fast-track legislation, the time has come to forge a new policy that provides direct access for labor, environmental health, and safety concerns to be addressed in negotiating future trade agreements.

Those of us who opposed fast track did not do so because we oppose expanded trade but because the pending legislation gives Congress only one vote on trade legislation that may have profound impact on American workers and the quality of our lives.

If the President were to embrace trade procedures that require consideration of labor and environmental standards followed by adequate enforcement and then subject the negotiated agreement to congressional approval, I believe the President's trade agreements would pass in Congress with a large consensus.

I am sending a letter today to the President and will ask support from my colleagues who opposed fast track to discuss and explore alternatives which properly balance expanded trade and the preservation of American values.

DOES THE WHITE HOUSE TAKE THE AMERICAN PEOPLE FOR FOOLS?

(Mr. SOLOMON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, as we race toward adjournment tomorrow night, and I think we will, let me just say that if I may use the words of the President this past weekend, I think we have another case of a no-brainer. If we have a political party that suddenly discovers after an election that over $3 million in campaign contributions has to be returned because it came from foreign sources and everyone is taking the fifth amendment because no one wants to talk about it, that is a no-brainer that something is very wrong, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, does the White House really take the American people as fools? Thirty-nine House and Senate witnesses, beginning with John Huang and Mark Middleton, are taking the fifth; 11 witnesses, beginning with Charlie Trie and Pauline Kanchanalak, have left the country; 11 foreign witnesses, beginning with Stephen and James Riady, refuse even to be interviewed. Why would we not conclude that they have something to hide?

If 70 people have taken the fifth or fled the country about raising Chinese money, why would anyone not conclude that crimes have been committed by someone?

INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTION CALLING FOR RESOLVING PEACEFULLY THROUGH DIPLOMATIC MEANS THE SITUATION IN IRAQ

(Mr. LANTOS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, as divided as this House was on fast track, we are as united on the subject of dealing with Iraq. Today, I am introducing a resolution supported by Members across the political spectrum which has a message for Saddam Hussein in Bagdad.

At the conclusion of the gulf war, the United Nations decided to find and to destroy all of Iraq's capability to produce chemical, biological, and nuclear weapons and the missiles capable of delivering them.

For 6½ years, Iraq has pursued a policy of deception, lies, concealment, harassment, and intimidation in a deliberate effort to hamper the work of the inspectors designed to eliminate Iraq's ability to produce weapons of mass destruction.

Recently Iraq has escalated its non-compliance by refusing to permit United States citizens of the inspection team from carrying out their responsibility.

My resolution calls for resolving peacefully, through diplomatic means, this matter with full Iraqi compliance. Short of that, my resolution calls for military action undertaken under the broadest feasible multinational basis, preferably under United Nations' auspices, and, if necessary, my resolution calls for the United States to take military action to assure the destruction of Iraq's capability to produce and deliver weapons of mass destruction.

EASIER TO FIND ELVIS THAN A GOOD FACTORY JOB HERE IN AMERICA

(Mr. TRAFICANT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, Kodak is laying off 10,000 workers. Now if that is not enough to overexpose your most recent negative, Fruit of the Loom is cutting 3,000 jobs and moving to Mexico. Unbelievable. It is getting easier to find Charlie Trie and Elvis than it is to find a good factory job here in America.

Beam me up. I think it is time for Congress to ask themselves a very simple little commonsense question: If our trade program is so great, why does Japan not do it? Think about that.

I yield back all the balance of jobs and say one last thing here. From snapshots to long Johns, American workers just keep getting their assets kicked.

IT IS TIME FOR A NEW TRADE POLICY THAT BRINGS PROSPERITY TO OUR COUNTRY

(Mr. DEFAZIO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, the defeat of fast track trade authority earlier this week could perhaps mark a turning point for new trade policy in this country, a trade policy finally in the favor of the vast majority of Americans as opposed to a few multinational corporations, and foreign interests have been doing so well with our failed trade policy. As my colleagues know, our trade policy has not changed one bit since World War II, not one bit.

Despite 50 years of dramatic changes in the world economy, we have gone from being the world's greatest creditor nation to the world's greatest debtor nation in international trade. We have seen our standard of living erode, we have lost our industrial base, and the defenders of the so-called free trade policy say, well, it is working exactly as we intended. Well, what do we intend; $160 billion trade deficit this year? Is that what we intend? Is that a success? No.

Fast track was the last gasp for the apologists for a failed and archaic trade policy. It is time for a new trade policy that brings prosperity to this country, projects our values in terms of the environment, projects our values in terms of worker safety and standard of living.

Once again, America should stand tall and lead the world to a prosperity for all of us, not just a select few.

PASS THE TOUGH PRUDENT BUDGET OF THE D.C. APPROPRIATION BILL

(Ms. NORTON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I am asking for a bipartisan vote for the D.C. appropriation.

There are issues in this bill I would change, and my colleagues may feel the same. But Congress is not a consensus organization. Moreover, this is not Congress' money. There is only a token amount of Federal money in this appropriation, and that is mostly from the D.C. rescue package, not new money.

Imagine how it would feel if my colleagues had to come before this body to get permission to spend money raised by their taxpayers at home.

The issues that divided the House into two camps, such as vouchers, are gone. So are some items that would cripple the control board and management reform.

I agree with Mr. TAYLOR and Mr. DAVIS and some of the criticisms that they have of the control board in the District. I am most willing to work with them.

This is a tough, prudent budget of the kind the Congress has demanded. The District has accepted it. Let us pass it.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

A message in writing from the President of the United States was communicated to the House by Mr. Sherman Williams, one of his secretaries.

WAIVING REQUIREMENT OF CLAUSE 4(b) OF RULE XI WITH RESPECT TO CONSIDERATION OF CERTAIN RESOLUTIONS REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE ON RULES

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I would call up House Resolution 314 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution as follows:

H. RES. 314

Resolved, That the requirement of clause 4(b) of rule XI for a two-thirds vote to consider a report from the Committee on Rules on the same day it is presented to the House is waived with respect to any resolution reported from that committee before November 15, 1997, providing for consideration or disposition of any of the following:

(1) A bill or joint resolution making general appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1998, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon, or any amendment reported in disagreement from a conference thereon.

(2) A bill or joint resolution that includes provisions making continuing appropriations for fiscal year 1998, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon, or any amendment reported in disagreement from a conference thereon.

(3) The bill (H.R. 2621) to extend trade authorities procedures with respect to reciprocal trade agreements, and for other purposes.

(4) The bill (S. 1454) to provide a 6-month extension of highway, highway safety, and transit programs pending enactment of a law reauthorizing the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991.

SEC. 2. It shall be in order at any time before November 15, 1997, for the Speaker to entertain motions to suspend the rules, provided that the object of any such motion is announced from the floor at least one hour before the motion is offered. In scheduling the consideration of legislation under this authority, the Speaker or his designee shall consult with the minority leader or his designee.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. PETRI). The gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON] is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield half our time to the gentlewoman from New York [Ms. SLAUGHTER], pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of the resolution, all time yielded is for the purposes of debate only.

Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 314 waives the provisions of clause 4(b) of rule XI, requiring a two-thirds vote to consider a rule on the same day it is reported from the Committee on Rules, against resolutions reported from the Committee on Rules before November 15, 1997, providing for consideration of a bill or joint resolution making general appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1998, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon, or any amendment reported in disagreement from a conference thereon.

In addition, the rule applies the waiver to a special rule reported before November 15, 1997, providing for consideration of a bill or a joint resolution making continuing appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1998, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon, or any amendment reported in disagreement from a conference thereon.

Second, the rule also applies this waiver to a special rule providing for consideration of the bill, H.R. 2621, to extend trade authority procedures with respect to reciprocal trade agreements.

Third, the rule also applies the waiver of clause 4(b) of rule XI to S. 1454, legislation ensuring a 6-month extension of ISTEA.

Finally, the rule further provides that the Speaker may entertain motions to suspend the rules at any time before November 15, 1997, provided that the object of the motion is announced from the floor at least 1 hour before the motion is offered.

Of course, this resolution provides that the Speaker shall consult with the minority leader in scheduling legislation under this authority to suspend the rules.

Mr. Speaker, this is a straightforward resolution, extending through Friday the provisions of House Resolution 305 that passed last week. The first part of this rule, and we were speaking with complexities before, but this will lay it out in layman's language, the first part of this rule will permit same-day consideration of rules for general appropriation bills, for appropriation conference reports, and we have four pending, as you know, and continuing appropriations resolutions through this Friday.

The second part of this resolution provides that the Speaker may entertain motions of the House to suspend the rules through Friday. What that means is we can take up suspension bills between now and Friday. It simply provides for additional suspension-of-the-rules days.

These provisions of House Resolution 314 are customary toward the end of a session in order to permit the House to expedite its business and adjourn. That is what we are all looking forward to. In fact, the resolution does not depart from the standing rules of the House for consideration of legislation at the end of a session.

Nonetheless, the fact is we are uncertain as to the specific adjournment date, and we in the Committee on Rules felt this rule would simplify the orderly consideration of the necessary funding bills for the coming fiscal year.

Mr. Speaker, we all agree that the rules for expedited procedures on appropriation measures and on suspension measures should see limited use at the end of any session. This resolution will ensure that the appropriations conference reports can be passed in a timely manner, and we are not held over for another week or two in this session. Its passage will help ensure that.

Mr. Speaker, this resolution was favorably reported by the Committee on Rules on November 8. This resolution was modified by a unanimous consent agreement with the minority last Sunday night, at which time we were here until about 2 o'clock in the morning. The unanimous consent agreement changed the dates covered in House Resolution 314 to Friday of this week, and added ISTEA to the measure covered under the waiver of clause 4(b) of rule XI.

Mr. Speaker, the first year of this Congress has resulted in the first balanced budget in 30 years. I have been here for 20 years, and I have never seen one. It provides for less government bureaucracy and more tax cuts for the American people, putting money back into their pockets, so they can either spend it or invest it, but they can do it at their will instead of the will of this Congress. I would urge my colleagues to support this.

Now, Mr. Speaker, let me just run down some of those accomplishments that I just talked about. First, we had the first major tax cut in 16 years. We are now cutting, rather than raising, taxes. This tax cut provided for $250 billion in net tax relief over the next 10 years, $91 billion in 5 years. Over 72 percent of that tax relief went to middle-class-income families, those with incomes between $20,000 and $70,000.

We also provided for $41 million for children, families who were given a $500 tax credit to help working families offset the cost of raising and caring for children. Families with education expenses were helped by the provisions of HOPE scholarships and penalty-free withdrawals from IRA's for college and other educational expenses.

Family farms and small businesses were provided death tax relief. In other words, the inheritance tax exemption now for farmers now is something where farmers will not have to sell their property, the heirs will not have to sell it, in order to pay off the inheritance taxes.

First-time homebuyers were aided by the creation of American Dream IRA's, from which they can now make tax-free withdrawals for buying a home and fulfilling the American dream.

Mr. Speaker, you have to remember that today, anyone who has a mortgage on their home, if they are paying, let us say, $9,000 in interest, one-third of that interest is caused by the irresponsibility of this Federal Congress and this Government over the years in running deficits, so that if we are able to balance the budget, that means that the interest that young people have to pay, or anybody has to pay, on their mortgage will be reduced by one-third once we can get this under control. If we were able to save them $3,000 of after-tax income, that is money they could well spend on educating their children.

This Congress has provided broad-based permanent capital gains tax relief to spur investment, to create jobs, and increase economic growth. The top rate was reduced from 28 percent down to 20 percent, and the bottom rate from 15 percent down to 10 percent.

Mr. Speaker, that means that somebody who might have worked for Sears Roebuck, maybe a couple who worked for Sears Roebuck for all of their lives, they are not noted for paying high salaries, but they have great stock option plans, and many of their employees, many of whom I know, have saved that stock all these years. Now when they get ready to retire and perhaps move to Florida, or whatever they want to do, they can sell that stock, and the Government will not take all the money. The maximum amount of money they would take would be 20 percent in high income, or maybe just 10 percent, on all of the capital gains that they have seen on that stock over the last 30 or 40 years. That is a real accomplishment by this Congress.

This Congress has produced the first balanced budget in 30 years. We are now cutting rather than increasing spending. Instead of having a projected deficit of $300 billion in the year 2000, we are actually now going to have a surplus. Can you believe that? What a turnaround that will be and what that will mean to the average American in this country, as I have just outlined.

The budget was last balanced in 1969, the year man first walked on the Moon. The work of this Congress will result in a balanced budget in the year 2002 and budget surpluses thereafter.

We have saved Medicare from bankruptcy for 10 years down the road, providing more choice and affordability, affordable quality health care which our seniors deserve.

Federal spending has been reduced to 18.9 percent of the gross domestic product by the year 2002, the first time since 1974 that spending has fallen below 20 percent of the GDP. We will have achieved $182 billion in entitlement savings over the next 5 years and $700 billion over the next 10 years.

The growth of total Federal spending has been slowed to 3 percent per year. Mr. Speaker, that is really getting a handle on things. Even the growth of annually-appropriated spending has been slowed to less than one-half of 1 percent a year over the next 5 years as compared to 6 percent a year over the past 10 years.

Let me repeat that. The annual growth of appropriated spending has been slowed to less than one-half of 1 percent a year over the next 5 years, compared to 6 percent a year over the past 10 years. That is fiscal responsibility.

The 105th Congress accomplishments have not all been financial. The House has passed legislation moving children from foster care to permanent loving homes. We have passed comprehensive housing reform to help low-income families, the first major reform effort in decades in this Congress. Just in the last week we have passed the first IRS reform and restructuring package in four decades. This effort has followed on the heels of major education reform measures, such as charter school expansion and educational vouchers to give more hope to children eager to learn and to give choices to parents who want the best education for their children.

Congress has overwhelmingly passed a ban on partial-birth abortions, a gruesome procedure that should be outlawed in any civilized society.

In the aftermath of our Veterans Day celebrations, we should also note that earlier this year the House overwhelmingly passed an amendment to the Constitution, my constitutional amendment which I offered, banning the desecration of the American flag. It passed this House with over 300 votes, far more than the 290 needed to achieve two-thirds. It now rests over in the Senate where we are still, if you can believe, two votes short of passing this very, very important constitutional amendment.

Mr. Speaker, all of these accomplishments represent a real move to shift power and money and influence from Washington to people and families in States and communities. The record proves that Congress and the administration can achieve common goals without compromising our respective fundamental principles, and showing the American people that we can work together to solve their problems.

Adoption of this rule will speed our ability to take this record to the people who sent us here, our constituents.

Mr. Speaker, in a few minutes when this debate comes to a close, I would just hope it could pass on a voice vote. I would say this to the Republican and Democrat leadership, that if this matter does not pass providing for the two-thirds availability of bills to come to this floor, we are in about an hour going to have to recess until 5 o'clock waiting for Members to come back. No votes were allowed until after 5 o'clock, and that means we would not be able to take up suspensions. I would hope that the Republican and Democratic leadership could get together and allow this House to continue working from now until 5 o'clock. There are precious few hours left before we adjourn, hopefully sometime around 6 o'clock Thursday evening.

First major tax cut in 16 years. We are now cutting rather than raising taxes.

This tax cut provided $250 billion in net tax relief over the next 10 years—$91 billion in 5 years.

Over 72 percent of the tax relief went to middle-income families—income of $20,000 to $70,000.

Forty one million children were given a $500 tax credit to help working families offset the costs of raising and caring for children.

Families with education expenses were helped by the provision of HOPE scholarships and penalty-free withdrawals from IRA's for college and other educational expenses.

Family farms and small businesses were provided death tax relief.

First time homebuyers were aided by the creation of American Dream IRA's from which they can now make tax free withdrawal for buying a home and fulfilling the American dream.

This Congress has provided broad-based permanent capital gains tax relief to spur investment, create jobs, and increase economic growth. The top rate was reduced from 28 percent to 20 percent and the bottom rate from 15 percent to 10 percent.

This Congress has produced the first balanced budget in 30 years. We are now cutting rather than increasing spending.

The budget was last balanced in 1969, the year man first walked on the Moon.

The work of this Congress will result in a balanced budget in 2002 and budget surpluses thereafter if not even sooner.

We have saved Medicare from bankruptcy for 10 years, providing more choice and the affordable quality health care that our seniors deserve.

Federal spending has been reduced to 18.9 percent of the Gross Domestic Product by 2002—the first time since 1974 that spending has fallen below 20 percent of the GDP.

We will have achieved $182 billion in entitlement savings over the next 5 years and $700 billion over the next 10 years.

The growth of total Federal spending has been slowed to 3 percent a year.

Even the growth of annually appropriated spending has been slowed to less than one-half of 1 percent a year over the next 5 years as compared to 6 percent a year over the past 10 years.

The 105th Congress' accomplishments have not all been financial.

The House has passed legislation moving children from foster care to permanent loving homes.

We have passed comprehensive housing reforms to help low-income families—the first major reform effort in decades.

Just in the last week we have passed the first IRS reform and restructuring package in four decades.

This effort has followed on the heels of major education reform measures such as charter school expansion and educational vouchers to give hope to children eager to learn and give choice to parents who want the best for their kids.

Congress has passed comprehensive welfare reform—moving people from welfare to work and from dependency to self-sufficiency.

Congress has overwhelmingly passed a ban on partial birth abortions, a gruesome procedure that should be outlawed in any civil society.

In the aftermath of our Veterans Day celebrations, we should also note that earlier this year the House also overwhelmingly passed my amendment to the Constitution banning the desecration of the American flag.

This astounding account is in addition to all that this Congress did under the Contract With America in the 104th Congress.

Mr. Speaker, all of those accomplishments represent a real move to shift power, money, and influence from Washington to people and families in States and communities.

The record proves that Congress and the administration can achieve common goals without compromising our respective fundamental principles and showing the American people that we can work together to solve problems.

Adoption of this rule will speed our ability to take this record to the people who sent us here—our constituents.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON] for yielding me the customary 30 minutes.

Mr. Speaker, as Thomas Jefferson notes in the very first section of Jefferson's Manual, the minority in any legislative body looks to the rules of that body as its best and often only defense against the potential tyranny of the majority.

Therefore, we look with skepticism on any special rule that would seek to bypass the rules protection of the rights of all Members. Under rule XI, clause 4(b), a two-thirds vote is required to consider a rule on the same day that the Committee on Rules reports it. This provision is designed to afford all Members a day to examine the language of the rule on the underlying legislation before voting on them.

Martial law procedures allow a rule to be considered on the same day as it is reported with a majority rather than a two-thirds vote.

While protections of Members' rights are important and should not be lightly weighed, it is unfortunately common at the end of a session to suspend temporarily in limited cases some of these protections.

This rule, as amended by unanimous consent Monday morning, would waive the 1-day layover requirement for a rule providing for consideration of specified bills if reported before November 15. This would expand the martial law provisions currently in effect by extending them through Friday and adding the temporary ISTEPA bill to the appropriations bills and continuing resolutions that are currently eligible for this expedited procedure. The rule would also allow the consideration of bills under the suspension of the rules through November 15 with at least 1 hour notice to Members and upon consultation with the minority leader.

Today we are 43 days into the 1998 fiscal year, and we have 3 more appropriations bills yet to pass. We need to expeditiously complete the work we should have finished before October 1. Martial law provisions for overdue appropriations bills have become a regrettable, but a traditional feature of the last day of the session.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution, as amended.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. PETRI). The question is on the resolution, as amended.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5 of rule I, further proceedings on this resolution are postponed until later today.

PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF S. 738, AMTRAK REFORM AND ACCOUNTABILITY ACT OF 1997

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 319 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 319

Resolved, That upon the adoption of this resolution it shall be in order without intervention of any point of order to consider in the House the bill (S. 738) to reform the statutes relating to Amtrak, to authorize appropriations for Amtrak, and for other purposes. The bill shall be considered as read for amendment. The amendment printed in the report of the Committee on Rules accompanying this resolution shall be considered as adopted. All points of order against the bill, as amended, are waived. The previous question shall be considered as ordered on the bill, as amended, to final passage without intervening motion except: (1) one hour of debate on the bill, as amended, which shall be equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure; and (2) one motion to commit with or without instructions.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON] is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, for the purposes of debate only, again I yield one-half hour to the gentlewoman from New York [Ms. SLAUGHTER], pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. Again, during consideration of the resolution, all time yielded is for debate purposes only.

Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 319 provides for the consideration of S. 738, Amtrak reform and authorization, which shall be considered as read. The resolution provides that the amendment now printed in the Committee on Rules report shall be considered as adopted, and that all points of order against the bill as amended are waived.

House Resolution 319 also provides for 1 hour of debate, equally divided and controlled between the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, and finally, the resolution provides 1 motion to commit with or without instructions.

Mr. Speaker, this rule allows the House to consider the Senate bill reforming Amtrak and authorizing appropriations for Amtrak, with the inclusion of an additional amendment in the nature of a substitute that had been suggested by the chairman of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER].

The addition to the Senate bill reflects essentially the same reforms that were endorsed by the House last year by a rather overwhelming vote of 406 to just 4 negative votes. This amendment that we have self-enacted in the rule has bipartisan support and is crucial to achieving real reform of Amtrak.

Under this bill, the House would accept the labor and liability provisions worked out in the Senate bill. Also, the provisions in the amendment crafted by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER], which have no Senate counterpart, include, and this is very important, include: the restructuring of Amtrak's board of directors toward a more business-oriented, private sector board; reforming Amtrak's capital structure; and increasing the flexibility of Amtrak's route structure.

We all know that these real reforms must be made to keep Amtrak viable; indeed, to keep it out of bankruptcy. Mr. Speaker, it is vitally important that Amtrak be maintained. Amtrak is important to our entire Nation, but especially important to the Northeast which the gentlewoman from Rochester, NY [Ms. SLAUGHTER] represents and the Hudson Valley area that I represent. Thousands of my constituents rely on Amtrak service to get to work every day and to visit friends and family on weekends and holidays.

Mr. Speaker, we need to move this bill through Congress as quickly as we possibly can. Amtrak's ability to provide nationwide service at the present level is seriously threatened. It cannot continue unless we pass this legislation.

For years, there has been underinvestment in Amtrak's equipment and in their facilities, which has led to declining service quality and reduced reliability. But passage of Amtrak reform legislation will give Amtrak the much-needed boost of capital funds that will allow it to upgrade its equipment and gain independence from the Federal Government, and those are 2 very, very key issues: gain independence from the Federal Government and to upgrade its equipment, which is in dire need right now for the safety of its passengers.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support the rule so that we may proceed with general debate and consideration of the merits of this very important legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague, the gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON], for yielding me the customary half-hour.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this rule. Just days ago, the Senate passed their version of the Amtrak bill without a single dissenting vote. The Senate bill includes consensus language on both the labor and liability issues, the issues that caused the most controversy in the House version of that measure. But, instead of taking the Senate bill straight to the House floor in its present form, the Committee on Rules self-executes the Shuster substitute that threatens any chance of passing this critical bill before the Congress adjourns.

The self-executing language includes a provision dealing with the board of directors that, if included, will not pass the Senate. By self-executing this provision instead of making it a freestanding substitute amendment, the House will be precluded from voting up or down on the Senate bill.

Mr. Speaker, Amtrak is on the verge of bankruptcy. It desperately needs the funds that were provided in the reconciliation bill passed by the Congress earlier this year. Those funds, as my colleagues know, are contingent on the passage of an Amtrak reform package.

The House bill was abruptly pulled after the defeat of the Quinn amendment. Since that time, the Senate has worked out most of the concerns of the legislation, and if we do not act now, there is little chance that Amtrak reform legislation will be enacted this year.

If this rule passes, we will move to recommit the bill with instructions. The motion to recommit will make in order the Senate-passed bill, which will give the House an opportunity to vote up or down on the Senate version of the bill, and I would like to say again that that bill passed the Senate without a single dissenting vote.

Mr. Speaker, the Senate bill is the bill that the President says that he will sign. If we truly want to save Amtrak, we must give Members the opportunity to vote on this bill as it passed the Senate. I urge a "no" vote on the rule and a "yes" vote on the motion to recommit.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. WISE].

Mr. WISE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding, and I also want to thank the gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON] for getting this rule to the floor.

I am going to talk as much about the merits of the bill and the predicament we find ourselves in as about the rule, because that is what is important. The issue is whether or not we want to save Amtrak, and what I was impressed by, by the gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON] in the Committee on Rules meeting, it seems like forever ago but it was just Thursday night, I believe, late Thursday night, but what I was impressed by was his recognition, and I think the recognition of the Committee on Rules, that something has to be done.

I say to my colleagues, the situation is this: If we want to save Amtrak, we have to pass a bill that can immediately be approved by the Senate, or better yet, not go back to the Senate.

Amtrak is in this situation. If we leave this House today or tomorrow or Friday and there has not been Amtrak reform passed, when we come back and then when we are able finally to get around to Amtrak, which will probably be March or April, there will not be an Amtrak as we know it, and indeed there may not be an Amtrak.

Why do I make that kind of dire prediction? The one thing that all of us have agreed upon through the many debates that have been held on this House floor over the past several years, and particularly in the past 2 months, is that Amtrak has great financial problems. What is necessary for Amtrak is to be able to access the $2.3 billion worth of capital that this Congress made available to it in the budget package just a couple of months ago, but that capital cannot be accessed until reform legislation passes.

Well, my colleagues will say, fine, why not go ahead and let the House pass whatever kind of reform legislation? The reality of the situation is that the Senate has passed that reform legislation. The Senate did the heavy lifting that the House has not been able to come to closure on.

If we remember, the two main issues, labor and liability reform, the Senate has done that. We fought ourselves to a standstill here on the House floor just a couple of weeks ago over those two issues. The bill was pulled, if we recall, because of the fact that there was not agreement on it. The Senate has taken those issues on and has reached compromises that everyone has signed off on, on the labor and the liability provisions.

Now we get down to the fact that we are going to get out of here in a couple of days, and now comes forward some measures dealing with predominantly the board of directors. And whether or not the House passes its provisions dealing with the board of directors and sends it over to the Senate, the Senate has made quite clear it will not accept those provisions. That means a lengthy, at best, conference. The administration, incidentally, has also made clear it will not accept those provisions.

The reality is, send those provisions over to the Senate and there will not be an Amtrak bill. No Amtrak bill, no access to capital. No Amtrak bill, no ability to go to the banks in the next month to extend its line of credit.

That is the other thing I forgot to mention. We talked about accessing capital that the Congress has already approved. Amtrak in December needs to go back to the major banks to extend its line of credit. If this reform legislation does not pass, the chances are likely it will not.

Now, some have urged passing some kind of resolution, or we all put language, happy talk, in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD about the fact that Congress loves Amtrak and as soon as it gets back in January or February it will act on this. Do we want to take that to the bank? I do not think so. Amtrak does not want to take it either.

So the reality is, Mr. Speaker, we need to make sure that we pass the legislation that has already been adopted by the Senate. To those who say well, the Senate language, did they cave in to labor or did they cave in to trial lawyers or did they cave in to somebody, this is the Lott-Hutchison bill, Senator TRENT LOTT of Mississippi and Senator KAY BAILEY HUTCHISON of Texas and others, not exactly the arbiters of organized labor or of trial lawyers.

So this is truly a compromise that has been reached at all levels. It is a compromise that people can feel comfortable about. I pledge to my chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER], as the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Railroads, that I would be happy to work and sign off on whatever hearings he wants to hold when we come back to look at subsequent legislation that does deal with the board of directors.

But I plead with my colleagues, particularly those of us who believe in Amtrak, that we do not leave this Congress this year without enacting the Amtrak reform legislation.

Now, the only way to do that is to effectively pass the Senate bill. We can load this thing up all we want, and it is going right down across the Rotunda into the other body and it is going to sit there. So that is why we are in this predicament.

Mr. Speaker, I am one who often stands on the floor and says, well, we ought not to just take a Senate bill, we ought to of course have our own voice. The fact is, though, in the last Congress, the 104th Congress that ended last year, plus this Congress, we have had this bill on the floor several times. It has been pulled, I believe, four times this year alone.

So we in the House have not been able to reach the compromises necessary. The compromises reached in the Senate language do the heavy lifting that needs to be done today, in this session of Congress.

In terms of the board of directors, that is a much knottier question. That gets to who appoints the board and what is their role. I would urge that that be held off for subsequent legislation, which I am pledged to work on with the majority in the next Congress.

But by passing the reform legislation, the Senate bill today, then we can immediately send this bill to the President. It does not even go back for a conference. We can send this bill to the President, and when the Amtrak reform legislation has passed, they can access the capital for capital investment, particularly modernizing the Northeast corridor, making sure the high-speed rail is installed. That is the one section that turns a profit. They can get to the banks right away. They can get their line of credit.

But let us not kid ourselves. Vote for any other thing but the Senate language which will be in the motion to recommit, and we will vote to not save Amtrak. I wish I could say that there was some other way, but there is not.

The position we are going to find ourselves in is that there will be a period of time for debate when this rule is approved, presuming it is approved. There will be a period of time for debate. The first motion will be the Oberstar motion to recommit.

I urge my colleagues to recognize that that motion is the only way we can save Amtrak, because what that motion does is to strip out the House language, add it onto the Senate bill, and simply adopts the Senate-passed legislation. That is the key vote, the Oberstar motion to recommit.

I want to say once again, particularly to my colleagues on the other side of the aisle, this is not done in any way to confront the majority. This recommitment motion is what I would consider the necessary measure to save Amtrak, particularly fiscally.

But my pledge is, then, on the other issues that have been raised in the House bill, to immediately begin working with the majority on whatever hearings they want to have, whatever markups; we will work with them, whatever negotiations they want, because Amtrak will not be finished at this point.

Those on the other side and those on this side who say Amtrak needs to be revisited, they are correct. But at least let us, for the first time in many years, get Amtrak in a situation where it can truly go to the banks in December with reform, newly passed reform legislation.

Let us at least let Amtrak get to the banks in December with newly passed reform legislation that guarantees it the access to capital, that permits it to get the line of credit. That is the most important thing that we can do for Amtrak, and then begin making the investments.

Let me just say something about the board of directors. I am happy to work on changing the makeup of the board of directors next year. The worst thing I think we can do today, at a time when Amtrak has such fiscal instability, the worst thing we could do is try to enact legislation that radically alters a board of directors that has to go to negotiate for a line of credit in the next few weeks. Let that process take place, if it must take place, let it take place next year.

Chairman SOLOMON made a good observation in the Committee on Rules. This Congress goes out in the next couple of days. It will not come back effectively in January, except for the State of the Union Message. There will be some working time during February. The earliest we are looking at being able to bring Amtrak legislation back up if we do not pass it today is March. My guess is that it will probably be after that.

So therefore, once again, I urge my colleagues, I plead with my colleagues, to adopt the Oberstar recommitment motion, because that will adopt the Senate bill and permit this legislation immediately to go to the President.

In reality, there is no other way to save Amtrak. We are not going to be here much longer. The only way to save Amtrak is to approve the Senate bill and vote for the Oberstar motion to recommit. I urge my colleagues to take this very, very necessary and vital step.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, if this rule is adopted, and I would like to restate what the gentleman said, if this rule is adopted, the first vote during consideration of the bill will be on the Oberstar motion to adopt the Senate bill, and that truly is the vote that will save Amtrak.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SOLOMON. I yield myself such time as I may consume, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I would say to my friend, the gentlewoman from New York [Ms. SLAUGHTER], that the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER], the chairman of the committee, is on his way here. If she did need additional time, we would let her take some of her time back, because now I will have two speakers. So I would just inform her of that.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to reclaim my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. PETRI). Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Delaware [Mr. CASTLE], the former Governor.

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Speaker, let me thank the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Rules. I have run over here, so I am a little out of breath, but I am delighted to be able to be here. I did hear some of the debate. I know the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER] is also on his way.

I think it is very important that we focus on the problems of Amtrak. I am not going to get into the debate of the nitty-gritty of what has happened in the Senate, where it is now versus where the House might go under the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure.

But before we leave in the next 24 or 48 hours, I hope that each and every one of us will understand that the future of rail passenger transportation in the United States of America is at hand. If we are not able to resolve the problems which exist now, we run the distinct risk of potential failure of Amtrak and the end of rail service as we know it now, or at least a worsening of the problem. I do not know, frankly, if it would go into bankruptcy. We hear these things.

I have looked at the Senate version of this. I have spent the last couple of days reading this carefully. I have made some discoveries which I think should enlighten us in the House. One is that they have an Amtrak reform council, which I believe is acceptable to virtually everybody involved in this, which would give large control to the House and to the Senate as sort of a super board overlooking the board of directors which would help decide the direction of Amtrak. And, most importantly, we would have access to all the information which is needed. It would provide us the information we need to make the very, very important decisions in the financing and the future of Amtrak. That is crucial. We are about to yield $2.3 billion in capital improvements as well as operating expenses. We need to have that information. The Amtrak reform council does that. I think it is important that we focus on that.

In addition, I think some of the suggestions which are being made by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER] are very sound suggestions and ones we should also look at. I hope we would be able to sit down with the Senate and perhaps resolve some of the differences that exist there.

I think, for example, giving up some of the voting rights of the stock owned by the Government is something which may make some sense with respect to how we run Amtrak. When we look at the actual board and look at the difference between the Senate and House proposals, it is not that overwhelming.

My view is this: We should have the best people possible on that board who are not politically motivated or answering to anybody who can run Amtrak. If I had my druthers, frankly, I would go out and pick the seven best managers of businesses I could find and put them on that board and let them run it. But I would hope we could come up with something that would allow us to have the best board possible.

The bottom line is, I hope we do not get in a position of passing a bill or recommitting a bill over the objections of the chairman of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure without resolution of this with the Senate. I would hope in the next 24 hours we could sit down with the Senate and the House together and try to work out some compromise on which everybody can agree, so we can thwart and avoid the problem of an impasse here in Congress in which we do not go forward with Amtrak.

We could wait perhaps, and perhaps there would not be economic failure, but if that happens, when the waiting game begins in Congress, it tends to go on and on. This is the moment, I think, for us to all act.

I would hope that all parties involved in this could pay close attention to the details involved, we could resolve it, we could go forward and make Amtrak a better passenger rail carrier, and we could indeed be able to, at some point a decade or two later, look at this as a dark period in the life of passenger rail traffic but understand that we have now fixed it and we now have made America's passenger rail service the best in the world, not just in this country.

We are not going to do it unless we sit down and talk to one another. I think we should continue to move forward, and I am glad the rule is moving forward, but I think we should work towards a final resolution of this.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. WISE].

Mr. WISE. Mr. Speaker, I include for the RECORD a letter dated November 12, 1997, from Rodney E. Slater, Secretary of Transportation.

The letter referred to is as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION,
THE SECRETARY OF TRANSPORTATION,
Washington, DC, November 12, 1997.

Hon. NEWT GINGRICH,
Speaker of the House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: The House of Representatives is scheduled to consider a substitute amendment to S. 738, the "Amtrak Reform and Accountability Act of 1997." I am writing to urge strongly that the House of Representatives approve the motion to be offered by Representative Oberstar to recommend the bill, thus enabling passage of the Senate Amtrak reform legislation.

Legislation has passed the Senate to reform Amtrak, thus enabling it to serve better as a national passenger rail system. That bill, S. 738, would afford Amtrak the ability to undertake significant reforms with its workforce and position Amtrak to address better future liability issues. The Senate bill represents many weeks of negotiations and is a compromise that passed unanimously. If adopted without change, it will free up $2.3 billion in capital funding that Amtrak desperately needs to improve its equipment and infrastructure throughout the nation.

Instead, an amendment has been included in the Rule accompanying the Amtrak bill dealing with the Board of Directors that could have grave implications for the future of Amtrak. The proposed amendment is intended to substantially change the manner in which the Amtrak Board is appointed. This approach is unnecessary and will present serious problems as Amtrak approaches its most critical and uncertain time. Perhaps more importantly, House action making controversial changes to the Senate-passed bill is likely to delay final passage, thus delaying the release of the $2.3 billion and casting doubts on Amtrak's financial future.

Concerns have been raised in recent days about the constitutionality of the Amtrak Board. Let me assure you that if the House adopts the Senate-passed version of S. 738 the President will sign this bill. This Administration intends to implement the Senate-passed Amtrak bill in a manner that is consistent with the Constitution.

Amtrak needs reform to become the national passenger rail system that this nation needs and deserves. At stake is the ability of Congress to pass legislation that will help ensure Amtrak's long-term financial stability. I urge the House to oppose changes to S. 738 and that it act to send this bill, without change, to the President for his signature.

Sincerely,

RODNEY E. SLATER.

Mr. WISE. Mr. Speaker, I have just been handed a letter from Secretary

Slater, Secretary of the U.S. Department of Transportation, writing about the legislative situation today and strongly urging the House of Representatives to approve the recommittal motion to be offered by our ranking member, the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR].

He notes that the Senate bill that will be in the recommittal motion and has passed the Senate unanimously, the Lott-Hutchison bill, represents many weeks of negotiations and is a compromise that passed unanimously. If adopted without change, it will free up to $2.2 billion in capital funding, not operation and maintenance but capital funding, that Amtrak desperately needs to improve its equipment and infrastructure throughout the Nation.

He also says that if the House adopts the Senate-passed version of Senate bill 738, the President will sign this bill. The administration intends to implement the Senate-passed Amtrak bill in a manner that is consistent with the Constitution. He is adding his voice and that of the administration to the urging that the House adopt the Senate language in the Oberstar recommittal motion.

Mr. Speaker, I think it should be noted that the Senate-passed language, as I have noted previously, contains significant labor and liability reforms. The contracting-out provisions that have proved so nettlesome in this body, the labor protection provisions, particularly dealing with the up to the possible 6 years of labor protection, although in reality I believe it averaged out about to $1,000 per severed employee in the past 2 years, those provisions have all been compromised and have become the subject of collective bargaining.

On the liability provisions, for the first time there is a global cap of $200 million on liability related to passengers, Amtrak passengers. They were able also to reach agreement on the troublesome area of both punitive damages and indemnification.

They did what Congress here with the House has constantly ground to a halt on, and that is not because people have not tried. Chairman Shuster has been very active in trying, and our side, as well. But they were able to accomplish this and then passed it unanimously. We ought to take advantage of their labors and their accomplishments.

We also ought to note that it is not easy over here. This bill has been pulled four times alone from this floor because we were not able to reach agreement on these very, very difficult issues. Now we have a bill before us on which all the parties have signed off, labor, management, on the liability issues, a wide range of groups, they have signed off on it. We can pass that bill today and we can have it on its way to the President, and Amtrak then has passed the reform legislation that is so vital to it.

Does it close the book on Amtrak legislation? No. The gentleman from Delaware [Mr. CASTLE], who has been very articulate and active in this, stated it well, the need for continuing negotiations and continuing discussions. Amtrak requires that. Our side stands ready to work with the chairman and with others to make that happen.

Mr. Speaker, I would just urge the Members, once again, to support the Oberstar recommittal motion. It is the only way we can get this bill to the President quickly this week, knowing that if we vote down this recommittal motion and we send the bill to the Senate, when we come back and are able to take up the Amtrak legislation, we will not recognize Amtrak from what it is today. It will be significantly impaired financially, and we will have lost an incredible opportunity that we have been striving to get to for many years.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER], one of the Members that has been a Member of this body longer than we have, and there are not many of them anymore. He is chairman of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure that I used to serve on, and he is one of the most respected Members of this body.

(Mr. SHUSTER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks and to include extraneous material.)

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I thank my good friend the gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON] for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, I am sure it is well-known that from the very beginning my objective has been to save Amtrak, although there are some in this body and the other body who would just as soon see it go into bankruptcy. And to save it, we have said from the beginning that we need to change the labor protection, we need to reform it, we need to reform liability. And there are other things as well which we believe need to be done.

But the labor provisions and the liability provisions are very, very crucial. And, indeed, the Senate has acted. There are provisions in those areas of labor reform and liability reform and contracting out, which is a subset of labor, that are not as strong as many would like them to be, but, nevertheless, they are acceptable. So the biggest stumbling blocks that have been before us are, indeed, now acceptable.

There is, however, at least one additional factor which is of extreme importance. And in a few moments, I will add an entirely new dimension to the extraordinary importance of our dealing with a restructuring of the board. Many of us believe, and of course we respect the other body, but the last time we checked the Constitution, this was a bicameral legislature. This House is not a potted plant. We have an obligation to do what we believe is right as well, and then work together with the other body in attempting to craft an acceptable compromise.

The one area in which we have great difficulty is in the area of the structure of the board. We believe that for the proposed reforms to be meaningful, to actually be put in place, that we must have a board of directors which is a more independent, more business-oriented board of directors. And so, to that end, that is exactly what we have proposed.

It is, interestingly, ironically essentially what my good friend the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR], the ranking Democrat of the committee, proposed in the legislation as it was working its way through the committee. So this is not something that is dropped on us out of the sky. It is something which in the past has had bipartisan support. Nevertheless, we are told that there is opposition to it now.

I point out that our proposal gives the President the ability to appoint the seven members in some consultation with the leaders of the House and the Senate. We think that is reasonable, and we support that. However, and let me emphasize this, there is an entirely new dimension to this entire issue now, and that new dimension, which I have just been made aware of, is that the Justice Department says that the makeup of the board in the Senate bill coming to us is unconstitutional. Let me repeat that. The Justice Department informs us that the makeup of the board as coming to us in the Senate bill is unconstitutional. It violates the appointments clause.

That adds a whole new dimension to this debate. It is no longer a question of whether we simply think our structure of the board is better than the structure of the board proposed by somebody else. It is beyond our control. The Justice Department says it is unconstitutional.

As chairman of the committee, I would be derelict in my duties if I were to bring this bill to the floor recognizing that it has been said by the Justice Department that what I bring to the floor is unconstitutional. Therefore, unless we can get agreement, I shall not bring this bill to the floor. Unless we can get agreement, I will immediately move to hold hearings that deal with the constitutionality to invite the Justice Department to come up and testify. And only when we can satisfy ourselves that whatever we do is constitutional, then we can move ahead to save Amtrak.

So unless we can work this out, I again want to emphasize, No. 1, the Justice Department says the bill as sent to us by the Senate is unconstitutional. No. 2, as chairman of the committee, I will not bring this bill to the floor unless we can work this out in some fashion. And No. 3, also as chairman of the committee, I will move immediately to hold hearings on the constitutionality question so we can clear it up so we can be back here early next year if we fail to work something out today and tomorrow, so we can be back as early next year as possible to deal with it so that whatever we bring to the floor will be constitutional rather than unconstitutional. I hope and I feel great responsibility to make that very clear to my colleagues.

Mr. Speaker, I include for the RECORD the letter from the Justice Department.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS,
Washington, DC, July 24, 1997.

Hon. JOHN MCCAIN,
Chairman, Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: This letter presents the views of the Department of Justice on the reported bill, S. 738, the "Amtrak Reform and Accountability Act of 1997." We have several concerns about the role of the General Accounting Office ("GAO") in developing a liquidation plan and the proposed competition of the Amtrak board of directors.

Section 204 of the bill could be read to direct Amtrak to incorporate recommendations of the GAO into its liquidation plan. Such a construction would violate the constitutional separation of powers doctrine. Section 411 of the bill would amend 49 U.S.C. §24302(a), which governs the composition of Amtrak's board of directors. Because certain directors would not be appointed in conformity with the Appointments Clause of the Constitution, art. II, §2, cl. 2, it is likely that the statute's vesting of significant authority in the board is unconstitutional.

1. Section 204: Action Plans

The bill would establish an "Amtrak Reform Council" composed of nine members.<sup>1</sup> Section 204 calls for the development of two action plans if the Council finds that Amtrak business performance will prevent it from meeting the financial goals set forth in section 201, or if it finds that Amtrak will need grant funds more than five years after enactment of the bill. The Council is to construct and submit to Congress an action plan providing for a "rationalized intercity rail passenger system." Amtrak is to develop an action plan for "the complete liquidation of Amtrak." Amtrak must submit its plan to Congress "after having the plan reviewed by the Inspector General of the Department of Transportation and the General Accounting Office for accuracy and reasonableness." Section 204(c). If Congress has not enacted a law to establish a restructured and rationalized rail system within ninety days of receiving the actions plans, the bill directs Amtrak to implement its liquidation plan "after such modification as may be required to reflect the recommendations, if any, of the Inspector General of the Department of Transportation and the General Accounting Office." Section 204(c)(2).

The GAO is an arm of the Congress. See 31 U.S.C. §§702-03 (GAO is independent of the executive departments and headed by Comptroller General; Comptroller General removable by impeachment or by joint resolution of Congress for cause); Bowsher v. Synar, 478 U.S. 714 (1986) (Comptroller General is subject to the control of Congress). The constitutional separation of powers doctrine forbids Congress from aggrandizing itself by enacting legislation that confers non-legislative authority on Congress, its agents, its appointees, or anyone subject to its direct control. See, e.g., id. If section 204(c)(2) were read to require Amtrak to adhere to the recommendations of the GAO, the GAO would exercise executive authority. This would violate the anti-aggrandizement principle. See id. at 727-34. To avoid the serious constitutional question that such a reading would present, we interpret section 204(c)(2) as directing Amtrak to consider, rather than to adopt, any recommendations made by the GAO regarding the liquidation plan. See Edmond v. United States, 117 S. Ct. 1573, 1578 (1997) (Court avoids interpreting act in manner that could be clearly unconstitutional if another reasonable interpretation available); NLRB v. Catholic Bishop of Chicago, 440 U.S. 490, 500 (1978) (Court will decline to read act so as to give rise to a serious constitutional question).

2. Section 411: Amtrak's Board of Directors

Amtrak is a government-created and government-controlled corporation. See Rail Passenger Service Act of 1970 §101, 84 Stat. 1328; 49 U.S.C. 49 U.S.C. §24302(a). Amtrak's charter sets forth the "public interest 'goals'" that Congress intended for it to pursue, and its structure allows the federal government to exert control "not as a creditor but as a policy maker." Lebron v. National R.R. Passenger Corp., 513 U.S. 374, 399 (1995).

In Lebron, the Supreme Court held that Amtrak is a Federal government entity for the purpose of determining whether it has violated an individual's First Amendment rights. Id. at 400. While the First Amendment was the only constitutional provision at issue in Lebron, the Court did characterize Amtrak as "an agency of the Government, for purposes of the constitutional obligations of Government * * * " id. at 399. We see "no principled basis for distinguishing between the status of a federal entity vis-a-vis constitutional obligations relating to individual rights and vis-a-vis the structural obligations that the Construction imposes on federal entities." Memorandum for the General Counsels of the Federal Government, from Walter Dellinger, Assistant Attorney General, Office of Legal Counsel, Re: The Constitutional Separation of Powers between the President and Congress at 27 n.71 (May 7, 1996) ("Dellinger Memo"). We therefore believe that under its best reading, Lebron implies that any official of Amtrak who exercises significant authority must be appointed pursuant to the Appointments Clause, U.S. Const. art. II, §2. See generally Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. 1, 124-26 (1976) (per curiam).

S. 738 would vest significant authority in the Amtrak board. Amtrak is to "operate as a national rail passenger transportation system which provides access to all areas of the country." section 101(a). The Amtrak directors have the authority to make significant discretionary decisions regarding the acquisition "operation and maintenance of equipment and facilities necessary for intercity and commuter rail passenger transportation, the transportation of mail and express, and auto-ferry transportation." 49 U.S.C. §24305(a). Amtrak also "may acquire by eminent domain" property "necessary for intercity rail passenger transportation." id. §24311(a). We therefore think it apparent that the bill would vest significant authority in the Amtrak board. As such, the directors must be appointed in conformity with the Appointments Clause.

A. Directors required to be chief executive officers of a State or municipality

Section 411 of the bill would amend 49 U.S.C. §24302(a)(1)(C) to require the President to appoint four members of the Amtrak board with the advice and consent of the Senate. Among these four directors are to be:

one chief executive officer of a State, and one chief executive officer of a municipality, selected from among the chief executive officers of State[s] and municipalities with an interest in rail transportation.

Footnotes at end of article.

Section 411(2).

Limiting the eligible appointees to these chief executive officers does not leave sufficient "scope for the judgment and will of the person or body in whom the Constitution vests the power of appointment." Civil Service Commission, 13 Op. Att'y Gen. 516, 520-21. We suggest eliminating the requirement that the nominees be chief executive officers of a State and a municipality. The statute instead might provide for the President to appoint directors with expertise in local government, or to consult with one or more associations of State and local government officials before making these appointments.

B. Directors appointed by the President alone

Three of the directors would be appointed solely by the President. One is to be a representative of a commuter authority, one is to have expertise in finance and accounting principles, and one is to be a representative of the general public.<sup>2</sup> Section 411(5). While principal officers must be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, Congress may provide for the appointment of inferior officers by the President alone, the head of a department, or a court of law. See Buckley, 424 U.S. at 132. Accordingly, vesting the authority to make these appointments in the President is permissible if the directors are inferior officers.

"The line between 'inferior' and 'principal' officers is one that is far from clear," Morrison v. Olson, 487 U.S. 654, 671 (1988), and "[t]he nature of each government position must be assessed on its own merits." Silver v. United States Postal Serv., 951 F.2d 1033, 1040 (9th Cir. 1991). "Inferior" does not mean "petty or unimportant." See United States Attorneys—Suggested Appointment Power of the Attorney General, 2 Op. O.L.C. 58, 58-59 (1978). "Generally speaking, the term 'inferior officer' connotes a relationship with some higher ranking officer or officers below the President . . ." Edmond, 117 S. Ct. at 1580. As such, the work of an inferior officer will usually be "directed and supervised at some level by others who were appointed by presidential nomination with the advice and consent of the Senate." Id. at 1581. Accordingly, "an officer responsible only to the President for the exercise of significant discretion in decision making is probably a principal officer." Dellinger Memo at 30. "[A]n officer who is subject to control and removal by an officer other than the President should be deemed presumptively inferior." Id.

We think it unlikely that these three directorships can be characterized as inferior offices. The Amtrak board exercises broad authority over nationwide rail service. See 49 U.S.C. §24302(f) (board may adopt bylaws governing the operation of Amtrak). The board appoints the President of Amtrak, as well as all other officers of the corporation. Id. §24303(a) and (b). Finally, the members of the Amtrak board are directly responsible to the President and to no other Executive officer. We therefore recommend that section 411 be amended to provide for the appointment of these directors by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate.

C. Amtrak's president

The president of Amtrak serves as a director on the Amtrak board. 49 U.S.C. 24302(a)(1)(B). The Amtrak president is appointed by the board, and serves as its chairman. 49 U.S.C. 24303 (a). Because a majority of the directors who would appoint the Amtrak president would not themselves be appointed in conformity with the Appointments Clause, the president's appointment does not comply with the Appointments Clause.<sup>3</sup>

Thank you for the opportunity to present our views. Please contact us if we may be of further assistance. The Office of Management and Budget has advised us that from the standpoint of the Administration's program, it has no objection to submission of this letter.

Sincerely,

ANDREW FOIS,
Assistant Attorney General.

<sup>1</sup>The Council will be composed of the Secretary of Transportation, two individuals appointed by the President, two individuals appointed by the Majority Leader of the Senate, one member appointed by the Minority Leader of the Senate, two individuals appointed by the Speaker of the House, and one individual appointed by the Minority Leader of the House. Section 203.

<sup>2</sup>We do not think that these more general qualifications limit the class of potential nominees as significantly as does the requirement that two directors be chief executive officers of a State and of a municipality.

<sup>3</sup>We do not address any other constitutional issues that might be raised by this appointment.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield the remainder of my time to the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. WISE].

Mr. WISE. Mr. Speaker, let me respond very quickly to the statements of the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER], the distinguished chairman.

First of all, in terms of the constitutionality, the letter that I have from Secretary Slater contests that. And, of course, the proper place for that is to be discussed over months. But the reality is that the Amtrak board, which if it were to continue under the Senate language, has been in existence for a long time for many, many years. All of a sudden we are now hearing concerns about the unconstitutionality of it.

At any rate, that is something that can be resolved at a more leisurely pace over the next months, but should not be something that can be taken up on the floor today or tomorrow. And it also should be noted that, in the Senate legislation, there is a reform board that has some teeth in it as well, an oversight panel that is appointed that goes, I believe, partly to addressing the concerns of the chairman.

The second is that I am interested because it was the chairman that I believe was just a couple weeks ago repeating my words in debate 2 years ago, and he was talking about the need to pass this legislation immediately. Well, now I am reciting the words of the chairman, because it is important to pass this legislation immediately and also to recognize that it is not a finished product and that the legislation that we pass today is the basic reform of Amtrak, and then we can come back and deal with the issues of the board as well.

I am concerned about one statement I heard, which is, if we do not reach agreement today on this board matter, the bill gets pulled. If the bill gets pulled, I think we have got a significantly different Amtrak when we get back. And I would sure hate for us to worry about angels dancing on the heads of pins when we have a chance to pass a significant legislation that lets Amtrak access the capital that this Congress voted for to give Amtrak the ability to do.

I would urge support of the Oberstar recommittal motion, pass the basic legislation now, and come back later in the next few months and work on the very genuine concerns of the chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER].

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I am prepared to close if the gentlewoman from New York [Ms. SLAUGHTER] would like to yield back her time.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. I will be as brief as I can.

But let me just say that what has happened to the railroad system in this country is so, so sad. I sort of grew up, beginning back in 1930, and we had a good railroad system in this country. And then something happened to it. Today, we are the greatest Nation in the world, and yet we have the worst railroad system in the world of any industrialized nation in the world. Something happened.

I guess back in the Eisenhower days, they began to develop the national road system, which is now administered by each individual State with all the interstate highways that we have. But yet, we never did anything to try to solve the problems of the railroads. I do not know what the answer is. Sometimes I wonder, you know, the States on behalf of the Federal Government own the beds of all the interstate highways throughout this country, and maybe the States on behalf of the Federal Government ought to own the railroad beds and then let the free enterprise system work. I do not know what the answer is, but it is a shame, because we need a viable railroad system in this country, and we need Amtrak.

My good friend, the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. WISE], who left the floor, he is noted for a Member that does his homework. He certainly articulates his position. Unfortunately, I just have to agree with him, we agree that we must, must save Amtrak. But I do not believe that the legislation before us, the Senate legislation, can pass. It cannot satisfy members of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure. It cannot satisfy the Members of this body.

Consequently, if we pass the amendment that the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER] is proposing to the Senate bill, I think there is ample time over in the Senate to take up the measure, since both Houses really will be in a position of treading water from now until the time we adjourn, just waiting for these four appropriations bills to be adopted so that we can go home.

That is why I was sad to see us not be able to take the vote on the two-thirds rule that we just debated a few minutes ago, because once we had done that, then we could take up the Amtrak bill, and we could send it over to the Senate, and it would give them an extra 5 or 6 hours to deal with this matter. But, unfortunately, that cannot happen now because all the votes are going to be delayed until 5.

So, again, I would just say that we must, must make sure that we are going to go away from here this week-end with the Amtrak legislation taken care of, because Amtrak, in my opinion, will not be solvent. The gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. WISE] repeated my remarks up in the Committee on Rules Sunday, in which I said there would be no meaningful legislation taken up during the month of January. We will be off most of the month of January, coming back for only a day or two. And then much of the month of February is taken up with the work period over the Presidential recess period.

So I just hope we can pass this rule and we can pass the legislation that will follow it so that we can pass and get legislation dealing with the solvency of Amtrak into the law before we go home this weekend.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the resolution.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, on that, I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5 of rule I, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed until later today.

CONTINUATION OF EMERGENCY REGARDING WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION—MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES (H. DOC. NO. 105-169)

The SPEAKER pro tempore [Mr. PETRI] laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States; which was read and, together with the accompanying papers, without objection, referred to the Committee on International Relations and ordered to be printed:

To the Congress of the United States:

On November 14, 1994, in light of the dangers of the proliferation of nuclear, biological, and chemical weapons ("weapons of mass destruction"—(WMD)) and of the means of delivering such weapons, I issued Executive Order 12938, and declared a national emergency under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.). Under section 202(d) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1622(d)), the national emergency terminates on the anniversary date of its declaration, unless I publish in the Federal Register and transmit to the Congress a notice of its continuation.

The proliferation of weapons of mass destruction continues to pose an unusual and extraordinary threat to the national security, foreign policy, and economy of the United States. Therefore, I am advising the Congress that the national emergency declared on November 14, 1994, and extended on November 14, 1995 and November 14, 1996, must continue in effect beyond November 14, 1997. Accordingly, I have extended the national emergency declared in Executive Order 12938 and have sent the attached notice of extension to the Federal Register for publication.

The following report is made pursuant to section 204(c) of the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1703(c)) section 401(c) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1641(c)), regarding activities taken and money spent pursuant to the emergency declaration. Additional information on nuclear, missile, and/or chemical and biological weapons (CBW) nonproliferation efforts is contained in the most recent annual Report on the Proliferation of Missiles and Essential Components of Nuclear, Biological and Chemical Weapons, provided to the Congress pursuant to section 1097 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 1992 and 1993 (Public Law 102-190), also known as the "Nonproliferation Report," and the most recent annual report provided to the Congress pursuant to section 308 of the Chemical and Biological Weapons Control and Warfare Elimination Act of 1991 (Public Law 102-182), also known as the "CBW Report."

CHEMICAL AND BIOLOGICAL WEAPONS

The three export control regulations issued under the Enhanced Proliferation Control Initiative (EPCI) remained fully in force and continue to be applied in order to control the export of items with potential use in chemical or biological weapons or unmanned delivery systems for weapons of mass destruction.

Chemical weapons continue to pose a very serious threat to our security and that of countries friendly to us. On April 29, 1997, the Convention on the Prohibition of the Development, Production, Stockpiling and Use of Chemical Weapons and on Their Destruction (the "Chemical Weapons Convention" or (CWC)) entered into force with 87 of the CWC's 165 signatories as original States Parties. The United States was among their number, having deposited its instrument of ratification on April 25. As of November 5, 104 countries had become States Parties.

Russia did not complete its legislative approval process in time to be among the original CWC States Parties. In our March meeting in Helsinki, President Yeltsin did, however, assure me of his understanding of the importance of the CWC to Russia's own security. On October 31, 1997, the Russian Duma (lower house) approved ratification of the CWC. On November 5, 1997, the Russian Federation Council unanimously approved the CWC and the Russian government deposited its instrument of ratification. Russia's ratification makes it possible for Russia to join the United States in playing a leadership role in ensuring that all of the Convention's benefits are realized.

Given Russia's financial situation during this difficult period of transition to a market economy, serious concerns have been raised about the high costs of environmentally sound destruction of the large stocks of chemical weapons Russia inherited from the former Soviet Union. Through the Cooperative Threat Reduction Program, we are working with Russia to help address these complex problems, and we will continue to do so now that Russia has ratified the CWC.

The Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons (OPCW) has been established to achieve the object and purpose of the CWC, to ensure the implementation of its provisions and provide a forum for consultation and cooperation among States Parties. The executive organ of the OPCW, the Executive Council, has met five times since May to oversee decisions related to inter alia data declarations, inspections, and organizational issues. The United States plays an active role in ensuring effective implementation of the Convention.

The CWC is an ambitious undertaking by the world community to ban an entire class of weapons of mass destruction. Its members have committed themselves to totally eliminating chemical weapons stocks and production facilities, prohibiting chemical weapons-related activities, banning assistance for such activities and restricting trade with non-Parties in certain relevant chemicals. Destruction of U.S. chemical weapons stocks is moving forward. Other CWC States Parties have now taken on a similar task, and we are working hard with the other members of the CWC to make membership in this treaty universal.

The United States is determined to ensure full implementation of the concrete measures in the CWC that will raise the costs and the risks for any state or terrorist attempting to engage in chemical weapons-related activities. The CWC's declaration requirements will improve our knowledge of possible chemical weapons activities, whether conducted by countries or terrorists. Its inspection provisions provide for access to declared and undeclared facilities and locations, thus making clandestine chemical weapons production and stockpiling more difficult, more risky, and more expensive.

Countries that refuse to join the CWC will be politically isolated and banned from trading with States Parties in certain key chemicals. The relevant Treaty provision is specifically designed to penalize in a concrete way countries that refuse to join the rest of the world in eliminating the threat of chemical weapons.

The United States also continues to play a leading role in the international effort to reduce the threat from biological weapons. We are an active participant in the Ad Hoc Group striving to create a legally binding protocol to strengthen and enhance compliance with the Convention on the Prohibition of the Development, Production and Stockpiling of Bacteriological (Biological) and Toxin Weapons and on Their Destruction (the "Biological Weapons Convention" or (BWC)). This Ad Hoc Group was mandated by the September 1994 BWC Special Conference. The Fourth BWC Review Conference, held in November 1996, commended the work done by the Ad Hoc Group and urged it to complete the protocol as soon as possible but not later than the next Review Conference to be held in 2001. A draft rolling text was introduced by the Chairman at the July Ad Hoc Group session. Work is progressing on insertion of national views and clarification of existing text, largely drawn from the consultative phase of Ad Hoc Group work since 1994. Three-week sessions are scheduled for January, July, and September of 1998. Another 2-week session will be scheduled for either March or December of 1998. Early completion of an effective BWC protocol is high on our list of nonproliferation goals.

The United States continues to be a leader in the Australia Group (AG) chemical and biological weapons nonproliferation regime. Last year, the United States supported the entry into the AG of the Republic of Korea, which became the group's 30th member in time for the October 1996 plenary.

The United States attended this year's annual AG plenary session from October 6-9, 1997, during which the Group continued to focus on strengthening AG export controls and sharing information to address the threat of CBW terrorism. At the behest of the United States, the AG first began in-depth political-level discussion of CBW terrorism during the 1995 plenary session following the Tokyo subway nerve gas attack earlier that year. At the 1996 plenary, the United States urged AG members to exchange national points of contact for AG terrorism matters. At the 1997 plenary, the AG accepted a U.S. proposal to survey all AG members on efforts each has taken to counter this threat.

The Group also reaffirmed the members' collective belief that full adherence to the CWC and the BWC is the best way to achieve permanent global elimination of CBW, and that all states adhering to these Conventions have an obligation to ensure that their national activities support this goal.

AG participants continue to seek to ensure that all relevant national measures promote the object and purposes of the BWC and CWC. The AG nations reaffirmed their belief that existing national export licensing policies on chemical weapons-related items fulfill the obligation established under Article I of the CWC that States Parties never assist, in any way, the acquisition of chemical weapons. Given this understanding, the AG members also reaffirmed their commitment to continuing the Group's activities now that the CWC has entered into force.

The AG also reaffirmed its commitment to continue to provide briefings for non-AG countries, and to promote regional consultations on export controls and nonproliferation to further awareness and understanding of national policies in these areas.

During the last 6 months, we continued to examine closely intelligence and other reports of trade in chemical weapons-related material and technology that might require action, including evaluating whether sanctions under the Chemical and Biological Weapons Control and Warfare Elimination Act of 1991 were warranted. In May 1997, we imposed sanctions on seven Chinese entities and one Hong Kong company for knowingly and materially contributing to Iran's CW program through the export of dual-use chemical precursors and/or chemical production equipment and technology. In September 1997, we imposed sanctions on a German citizen and a German company determined to have been involved in the export of chemical production equipment to Libya's CW program.

The United States continues to cooperate with its AG partners in stopping shipments of proliferation concern. By sharing information through diplomatic and other channels, we and our AG partners have been successful in interdicting various shipments destined to CBW programs.

MISSILES FOR WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION DELIVERY

During the reporting period, the United States carefully controlled exports that could contribute to unmanned delivery systems for weapons of mass destruction and closely monitored activities of potential missile proliferation concern. We also continued to implement U.S. missile sanctions law, in cases where sanctionable activity was determined to have occurred. In August 1997, we imposed sanctions against two North Korean entities determined to have engaged in missile proliferation activities. Similar sanctions imposed in May 1996 remain in effect against two entities in Iran and one entity in North Korea for transfers involving Category II Missile Technology Control Regime (MTCR) Annex items.

During this reporting period, MTCR Partners continued to share information about proliferation problems with each other and with other potential supplier, consumer, and transshipment states. Partners also emphasized the need for implementing effective export control systems. This cooperation has resulted in the interdiction of missile-related materials intended for use in missile programs of concern.

The United States was an active participant in the MTCR's June 1997 Reinforced Point of Contact Meeting

(RPOC). At the RPOC, MTCR Partners engaged in useful discussions of regional missile proliferators' concerns, as well as steps the Partners could take to increase transparency and outreach to nonmembers.

In July 1997, the United States also played a leading role at the Swiss-hosted MTCR workshop on the licensing and enforcement aspects of transshipment. The workshop was successful in focusing attention on the enforcement problems raised by proliferators' misuse of transshipment and fostered a productive exchange of ideas on how countries can better address such activity.

The United States worked unilaterally and in coordination with its MTCR Partners to combat missile proliferation and to encourage nonmembers to export responsibly and to adhere to the MTCR Guidelines. Since the last report, we have continued our missile nonproliferation dialogue with China, the Republic of Korea (ROK), North Korea (DPRK), and Ukraine. In the course of normal diplomatic relations, we also have pursued such discussions with other countries in Central Europe, the Middle East, and Asia.

In June 1997, the United States and the DPRK held a second round of missile talks, aimed at freezing the DPRK's indigenous missile development program and curtailing its missile-related export activities. The DPRK appeared willing to consider limits on its missile-related exports, in return for sanctions-easing measures, but did not engage in discussion of limits on its missile development program. We intend to pursue further missile talks with the DPRK.

In July 1997, we held another round of nonproliferation talks with the ROK. These talks were productive and made progress toward facilitating ROK membership in the MTCR.

In response to reports that Iran had acquired sensitive items from Russian entities for use in Iran's missile development program, the United States intensified its high-level dialogue with Russia on this issue. We held a number of productive discussions with senior Russian officials aimed at finding ways the United States and Russia can work together to prevent Iran's ballistic missile development program from acquiring Russian technology and equipment. This process is continuing.

NUCLEAR WEAPONS

In a truly historic landmark in our efforts to curb the spread of nuclear weapons, the 50th U.N. General Assembly on September 10, 1996, adopted and called for signature of the Comprehensive Nuclear Test Ban Treaty (CTBT), negotiated over the previous 2½ years in the Conference on Disarmament in Geneva. The overwhelming passage of this U.N. resolution (158-3-5) demonstrates the CTBT's strong international support and marks a major success for United States foreign policy. On September 24, 1996, I and other international leaders signed the CTBT in New York.

During 1997, CTBT signatories have conducted numerous meetings of the Preparatory Commission in Vienna, seeking to promote rapid completion of the International Monitoring System established by the Treaty. On September 23, I transmitted the CTBT to the Senate, requesting prompt advice and consent to ratification.

The CTBT will serve several United States national security interests in banning all nuclear explosions. It will constrain the development and qualitative improvement of nuclear weapons; end the development of advanced new types; contribute to the prevention of nuclear proliferation and the process of nuclear disarmament; and strengthen international peace and security. The CTBT marks an historic milestone in our drive to reduce the nuclear threat and to build a safer world.

Formal preparations for the year 2000 Review Conference for the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons (NPT) began in 1997 with the first of three annual Preparatory Committee meetings of the Parties to the Treaty. The United States is committed to working to ensure that the 2000 NPT review Conference will further strengthen the NPT and reinforce global nuclear nonproliferation objectives. Since the 1995 NPT Conference, eight additional states have joined the NPT, leaving only five states worldwide currently outside the NPT regime. The NPT Exporters (Zangger) Committee added China to its membership in 1997.

The Nuclear Suppliers Group (NSG) continued its efforts to upgrade control lists and export control procedures. NSG members confirmed their agreement to clarifications to the nuclear trigger list to accord with trigger list changes agreed to by the members of the NPT Exporters (Zangger) Committee, and the International Atomic Energy Agency published these understandings on September 16, 1997. The NSG also is actively pursuing steps to enhance the transparency of the export regime in accordance with the call in Principles 16 and 17 of the 1995 NPT Review and Extension Conference.

The NSG held an export control seminar in Vienna on October 8 and 9, 1997, which described and explained the role of the NSG (and the Zangger Committee) in preventing nuclear proliferation. The NSG also continued efforts to enhance information sharing among members regarding the nuclear programs of proliferant countries by (1) "officially" linking the NSG members through a dedicated computer network allowing for real-time distribution of license denial information, and by (2) creating a separate session for exchange of information on the margins of the NSG plenary meeting.

NSG membership will increase to 35 with the acceptance of Latvia. The ultimate goal of the NSG is to obtain the agreement of all suppliers, including nations not members of the regime, to control nuclear and nuclear-related exports in accordance with the NSG guidelines.

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore [Mr. SUNUNU] at 5 o'clock and 5 minutes p.m.

RESIGNATION FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following resignation from the House of Representatives:

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES,
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
Washington, DC, November 11, 1997.

Hon. NEWT GINGRICH,
Speaker of the House, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: This letter is to officially notify you of my resignation as United States Representative to the First District of Pennsylvania. President Clinton has given me the opportunity to continue my lifetime of public service by nominating me to be Ambassador to Italy, the nation of my heritage.

I love this body and leave it with bitter-sweet emotions—I move onto exciting new challenges but I leave so many good friends and colleagues. I feel so strongly about so many of the people I have served with over the past seventeen years. There is that saying attributable to Harry Truman that if you want a friend in Washington, buy a dog. For me, nothing can be further from the truth. I have made friends here, on both sides of the aisle, who I will keep and cherish for the rest of my life.

I thank the people of the First District for the opportunity to serve them, this country and this institution. It has been a great honor.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

THOMAS M. FOGLIETTA.

AFTER RECESS

tempore [Mr. SNOWBARGER] at 6 o'clock and 53 minutes p.m.

AMENDING THE RULES OF THE HOUSE TO REPEAL EXCEPTION TO REQUIREMENT THAT PUBLIC COMMITTEE PROCEEDINGS BE OPEN TO ALL MEDIA

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 301 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 301

Resolved, That (a) clause 3(f) of rule XI of the Rules of the House of Representatives is amended by repealing subdivision (2) and by redesignating subdivisions (3) through (13) as subdivisions (2) through (12), respectively.

(b) Clause 2(g)(1) of rule XI of the Rules of the House of Representatives is amended by striking " , except as provided by clause 3(f)(2) " .

(d) The first sentence of clause 3(e) of rule XI of the Rules of the House of Representatives is amended by striking " , except as provided in paragraph (f)(2) " .

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Florida [Mr. GOSS] is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, for purposes of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MOAKLEY], pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purposes of debate only.

Mr. Speaker, on this very important subject, to me this subject, Mr. Speaker, is a question of truth and do we believe that the American people have the right to discern the truth.

House Resolution 301 is a straightforward rule. It is a straightforward rule change to repeal the exception to the requirement that public committee proceedings be open to all media, all types of media. This resolution continues the process we began in 1995 of opening up our committee proceedings to enhance public scrutiny and greater accountability. The resolution repeals clause 3(f)(2) of House rule XI, known inside this building as the camera rule.

As Members recall, when we began the 104th Congress under new management for the first time in 40 years, we instituted an openness policy that said that committee meetings and hearings that are open to the public shall also be open to the media. This sunshine rule reaffirms the right of the public to have all types of media cover most of our proceedings, making it clear that such coverage is no longer treated as a privilege to be granted and taken away at the discretion of a committee or subcommittee.

The only deviation from this policy has been the exception found in clause 3(f)(2) giving subpoenaed witnesses the absolute right to decide, for whatever reason, to pull the plug on certain types of media coverage of their testimony at an otherwise public hearing.

Mr. Speaker, this exception to the sunshine rule is a holdover from another era. We heard testimony in the Committee on Rules from the distinguished dean of this House, the gentleman from Michigan, [Mr. JOHN DINGELL], who is one of the most respected and probably one of the most feared committee chairmen ever to serve in this body. Mr. DINGELL cautioned us not to repeal this exception for subpoenaed witnesses, and he raised the specter of the McCarthy hearings that took place nearly half a century ago.

None of us is proud of that period in the history of this institution. Certainly, we have learned a lot. Clearly, there were excesses as powerful Members of Congress overstepped the bounds of fairness. When the House first began the process of evolving into the modern television age in 1970, Members, remembering the McCarthy era, wisely took a go-slow approach to phasing in audio and visual media coverage of congressional proceedings.

But, Mr. Speaker, that was more than a quarter of a century ago. Time does fly. As my children and my grandchildren are constantly reminding me, times have changed. Like it or not, we are living in an era of high technology and instant global communication. Television, radio, and even cyberspace are commonplace in our lives and have become part of the daily media diet of countless Americans. Congress just has to get on with the program, even if we are sometimes a bit slow about embracing the modern technological revolution.

My colleagues are aware that C-SPAN is a huge success among the American people precisely because our constituents have come to expect and rely upon seeing for themselves what it is we do, without the filter of someone else's pen or an editor deciding how to package certain information for public consumption; just straight stuff, no spin doctors; viewers draw their own conclusions.

Mr. Speaker, I come from the Sunshine State, aptly named for more than just the one most obvious reason, about our wonderful climate, especially at this time of year. We also have in Florida sunshine rules for all levels of government. I have found time and again that sunshine is the best antidote to excess and abuse, and it is indeed the path to truth.

I know there is concern about protecting reluctant witnesses from unfair questioning or uncivil badgering before a committee of this House. But rather than turning off the cameras, shutting down the radio, and prohibiting still photography, I submit to my colleagues that the better option is to let all the sunshine in, remembering that the print media are still there. If a witness is unfairly treated by any Member of this House, it will be clear to the people who witness that occurrence on television or on the radio.

Furthermore, I expect that our committee chairmen will take control of proceedings under their charge if things get out of hand. It comes down to the fact that I have faith in the American people and I have faith in the Members who run our committees.

It is my view that the American people are smarter than some of our colleagues seem to think. They can discern for themselves if they are seeing and hearing a witch-hunt or a show trial or some type of proceeding or some kind of personal grandstanding.

My friend, the distinguished gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MOAKLEY], vice chairman of the Committee on Rules and former chairman, for whom I have the utmost respect, has lamented the fact that this rules change does some sort of violence to the concept of the people's House.

Indeed, this is the people's House, but I would argue just the opposite, that if this truly is the people's House and we want to share it with the people, why would we want to arbitrarily restrict the people's ability to see what goes on in our committee rooms?

Mr. Speaker, it is my view that the best way to rein in a bully on a committee dais is to expose him or her to public scrutiny. Audio and visual coverage of the committee event is as much a check on a runaway Member who wishes to bully a witness as it is a check on a witness who may have something to hide from full public scrutiny.

I would like for one moment to assure my colleagues that this rules change does nothing, let me repeat, does nothing to the crucial and truly meaningful witness protections that exist in our House rules under rule XI, clause 2. Clause 2(g) provides clear guidance to the committees and subcommittees of the House about when it is appropriate to conduct their business in closed session with no media or outsiders present. These guidelines account for instances where material discussed pertains to national security information, for example, perhaps sensitive law enforcement information, information that would tend to defame, degrade, or incriminate any person, or information that would violate any law or will of this House. That is quite a broad spectrum. In such cases, a committee may, with a full quorum present, vote by majority to close the proceedings to all except Members and appropriate staff.

In addition, clause 2(k)(5) of rule XI provides that whenever it is asserted that testimony at a hearing may tend to defame, degrade, or incriminate any person, such testimony will be taken in closed session if the committee determines by majority vote of those present, a requisite number being present, that the testimony may tend to defame, degrade, or incriminate any person.

That sounds like a lot of parliamentary lawyerese-type talk, but the bottom line is that there are mechanisms to close meetings to all media coverage if there is justification without arbitrarily discriminating against certain types of media.

I should also point out that nothing we do in our House rules in any way limits a witness' constitutional right, specifically the option to take the fifth amendment and refuse to answer questions.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to point out that the other body does not have a similar rule to the one we are considering repealing today. There is no absolute ability for a subpoenaed witness at a proceeding in the other body to arbitrarily decide to shut off broadcast coverage of his or her testimony. Life has actually gone on quite well over there in the other body, I believe, without such a rule, and I think that should be of some comfort to those Members who believe the sky might fall in if we make the change proposed here today and let the full sunshine in.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to point out to Members that this effort was one that was undertaken by Democrat Members as well as Republican Members. The legislative history of committee proceedings in the House has examples of several distinguished Democrat then committee chairmen expressing their interest in seeing this exception to media coverage eliminated.

In sum, this rule is a change that will further the cause of sunshine and accountability in the people's House. I hope my colleagues will support it.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, and I thank my very dear friend the gentleman from Florida [Mr. GOSS] for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, in case any of my colleagues are unclear about what is about to happen, the House is now debating a resolution that takes away the fundamental right guaranteed to witnesses by the House rules. These rules were put in place to protect American citizens and others who are asked to stand before Congress and to tell the truth, and they should be protected at all costs.

Furthermore, Mr. Speaker, there is no reason on Earth to rush this resolution, but, for some reason, the Republican leadership is doing it anyway. The majority leader did not announce this resolution on the Friday when he announced the schedule for the week. This resolution was not listed on the floor schedule that was distributed on Monday morning. The Committee on Rules held a hearing after dark on Tuesday, which raised serious and technical questions and never came close to resolving moral or political concerns. Mr. Speaker, the Committee on Rules still marked up the resolution; and here we are today.

Mr. Speaker, there is no reason whatsoever the House should be acting so carelessly and so dangerously. But, as they say, "There is no business like show business." And our friend, the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. BURTON], plans hearings for Thursday and will continue between sessions. And someone wants to be sure that the witnesses who testify before this committee are stripped of any protection under the rules.

Mr. Speaker, the rule my colleagues want to repeal was adopted in response to the shameful abuses of this House in the McCarthy era. Some say it originated with a suicide note. A young cancer researcher named William K. Sherwood was subpoenaed to appear on camera before the committee. Two days before his scheduled appearance, he wrote a note expressing his fierce resentment at being televised and then jumped from the hotel window to his death. Largely in reaction to this event, Mr. Speaker, camera and live broadcasts were banned from the committee hearings from 1957 until 1970, when the Congress enacted the Legislative Reorganization Act.

The 1970 act, which grew out of an extensive and lengthy hearing process by a special subcommittee, contained the identical language, word for word, that is in current rules, the same language that my colleagues seek to repeal.

Senator Javits, while serving in the House, was one of the first Members to champion the use of TV cameras in Congress; however, even he knew how it might impact on the rights of witnesses. And in February 1952 he said, "The indiscriminate use of television and radio could very easily in many cases work out to invade the individual's rights." Mr. Speaker, how right he was.

Representative Hugh Scott, chairman of a rules subcommittee in the Republican-controlled 1983 Congress, said in March 1955 that a code of fair committee procedures must "protect a witness from distraction, harassment, or nervousness caused by radio, TV, and motion picture coverage of hearings." The closest we have to that warning is clause 3(f) of rule XI. And if Members on that side of the aisle have their way, that soon will be gone.

Witnesses do not have the opportunity to rebut statements made to them by Members of the panel. They cannot object to a question that is misleading or incriminating. They can be held in contempt if they refuse to answer any question, regardless of how inappropriate that question may be. They can bring a lawyer with them, Mr. Speaker, but that lawyer is virtually powerless to halt an unfair line of questioning. And to further subject these witnesses to unwanted television and radio coverage is a flagrant abuse of power by the members of the committee.

Mr. Speaker, committees do make mistakes. Recently the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. BURTON] subpoenaed the records of the wrong Chi Wong. And they did it again. They subpoenaed the records of the wrong Li Ping Chen. They subpoenaed the records of a Li Ping Chen Hudson, who had nothing to do with fundraising. And these subpoenas were for documents, Mr. Speaker, but these innocent citizens might just as easily have been called to be grilled before a rolling TV camera.

The protection provided in clause 3(f)(2) of rule XI is all that a witness can use to protect him or herself from such exploitation. Now even that small refuge is to be taken away, leaving witnesses at the mercy of an often hostile panel.

Mr. Chairman, when I was chairman of the Committee on Rules, I, too, heard from the frustrated chairmen who wanted to repeal this rule because an individual invoked their rights. They said the rule inhibits freedom of the press. I told them that the first amendment rights of the press and public's right to know are in no way diminished by the rule in its present form.

The print and broadcast press are not excluded from a hearing, and nothing in the rule prevents any reporter from fully covering the hearing. But American citizens do have a right to privacy, which includes a right to avoid the limelight of a camera, and when Congress compels an individual to testify, he or she should have the absolute right to demand that the cameras be turned off.

Mr. Speaker, I deeply regret that we are moving in this direction today. I can only implore you and the majority not to strip away this vital protection from those witnesses who are mandated to testify by order of congressional subpoena.

Just the other day in this Chamber, we passed a measure to reform the Internal Revenue Service by a vote of 425 to 4. The legislation was so widely approved because of stories of the IRS as an overzealous tax collector treating American citizens with suspicion, making the average citizen prove his innocence, intimidating Americans.

Let us not allow the reputation of this institution to be besmirched by the image of rude, arrogant, browbeating Members attacking poor, innocent Americans called to appear before the committee against their will. Please, Mr. Speaker, do not strip away this very, very small protection. Mark my word, Mr. Speaker, we will come to regret this day if we pass this rule.

Finally, I must remind my colleagues, if they repeal this rule, only Members of Congress will be shielded from the cameras when their reputations are at stake in a congressional investigation. That is not right.

Mr. Speaker, as my friend, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. GOSS], said, this is the people's House. This is the people's House. Let us protect the people's rights. So I urge my colleagues to defeat this rule.

Ordinary Americans should have the same protections that Members of Congress have.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, might I inquire what the time counts are?

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SNOWBARGER). The gentleman from Florida [Mr. GOSS] has 22 minutes remaining. The gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MOAKLEY] has 21 minutes remaining.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Georgia [Mr. BARR].

Mr. BARR of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I pause to let the smoke screen clear for just a moment so we can see what is really at stake here, Mr. Speaker, and I suppose, just as importantly, what this proposed rule change is not about.

This rule change, despite the smoke screen thrown up by its opponents, is not about somebody who may have committed suicide two generations ago, as tragic as I am sure that is. This is not, Mr. Speaker, about an effort to shield Members of Congress. It is not a question about taking anybody's rights away.

As we let the smoke screen clear, Mr. Speaker, what we see is a very simple rule change that is at the heart of both common sense and the way that Congress operates and was envisaged to operate by our Founding Fathers. For one only has to look in Jefferson's Manual, Mr. Speaker, in the rules of this House, going back over 200 years, to see a common underpinning of openness in the proceedings of this great body. And it is only from time to time when there is perceived an overriding need to place limitation on that openness that that great principle envisaged by our Founding Fathers of openness and public access to all that we do should be entertained.

The rule before us today is very simple. It simply states that no subpoenaed witness can hold the Congress hostage and can prevent the American people from knowing what it is pursuant to the people's business that they are testifying about. That is all it does. It does not take away the majority right of a majority of any committee of this Congress for good and sufficient reasons, including if they believe that the rights of a witness require privacy, that the broadcasting, the photographing, the recording must be turned off.

Congress and individuals before this Congress continue to retain that possibility, that right. This rule simply says that a witness who comes forward under subpoena cannot for their own reasons hide behind the cloak of secrecy and not let the American people know why it is they are before the Congress and what they are testifying about. It takes away that hammer that they can hold over the openness that we otherwise enshrine in those proceedings.

It is very interesting, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman from California [Mr. LANTOS], a very learned and senior Member of the other side, took to the floor in September and October 1989 when he happened to be in the majority and argued, apparently very eloquently, that the very rule which we are simply moving tonight to amend and open up does not serve the interests of the American people, nor, and I quote the gentleman from California, is the rule required as a protection to any witness, close quote. He says that he, quote, fully disagrees with this rule because, and I further quote Mr. LANTOS, I believe the American people are entitled to open government.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from California [Mr. LANTOS] was right then and he is right now. It is openness that is at the heart of our business here in this Congress. We provide fully to protect the interests of each and every witness, subject only to the vagaries of members of the committee. I urge very strongly that this arcane, outdated, unnecessary, and arbitrary rule which closes off certain avenues of reporting of what is going on and not others be adopted in favor of openness and the public's right to know.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The last speaker is correct. The gentleman from California [Mr. LANTOS] did argue for this. I was chairman of the Committee on Rules when he came before me to ask that this rule be changed. I did not think it should be changed then when I was chairman, and I do not think it should be changed now when I am not chairman. I do not think it is a political matter. It really does deprive the witnesses going before that committee of probably the only right they have.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 7 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. KANJORSKI].

Mr. KANJORSKI. Mr. Speaker, because of the nature of this rule that is before the House, I would request of my friends that control the time on the Republican side that they allow at this time my questioning the presence of a quorum and that we have a quorum call of the House, so that all the Members of the House can take part and listen to the debate we are having.

Mr. SOLOMON. If the gentleman will yield, both cloakrooms have notified the Members, and I am sure they are watching if they are not here. They have been duly notified. I would be glad to notify ours again if the gentleman would like to do the same.

Mr. KANJORSKI. At 7:17 when I am about to speak, let the record show that there are less than 20 Members of Congress on either side of the aisle present in the Chamber.

Mr. Speaker, I am on the Democratic side, but I do not stand today as a Democrat. I stand today first and foremost as an American and secondly as a Member of one of the finest institutions I have ever had the opportunity to be a part of, the House of Representatives of the United States.

I come here with a heavy heart, because I have a tradition in this House that goes back to 1953. I am probably the only Member of this House that participated in the McCarthy hearings in the Senate and many of the un-

American activity hearings of the House of Representatives in that period of time. I am here because many of my friends are on both sides of the aisle, and I think about this issue as an institutional issue. We are about to close the opportunity to protect or allow for the protection of privacy and individual rights of private citizens, one of the few interferences that I can imagine and one of the few protections that private citizens have had for the last 50 years before this House.

We know that in 1952, a request for noncoverage by television and radio was made and then Speaker Sam Rayburn granted that permission. That was carried through the tradition of Joseph Martin as Speaker of this House in the 83d Congress; it was carried through into 1955 when another request was made and Sam Rayburn granted that request, that television and radio be turned off, and in every other respect a record and public appearance was had by that witness.

In 1957, because of that same question, of carrying open television and radio of a witness, there was actually one individual from California, a cancer researcher, that instead of being televised, took his life, because as he wrote in his note, he had a fierce resentment of being televised and he felt that he preferred death over being assassinated by publicity.

As a result of that act and the common rules of the House maintained by the precedents of Sam Rayburn, we folded into the reorganization rules of the House in 1970 a permanent right that an average American citizen, called upon to testify by a committee of this Congress involuntarily, through subpoena, would have the right to protect their privacy by not being displayed on tens of millions or hundreds of millions of television sets and heard on the airwaves the world over; that if they felt that their individual liberties would be impacted that way, they should have a right to assert a right not to be televised and not to be heard on radio.

Today, the Congress is about to strip that right away, even though I understand that in some instances it has been used and abused. I think an official of the United States Government should never have the right to assert this. I suggested to the chairman of the Committee on Rules that an amendment be in order that the person would have the right to assert the right of privacy and not be televised, but that two-thirds of the members of any investigating committee could overrule that right, and in any instance where a Cabinet officer, an official of this government were called, I would have been one of those two-thirds that would override that right.

But instead, by carte blanche, we are going to change the rule and say an individual involuntarily called to testify before this Congress, regardless of the significance or insignificance of their testimony, is going to have their privacy invaded to the extent that their picture and voice can travel the world over, when on the other hand, and I cited some of my friends on the other side, absolute hunting licenses for irresponsible Members of this body now and in the future, who can make any statement of fact in the presentation of their question and slander or libel that American citizen, who will have no recourse in law because we as Members of Congress are cloaked with absolute immunity in the actions on this House floor or in the committee. I think that unfairness is unforgivable and it is dastardly.

I will make the point, we are coming very close in this House to tyranny by the majority. Mr. Speaker, the Constitution of the United States and the laws of this land have not been written for the protection of the majority. They have their protection in a system of government such as ours. The Constitution and laws of this land are put into place to protect the minority. Sometimes that minority is just one individual who does not want to surrender his family, himself, his reputation to degradation from irresponsible statements or irresponsible publicity.

Before any Member on the Republican side or the Democratic side casts their vote, just remember that this is really an issue of individual rights in this country. We have life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. We have already had one life taken because of this fear. The liberty now is at risk of a private citizen who just for any number of reasons, good or bad, may not want to subject his family or himself to the insult or the embarrassment of going public with any story. He may not want to be subjected or libeled in public by an irresponsible Member of Congress, or slandered. And we are going to do away with that right and give no recourse to our private citizens.

I think it is a sad day in the Congress of the United States when we, with all the might and power of the subpoena and all the might and power that is placed in us by our fellow citizens in the Constitution, feel that we must arm ourselves against the lowest of low individual, the single individual who may want to protect his right to privacy.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Colorado, Mr. DAN SCHAEFER.

(By unanimous consent, Mr. DAN SCHAEFER of Colorado was allowed to speak out of order.)

REMOVAL OF NAME OF MEMBER AS COSPONSOR
OF H.R. 1173

Mr. DAN SCHAEFER of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to have my name removed as a cosponsor of the bill, H.R. 1173.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SNOWBARGER). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

There was no objection.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Illinois [Mr. HYDE], the chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary.

(Mr. HYDE asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HYDE. I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, a democracy depends on an informed electorate. If the information about how the government is being run or what the truth is about controversial issues is withheld from the public, from the people who are the ultimate governors in this representative democracy, we have a flawed democracy.

When we only permit the print media to cover hearings, to cover important testimony, we are depending then on the news as filtered through the bias, the space limitations, the concerns of the journalist to get the information. We deprive the public of the immediacy, the graphic, unvarnished, spin-free version of the truth by not letting them see with their own eyes. The Lucky Luciano rule is what this is, back in the old days when the big boys did not want their pictures on television, so they took pictures of their hands, as I recall, in the Kefauver committee.

But it just seems to me we have here a classic conflict of rights. One right is the right to privacy and the other is the right of the people to know. And in that conflict, they both cannot prevail. In my judgment, the right of the people to know is absolutely indispensable.

Yes, you can be abused. Yes, you can be slandered. You can be slandered in the print media, you can be slandered in conversations and certainly in campaigns. It seems to be the vogue. But I would hope in a committee made up of Democrats and Republicans, somebody would have the courage to defend the witness if somebody is being abusive.

I have seen Members of Congress be abusive to people. I have also seen them shut up and be told they are liars and give as good as they get and get as good as they give. I know if the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MOAKLEY] were present or the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. KANJORSKI] were present in a hearing and a witness was being abused, they would not stand for it, and the abuser would not come out unscathed.

This is not an easy question. This is a tough question. We have a conflict of rights, a conflict of interest. But it seems to me the paramount right is for the public to know, and they should not have to rely on the narrow availability, the judgment, the taste, the writing ability of print journalists. Not everybody can see those papers, not everybody reads the paper every day. But you put the good old C-SPAN on and you know what is going on. That is an advantage for democracy.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

This bill does not deprive the press in the room. Cameramen can be in the room, television men can be in the room. They just cannot use their devices. But they can reduce to writing what they hear. They can get pictures of the person going into the committee and coming out of the committee. The public's right to know is not stifled one iota here.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. STUPAK].

(Mr. STUPAK asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. STUPAK. I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I oppose this resolution because I believe it is necessary to give witnesses the right to protect their reputation by preventing TV cameras and print photographers from a hearing. I do so because of a hearing that took place last week which really magnified the irresponsibility and the impropriety of the majority's conduct that the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. HYDE] just spoke of in structuring their oversight investigations.

The problem is not necessarily the rule but how are we going to apply it in our job as Members of the U.S. Congress. Every day the majority party wants new investigations. Every day we have more and more calls for investigations. What do you have when you have political people doing political investigations? You get more politics. We do not get to the truth of the matter but rather we get more and more politics. That is what investigation and oversight has been used for in this Congress with the new majority party.

I am a former law enforcement officer. I was trained to assure that the accused of a crime, that their behavior was based on facts that could prove the guilt or innocence of an individual. Unfortunately, the majority's standards are much lower than that of law enforcement, because the majority, and especially the chairman of the Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations of the Committee on Commerce, held a hearing, and there were leaks before we had the hearing and they promised with the leaks, to get the media there, that there would be a smoking gun that would have the fingerprints of the Vice President on it.

That was to get everybody to show up, and, lo and behold, we go up to the hearing, and we have a memo from the majority counsel once again saying we are having a hearing, that, quote, and I am going to quote from the memo by the majority party, there is no smoking gun which opens us up to partisan criticism for engaging in a witch hunt.

And that is exactly what they did. They said in the same memo that, we are going to make people come and testify under oath because, quote, it forces key players to deny allegations of misconduct under oath, and, I will quote again, it generates an enormous press opportunity for us, end of quote.

Mr. Speaker, 40 years ago, the same kind of tactics took place by a Senator from Wisconsin. He made a mockery of the congressional investigations and of Congress itself, just like we had last week after 21 hours of testimony, not one scintilla, not one scant of evidence of any wrongdoing, but these people were drawn before the TV cameras for 21 hours to deny their innocence.

The rule prohibiting the filming of testimony without the witness' consent was adopted in response to what happened 40 years ago. It should continue today because the same abuses occur by the majority party.

Mr. Speaker, we should not be holding hearings so that witnesses are forced to deny their innocence and for a press opportunity. I urge my colleagues to oppose this resolution and stand up for a fair investigatory process.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN], the distinguished subcommittee chairman of the Committee on Appropriations.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON H.R. 2159, FOREIGN OPERATIONS, EXPORT FINANCING, AND RELATED PROGRAMS APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1998

(1) The ancient Silk Road, once the economic lifeline of Central Asia and the South Caucasus, traversed much of the territory now within the countries of Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Uzbekistan.

(2) Economic interdependence spurred mutual cooperation among the peoples along the Silk Road and restoration of the historic relationships and economic ties between those peoples is an important element of ensuring their sovereignty as well as the success of democratic and market reforms.

(3) The development of strong political and economic ties between countries of the South Caucasus and Central Asia and the West will foster stability in the region.

(4) The development of open market economies and open democratic systems in the countries of the South Caucasus and Central Asia will provide positive incentives for international private investment, increased trade, and other forms of commercial interactions with the rest of the world.

(5) The Caspian Sea Basin, overlapping the territory of the countries of the South Caucasus and Central Asia, contains proven oil and gas reserves that may exceed $4,000,000,000,000 in value.

(6) The region of the South Caucasus and Central Asia will produce oil and gas in sufficient quantities to reduce the dependence of the United States on energy from the volatile Persian Gulf region.

(7) United States foreign policy and international assistance should be narrowly targeted to support the economic and political independence of the countries of the South Caucasus and Central Asia.

(b) GENERAL.—The policy of the United States in the countries of the South Caucasus and Central Asia should be—

(1) to promote sovereignty and independence with democratic government;

(2) to assist actively in the resolution of regional conflicts;

(3) to promote friendly relations and economic cooperation;

(4) to help promote market-oriented principles and practices;

(5) to assist in the development of infrastructure necessary for communications, transportation, and energy and trade on an East-West axis in order to build strong international relations and commerce between those countries and the stable, democratic, and market-oriented countries of the Euro-Atlantic Community; and

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 2159) making appropriations for foreign operations, export financing, and related programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1998, submit the following joint statement to the House and Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report:

TITLE I—EXPORT AND INVESTMENT ASSISTANCE

EXPORT-IMPORT BANK OF THE UNITED STATES SUBSIDY APPROPRIATION

The conference agreement appropriates $683,000,000 for the subsidy appropriation of the Export-Import Bank instead of $632,000,000 as proposed by the House and $700,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The appropriations are available for four years, and the level provided anticipates significant participation by the Eximbank in the Partnership for Freedom.

The conferees note that the Administration requested authority to transfer funds from "Assistance for the New Independent States of the Former Soviet Union" to this account, and that the Senate had provided transfer authority of up to $22,000,000 for that purpose. The conference agreement, instead, provides significant funding above the request for Eximbank, without reserving any specific amount for the New Independent States. The conferees expect that Eximbank will coordinate its activity in the region with the Special Advisor to the President and the Secretary of State on Assistance to the New Independent States.

Authority is provided as proposed by the Senate for up to $50,000,000 to be used for tied aid grants, and funds designated in this or prior Acts for tied aid grants may be used for other purposes, subject to notification.

A one year extension of the Export-Import Bank's basic authority is included in title V.

EXPORT-IMPORT BANK OF THE UNITED STATES ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES

The conference agreement appropriates $48,614,000 for administrative expenses of the Export-Import Bank as proposed by the House instead of $46,614,000 as proposed by the Senate.

OVERSEAS PRIVATE INVESTMENT CORPORATION PROGRAM ACCOUNT

The conference agreement appropriates $60,000,000 for program expenses of the Overseas Private Investment Corporation (OPIC) as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

The conference agreement also extends the authorization for OPIC for two years, in section 581, and allows the agency to combine its existing statutory ceilings on financing and insurance within an overall credit ceiling of $29,000,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The managers are concerned about the viability of projects supported by OPIC in Gaza, and direct OPIC to move expeditiously and report to the Committees no later than December 15, 1997 on its efforts to resolve claims and defaulted investments that the Executive branch encouraged to locate in Gaza.

TRADE AND DEVELOPMENT AGENCY

The conference agreement appropriates $41,500,000 for the Trade and Development Agency instead of $43,000,000 as proposed by the Senate and $40,000,000 as proposed by the House.

TITLE II—BILATERAL ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE

AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT CHILD SURVIVAL AND DISEASE PROGRAMS FUND

The conference agreement appropriates $650,000,000 as proposed by the House. The Senate bill contained no provision on this matter. The managers agree with the House report language regarding the use of the funds appropriated under this heading, including $100,000,000 for a grant to UNICEF and $25,000,000 for polio eradication. The grant for UNICEF does not preclude AID from providing additional funding for specific UNICEF projects as may be applicable.

The managers also concur with House and Senate report language on infectious diseases. An increase of $50,000,000 is to be made available from funds under this heading to strengthen global surveillance and control of infectious diseases as proposed by the House instead of an increase of $30,000,000 as proposed by the Senate in bill language under "Development Assistance".

The total amount available for infectious diseases in fiscal year 1998 should be $207,000,000, consisting of $121,000,000 for HIV/AIDS, $50,000,000 for this new initiative, and the balance from funds to combat infectious diseases derived from sources other than funding for Child Survival activities.

In implementing programs, projects, and activities to combat infectious diseases, the conferees agree with the Senate report language and expect AID to consult closely with the Appropriations Committees, the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases of the National Institutes of Health (NIH), the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), and other relevant agencies involved in international health issues, including the World Health Organization (WHO).

The funding increase should be used for programs, projects, and activities for the prevention and control of such infectious diseases as tuberculosis, malaria, yellow fever, acute respiratory infections, and diseases that are resistant to antimicrobial drugs.

The conferees strongly encourage support for the Global Tuberculosis Initiative, which is to be coordinated by the World Health Organization (WHO) with support and input from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and the Agency for International Development. Funds should be used in support of the initiative to provide assistance in Eastern Europe and Russia and other WHO identified "hot zones"—Mexico, Vietnam, the Philippines and Central America—for implementation of the Directly Observed Treatment Strategy (DOTS); as bridge funds to purchase fixed-dose combination anti-TB drugs; to strengthen monitoring and surveillance of tuberculosis and drug-resistant tuberculosis; to provide technical support to limit drug-resistant tuberculosis hot zones; and to enhance information dissemination, education, and research programs. In addition, the conferees support the plan for a regional tuberculosis control initiative proposed by the Gorgas Memorial Institute and recommend that $2,000,000 be made available for this activity in Latin America and Southeast Asia. Finally, the conferees urge AID to consult closely with any nongovernmental organizations (NGO's) with demonstrated expertise and long-standing experience in international tuberculosis control as funds in the area of TB control are obligated.

The conferees intend that a total of $121,000,000 shall be made available for both bilateral and multilateral HIV/AIDS prevention and control programs. The conferees recommend that funding through nongovernmental and private voluntary organizations operating at the community level be maximized, and that U.S. funding for UNAIDS be maintained. The conferees expect that the United States will continue to build upon its leadership role in combating this pandemic.

The conferees recommend that $98,000,000 be provided for basic education programs. The conferees support the use of basic education funds to address the educational needs of children who are in or have been subjected to situations of hazardous and exploitative labor.

The conferees support the Senate report language regarding the International Foundation for Education and Self-Help (IFESH).

DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE

(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The conference agreement appropriates $1,210,000,000 for "Development Assistance" instead of $1,167,000,000 as proposed by the House and $1,358,093,020 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes language from the Senate amendment which inserts authority to obligate funds pursuant to title V of the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1980 (African Development Foundation), and section 401 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1969 (Inter-American Foundation) under this heading. The conference agreement provides authority apportioning directly up to $22,000,000 for the Inter-American Foundation and up to $14,000,000 for the African Development Foundation. The Senate provided allocations for these two foundations at levels of $20,000,000 and $11,500,000, respectively. The House bill had provided separate appropriations accounts for the foundations, together with authority to provide grants to the foundations under "Development Assistance".

The conferees support the House report language regarding the funding levels for Latin America and the Caribbean and for sub-Saharan Africa. The conferees also note that sub-Saharan Africa is undergoing major transitions that require creative and non-traditional approaches to dealing with fundamental development issues.

Institution-building and capacity-building are the most pressing problems that need to be addressed by AID programs in Africa. Therefore the conferees are concerned that large non-project assistance programs (NPA), such as the one currently being funded for Malawi (which has received nearly $700,000,000 in AID resources since 1962), could perpetuate aid dependencies. The conferees request that AID undertake a thorough review of such assistance programs to determine whether or not current AID strategies are consistent with building self-reliance, and to report to the Committees on Appropriations on the results of such review by March 1, 1998. In addition, the conferees request that AID include a summary of proposed NPA by country in the fiscal year 1999 budget request, including an indication for the reason such assistance is being proposed in lieu of assistance to build institutions and country-capacity and whether past NPA has resulted in higher economic growth and a decrease in development dependence.

The conferees concur with the House report language encouraging AID to utilize funds made available for nongovernmental organizations in southern and eastern Sudan outside government control to include capacity building activities in addition to traditional disaster relief programs.

The conferees agree with language in the House report that expresses concern over the decline in recent years of budgetary resources that have been made available for international agriculture development assistance. The decline of this important segment of U.S. assistance, together with the corresponding decline in the number of international agriculture experts at AID and the State Department, should be reversed. The conferees also strongly support funding for collaborative research support programs (CRSP's).

The conference agreement also includes language allowing not to exceed $2,500,000 to be transferred to "International Organizations and Programs" for a contribution to the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD). The Senate amendment contained similar language. The House bill contained no provision on this matter. The conferees note that IFAD has many years of experience in working with smallholder farmers, and in microenterprise development, to alleviate poverty and hunger among the rural poor. Many of AID's goals and program initiatives are similar to those of IFAD. The conferees encourage AID to examine how it could work more closely with IFAD.

The conferees direct that not less than $500,000 shall be made available for support of the United States Telecommunications Training Institute, in accordance with information received from the Agency for International Development. This organization provides valuable communications and broadcast training to professionals around the world. The Senate amendment included bill language mandating that such funds be made available for this purpose. The House bill did not address this matter.

The conference agreement does not contain Senate language requiring that not less than $15,000,000 shall be available only for the American Schools and Hospitals Abroad (ASHA) program. However, the managers direct the Agency for International Development to fully uphold its commitment to the Appropriations Committees to obligate at least $15,000,000 for the American Schools and Hospitals Abroad program in fiscal year 1998.

The conference agreement recommends $14,000,000 for AID's Office of Women in Development, and the managers encourage AID to undertake the institutional changes needed to expand support for women in development and to provide appropriate support for the Girls' and Women's Education Initiative.

The conferees note the contribution of the Leahy War Victims Fund in assisting war victims in over a dozen countries since its inception in 1989. Recently, world attention has focused increasingly on the problem of landmines, and the need for additional funds for the care and rehabilitation, including social and economic reintegration, of landmine victims. Accordingly, the conferees recommend that up to $7,500,000 be made available for such activities.

The conference agreement also includes Senate language to allow not to exceed $25,000 for oversight of assistance programs for displaced and orphaned children and victims of war.

The conference agreement also deletes Senate language requiring that not less than 65 percent of the funds made available for family planning assistance shall be made available directly to the agency's central Office of Population. However, the managers strongly support AID's central population office, which plays a vital role in AID's efforts to stabilize global population growth rates.

The managers agree with the Senate report language on microenterprise regarding poverty lending programs, including the allocation of $135,000,000 for such purposes.

The managers strongly support the fertilizer-related research and development being conducted by the International Fertilizer Development Center (IFDC) and direct the Administrator of AID to make at least $3,000,000 available for the core grant to IFDC.

The conference agreement prohibits funds from being made available for any activity in contravention to the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Flora and Fauna (CITES).

The conferees recognize the importance of commercial law reform in the Caribbean as an essential part of future business development and increased trade between the United States and the region, and strongly support the business facilitation activities undertaken by the Caribbean Law Institute.

The conferees endorse the House report language on proposed cooperation between AID and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, including the establishment of a collaboration with NASA's Global Hydrology and Climate Center.

The conferees recognize that the volunteers of the International Executive Service Corps (IESC) promote the long-term interests of the United States by creating new businesses, increasing employment, and raising living standards. Therefore the conferees strongly urge AID to provide IESC with grant funds at a level comparable with fiscal year 1997 to ensure the continued availability of their services worldwide, and an additional amount to enable the organization to renew activities in Latin America and the Caribbean.

The conferees support the scholarship programs known as the Cooperative Association States for Scholarships (CASS) and expect AID to continue funding for this program at the same level provided in fiscal year 1997.

The conferees also support the continuation of AID's programs in Yemen, which are helping that country make the transition to democracy.

POPULATION, DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement deletes Senate language proposing a separate appropriations account of $435,000,000 for development assistance population activities. The funding for such activities is provided as part of the "Development Assistance" account in the conference agreement.

PRIVATE AND VOLUNTARY ORGANIZATIONS

The conference agreement includes language from the Senate amendment providing that funds appropriated under title II of this Act should be made available to private and voluntary organizations (PVO's) at a level which is at least equivalent to the level provided in fiscal year 1995. The House bill included similar language.

CYPRUS

The conference agreement includes Senate language providing that not less than $15,000,000 of the funds appropriated under "Development Assistance" and "Economic Support Fund" be made available for Cyprus, to be used only for scholarships, administrative support, bicomunal projects, and measures aimed at reunification of the island. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

BURMA

The conference agreement includes a total of $5,000,000 from "Development Assistance" and "Economic Support Fund" to support democracy and humanitarian programs in Burma. Such funds may be made available notwithstanding any other provision of law and are subject to notification. The Senate amendment specified the uses for the funds and the funding source was limited to "Development Assistance". The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

The conferees have provided assistance to support activities designed to restore democracy in Burma and to provide humanitarian programs for Burmese exiles and refugees. The assistance has been provided to underscore U.S. support for Aung San Suu Kyi and her supporters.

The conferees note strong concern about the severe restrictions imposed on Aung San Suu Kyi. Although not under formal arrest, she is unable to move about freely and visitors must be approved by the State Law and Order Restoration Council. As a result, family, friends, associates, journalists and advocates for restoring her to office have been denied access. In addition, she has drawn public attention to the continuation of a campaign of violence, intimidation and terror being waged against her party members with the goal of destroying the democratic opposition.

The conferees expect that not less than $3,000,000 of the funds made available for Burma be provided to support democracy activities and $2,000,000 be provided to support humanitarian initiatives along Burma's borders. The conferees oppose any expenditure of funds in Burma.

GUATEMALA CLARIFICATION COMMISSION

The conference agreement does not include language from the Senate amendment providing that not less than $1,000,000 shall be made available to support the Guatemala Clarification Commission. The House bill did not address this matter.

The conferees support the provision of sufficient funds to enable the commission to complete its work, and urge the Department of State to closely monitor the commission's resource needs and to seek additional support from other donors.

CAMBODIA

The conference agreement includes language prohibiting funds for the Government of Cambodia, except for support for demining, humanitarian assistance, and elections. In addition, the conference agreement includes a provision similar to that in the Senate amendment requiring a report from the President on the results of the investigation of the Federal Bureau of Investigation into the bombing attack in Phnom Penh of March 20, 1997.

The House bill had two provisions on this matter; one would have prohibited funding directly to the Government of Cambodia, and one would have prohibited funding to the Government and funding through international financial institutions for Cambodia. The Senate amendment included a prohibition on funding for activities and programs in Cambodia except under certain conditions, and also made United States support for loans through international financial institutions dependent on similar conditions.

Political violence in Cambodia reached a crisis point in July when forces loyal to Second Prime Minister Hun Sen seized control and ousted First Prime Minister Ranariddh from both the coalition government and the country. Subsequent to this takeover, Hun Sen forces engaged in a systematic campaign of summary executions, torture and kidnappings, much of which has been verified and documented in an August 21, 1997, United Nations Center for Human Rights report.

In response to these events, the Secretary of State announced a temporary suspension and review of U.S. assistance programs. The conferees believe that, in effect, Hun Sen gained power by a coup which would normally require the termination of U.S. assistance under section 508 of this Act.

To assure no assistance is provided to Hun Sen or his supporters, the conferees have prohibited most bilateral aid for the Government of Cambodia. The Secretary of the Treasury should instruct U.S. Executive Directors to international financial institutions to use the voice and vote of the United States in opposition to loans to Cambodia.

In restricting bilateral aid, the conferees have exempted demining, elections and humanitarian programs which directly benefit Cambodia's citizens. The conferees hope that Hun Sen's opponents will be allowed to return to Cambodia and safely participate in open, fair elections. The conferees expect the Committees on Appropriations to be notified prior to the initiation or renewal of any program in Cambodia.

INTERNATIONAL DISASTER ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement appropriates $190,000,000 for "International Disaster Assistance" as proposed by the House instead of $195,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees support the House report language on activities in Kosova and assistance for internally displaced persons in Northern Iraq.

DEBT RESTRUCTURING

The conference agreement appropriates $27,000,000 as proposed by the House instead of $34,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The agreement includes language to allow modification of concessional loans made under section 411 of the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, the Commodity Credit Corporation Charter Act, the Food for Peace Act of 1966, or the Agricultural Trade Act of 1978, to Latin American countries which have completed Paris Club debt agreements. Debt relief for Jordan was completed in fiscal year 1997, and therefore language affecting Jordan in the House bill and Senate amendment has been deleted.

The conference agreement on legislative language follows the House in not retaining the proposed requirement for notifications for the obligations of funds from this account. In lieu of the House report language request for quarterly reports on obligations made from this account, the conferees request the following actions for debt restructuring activity in this account:

1. on the basis of final appropriations action, an annual notification should be provided at the beginning of the fiscal year listing expected poorest country debt reduction and buyback/swap activities for the upcoming fiscal year;

2. the Committees on Appropriations should be informed should action subsequently be anticipated for additional countries, or involve deeper relief;

3. signed bilateral agreements to implement bilateral agreements should be submitted to the Committees on Appropriations prior to the entry into force of such agreements; and

4. a final report should be provided at the end of the fiscal year listing Paris Club ad referendum agreements, signature and/or entry into force of bilateral debt reduction agreements, obligation of funds for poorest country debt reduction, and buyback/swap agreements concluded during the fiscal year.

The conference agreement also provides up to $1,500,000 for the Department of Treasury to improve the foreign credit reporting system of the U.S. Government.

URBAN AND ENVIRONMENTAL CREDIT PROGRAM ACCOUNT

The conference agreement incorporates House language allowing for funds under this heading to be used for the cost of guaranteed loans designed to promote the urban and environmental policies and objectives of part I of the Foreign Assistance Act. The Senate amendment did not contain such language.

OPERATING EXPENSES OF THE AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

The conference agreement appropriates $473,000,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $468,750,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees are very concerned about the lack of progress in the implementation of the New Management System (NMS) and request that AID regularly report to the Committees on Appropriations on the status of this program.

ECONOMIC SUPPORT FUND

The conference agreement appropriates $2,400,000,000 instead of $2,541,150,000 as proposed by the Senate and $2,375,000,000 as proposed by the House.

THE MIDDLE EAST

The conference agreement inserts language proposed by the Senate which earmarks $1,200,000,000 for Israel, $815,000,000 for Egypt and $150,000,000 for Jordan. The conference agreement also provides that aid to Egypt is provided with the understanding that Egypt will undertake significant economic reforms and that in providing aid to Egypt and Israel the President shall ensure the level of aid does not cause an adverse impact on the total level of non-military exports from the United States to each country.

The conference agreement inserts language proposed by the House which provides that of the funds made available in previous Acts making appropriations for foreign operations, export financing, and related programs, notwithstanding any provision of any similar heading in such previous Acts, up to $116,000,000 may be made available to support Economic Support Fund programs and activities, including the Middle East Peace and Stability Fund. The language also provides that the President should seek to ensure to the extent feasible that not more than 1 percent ($54,000,000) of the amount specified in section 586 shall be derived from any single country. The conference agreement further provides that any funds provided to the Middle East Peace and Stability Fund by a country in the region pursuant to the general authorities of section 635(d) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as well as funds made available for Jordan from previous Act, shall count toward meeting the earmark for Jordan. In addition, the conference agreement stipulates that up to $10,000,000 in fiscal year 1997 funds reprogrammed for Jordan shall also count toward the Jordan earmark in fiscal year 1998. The conference agreement also includes language modifying certain notification requirements in order to facilitate the implementation of the authorities provided under this heading and the requirements of section 586, "Assistance for the Middle East."

HAITI

The conference agreement strikes language proposed by the Senate earmarking not less than $500,000 for the Special Investigative Unit (SIU) of the Haiti National Police and providing that up to $250,000 may be made available to assist orphanages in Haiti. The managers expect not less than $500,000 be made available to the SIU and concur with the Senate that a professional SIU, fully supported by its Government, is essential to the rule of law in Haiti and that programs to assist Haitian children in orphanages should be continued under the current dire economic conditions in Haiti. No later than 45 days after enactment of this Act, the Secretary of State is requested to report to the Committees on the proposed fiscal year allocation for these programs in Haiti.

PALESTINIAN-ISRAELI COOPERATION

The conferees recommend that $500,000 be made available to support the Palestinian-Israeli Cooperation Program to promote better understanding and mutual respect between Israelis and Palestinians at a time when the Middle East Peace process is threatened by violence and terrorist acts.

IRAQ

The conferees note that the people of Iraq continue to suffer under the repressive rule of Saddam Hussein, despite efforts of the international community to provide humanitarian assistance to the truly needy in Iraq.

In particular, the conferees are concerned that humanitarian assistance provided by private religious and charitable groups may not be reaching intended beneficiaries in Iraq. The conferees direct the Department of State to work with these groups to coordinate monitoring activities and to apply international pressure to make certain that innocent victims in Iraq are not denied humanitarian assistance provided by private charitable organizations.

TIMBER TRADE IN THAILAND AND CAMBODIA

The conferees remain very concerned by reports that despite efforts by the Administration and Thai officials to deter the export of timber from Cambodia through Thailand, this illegal trade continues and may be increasing due to recent political turmoil in Cambodia. Reports implicate Cambodian political and military officials, as well as Thai border guards in this profitable trade. Although the conferees have not repeated past conditions on assistance to Thailand, the conferees expect the Administration to use its influence with both the Thai and Cambodian authorities to produce concrete results in stemming this illegal trade.

GUATEMALA

Authority is provided to use local currency generated by AID programs, in Guatemala to prepay the debts owed by several universities to multilateral development banks. Full repayment of the debt was made for many years, until devaluation of the local currency made prompt repayment in hard currency extremely difficult. The affected institutions have made major contributions to the peace and reconciliation process in Guatemala, and the authority is provided in recognition of that fact. Similar authority was provided for El Salvador in 1992.

SOUTH PACIFIC REGIONAL FISHERIES TREATY

The conferees note that the South Pacific Regional Fisheries Treaty requires the United States to contribute $14,000,000 annually to the South Pacific Island states and expect that this treaty obligation will be met.

INTERNATIONAL FUND FOR IRELAND

The conference agreement appropriates $19,600,000 for the "International Fund for Ireland" as proposed by the House. The Senate amendment did not contain a provision on this matter.

ASSISTANCE FOR EASTERN EUROPE AND THE BALTIC STATES

The conference agreement appropriates $485,000,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $470,000,000 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement includes House language deleted by the Senate that prohibits funds from being used for new housing construction or repair or reconstruction of existing housing in Bosnia and Herzegovina unless directly related to efforts of United States troops to promote peace in said country. The agreement also includes language, similar to that contained in both the House bill and the Senate amendment, that authorizes the President to withhold funds made available for economic revitalization for Bosnia and Herzegovina if he determines and certifies to the Committees on Appropriations that the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina is not in compliance with the Dayton agreement regarding the removal of foreign forces, and that intelligence cooperation on training, investigations, and related activities between Iranian and Bosnian officials has not been terminated.

The conference agreement retains language from the House limiting the assistance for Bosnia and Herzegovina to $200,000,000. However, this limitation excludes funds for police training and related expenses. The conference agreement includes up to $15,000,000 for this purpose. The conferees endorse the House report language encouraging the State Department to seek funds from other nations for police training activities in Bosnia, and expect that any proposal to provide more than $15,000,000 for police training and related expenses will be subject to notification.

The conference agreement also includes House language not in the Senate amendment to allow for up to $7,000,000 for modifying direct loans and loan guarantees for Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The conferees recognize that realtors in the United States have had success in working with the Eastern Europe Real Property Foundation. Building and privatizing real estate markets is still a priority in building a free and democratic economy. The conferees recommend funding at up to $2,000,000 over the next two years to continue to develop professional associations with ethics and laws that will lead to a private real estate market throughout Central Europe.

The conferees recommend that AID and the Department of State make best efforts to provide funding at the fiscal year 1996 level for the Russian, Eurasian, and East European Research and Training Program (title VIII), both in this account and in "Assistance for the New Independent States of the Former Soviet Union".

ASSISTANCE FOR THE NEW INDEPENDENT STATES OF THE FORMER SOVIET UNION

The conference agreement appropriates $770,000,000 instead of $625,000,000 as proposed by the House and $800,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees did not include Senate language that allowed for the transfer of up to $22,000,000 to the Export-Import Bank and up to $8,000,000 to the Micro and Small Enterprise Program of AID.

RUSSIA-IRAN

The conference agreement provides that fifty percent of the funds allocated for the Government of Russia shall be withheld from obligation until the President determines and certifies in writing to the Committees on Appropriations that the Government of Russia has terminated implementation of arrangements to provide Iran with certain goods and services related to nuclear and ballistic missile programs in Iran. The managers also include a provision allowing the President to waive the provisions of the paragraph if he finds that continuing assistance to the Government of Russia is vital to the national security interests of the United States and that the Government of Russia is taking meaningful steps to limit major supply contracts and curtail the transfer of technology. The Senate had no similar waiver provision.

GAZPROM FINANCING

The managers understand that the Chairman of the Export Import Bank signed a memorandum of understanding with Gazprom in 1994 providing up to $750 million in guarantees of commercial loans for the purchase of American equipment and services to improve the efficiency and productivity of Russian oil and gas fields. Since implementation, the Bank has approved or has under consideration $338 million in financing.

In 1996, the Iran Libya Sanctions Act went into effect requiring the President to impose sanctions against companies which invest more than $20 million in the development of Iran's energy sector. The managers are concerned by reports that Gazprom has agreed to participate in a $2 billion project to develop Iranian energy fields. The managers strongly oppose the use of Bank financing to directly or indirectly support the development of Iranian gas and oil fields and urge the Board of the Bank to suspend all Gazprom transactions for a period of review to assure no funds are used for these purposes.

UKRAINE

The conference agreement earmarks $225,000,000 for Ukraine with the understanding that Ukraine will undertake significant economic reforms which are additional to those which were undertaken in previous years.

The conferees take note of important developments which have enhanced stability in Ukraine including the introduction of a new currency, passage of a Constitution and completion of a new NATO-Ukraine security agreement. The conferees take note of President Kuchma's recent initiatives to combat corruption, privatize state owned enterprises and replace senior officials opposed to serious reforms. While welcome, these efforts must be expanded and measured by immediate, concrete progress on legal, political and economic reforms. Reforms, especially in the agriculture sector, are essential if U.S. and multilateral assistance is to achieve meaningful results. Without them, it will be difficult for Ukraine to prosper and secure its political independence.

To encourage results, the conferees have withheld 50 percent of the funding for Ukraine until the Secretary of State is able to certify that specific cases involving U.S. companies have been resolved. The conferees have taken this action with the view that the private sector is key to Ukraine's economic growth. Resolution of these cases, as well as similar complaints by Ukrainian firms, and improvements in the legal system are necessary if Ukraine is to restore private sector confidence and attract investment capital.

With parliamentary elections scheduled in March 1998, the managers strongly support expanded political party training and election-related activities to encourage informed participation and an open, fair process. The conferees remain concerned that the current Rada has opposed many of President Kuchma's reform initiatives. The conferees note that the outcome of the elections could have a significant impact on the future assistance program as well as private sector investment.

The managers expect that not less than $25,000,000 of the funds allocated to Ukraine be transferred to the Department of Energy's International Nuclear Safety Program for simulators, training, and safety analysis at nuclear reactors in Ukraine. The managers direct the Department of Energy's INSP office to consult with the Senate and House committees prior to any allocation of funds. The conference agreement also includes language modifying prior year language on nuclear safety analyses to extend the time available for such activities in Ukraine.

The conference has deleted House language terminating assistance to the Government of Ukraine if the President determines and reports to the Committees that the Government of Ukraine is engaged in military cooperation with the Government of Libya. There was no similar Senate provision, and the conferees have been assured by the State Department that there is no cooperation with Libya at the present time. The managers caution Ukraine to move immediately to halt any and all transfers of weapons to terrorist states.

COMMERCIAL LAW REFORM

The Senate version of the bill included $25,000,000 for commercial law reform in Ukraine. The House bill did not include such a provision.

The conferees express strong support for commercial law reform in Ukraine. The conferees strongly urge AID to set aside funds for comprehensive legal restructuring in Ukraine necessary to support a decentralized market-oriented economic system, including the enactment of all necessary substantive commercial law procedures, the implementation of reforms necessary to establish an independent judiciary and bar, the education of judges, attorneys, law students, and related public education.

SOUTHERN CAUCASUS REGION

The conference agreement provides for a new Southern Caucasus Region funding category that is not contained in the House bill or Senate amendment. The managers seek to make the maximum use of American assistance as an incentive for the regional parties to cooperate with the Minsk Group and other international mediators seeking to bring peace to the South Caucasus. The managers are convinced that the ready availability of international reconstruction aid, including the potential U.S. initial contribution provided in this conference agreement, will encourage leaders to make peace. The managers intend that emphasis be placed on restoring transportation, telecommunications, an other infrastructure that promote regional economic integration.

The managers include in the $250,000,000 made available for the Southern Caucasus specific funding for three areas of United States national interest in the region:

(1) up to $70,000,000 to aid the refugees and internally displaced persons affected by the conflicts in the Caucasus, and if feasible, provide the United States share of an international effort to reconstruct the regions most affected by the conflict once interim settlements are agreed to. The managers direct the Coordinator to move forthwith to provide assistance of $12,500,000 for victims of the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict and $5,000,000 for victims of the Abkhazia conflict;

(2) the amount of $87,500,000 for Armenia (not including, under the previous category, aid for Armenians residing outside the boundaries of Armenia), a country in the center of a volatile region that cannot prosper without renewed trade and communications with its sometimes hostile neighbors; and

(3) the amount of $92,500,000 for Georgia (not including, under the previous category, aid for Georgians displaced from Abkhazia) a key country providing regional leadership for conflict resolution and economic reform. Training and infrastructure support for customs and border control by Georgian officials should be a high priority for use of these funds.

In order to facilitate United States leadership in the Minsk Group process, the managers have included in the conference agreement language renewing Congressional concern about blockades of Armenia, but have exempted humanitarian aid to refugees and displaced persons throughout the Southern Caucasus from restrictions imposed by the FREEDOM Support Act. This should facilitate American assistance to residents of Nagorno-Karabakh as well as persons displaced from neighboring regions of Azerbaijan.

The bill again contains language which restates section 907 of the FREEDOM Support Act (P.L. 102-511). The managers recognize that restrictions contained in section 907 are applicable to assistance to the Government of Azerbaijan.

The conference agreement does not exempt reconstruction aid from the restrictions imposed by the FREEDOM Support Act. The managers assume that in the event that an interim settlement is reached with regard to Nagorno-Karabakh, any blockades will be lifted and the President will be in a position to make the determination necessary to lift such restrictions.

In addition to provisions included in prior year Appropriations Acts, the conference agreement allows for limited support for United States commercial entities, as proposed by the Senate, by clarifying that the Foreign Commercial Service and the Trade and Development Agency can function in Azerbaijan. Both House and Senate provisions relating to the Export-Import Bank were deleted from the conference agreement.

It is the intent of the conferees that in the case of any assistance funded or otherwise provided pursuant to this Act, the direct beneficiaries of which are required by law to be United States entities (e.g., in which guaranties or insurance are provided to U.S. entities), such assistance shall not be considered assistance to a foreign country or government, and therefore is not covered by restrictions on such assistance.

In order to provide flexibility for the Executive branch, the conference agreement includes a provision allowing the Secretary of State to use up to $43,750,000 from the Southern Caucasus funding category for other areas of the former Soviet Union, if she reports to Congress that the full amount cannot be effectively utilized. The managers anticipate that this provision would be used only if an interim settlement proposed by the Minsk Group is not agreed to by May 30, 1998.

ARMENIA

Because of concern about the impact of the continuing physical isolation of Armenia from several of its neighbors and the uneven performance of her economy, the conferees direct that the Agency for International Development and other United States Government agencies provide no less than $82,500,000 for technical and humanitarian assistance requested by the Government of Armenia and qualified non-governmental organizations in Armenia. This level of assistance is provided with the understanding that Armenia will undertake significant economic reforms which are additional to those which were undertaken in previous years.

As Armenian Prime Minister Kocharian recently stated, "further economic growth largely depends on foreign investment and from that point of view, the role of the Armenian diaspora can scarcely be overestimated." Without a favorable investment climate, no amount of American Government assistance will bring prosperity to Armenia or its neighbors.

GEORGIA

Because of the constructive role undertaken by Georgia in attempting to resolve regional conflicts and its economic and democratic progress, the conferees direct that the Agency for International Development and other United States Government agencies provide no less than $87,500,000 for technical, security, and humanitarian assistance requested by the Government of Georgia and qualified non-governmental organizations in Georgia.

LACK OF PRIORITY FOR HEALTH, POPULATION, AND ENVIRONMENT PROGRAMS

The conferees are distressed that the NIS assistance program has made Health, Population, and Environment projects a low priority. Virtually all of the New Independent States have severe health and environmental problems. Unfortunately, the positive changes in the areas of democratization and privatization in these republics has been accompanied by a steady deterioration in the quality of health care. Health indicators in virtually all republics reflect this trend. Few if any environmental guidelines or laws exist in the NIS republics, and there is little capacity to implement them even where there do exist. A low percentage of women in the NIS have access to family planning services. Dramatic reductions in abortion rates have been achieved in areas where U.S. resources have been made available for such services.

The conferees have agreed to provide a $145,000,000 or 23 percent increase in the funds for the NIS program for fiscal year 1998. The magnitude of the problems mentioned above should not prevent the Coordinator from devoting additional resources to them, particularly in light of the large increase in the NIS account. The conferees expect the priorities reflected in the fiscal year 1998 NIS program, including the Partnership for Freedom, to be revisited and that significant additional resources will be devoted to the Health, Population, and Environmental programs.

RUSSIAN FAR EAST

The Russian Far East is widely recognized as vital to the overall development of the Russian Federation's economy. Its rich natural resource base and proximity to robust Pacific rim economies have attracted the attention of many international companies, but the investment climate remains difficult because of governance issues in the region.

The Russian Far East presents a unique set of investment opportunities which have been overlooked in past United States economic cooperation initiatives in Russia. As the Partnership for Freedom program will designate selected regions in the Russian Federation as especially attractive for American investment, the managers direct the Coordinator to designate at least one such region in the Russian Far East. The conferees also urge the Board of the United States Russia Investment Fund (TUSRIF) to develop a lending mechanism to increase investment in small- to medium-sized business projects in the Russian Far East.

RURAL AND AGRICULTURAL REGIONS OF RUSSIA AND CENTRAL ASIA

The failure of a market economy to develop in rural and agricultural regions of the Russian Federation, Ukraine, and Central Asia is noted with concern by the conferees. The Coordinator is encouraged to take the lagging pace of reform in rural Russia into account as he selects regions of concentration for United States technical cooperation. To this end, consideration should be given to forging links between American institutions and Russian agricultural universities and institutes, as well as strengthening and replicating ongoing collaborative efforts between academic and commercial enterprises. Also, the Administrator of AIDS is requested to provide in writing no later than December 15, 1997, the Agency's strategic objectives (including a financial plan) with region to economic growth in rural areas of the Central Asian republics, including public health and environmental indicators and the role of American-Israel cooperative research and development in the region.

NIS COORDINATOR PERSONNEL PRESENCE IN REGION

The conferees are concerned about the lack of personnel in the New Independent States coordinating United States assistance programs. The Office of the Coordinator of NIS assistance has no full time personnel in Moscow and only one full time position in the Southern Caucasus. As the office charged with developing and coordinating all U.S. assistance programs in the New Independent States, it is imperative that adequate personnel resources be made available in the region. The conferees expect this situation to be addressed promptly.

HEALTH ISSUES RESULTING FROM THE CHORNOBYL NUCLEAR ACCIDENT

The conferees urge AID to supplement the generosity tens of thousands of Americans have directed to the victims of the Chernobyl nuclear tragedy. Active consideration should be given to providing ways to decontaminate fresh milk in Ukraine and Belarus in order to increase its acceptability to children and mothers. The conferees request that the Coordinator work with relevant federal agencies to determine the viability of installing and operating effective and affordable technology to decontaminate milk supplies in the contaminated region. Emphasis should be placed on the development of privately-owned dairies and milk processing plants. This priority supersedes any non-conforming "strategic objectives" of USAID.

CRIME AND CORRUPTION

The conferees agree with the House report language characterizing officially tolerated corruption as the biggest impediment to private investment and economic growth in the former Soviet Union. The report requested by the House from the Secretary of State and the Coordinator should be provided to both Committees no later than 90 days following enactment of this Act.

ENTERPRISE FUNDS

The conference agreement does not reserve any funds for the Trans-Caucasus Enterprise Fund as proposed by the Senate. The House bill did not address this matter.

The conference agreement includes a Senate provision that none of the funds provided under this heading or in prior appropriations Acts may be made available to invest in a joint public-private management entity established by the Defense Enterprise Fund.

During fiscal year 1997, the Defense Enterprise Fund (DEF) received a final installment of $15,000,000 of a $71,000,000 commitment from the United States Government. Release of these resources was conditioned upon an understanding by the DEF senior management that the funds would be directly invested in defense conversion projects and related activities. The managers expect that during fiscal year 1998, none of the government funds provided to the DEF will be used for any other purposes. The conference language is not intended to limit or prevent the managers of the Fund from raising private capital or receiving contributions from multilateral financial institutions to invest in the Fund's projects or activities.

The conferees direct the Coordinator for United States Assistance to the New Independent States, in consultation with the implementing agency, to submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations no later than 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act on the rate of obligation and risk and anticipated returns associated with commitments made to the United States-Russia Investment Fund (TUSRIF). The report shall include a recommendation on the continued relevance and advisability of the initial planned life of project funding commitment for TUSRIF.

CIVIL SOCIETY AND CONTINUED DEVELOPMENT OF A FREE PRESS

The conferees endorse the House report language on civil society and continued development of a free press. In addition, the Coordinator is encouraged to continue support for the long-term development of an independent print media in Russia and Ukraine, utilizing organizations with demonstrated experience in working with print media in countries of the region.

ENDORSEMENT OF OTHER PRIORITIES IN THE PARTNERSHIP FOR FREEDOM

The managers endorse the House report language on the important role of American business centers and centers for business skills development in the Partnership for Freedom initiative. The conferees also support the Senate report language with regard to expansion of support for sustainable programs at Russian agricultural institutions.

MONGOLIA

The conference agreement deletes the Senate earmark of $12,000,000 for Mongolia, but retains authority for funds provided under this heading to be used in Mongolia.

Positive economic and political developments in Mongolia make clear that a robust program of assistance especially in the areas of judicial, tax, banking, commercial and related legal code reforms could have a major impact securing free market democracy. The managers believe the current conditions in Mongolia offer a unique opportunity to carry out significant, permanent reforms in a short period with minimal resources and yet a lasting impact. Therefore, the managers direct that not less than $12,000,000 be made available from development assistance funds and resources made available under the New Independent States heading.

In addition, the managers are concerned about continued reports that AID intends to close its mission in Ulan Bator at the end of fiscal year 1998. The managers oppose closure of the mission at this time and request consultation in advance of any such decision. While Mongolia represents a unique opportunity to provide short term support and quickly graduate a nation from U.S. aid programs, a closure in 1998 would compromise prospects for successfully completing reforms.

The managers strongly encourage the Coordinator and the Administrator to coordinate completion of programs to modernize the Mongolian energy sector. The managers recognize that the Mongolian Government is committed to infrastructure development and environmental protection, the latter adding value to the economy because of the potential for ecotourism. Institutions such as the Academy of Natural Sciences can help Mongolian scientists through cooperative research programs that promote environmentally sensitive economic development in Mongolia.

DISTRIBUTION OF CONTRACTS TO SMALL AND DISADVANTAGED BUSINESS

In fiscal year 1996 because of concern that small and disadvantaged businesses were not receiving a fair share of contracts from AID, particularly in the NIS programs, the Conference report contained language directing AID to take immediate measures to ensure that all contractors be given a fair chance to perform and receive contracts. While the initial actions taken by AID were encouraging, recent actions have brought AID commitment to this directive into doubt. The conferees expect AID to adhere to the earlier directive with respect to allowing small and disadvantaged contractors the opportunity to compete fairly for AID contracts.

INDEPENDENT AGENCY PEACE CORPS

The conference agreement appropriates $222,000,000 as proposed by the House instead of $206,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

INTERNATIONAL NARCOTICS CONTROL

The conference agreement appropriates $215,000,000 for "International Narcotics Control". The House bill proposed $230,000,000 for this account, while the Senate amendment contained an appropriation of $216,200,000.

In addition, the conference agreement includes $15,000,000 in a new account, "Narcotics Interdiction", in order to provide the Bureau of International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs (INL) with the flexibility and funds to procure Black Hawk helicopters for the Colombian National Police. The bureau is directed to use the funds in this account, together with base funds from "International Narcotics Control", to procure three Black Hawk utility helicopters, including maintenance and training, for the National Police solely for counternarcotics purposes, at a cost of $36,000,000. In addition, $14,000,000 should be made available to provide upgrades for UH-1H Huey helicopters for the Colombian National Police solely for counternarcotics purposes.

The managers are extremely concerned about reports that Colombian heroin is flooding the U.S. market. According to the Drug Enforcement Administration, 60 percent of all heroin recently seized on American streets is of Colombian origin. The new appropriations account, together with base funds in "International Narcotics Control", is intended to address the equipment shortfall of the Colombian National Police.

The conferees are also concerned that helicopters for drug interdiction were removed from Guatemala several years ago. The transit of drugs through Guatemala has re-emerged as a serious problem, and the managers would support the proposed redeployment of helicopters from Bolivia to that country.

The conference agreement includes language from the House bill, deleted by the Senate amendment, that allows the Bureau to use section 608 of the Foreign Assistance Act, without regard to its restrictions, to receive non-lethal excess property from an agency of the U.S. government for use in a foreign country, subject to notification.

The conference agreement does not contain Senate language providing not less than $10,000,000 for law enforcement training and education and not less than $22,000,000 for anti-crime programs. However, the conferees expect that not less than the 1997 levels for each such activity ($9,000,000 and $20,000,000, respectively) will be provided in fiscal year 1998.

The conference agreement includes language requiring a report from the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Office of National Drug Control Policy, 60 days after enactment on overseas counter-narcotics activities. The Senate amendment would have prohibited funding for counter-narcotics activities until such report was submitted. The House bill did not address this matter.

The conferees agreement includes language from the Senate amendment providing not to exceed $5,000,000 for the operations of a Western Hemisphere International Law Enforcement Academy; however, the reference to the Organization of American States is deleted. Although the House bill did not address this matter, the conferees endorse the House report language regarding the regional training center.

The conference agreement includes language withholding from obligation 10 percent of the funds appropriated under "International Narcotics Control" and "Narcotics Interdiction" until the Secretary of State submits a financial plan for the use of all funds made available in these accounts.

The conferees support the development of plant pathogens capable of destroying illicit drug crops and expect the Department to fund research on such biocontrol agents, such as the program at Montana State University.

The conferees support the intent of the Senate report language on international crime and the need for the Secretary of State to reestablish a task force on international crime.

The conferees are very concerned that many people in Ecuador are being denied due process in its judicial system. Many of them, including several United States citizens, have been held for months or years without regard to rights accorded them under Ecuadoran and international law. The conferees strongly urge the Department of State to actively encourage Ecuadoran law enforcement and judicial officials they cooperate with under the International Narcotics Control programs to fulfill their responsibilities in a manner consistent with requirements of law and treaty obligations.

MIGRATION AND REFUGEE ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement includes Senate language, not in the House bill, that provides not less than $80,000,000 for refugees from the former Soviet Union and Eastern Europe and other refugees resettling in Israel.

The conferees remain strongly committed to assisting the Government of Israel to resettle refugees in Israel from the former Soviet Union, Eastern Europe, and elsewhere. Since 1989, Israel has absorbed more than 700,000 refugees from countries of distress. The funds provided in the conference agreement assist in the transportation and initial absorption costs for more than 100,000 refugees per year. While there has been a modest decrease in the number of refugees coming to Israel this year, the conferees note that the historically unprecedented numbers still arriving and in need continue to strain the resources of the Government of Israel. Should the current decline in the number of refugees arriving in Israel continue, the conferees expect this program to be funded at $70,000,000 in fiscal year 1999 and $60,000,000 in fiscal year 2000.

The conferees believe the United States should play a leadership role in helping to establish a fund through the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees for vulnerable refugee children, particularly those separated from their parents. The conferees recommend that approximately $5,000,000 in fiscal year 1998 funds be made available for this purpose.

The conferees also support the House report language on assisting Tibetan refugees.

REFUGEE RESETTLEMENT ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement appropriates $5,000,000 for "Refugee Resettlement Assistance" as proposed by the House. The Senate amendment contained no provision on this matter.

NONPROLIFERATION, ANTI-TERRORISM, DEMINING AND RELATED PROGRAMS

The conference agreement appropriates $133,000,000 for "Nonproliferation, Anti-Terrorism, Demining and Related Programs" instead of $129,000,000 as proposed by the Senate and $118,000,000 as proposed by the House.

DEMINING ACTIVITIES

The conference agreement recommends $20,000,000 be utilized to support global demining activities. The conferees strongly support programs to locate and remove landmines and other unexploded ordnance, including mine awareness and education, mapping and marking, and training of deminers. In addition, the conferees urge the Department of State, in consultation with the humanitarian demining training program at the Department of Defense, to explore opportunities for the United States to provide technical advice and assistance to Russia and other new independent states in the clearance of landmines, including the southern Caucasus region.

KOREAN PENINSULA ENERGY DEVELOPMENT ORGANIZATION

The conference agreement provides that not to exceed $30,000,000 may be made available to the Korean Peninsula Energy Development Organization (KEDO) only for administrative expenses and heavy fuel oil costs associated with the Agreed Framework as proposed by the Senate, instead of $25,000,000 as proposed by the House. The conference agreement also stipulates that the President must certify that canning activities associated with the Agreed Framework are scheduled to be completed by April 1, 1998. The conference agreement provides that an additional $10,000,000 may be made available to KEDO if the Secretary of State certifies that additional funds have been provided by foreign donors to KEDO sufficient to cover all outstanding debts owed by KEDO for heavy fuel oil. The managers also agree that none of the funds in this bill that are made available for KEDO in fiscal year 1997 may be used to contribute to the light-water nuclear reactors being provided to North Korea under the terms of the Agreed Framework.

NONPROLIFERATION ACTIVITIES

The conference agreement recommends $15,000,000 for the Nonproliferation and Disarmament Fund. The conferees strongly support the core nonproliferation activities of the NDF. The NDF is designed to provide the Secretary of State with a flexible funding source to respond to urgent, unanticipated nonproliferation activities of immediate concern to the United States. Longer term programmatic activities, such as export controls, should be funded separately outside of the NDF account and therefore subject to the normal conditions for legislative oversight and review. For this reason the conference agreement recommends that $3,000,000 in NADR account funds be used to support export control related activities.

The conferees also note that there may be numerous nonproliferation programs which could logically be included in the NADR account in order to facilitate the continued rationalization of government-wide nonproliferation programs and activities. The conferees stress that the Committees on Appropriations are prepared to work with the Administration in this ongoing rationalization process as the Administration prepares its fiscal year 1999 request.

TITLE III—MILITARY ASSISTANCE

INTERNATIONAL MILITARY EDUCATION AND TRAINING

The conference agreement appropriates $50,000,000 as proposed by the House instead of $47,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

SCHOOL OF THE AMERICAS

The conference agreement retains language proposed by the House which makes the obligation of funds under this heading to support IMET training at the School of the Americas contingent upon certification by the Secretary of Defense that the instruction and training provided by the School of the Americas is fully consistent with training and doctrine, particularly with respect to the observance of human rights, provided by the Department of Defense to United States military students at Department of Defense institutions whose primary purpose is to train United States military personnel; second, the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, has developed and issued specific guidelines governing the selection and screening of candidates for instruction at the School of the Americas; and third, the Department of Defense has submitted to the Committees on Appropriations a report detailing the training activities of the school of the Americas and a general assessment regarding the performance of its graduates during 1996.

GUATEMALA AND INDONESIA

The conference agreement includes language proposed by the House which limits Indonesia and Guatemala to expanded IMET only and, in the case of Guatemala, the con-feres expect the administration to obligate funds subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations. The conferees agree that expanded IMET for Guatemala shall be used to support the peace settlement and that qualified non-military personnel should be well represented in such courses to the extent practical.

CIVILIAN PARTICIPATION IN IMET

The conference agreement also includes language proposed by the Senate which allows IMET participation by civilian personnel who are not members of a government if their participation would contribute to improved civil-military relations, civilian control of the military, or respect for human rights.

MONGOLIA

The conferees commend the Department of Defense for the Department's implementation of the fiscal year 1997 IMET program in Mongolia in a manner consistent with the objectives outlined in the Statement of Managers or Public Law 104-208. The conferees urge continued support for its important program in Mongolia, particularly in the expanded IMET area.

FOREIGN MILITARY FINANCING PROGRAM (GRANT PROGRAM)

The conference agreement appropriates $3,296,550,000 instead of $3,308,950,000 as proposed by the Senate and $3,259,250,000 as proposed by the House.

THE MIDDLE EAST

The conference agreement inserts earmarks for Israel, Egypt and Jordan which provide that not less than $1,800,000,000 shall be available for grants only or Israel, not less than $1,300,000,000 shall be available for grants only for Egypt, and not less than $75,000,000 shall be available for assistance for Jordan. The conference agreement also directs the President to draw down not less than $25,000,000 in defense equipment and services for Jordan, the aggregate value of which shall count against the earmark for Jordan.

POLAND, HUNGARY AND THE CZECH REPUBLIC

The conference agreement provides that not less than $50,000,000 in funds made available for FMF grants and FMF loans should be made available for Poland, Hungary, and the Czech Republic to facilitate the integration of these nations into NATO.

THE BALTIC NATIONS

The conference agreement provides that $18,300,000 should be made available to Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. These funds are provided to enhance programs aimed at improving the military capabilities of these nations and to strengthen their interoperability and standardization with NATO, including the development of a regional airspace control system. Given progress in economic reform and meeting military guidelines for prospective NATO members, the conferees believe the Baltic nations will make an important contribution to enhancing stability and peace in Europe and are strong candidates for NATO membership.

The conference agreement retains House language which provides that the obligation of funds for any non-NATO country participating in the Partnership for Peace shall be subject to notification.

FMF LOAN PROGRAM

The conference agreement also appropriates $60,000,000 as proposed by the House for the subsidy cost of direct loans instead of $74,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement provides that these funds are available to support not to exceed $657,000,000 in direct loans as proposed by the House instead of $759,500,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement deletes a Senate earmark of $8,000,000 for loans to Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania. Increased assistance for these countries is provided under the grant FMF program.

The conference agreement retains the House levels of $105,000,000 and $150,000,000 as ceilings on FMF loans to Greece and Turkey respectively instead of $122,500,000 and $175,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

FMF ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes House language which provides that not more than $350,000,000 of the funds realized pursuant to section 21(e)(1)(A) of the Arms Export Control Act may be obligated for expenses incurred by the Department of Defense during fiscal year 1998, instead of $355,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

FMF LOAN CRITERIA

The conference managers are extremely concerned that the Administration has apparently abandoned its long-standing credit criteria for determining eligibility for the FMF loan program. The conferees note that previous year funds were made available to support the FMF loan program based upon a clear understanding, provided by the Administration at the time the funds were being requested, of its loan criteria and its intended application. The conferees note that the current application of the FMF loan program is not consistent with these presentations. The conferees direct the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, Secretary of the Treasury, the Director of the Office of Management of Budget, and in coordination with the Director of the Congressional Budget Office, to review the current FMF loan policy and its application to current and proposed program participants and to report to the Committees on Appropriations, within 180 days of enactment of this Act, on these issues, to include a statement specifically detailing Administration FMF loan policy and credit risk criteria. The conferees also direct the Secretary of Defense to report to the Committees on Appropriations on a quarterly basis, beginning January 1, 1998, on the current credit risk ratings for potential and current FMF loan program participants.

PEACEKEEPING OPERATIONS

The conference agreement provides $77,500,000 for peacekeeping operations as proposed by the House instead of $75,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

MULTILATERAL FORCE AND OBSERVERS

The conferees note that the current Director General of the Sinai Multilateral Force and Observers is concluding his last term in office. The conferees expect a report from the Secretary of State, prior to the release of the U.S. share of the Observer Force funding, on the status of efforts to replace the Director General.

AFRICAN CRISIS RESPONSE INITIATIVE

The conferees note that funds provided to support the African Crisis Response Initiative should be utilized to foster the growth of democracy and the protection of human rights in Africa and should not be directed to undemocratic governments with a history of human rights abuses by their militaries. The conferees agree with the Department of State that "it is important that countries selected to receive additional training and equipment have military establishments that accept the supremacy of democratic civilian government." The conferees expect the Administration to consult closely with the Committees on Appropriations, prior to obligating such funds, to ensure this minimum standard is met.

MOROCCO

The conferees congratulate both Morocco and the POLISARIO for reaching an agreement to allow a free, fair and transparent referendum on the future of the people of the Western Sahara, and recognize the efforts of United Nations Personal Envoy James Baker in reaching this agreement. The conferees expect full implementation of the terms of the agreement and encourage the Department of State to play an active role in ensuring full implementation. The conferees also urge both parties to engage in the exchange of all prisoners of war, political prisoners and political detainees.

TITLE IV—MULTILATERAL ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE

FUNDS APPROPRIATED TO THE PRESIDENT

INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

CONTRIBUTION TO THE INTERNATIONAL BANK FOR RECONSTRUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT FACILITY

The conference agreement appropriates $47,500,000 instead of $60,000,000 as proposed by the Senate and $35,000,000 as proposed by the House.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION

The conference agreement appropriates $1,034,503,100 instead of $1,034,500,000 as proposed by the Senate and $606,000,000 as proposed by the House.

The agreement prohibits obligation of IDA funds until the Secretary of the Treasury certifies that procurement restrictions on American firms under the Interim Trust Fund have been lifted. Both the House and Senate bills included similar language on this matter.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE ENTERPRISE FOR THE AMERICAS MULTILATERAL INVESTMENT FUND

The conference agreement appropriates $30,000,000 for the Multilateral Investment Fund, all of which was previously due. The House bill contained no funds for this program.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE ASIAN DEVELOPMENT FUND

The conference agreement appropriates $150,000,000 for the Asian Development Fund as proposed by the Senate instead of $100,000,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $50,000,000 was previously due.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE AFRICAN DEVELOPMENT FUND

The conference agreement includes $45,000,000 for the African Development Fund, instead of $50,000,000 as proposed by the House (including Section 579 of the House bill). The Senate amendment did not include any funds for this institution. The entire amount provided was previously due.

NORTH AMERICAN DEVELOPMENT BANK

The House bill and the Senate amendment included $56,500,000 for the North American Development Bank, and the conference agreement includes language providing that $250,000 of these funds are for contributions previously due. In addition, language is included that limits to $41,250,000 the amount of funds that may be expended in fiscal year 1998 for purchase of capital shares in the bank. This action is being done solely for budgetary reasons and does not reflect any lack of support for the North American Development Bank.

LOANS TO THE INTERNATIONAL MONETARY FUND; NEW ARRANGEMENTS TO BORROW

The conference agreement does not appropriate funds for the proposed New Arrangements to Borrow. The Senate proposed $3,521,000,000, denominated as the dollar equivalent of IMF Special Drawing Rights.

The House bill did not include any appropriation for this purpose. The managers defer this item without prejudice.

AUTHORIZATIONS FOR INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

The statutory authority required by the Secretary of the Treasury to activate several of the appropriations provided for international financial institutions is found in section 560 of the conference agreement.

INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS AND PROGRAMS

The conference agreement appropriates $192,000,000 instead of $194,000,000 as proposed by the House and $277,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement does not include funding for the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) in this account, as proposed by the Senate. Funding of $100,000,000 for UNICEF is contained in "Child Survival and Disease Programs Fund" under title II.

The conference agreement includes House language on the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) that limits funding to UNFPA to one-half of the funding ceiling of $25,000,000 prior to March 1, 1998, and requires that no later than February 15, 1998, the Secretary of State shall submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations indicating the amount UNFPA is budgeting for the People's Republic of China in 1998. In addition, the language requires that any amount UNFPA plans to spend in the People's Republic of China in 1998 will be deducted from the amount of funds provided to UNFPA after March 1, 1998. Finally, with respect to any funds made available to UNFPA, the language requires UNFPA to maintain such funds in a separate account and not to commingle them with any other funds.

The conference agreement does not contain Senate language providing $5,000,000 for the World Food Program, but does include language indicating that $4,000,000 should be made available for this purpose. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

The conference agreement deletes House language prohibiting the use of funds for the United Nations development group or any similar organization. The House bill provision, as well as House and Senate report language, reflect concern about proposals formerly under consideration at the United Nations that would have merged and consolidated UNICEF with other United Nations development organizations, thereby threatening UNICEF's unique mission for the children of the world and its ability to raise private sector funding. Since the reform plan announced by the Secretary-General on July 16, 1997, appears to preserve the special mandate of UNICEF for children, the conference agreement does not contain this funding prohibition. However, the managers intend to monitor closely the impact upon UNICEF of the implementation of the United Nations reform plan. The managers expect that the independence of UNICEF will be continued and that its ability to work for the survival, protection, and development of vulnerable children will remain uncompromised. The managers expect this to be a top priority of the Department of State as well, and expect to receive regular consultations as the reform plan proceeds.

The conferees support the Administration's request level for the United Nations Development Program (UNDP), but expect that not less than $98,000,000 should be made available for UNDP in fiscal year 1998. The conferees also support the work of the United Nations Voluntary Fund for Victims of Torture and expect that the Administration will make every effort to support this organization at the highest level possible.

TITLE V—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 501. Obligations during last month of availability

The conference agreement contains House language providing that not more than 15 percent of any appropriation item made available by this Act shall be obligated during the last month of availability, except for funds under the headings "International Disaster Assistance" and "United States Emergency Refugee and Migration Assistance Fund". The Senate amendment contained no provision on this matter.

Sec. 502. Prohibition of bilateral funding for international financial institutions

The conference agreement includes language proposed by the House which prohibits funds in title II being used to carry out the provisions of section 209(d) of the Foreign Assistance Act, notwithstanding section 614 of said Act. The Senate amendment contained no provision on this matter.

Sec. 509. Transfers between accounts

The conference agreement includes House language providing that the exercise of the authority under this section shall be subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations, except for transfers specifically referred to in this Act. The Senate amendment did not include the requirement for notification.

Sec. 512. Limitation on assistance to countries in default

The conference agreement includes a waiver for Liberia from the requirements of section 620(q) of the Foreign Assistance Act as proposed by the House. The Senate addressed this matter in section 561 of the Senate amendment.

Sec. 513. Commerce and trade

The conference agreement restores House language at the end of subsection (a) that provides authority to the Board of the Export-Import Bank to waive the prohibition on the use of funds to establish or expand production of commodities that could adversely affect United States producers. The Senate amendment did not contain this provision.

Sec. 515. Notification requirements

The conference agreement makes "Child Survival and Disease Programs Fund", as proposed by the House, subject to the notification requirements of this section. The Senate amendment had deleted the reference to this account.

Sec. 519. Reporting requirement

The conference agreement amends permanent law as proposed by the Senate to provide that the reports required by section 25(a)(1) of the Arms Export Control Act shall be submitted to the Committees on Appropriations. The House bill required such reports, but did not amend permanent law.

Sec. 520. Special notification requirements

The conference agreement adds "Panama" as proposed by the House to the list of countries subject to the special notification requirements of this section. It also deletes "Russia" from this list, as proposed by the Senate. The Senate provisions adding "Guatemala" and "Dominican Republic" are not included in the conference agreement.

Sec. 522. Child survival, AIDS and other activities

The conference agreement includes Senate language limiting to $10,000,000 the funds that may be made available to reimburse specified organizations for certain activities in support of family planning activities, child survival activities, and activities relating to research on, and the treatment and control of, HIV/AIDS, as well as Senate language including basic education activities under the authority of the section. The House bill had similar language, but the limitation was $8,000,000 and did not include basic education activities.

Sec. 526. Authorization requirement

The conference agreement includes Senate language waiving the authorization requirements of section 10 of Public Law 91-672 and section 15 of the State Department Basic Authorities act for the funds appropriated in this Act. The House bill made these funds subject to these authorization requirements.

Sec. 536. Extension of authority to obligate funds to close the special defense acquisition fund

The conference agreement includes language proposed by the House which amends title III of Public Law 103-306 to extend through fiscal year 2000 the authority to obligate funds to close the Special Defense Acquisition Fund. The Senate amendment contained no provision on this matter.

Sec. 537. Authorities for the Peace Corps, the Inter-American Foundation and the African Development Foundation

The conference agreement restores House language providing authority for the Inter-American Foundation and the African Development Foundation to operate in foreign countries notwithstanding other provisions of this or other Acts. The Senate amendment deleted the language providing such authority.

Sec. 539. Special authorities

The conference agreement deletes "Cambodia" from the provisions that exempt assistance to that country from any other provision of law as proposed by the Senate, but restores House language exempting humanitarian assistance for the peoples of Bosnia and Herzegovina and Croatia from any other provision of law.

The conference agreement also deletes Senate language allowing for the use of up to $40,000,000 under the authority (relating to unanticipated contingencies) of section 451 of the Foreign Assistance Act. The House bill does not address the matter. The permanent statutory limit is $25,000,000.

The conference agreement includes language in a new subsection (d) which enables the President to waive section 1003 of Public Law 100-204, relating to prohibitions regarding the Palestinian Liberation Organization, if the President determines that it is important to the national security interests of the United States.

Sec. 540. Policy on terminating the Arab League boycott of Israel

The conference agreement includes language proposed by the House which deals with the decision in 1997 by the Arab League to reinstate the boycott of Israel and encourages the President to take certain specific steps in response to this decision.

Sec. 542. Eligibility for assistance

The conference agreement includes House language regarding exemptions from restrictions on certain assistance if carried out by nongovernmental organizations. The Senate amendment included similar language, but did not include "Assistance for Eastern Europe and Baltic States" under the terms of the provision. This section allows development assistance to be provided for nongovernmental organizations in cases where such assistance would otherwise be barred because of a statutory prohibition on assistance to a country. Under this authority, assistance provided through nongovernmental organizations may only marginally benefit the government of a country otherwise prohibited from receiving assistance through, for example, the necessary use of government facilities by nongovernmental organizations providing assistance to the people of that country. Except in such limited circumstances, the fact that assistance may be provided through nongovernmental organizations does not mean that the assistance can be provided to the government. Rather, the provision was first enacted in recognition that a government's actions should not automatically bar assistance to the people of a country through nongovernmental channels. It is with this intention that the conferees have expanded the scope of the current authority to include the former Soviet Union and Eastern Europe.

Sec. 545. Prohibition on publicity or propaganda

The conference agreement includes House language limiting to $500,000 the amount that may be made available to carry out the provisions of section 316 of Public Law 96-533 relating to hunger and development education. The Senate bill did not include a limitation.

Sec. 546. Purchase of American-made equipment and products

The conference agreement combines this section with section 558, as proposed by the Senate. The language require, to the greatest extent practicable, that any entity receiving assistance under this Act should receive notice that it is the Sense of the Congress that all equipment and products funded by this Act should be American-made.

Sec. 550. Prohibitions on assistance to foreign governments that export lethal military equipment to countries supporting international terrorism

The conference agreement provides that the prohibition on assistance called for in subsection (a) applies with respect to a contract entered into after October 1, 1997 instead of "April 24, 1996" as proposed by the House and "after the date of enactment of this Act" as proposed by the Senate.

Sec. 553. War crimes tribunals drawdown

The conference agreement changes the designation of the section title to include the word "drawdown" as proposed by the Senate.

Sec. 557. Equitable allocation of funds

The conference agreement inserts House language providing that not more than 18 percent of the funds appropriated to carry out the provisions of sections 103 through 106 and chapter 4 of part II of the Foreign Assistance Act that are made available for Latin America and the Caribbean region may be made available, through bilateral and regional programs, to provide assistance to any one country in such region. The Senate bill did not include this provision.

The conference agreement includes language from title IV of the Senate amendment authorizing appropriations over several years of $1,600,000,000 for the International Development Association (IDA), $285,772,500 for paid-in capital of the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development, $400,000,000 for the Asian Development Bank, and $76,832,001 for paid-in capital of the Inter-American Development Bank. The House bill authorized $606,000,000 for the IDA.

The conference agreement also amends current law to require the International Finance Corporation to comply with environmental standards that apply to other multilateral institutions. It also includes a provision (from Senate section 568) relating to procurement opportunities available to United States suppliers and community participation in the planning and implementation of multilateral bank projects.

The multilateral lending banks are encouraged to undertake an assessment of the transparency and integrity of procurements they finance, including a finding on the utility of using independent third party procurement monitoring services. Such services may help U.S. companies compete for MDB procurement awards.

Sec. 561. Sanctions against countries harboring war criminals

The conference agreement inserts House language on this matter, except that there is no reference to the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia. Under subsection (a), the language authorizes the President to withhold funds for countries harboring war criminals as described in this section. Under subsection (b), the language states the President should instruct the United States executive directors of the international financial institutions to work in opposition to, and vote against, assistance to countries described in this section. The Senate amendment would have required that assistance be withheld, and would have limited the application of the provision to war criminals indicted by the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda.

Sec. 562. Limitation on assistance to Haiti

The conference agreement inserts a substitute provision limiting assistance to the Government of Haiti (updating what is known as the Dole Amendment). The conference substitute is similar to the Senate provision, but requires that the privatization of at least three major state enterprises be substantially completed as proposed by the House.

Sec. 563. Requirement for disclosure of foreign aid in report of Secretary of State

The conference agreement continues and updates prior year language requiring that the annual report on the voting record of foreign countries at the United Nations include a side-by-side comparison showing the amount of U.S. assistance provided to each country in fiscal year 1997. The Senate bill was identical except that it referenced the fiscal year 1996.

Sec. 564. Restrictions on voluntary contributions to United Nations agencies

The conference agreement includes House language prohibiting payment of any voluntary contribution to the United Nations (including the United Nations Development Program) if the U.N. implements any taxation on any United States national or corporation. The Senate amendment did not address this matter.

Sec. 565. Assistance to Turkey

The conference agreement inserts language which limits "Economic Support Funds" to Turkey to $40,000,000; provides that not less than 50 percent of such funds shall be made available for the purposes of supporting private nongovernmental organizations engaged in strengthening democratic institutions in Turkey, providing economic assistance for individuals and communities affected by civil unrest, and supporting and promoting peaceful solutions and economic development which will contribute to the settlement of regional problems in Turkey. The conferees agree that the cash transfer and direct project assistance components of Turkey's assistance are not severable and if, for whatever reason, the directed assistance were not provided and spent in the manner provided in subsection (b), the Government of Turkey would not receive the direct government-to-government assistance. Furthermore, the conferees also agree that the Agency for International Development will be responsible for administering the project elements of subsection (b) utilizing NGO's, PVO's and other instrumentalities consistent with the purposes outlined in subsection

(b) and in consultation with the Committees on Appropriations.

The conferees also expect that the implementation of subsection (b) will be carried out in consultation with the Government of Turkey, which should include the participation of nongovernmental organizations where necessary and appropriate. The conferees note that it is neither the intent of the conference, nor is it the effect of this provision, to impinge upon Turkey's national sovereignty.

The Senate amendment did not contain a provision on this matter.

Sec. 566. Limitation on assistance to the Palestinian Authority

The conference agreement includes language which provides that none of the funds appropriated by this Act to carry out the provisions of chapter 4 of part II (Economic Support Fund) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 may be obligated or expended with respect to providing funds to the Palestinian Authority. The conference agreement allows the President to waive this prohibition if it is determined that it is "important to the national security interests of the United States." The waiver is effective for a period of not more than six months at a time and shall not apply beyond twelve months after enactment of this Act.

Both the House bill and the Senate amendment included similar provisions banning funds for the Palestinian Authority and the P.L.O. but each would have allowed for the provision of funds based upon a detailed but different Presidential certification. Both House and Senate bills include identical language (Sections 552) which bans assistance to the P.L.O.

Sec. 567. Limitation on assistance to the Government of Croatia

The conference agreement includes language proposed by the House that bars use of funds made available to the Government of Croatia in title II to relocate the remains of Croatian Ustashe soldiers to the site of the World War II concentration camp at Jasenovac, Croatia. The Senate bill did not address this matter.

Sec. 568. Burma labor report

The conference agreement includes language requiring a report from the Secretary of Labor, in consultation with the Secretary of State, on labor practices in Burma. The Senate amendment included the requirement for a report from the Secretary of Labor, as well as details regarding contents of the report. The House bill did not address this matter.

The conferees request the report address allegations and details on child labor practices, workers' rights, the forced relocation of laborers, and the use of forced labor to support the tourism industry and the construction of the Yadonna gas pipeline. To assure an understanding of its accuracy, the conferees also expect an evaluation of the cooperation and access afforded in Burma to the officials engaged in the preparation of the report.

Sec. 569. Haiti

The conference agreement includes Senate language making the Government of Haiti eligible to purchase defense articles and services under the Arms Export Control Act for the Haitian National Police and Coast Guard, subject to notification. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

Sec. 570. Limitation on assistance to security forces

The conference agreement includes language, similar to that in the Senate amendment, which prohibits funds in this Act from being provided to any unit of the security forces of a foreign country if the Secretary of State has credible evidence that such unit has committed gross violations of human rights, unless the Secretary determines and reports to the Committees on Appropriations that the government of such country is taking effective measures to bring responsible members of the security forces to justice. The language also provides that nothing in this section shall be construed to withhold funds from any unit credibly alleged to be involved in gross violations of human rights. In addition, if funds are withheld pursuant to this section, the Secretary is directed to inform promptly the foreign government of the basis for such action and shall, to the maximum extent practicable, assist the foreign government in taking effective measures to bring the responsible members of the security forces to justice so funds to the unit may resume.

The conferees are aware that there may be instances when providing information to a foreign government would compromise sources and methods, or endanger witnesses. The phrase "to the maximum extent practicable" ensures, among other things, that sources, methods and the safety of witnesses are fully protected. By "taking effective measures to bring responsible members of the security forces unit to justice", the conferees intend that the government carry out a credible investigation and that the individuals involved face appropriate disciplinary action or impartial prosecution in accordance with local law.

The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

Sec. 571. Limitations on transfer of military equipment to East Timor

The conference agreement includes language which requires that any agreement for sale, transfer, or licensing of any lethal equipment or helicopters for Indonesia entered into by the United States shall state that the United States expects that such items will not be used in East Timor. The conference agreement also provides that nothing in this section shall be construed to limit Indonesia's inherent right to legitimate national self-defense as recognized under the United Nations Charter and international law.

The conferees recognize Indonesia's important contribution to regional security and its inherent right of self-defense under the United Nations Charter. The conferees note, however, that U.S. military equipment has been used by Indonesian troops in East Timor. The conferees are concerned that U.S. military equipment not be used in a manner inconsistent with international law, particularly with respect to the observance of human rights and therefore have included bill language which makes clear that such items should not be used in East Timor.

The House bill did not contain a provision on this matter.

Sec. 572. Transparency of budgets

The conference agreement includes Senate language amending section 576(a)(1) and (a)(2) of Public Law 104-208 to require that countries have in place a functioning system for reporting to civilian authorities audits of receipts and expenditures that fund activities of the armed forces and security forces in order to receive U.S. support for multilateral assistance through international financial institutions, and to condition U.S. support for such assistance on the requirement that information be provided to the international financial institution on such audit process if requested by such institution. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

Sec. 573. Restrictions on funding to countries providing sanctuary to indicted war criminals

The conference agreement includes language prohibiting bilateral assistance and the support of the United States for certain multilateral assistance, for countries and entities not in compliance with the war crimes provisions of the Dayton peace accords for the former Yugoslavia. The Senate bill contained language which prohibited most support for such countries and entities until measurable progress was made with respect to the arrest and transfer to The Hague of indicted war criminals. The House addressed the issue of war crimes in the former Yugoslavia in section 565 of the House bill, which would have authorized the President to withhold assistance to countries that granted sanctuary to war criminals.

The conferees expect that the provision of United States assistance to Croatia and Bosnia through international financial institutions will be coordinated with U.S. foreign policy objectives. With respect to the exemption in the section for bilaterally and multilaterally funded cross-border infrastructure projects, the conferees intend that the exemption should apply only to projects which are predominantly located in and predominantly benefit a nonsanctioned entity and include a small portion that extends into a contiguous sanctioned entity for the purpose of completing the project. The conferees note that Republika Srpska has failed to arrest and transfer any of the 53 publicly indicted war criminals believed to be in its territory.

The conference agreement includes Senate language that extends for an additional year (until October 1, 1998) the provisions of section 599D and 599E of Public Law 101-167; these provisions establish categories of aliens for purposes of refugee determinations, and provide for the adjustment of immigrant status for certain Soviet and Indo-Chinese aliens. The House bill did not contain a provision on this matter.

The managers expect that this matter will be addressed in the future by the committees of jurisdiction, and do not anticipate making another extension in an appropriations act.

The conference agreement includes language proposed by the Senate which in subsection (a) amends section 514(b)(2)(A) of the Foreign Assistance Act by authorizing additions to defense stockpiles for foreign countries of $60,000,000 for fiscal year 1998. Subsection (b) amends section 514(b)(2)(B) of the same act to authorize, for fiscal year 1998, not more than $40,000,000 for stockpiles in the Republic of Korea and not more than $20,000,000 for stockpiles in Thailand. The House bill did not contain a provision on this matter.

Sec. 576. Delivery of drawdown by commercial transportation services

The conference agreement includes Senate language which amends section 506 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as follows: (1) requires a report to Congress detailing all defense articles, defense services, and military education and training delivered to a recipient country or international organization upon delivery of such articles or upon completion of such services, including whether any savings were realized by utilizing commercial transport services; and (2) authorizes, as part of any drawdown of defense or other articles or commodities, that such drawdown may include the supply of commercial transportation and related services that are acquired by contract for the purposes of the drawdown in question if the cost to acquire such commercial transportation and related services is less than the cost to the United States Government of providing such services from agency assets. The House bill did not contain a provision on this matter.

Sec. 577. To prohibit foreign assistance to the Government of Russia should it implement laws which would discriminate against minority religious faiths in the Russian Federation

The conference agreement inserts a new provision instead of language proposed by the Senate. The House did not address this matter.

The conference substitute is effective 150 days after enactment. Upon its effective date, the President is allowed 30 days to certify the Congress that the Government of the Russian Federation has not implemented any measure that discriminates against religion in violation of international agreements that include Russia. In the absence of such certification, funds appropriated under the Act may not be obligated for the Government of the Russian Federation.

The managers note continued Congressional concern over the issue of religious freedom in the Russian Federation. Despite the personal intervention of the Vice President and many members of Congress, President Yeltsin signed into a law a measure which could threaten religious freedom in Russia.

The conferees consider implementation of the new law on religion by national, regional, and local entities in Russia to be the determining factor regarding religious freedom. The operative phase in this section should be interpreted by the Administration as giving it discretion to determine if the Russian government's actions are discriminatory.

The conferees acknowledge the advances that the Russian Federation has made in the areas of human rights and democratic political reforms. Congress has saluted its past willingness to allow freedom of speech, assembly, and religion. The managers remain optimistic that religious diversity and freedom of religious expression can survive in the Russian Federation.

Sec. 578. U.S. policy regarding support for countries of the South Caucasus and Central Asia

The conference agreement includes Senate language supporting the development of strong political and economic ties between countries of the Southern Caucasus and Central Asia regions and the West; the language also addresses United States policy with regard to the independence of Southern Caucasus and Central Asia republics and resolutions of regional conflicts.

Sec. 579 Pakistan

The conference agreement includes language proposed by the Senate to amend section 239(f) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 to exempt the Overseas Private Investment Corporation from provisions in the Foreign Assistance Act prohibiting OPIC activity in Pakistan and expressing the sense of the Congress that the Director of the Trade and Development Agency should "use funds made available" to promote United States exports to Pakistan. The conference agreement deletes language proposed by the Senate to amend section 638(b) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 to exempt Pakistan from prohibitions on certain training activities. The House bill did not address this matter.

Sec. 580. Requirements for the reporting to Congress of the costs to the Federal Government associated with the proposed agreement to reduce greenhouse gas emissions

The conference agreement includes Senate language, except for a date change, requiring the President to report on federal expenditures for climate and global change programs and activities. The report is required by November 15, 1997, rather than October 15, 1997, as in the Senate amendment. The House did not address the matter. The managers are concerned about the Administration's failure to comply with a similar information request in the fiscal year 1997 Foreign Operations Export Financing and Related Programs Appropriations Act.

Sec. 581. Authority to issue insurance and extend financing

The conference agreement includes Senate language extending the operations of the Overseas Private Investment Corporation for two additional years within an overall credit ceiling of $29,000,000,000. It does not include a Senate provision extending the operations of the Export-Import Bank.

Sec. 582. Withholding assistance to countries violating United Nations sanctions against Libya

The conference agreement language is similar to that in the Senate amendment requiring the President to withhold 5 percent of the funds (other than humanitarian and development assistance) allocated to any country that is violating sanctions against Libya. The language also includes a provision to allow the President to waive this section if he determines that to do so is in the national security of the United States.

If the President exercises his waiver authority under this section, the determination is to be provided in writing to the Committees on Appropriations.

Sec. 583. War crimes prosecution

The conference agreement includes language similar to that in the Senate amendment that amends the War Crimes Act of 1996. The language is identical to the language of H.R. 1348, which passed the House of Representatives on July 29, 1997. This provision defines war crimes for the purposes of the War Crimes Act. The House bill did not address this matter.

Sec. 584. International military education and training programs for Latin America

The conference agreement includes language similar to that proposed by the Senate which provides that the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, should make every effort to ensure that approximately 30 percent of IMET funds for Latin America will be used to support enrollment in expanded IMET courses. In addition the conference agreement provides that the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, should identify sufficient numbers of qualified, nonmilitary personnel from countries in Latin America so that approximately 25 percent of the total of individuals from Latin American countries attending United States supported IMET programs and the Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies at the National Defense University are civilians. Not later than twelve months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, shall report in writing to the appropriate committees of the Congress on the progress made to improve military training of Latin American participants in the areas of human rights and civilian control of the military. The Secretary shall include in the report plans for implementing additional expanded IMET programs for Latin America during the next three fiscal years.

The House bill did not contain a provision on this matter.

Sec. 585. Aid to the Government of the Democratic Republic of Congo

The conference agreement modifies Senate language regarding assistance to the Democratic Republic of Congo. It would prohibit assistance to the central government of the Democratic Republic of Congo until the President reports that said government is cooperating fully with investigators from the United Nations in accounting for human rights violations committed in the Democratic Republic of Congo or adjacent countries. The House bill did not contain a provision on this matter.

Sec. 586. Assistance for the Middle East

The conference agreement inserts language which provides that of the funds appropriated by this Act under the headings "Economic Support Fund", "Foreign Military Financing", "International Military Education and Training", "Peacekeeping Operations", for refugees resettling in Israel under the heading "Migration and Refugee Assistance", and for assistance for Israel to carry out provisions of chapter 8 of part II of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 under the heading "Nonproliferation, Anti-Terrorism, Demining, and Related Programs", not more than a total of $5,402,850,000 may be made available for Israel, Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon, the West Bank and Gaza, the Israel-Lebanon Monitoring Group, the Multinational Force and Observers, the Middle East Regional Democracy Fund, Middle East Regional Cooperation, and Middle East Multilateral Working Groups, unless the President determines and certifies to the Committees on Appropriations that it is important to the national security interest of the United States to exceed $5,402,850,000 and any such additional funds shall only be provided through the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations. The conference agreement also includes language which would prevent the use of prior year funds in the accounts listed in this section but allocated for recipients outside of the Middle East region to fund programs covered by the limitation on funds for Middle East countries and activities required by this section. The conferees included this provision in order to make certain that prior year funds for other regions such as Africa and Latin America would not be used to support Middle East related activities.

Sec. 587. Agriculture

The conference agreement modifies subsection (k) under the heading "Assistance for the New Independent States of the Former Soviet Union" in the Foreign Operations, Export Financing and Related Programs Act, 1997, by striking "not less than" and inserting "up to" with regard to $35,000,000 made available for agricultural projects, including those undertaken through the Food Systems Restructuring Program.

Sec. 588. Enterprise fund restrictions

The conference agreement includes a modification to Senate language limiting payments to enterprise fund personnel. The conferees agree to limit certain forms of future compensation unless notified in advance by the Committee on Appropriations.

Sec. 589 Cambodia

The conference agreement includes language stating the Secretary of the Treasury should instruct the United States Executive Directors of international financial institutions to use the voice and vote of the United States to oppose loans to the Government of Cambodia. The language is similar to that included in the House bill and the Senate amendment.

Sec. 591. Development credit authority

The conference agreement provides $7,500,000 for a new enhanced credit authority and $500,000 to be derived from AID operating expenses. The managers intend for the credit facility to fund a program in the Russian Far East providing market rate loans and guarantees to finance non-sovereign and sovereign development projects. These projects shall concentrate on development of the energy sector, telecommunications and infrastructure requirements, especially improvements to ports. The managers believe U.S. expertise, technology and services have the potential to make a significant contribution to the development of the region's vast natural resources while generating income, jobs and economic growth. The managers believe this credit facility should complement resources and activities provided by U.S. trade promotion agencies to the private sector.

No later than 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the managers request a report from the Coordinator of Assistance for the New Independent State clarifying a development strategy for the Russian Far East including an evaluation of the current and potential contribution of each agency funded by this Act.

Sec. 592. Authorization for population planning

The conference agreement includes House language limiting to $385,000,000 the funds available under title II of this Act for population planning activities or other population assistance. The Senate included a separate appropriations account for these activities at a level of $435,000,000. The conference agreement also includes language providing for monthly apportionments for this funding at a level of not to exceed 8.34 percent.

CASH FLOW FINANCING

The conference agreement strikes language proposed by the House requiring that FMF procurements in excess of $100,000,000 which are approved for cash flow financing shall be subject to notification. A similar notification requirement is included in permanent law (Public Law 104-164). The Senate bill contained no provision on this matter.

RESTRICTIONS ON THE TERMINATION OF SANCTIONS AGAINST SERBIA AND MONTENEGRO

The conference agreement does not include language from the Senate amendment prohibiting the lifting of sanctions, prohibitions, or requirements of section 1511 of Public Law 103-160 regarding Serbia or Montenegro unless certain specified conditions are met. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

USE OF AMERICAN RESOURCES

The conference agreement deletes House language regarding the use of American resources. However, this provision has been merged in its entirety with section 546 of the conference agreement.

GUATEMALA

The conference agreement strikes both the House and Senate language and includes under the heading "International Military Education and Training" language limiting Guatemala to expanded IMET only.

NORTH KOREA

The conference agreement deletes language proposed by the House which requires the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, to submit semi-annual reports to the Committees on Appropriations on the status of the North Korean military. This report is already required in permanent law. The Senate bill did not contain a similar provision.

SENSE OF THE CONGRESS RELATING TO INTERNATIONAL ADOPTION LAWS AND PRACTICES OF PARAGUAY

The conference agreement deletes a Sense of the Congress resolution dealing with the plight of Americans seeking to adopt children in Paraguay. The managers have been informed by the Department of State that the Secretary has become personally involved in this matter, and that a new adoption law is expected to be passed in Paraguay at any time. The Senate amendment did not contain a provision on this matter.

WITHHOLDING OF ASSISTANCE TO AGENCY SUPPORTING NUCLEAR POWER PLANT IN CUBA

The conference agreement strikes language proposed by the House which would prohibit funds under the heading "Nonproliferation, Antiterrorism, Demining, and Related Programs" that are made available for the International Atomic Energy Agency from being made available for programs and projects in Cuba. The Senate bill had no similar provision. The conferees remain convinced that the Juragua nuclear facility in Cuba is extremely unsafe and should not be completed. The conferees therefore direct the Secretary of State, prior to the obligation of funds for the IAEA, to certify to the Committees on Appropriations that none of the funds provided will be used to facilitate the activation of the Juragua nuclear plant in Cuba.

LIMITATION ON PROCUREMENT OUTSIDE OF THE UNITED STATES

The conference agreement deletes House language restricting the use of United States funds in foreign countries to buy products or services, including defense articles or defense services, from certain other foreign nations. The Senate bill did not include a similar provision.

AUTHORIZATION FOR NATO EXPANSION

The conference agreement strikes a provision proposed by the House which provides that no funds in this Act may be used to pay for NATO expansion not authorized by law. The conferees note that the authorization of funds to support the future enlargement of NATO's is within the purview of responsibilities of the relevant authorization committees of the House and Senate. The Senate did not include a similar provision.

TRANSFER AMENDMENT

The conference agreement deletes House language that reduced amounts otherwise available for the Economic Support Fund by $25,000,000 and increased the amount available for the African Development Fund by the same amount.

SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING COSTS OF THE PARTNERSHIP FOR PEACE PROGRAM AND NATO EXPANSION

The conference agreement strikes the House language on this matter, however, the conferees strongly support the intent of the language which states that all member nations of NATO should contribute their proportionate share to pay for costs of the Partnership for Peace program and any future costs attributable to NATO expansion. The conferees direct the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, to report to the appropriate committees of the Congress within 90 days of enactment of this Act on the efforts being undertaken by the United States to ensure that the United States does not bear an unfair or disproportionate share of the financial burden of NATO enlargement. The Senate amendment did not address this matter.

INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTION POLICIES

The Senate provision relating to procurement opportunities available to United States suppliers and community participation in the planning and implementation of multilateral bank projects is incorporated in section 560 of the conference agreement.

EXCESS DEFENSE ARTICLES FOR CERTAIN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES

The conference agreement deletes Senate language amending section 105 of Public Law 104-164 to extend the authorities of such section to fiscal years 1998 and 1999. The House bill did not contain a provision on this matter.

SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING ESTONIA, LATVIA, AND LITHUANIA

The conference agreement does not include Sense of the Senate language regarding Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, proposed by the Senate but not addressed in the House bill. The conferees strongly support increased security relations between NATO and the Baltic nations and the conference agreement includes a fifty percent increase over the level requested by the administration in grant Foreign Military Financing assistance for Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia.

PROMOTION OF RELIGIOUS FREEDOM AND HUMAN RIGHTS

The conference agreement does not include language proposed by the Senate, but not addressed in the House bill, regarding an annual report on religious persecution and establishing a Prisoner Information Registry. In addition, the Senate language contained a provision expressing the Sense of the Congress that a Commission on Security and Cooperation in Asia should be established.

The managers agree to defer to Leadership initiatives to move freestanding legislation on the major issue of religious freedom.

UNITED STATES INTELLIGENCE ACTIVITIES RELATED TO MONITORING HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES AND RELIGIOUS PERSECUTION

The conference agreement deletes Senate language requiring the President to undertake additional reporting to the Intelligence Committees. The managers defer to the committees of jurisdiction in this matter.

SENSE OF THE SENATE ON THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION'S HANDLING OF THE BOEING AND McDONNELL DOUGLAS MERGER

The conference agreement deletes Senate language expressing the Sense of the Senate regarding European objections to a merger of two major American firms. The House bill did not contain a provision on this matter.

USE OF FUNDS FOR THE UNITED STATES-ASIA ENVIRONMENTAL PARTNERSHIP

The conference agreement deletes Senate language authorizing, notwithstanding any other provision of law, funds to be made available for activities in the People's Republic of China through the United States-Asia Environmental Partnership program. The House bill did not address this matter.

LIBERATION TIGERS OF TAMIL EELAM

The conference agreement deletes Senate language expressing the Sense of the Senate that the State Department should list the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam as a terrorist organization. The House bill did not address this matter.

LIMITATION ON INTERNATIONAL MILITARY EDUCATION AND TRAINING ASSISTANCE FOR PERU

The conference agreement deletes language proposed by the Senate prohibiting IMET funds for Peru unless the President certifies that the Government of Peru is taking all necessary steps to ensure that United States citizens held in prisons in Peru are accorded timely, open and fair legal proceedings in civilian courts. The House bill did not contain a similar provision.

The conferees direct the Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Administrator of the Agency for International Development to use the diplomatic and financial resources and influence available to them to encourage the Government of Peru to take all necessary steps to ensure that United States citizens held in prisons in Peru are treated humanely and accorded timely, open and fair legal proceedings in civilian courts. The conferees request that, no later than March 1, 1998, the Secretary of State submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations describing the Administration's efforts to achieve these ends and the response of the Government of Peru.

CONFERENCE TOTAL—WITH COMPARISONS

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2½ minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. PALLONE].

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I have been very surprised to hear my colleague from Florida, Mr. GOSS, and my colleague from Illinois, Mr. HYDE, both of whom I have a great deal of respect for, decry this rule that has been in effect for so many years as too traditional. I think my colleague from Florida said times have changed, and the gentleman from Illinois talked about traditions having to change.

Mr. Speaker, I think that this is a tradition that should not change because it is based on protections that were put into place, in effect, in reaction to the McCarthy era of the House Un-American Activities Committee, specifically the Hollywood 10 hearing.

Mr. Speaker, we know, those of us who have seen clips or videos from that day, know that witnesses were filmed, blacklisted, their lives were destroyed. Why would we want to go back to that? Why do we not learn the lessons of the past and not repeat the mistakes that were made in the past?

Now I heard the gentleman from Florida [Mr. GOSS] say that we should not have to worry about possible abuse because if there was abuse, people would understand, they would react and say, well, that witness is being abused and is that not terrible that that is happening? Well, my colleagues know how TV is. People turn TV on and off. They might watch the individual being scrutinized or being harassed and not watch the reaction.

So the suggestion that somehow someone is going to be watching this process for half an hour or an hour and 2 hours and see both sides, that is not the way things often happen. People sometimes flick on the TV for a minute or two, and that person is defamed.

Then I heard the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. HYDE] say, well, this is a classic conflict of rights, the right of the public to know. Well, I think that there was an understanding when this rule was put into place that there was a conflict of rights and that this was the compromise. As was said previously, there is no reason. The cameras can come into the room, the cameraperson can come into the room, the broadcast media can be there, the print media can be there, they just cannot film the person while they are testifying. That was the compromise.

Mr. Speaker, I just am concerned that the type of protections that were talked about by my Republican colleagues are not going to exist. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. HYDE] said, well, someone will defend the witness; the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. Kanjorski] or the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MOAKLEY] or others will get up there and defend the witness.

We have no guarantee of that. We have no guarantee that the public is going to really understand or that they are going to watch the whole proceedings or that someone is going to step forward and defend the witness. That person is out there, they are out there on their own, and they should have the right to be able to turn off the camera, because it does happen on occasion that people are abused, and we do not want to go back to the mistakes of the past.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. KLINK].

Mr. KLINK. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Massachusetts for yielding this time to me.

I am in a very unusual position on this debate, Mr. Speaker, because for 24 years of my life I worked as a radio and television newscaster, and I had to stand up to authorities that did not want cameras to come in and show the light. But I want to tell you, in 5 years in the House of Representatives, I have seen an abuse by stories that are leaked out to the news media.

Mr. Speaker, last week I think was a prime example in the Committee on Commerce, the Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, when we had, leading up to a hearing on a company called Molten Metals that was associated with two former staffers of the Vice President, news leaks to all the newspapers telling us how, really, they thought these people were guilty. Then we saw a memo from the majority saying in fact they had no evidence, there was no smoking gun, but that this hearing or these hearings provided a wonderful opportunity to get news media, to bring the news media in and make people look like they are guilty, to make these people deny the allegations being brought before them.

That is not the way this House is supposed to run. That is not the way a democracy is supposed to run. We should be able to have hearings; we should be able to get to the bottom of these matters; we should have television as we have here. But when a witness must be subpoenaed, they should have the right to not be on television. They should have the right to be able to speak just for the printed record. We should not have a repeat of the kind of assassination in the news media that led to that individual back in 1957 feeling so outside the system that he had to take his own life.

We have seen recently, and whether it is the Republicans or whether it is the Democrats, we should not put up with an abuse of this system. A person being subpoenaed before the House of Representatives should be able to say whether or not they want to appear on television before the entire world, whether they want to be on trial before the entire world or whether they want to speak for the legislative record.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the distinguished gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON], the chairman of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I will be brief.

As my colleagues know, the rule we are proposing to repeal allows a subpoenaed witness to arbitrarily, for no reason at all, to demand that TV cameras and radios be turned off, still photography cease, and radios again be turned off while the witness is testifying before a committee.

Now, as my colleagues know, I can recall when I was in the minority on the Foreign Affairs Committee, and the committee called Colonel Oliver North before us, and we had some majority members who got up and they derided and demeaned Ollie North.

And do my colleagues know what happened? I stood up as a minority member, and I told those Members that they were rude, they were crude, they were arrogant, and they could not carry Ollie North's water. Do my colleagues know what happened? They ended up looking bad on television back home before their constituents, and they shut up.

And any Member has that right. We used to do the same thing with a very arrogant subcommittee chairman who used to deride and demean members of the Reagan administration. Do my colleagues know what? We did the same thing to him. Do my colleagues know what happened after a little while? He became respectful. When he called witnesses, he treated them with a little respect.

That is all we have to do, stand up for the rights of these people.

Now by repealing this rule that lets subpoenaed witnesses arbitrarily force out TV and radio so that the American people cannot see them, my colleagues know they have a right to see those people. Mr. Speaker, if Members vote to repeal this antisunshine rule, we will then have rules identical to the Senate.

Now think about this. For the last 60 years, the Senate will have, or we will have the exact same rules as the Senate. I have never once watched anyone derided, defamed, or demeaned over in the Senate. Our rules would then end up exactly the same.

Members should know that if they come over here and they vote no on this rule, they are turning off the TV coverage to their constituents. If they vote yes, they are voting to leave that TV on so that they could see what we are doing down here.

Mr. Speaker, I am going to advise my colleagues to get over here and vote yes on this.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Sanibel, Florida for yielding to me to support a measure which will provide for more sunshine in committee proceedings, and will enhance public interest and education in Congress.

In several high-profile congressional investigations in recent years certain witnesses, subpoenaed to appear before House committees, have invoked a little-known House rule which denied all media the ability to fully report on those proceedings.

This House rule allows a subpoenaed witness to arbitrarily demand that TV cameras be turned off, still photography cease, and radio coverage end as well, while the witness is testifying before the committee.

The assertion of this right before several committees since the late 1980's have given many Members—on both sides of the aisle—firsthand experience with the rule.

Several Members who are very active in their committee work have found the rule frustrating and have approached me on the House floor to discuss it.

Congressional hearings serve an important educational role in our system of government. Opponents of this rule change will rightly point out that federal courts are not televised.

Congressional investigative hearings serve a completely different constitutional purpose—oversight of the nation's laws, educating the public about the activities of their government, and ultimately, a legislative function.

Before we can properly make new laws, we must fully understand the functioning of current laws.

Mr. Speaker, the sweeping changes in electronic communications, and the vast number and scope of news media outlets available to cover government events, has also led Members to wonder if this rule may be archaic.

The Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Radio-Television Correspondents' Galleries, Mr. Vic Ratner, wrote to the Rules Committee for the second year in a row requesting that the Committee repeal this House rule.

This rule, the Radio-TV Correspondents' rightly argue, unfairly discriminates against the electronic media.

The print press, when this rule is invoked, are allowed to use the tools of their trade—pad and pen—while cameras and mikes are switched off.

The Rules Committee found the practical concerns of Members and the arguments of the Radio-TV Correspondents' be well-founded.

By repealing this rule, House committees, in their infinite wisdom, can consider whether to close a meeting and expel all press and public, if an assertion is made that testimony may tend to defame, degrade, or incriminate any person.

Witnesses enjoy several important protections, which require committee votes, under current House rules. (clauses 2 (g) and (k) of rule 11). These rules will remain in effect, if we proceed to repeal this arbitrary no-cameras rule.

House Members may be so accustomed to TV coverage of the House floor and its committees that they may forget that for many years the practice of the House was to not allow television broadcast of committee proceedings.

It was not until 1970 that the House permitted committees the ability to adopt rules allowing TV broadcast coverage, if a committee voted to do so.

In 1995, as part of the historic Republican opening day reform package, we revised this rule to allow more sunshine to illuminate committee proceedings for the public.

Under the new House rule, any meeting or hearing must be open to all media coverage if the session is open to the public, which in fact most hearings and meetings are.

I consider House Resolution 301 a natural follow-through to those sunshine reforms adopted at the beginning of the 104th Congress.

I believe the House can, from time to time, adapt itself to new technology and at the same time assist in the education of the public about Congress.

We should keep in mind that an informed citizenry is critical to the success of our Republic.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I still say the people's right of privacy is probably a little more important than the people's right to know, and individuals where people are mandated to come before a committee without any protection, they cannot rebut the committee. As chairman or as Member, they cannot cross-examine them. A person is just helpless, and a hostile Congressman could really make an upstanding citizen look like a criminal.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Rhode Island [Mr. WEYGAND].

(Mr. WEYGAND asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WEYGAND. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me such time.

Mr. Speaker, I come before my colleagues in opposition to this rule, and I will give them just a few very quick examples of why we should not be passing that.

I listened very intently to what the gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON] said. He is very right in terms of allowing the people back home to see what we do. Very important, because if we misbehave, they can see that.

But last week before the Committee on Banking and Financial Services, we had a very important witness. She came in and testified with regard to drug cartel money and how it is laundered through Colombian banks, United States businesses and United States banks, and we as members of the Committee on Banking and Financial Services were very, very attentive to her situation and what she was saying. She provided us with very important information.

But the fact of the matter is, she also was part of that laundering of drug money. She came before us even though there were threats on her life. She came before us because she wanted to provide this information to us.

In order to protect this witness who came without subpoena before the Committee on Banking and Financial Services, she was screened off from the press, although they could hear her testimony, no TV cameras, no photographs, and her voice was disguised.

Now, if she were to be subpoenaed before our committee, she would not have the right to say no TV cameras, no photographs. Only we, as Members of Congress, or the chairman could say that.

That is wrong, because clearly this witness was providing valuable information to us as Members of Congress, and we would have been putting her life in danger. This rule would remove that. This is wrong.

For those people who think we, in fact, have to have cameras all the time, I would say to them this is not the land of Shirley Temple or the Wizard of Oz. This is not Hollywood, this is the U.S. Congress. Respect people's rights. Get the information and testimony you need, and do not, do not, take away the personal rights, and particularly in a case like this, potentially their life.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I would make a few points. I have listened very closely to the debate here and up in the Committee on Rules, and there has been a good deal of Member interest. We have talked about this in our conference and with a lot of Members who have asked questions about this. I think that we are getting to the point where we are beginning to understand here that the truth is what matters; the truth of what actually happens is what is important.

I guess I could find some instances where people have been savaged in print and saved by TV. I do not know how many instances there are, but I suspect that Ollie North might think that he was such a person, and probably many other people would think that.

It is very hard to explain away nervousness for people who speak before cameras. Some people are more accustomed to it than others. Some people take it more naturally than others. But the fact is nervousness as you are speaking tends to evoke sympathy. People viewing would say, gee, if there is a problem there, it is understood. If it is so egregious, there is a way for the committee to deal with that.

I think you can go on with the statement about mistakes show up on TV, and they do show up. Congress occasionally makes mistakes, and when they show up on TV, it is useful for people to see we make mistakes, learn from them, and go on to the next thing, rather than hide the mistakes and sweep them under the rug, which I think the American people are truly tired of. I think when a panel beats up on a witness, and I can think of a few cases where that happens, there is generally sympathy in this country for the witness, and less than sympathy for the panel.

So I think as you go through this and take a look at all of the examples that have been suggested to us, we are talking about a problem that does not really exist. We are not changing the Constitution, we are not changing the laws of the land, and we are not going into some new horizon. We are doing what the other body does.

I note that all of the media support this resolution, all of the media, the print media, the broadcast media, the TV media. Everybody wants to be sure that the media can operate as the watchdog that we expect the media to be, without the spin doctors, without the filters, the raw truth of what actually is happening there.

I have great faith that the people in our country, the people who elect us, the people who hire us and fire us in the people's House, are smart enough and capable enough to discern what is right and what is not right. I think they understand grandstanding. I think they understand a charade when they see it. I think they understand spin when they see it. I think it is important to see it, and that is why we are moving the legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. DINGELL], a gentleman who has conducted more hearings than anybody in this House and has been more successful in his hearings probably than anybody else in the House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SNOWBARGER). The gentleman from Michigan is recognized for 3½ minutes.

(Mr. DINGELL asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, I thank my good friend for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, as my good friend and colleague, the ranking minority member of the Committee on Rules, has observed, I have conducted probably more hearings of an investigative character than anybody in this body. Never have I been inhibited, nor has our committee ever been inhibited, by the presence of the rule before us. We were always able to get the facts out, and the media, regardless of whether they were print or electronic, were always able to get the story back to the American people about what was going on and what the witness said.

The whole verbatim testimony can be made available through any of the media. The only thing is that we preserve some small shred of dignity to the individual who appears before a congressional committee to say, I do not want to be photographed here by cameras from the stills or movies or other kinds of electronic cameras, and to be protected in that right. He can be photographed going in; he can be photographed going out. All the media is present in the room and can take down his testimony verbatim and publish it the following day or that same day. They can put it on the 5, 6, 10 or 11 o'clock news. The witnesses who appear before him and after him can be photographed in full.

I do not think that this is too much to ask, because what it is really about here is decency. Never, as I mentioned, have we been thwarted in getting the full facts.

This rule that is now in place was put in place at the suggestion of a Republican Member in the House, the future leader in the Senate, Hugh Scott, when the Republicans last controlled this body.

It was because of the unseemly spectacle of Congressional investigations, where Members of Congress abused and bullied and harassed witnesses, and when irresponsible charges were made about the loyalty of decent and law-abiding citizens, and when the reputations of ordinary Americans were destroyed.

We are not talking about, I remind you, about getting the full facts. The full facts will come out. The media will have full access to the facts and full participation in the process. The only thing is some small shred of decency will be afforded to the individuals. Hearsay testimony is permitted in investigations. Members of Congress can say or do anything in the course of a hearing, regardless of how false, slanderous, defamatory or outrageous it might happen to be.

It should be noted that the whole matter finally came to an end when the counsel for the Army appeared before a Senate committee, Mr. Joseph Welch, and he had to say it. Senator McCarthy had made one more outrageous accusation, at this time about a member of Welch's law firm, and Welch looked the Senator in the eye and he simply said, "Have you no decency, sir?"

I think that that is really the question. It is not about rights of the public to know. The public will know. The public will have the story reported to them in full, in extraordinary detail. The public will understand. The individual will have some small shred of decency afforded to him. The witnesses before him and after him will be heard. The public can make an intelligent choice.

Never, never, never in all the 14 years that I have run investigative committees have we in any way been inhibited from getting the story to the American people. They can know, they should know, and they will know, under the current rules. This is unnecessary.

Mr. Speaker, we are here tonight debating a change of the House Rules because the Rules Committee and members of the Government Reform and Oversight Committee want to repeal a rule protecting the right of a witness subpoenaed to appear before Congress. The current rule allows a subpoenaed witness to request that cameras and broadcast microphones be turned off. All members of the press, both broadcast and print, may remain at the hearing and report on the hearing, much like they would report on a trial that has no TV cameras present. The hasty repeal of a rule that dates back to 1970, and has its genesis in the post-McCarthy era, is wrong.

I have probably conducted more investigative hearings than any current Member of Congress, and I can state categorically that this rule is rarely invoked and has never thwarted a full investigation into the truth, nor a full reporting of the facts.

I know of no reason why this rule is being rushed to the floor. Television media are not disadvantaged by this rule. Reporters may stay in the room and report exactly what occurred in the hearing. They may report the testimony verbatim, just as print journalists may. Yes, we do give the right to turn off the camera to the witness who is forced against his or her will to be here, but there is a good reason.

The rule protecting a witness from unwanted cameras was first proposed by then-Representative and future Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott in 1954 when Republicans last controlled the House. At that time, the unseemly spectacle of Senator Joseph McCarthy calling in dozens of American citizens, some famous and some not, before a national television audience to defend their reputations was fresh in the public's mind. Three years later, in 1957, a young researcher called before the House Un-American Activities Committee committed suicide, because, as he wrote in his suicide note, he had a "fierce resentment of being televised."

On one occasion at a hearing I conducted, a witness, Michael Milken, requested that the cameras be turned off. I immediately honored the request. He was represented by the late Edward Bennett Williams, my former law professor, and a man I deeply respected. He had explained the reasoning behind this witness right in his 1962 book, One Man's Freedom: "The average person is extremely nervous when he appears before any court or committee. It is unfair to ask him to appear before the entire country as well."

We do not need a return to the McCarthy excesses of the 1950's, nor a repeat of the tragedy of 1957. Along with all Americans I want openness in government, but the American people are also sensitive to the possible consequences of an unrestrained media force on individuals who do not want this attention.

A witness who is forced to appear before a committee of Congress has very few rights. He may not confront his accusers through cross-examination. Objections to questions may be easily overruled by the chairman. Hearsay testimony is permitted. Under the Speech and Debate clause of the Constitution, Members of Congress may say anything during the course of a hearing, even if it is false, slanderous, or defamatory.

The purpose of the rule that is being repealed is to show that the Congress does, in fact, respect the individual. It shows that whether or not the Constitution provides a right to some form of privacy, that the Congress respects the right of an individual not to be improperly harassed.

There was a time in our not too distant past when certain Congressmen and Senators forgot about the importance of showing respect to the individual. We should not forget those terrible McCarthy hearings, which brought such disrespect upon the Congress. The American people intuitively knew what was taking place was wrong, but it took the eloquent words of the counsel to the Senate committee, Joseph Welch to say it. When Senator McCarthy had made yet one more accusation, this time about a member of Welch's law firm, Welch look the Senator in the eye, and simply said, "Have you no decency, sir at long last?"

That is what this rule is about—simple decency. It is a recognition that whether the Congress has nearly limitless power to investigate, simple rules of decency must apply. Maybe the individual is afraid of cameras; maybe the individual has a disability; maybe the individual has a religious objection to cameras. It matters not what the reason is. The existing rule is a statement that this House will conduct itself with a respect of the individual. It is the one rule that a single individual may invoke. No majority of the committee can override this rule.

In the end, the benefits of the rule will go not just to the individual, but to the Congress itself, because if we are not seen as fair, as respectful, and decent, we only hurt the respect for this institution.

The Congress has already voted that the investigative phase of allegations of misconduct by Members before the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct will be conducted without the cameras running. Should not every American have the same right as a Member of Congress?

Vote no on this dangerous return to our past.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas [Mr. BARTON].

Mr. BARTON of Texas. I thank the gentleman from Florida for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I am the chairman of the Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations of the Committee on Commerce. We have not issued a subpoena in the 3 years that we have been in the majority on that subcommittee. I would like to just make a couple of points.

Number one, whether we have this rule change or not, the Congress gives the power to ultimately decide whether to televise or not televise to the television networks. They have the right under the first amendment to choose to televise or not to televise. We are not changing that.

Number two, any witnesses that are not subpoenaed do not have the right to revoke television coverage. If they choose to appear voluntarily before our committee, and the networks choose to televise that particular hearing, then it is televised.

Number three, if we grant this rule change, the committee still has the authority to vote to prohibit cameras if there is a sensitivity involved in the issue that the majority of that committee on a bipartisan basis feels that it should not be televised.

So I would hope that we would vote this rule change. We should not give a witness the right to prevent the American people from knowing what it is that a witness is or is not going to say when it is a national issue and an issue of pressing public policy.

Again, I would reiterate the Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations of the Committee on Commerce has yet to issue a subpoena to any witness in the 3 years we have been in the majority. We ask our witnesses to appear voluntarily, and I would say 95 percent of the time the witnesses do appear.

So I hope we vote for the rule change and let the American people know what it is that is going on before the committees of Congress.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. GINGRICH], the Speaker of the House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CALVERT). The gentleman from Georgia is recognized for 8 minutes.

Mr. GINGRICH. Mr. Speaker, I do appreciate very much the gentleman from Florida yielding me this time. I will not use it all.

I wanted to rise on this topic because I think it is a very, very important question for the House, and one that every Member of the House should weigh in their own conscience.

I came to the U.S. House as a freshman in 1978, in the election of 1978. I was sworn in in January of 1979, and the House was dark. Only in April of that year was television permitted in the House, and at the time there were many cries that it would permanently ruin the process. The Senate at that time refused to be televised.

Over a period of years, several things happened. We live in an electronic age. We live in an age where people use the Internet, they use television, they use radio, they surf the Net, they surf channels. And in that electronic age, Senators began to realize that, all of a sudden, the coverage which had historically been dominated by the Senate was shifting to the House because it was a more immediate, a more real, a more vivid institution.

I think today if someone were to come to the floor and say, let's repeal televising the House, let's close down C-SPAN, let's make it impossible to take televised debate off the floor of the House, people would look at them in wonderment. They would say, how could you think of that? Because the modern news is in large part an electronic news. It is a process of immediacy that is quite unusual.

Now we come to the question of committees. What is the purpose of holding a committee hearing? It is to learn the truth, to listen to opinions, to inform the Members and to inform the public.

We live in an age where murder trials are televised; we live in an age where television is virtually ubiquitous; we live in an age where people are pretty aware of and sensitive to the process of television. And what is the proposed change here? What is this dramatic, bold new breakthrough? It is to adopt the rules which are already in force in the Senate. That is right, exactly the same protections that already exist in the Senate.

Now, I have yet to hear any Senator suggest that the Senate should quit televising hearings. I have not heard a single Democrat or Republican suggest that there is anything wrong with any hearing on any topic, as long as it does not involve national security.

If it involves defamation of a person, if it involves something which could affect their livelihood, the committee in the House or the committee in the Senate has the right to close the hearing for good reason. If it involves national security, the committee has the right to exclude the media for good reason.

But the normal, standard set in the Senate is that a hearing is a hearing, and that this is the people's Congress, and, therefore, the people have a right to access; and in the modern era the most effective method of access is electronics, which means radio and television.

Now, what about the witnesses' rights? They are not changed at all. The witness arrives, accompanied by an attorney. The witness has all of the legal protections given them. The witness has every right to refuse to testify. The witness has every right to seek protection of the fifth amendment. The witness has every right to clarify. None of those protections for the witness are changed.

Our friends would suggest that there is somehow a magic difference between the same witness with the same attorney in the same hearing answering the same question, having it recorded by a newspaper in print and having it broadcast by radio or television.

But I think that is to miss the entire revolution of our generation.

What is making the world different is the ability to have an electronic relationship that is real and vivid. At a time when the O.J. Simpson trial was available to every citizen; at a time when city councils are open to camera in Smyrna, Georgia; for example, every Monday night is city council night in Smyrna, and every citizen in Smyrna can watch, unless they are discussing a personnel decision that is sensitive. But to suggest that we should now retain a 1957 rule, at a time, by the way, when there was no television in the House; in Sam Rayburn's day, they did not have televised House proceedings. But now, in the modern era, I think it is wrong.

I would just pose this before any of my friends in the Democratic Party vote "no." I do not believe one can find a single Democratic Senator who would seek to go back and bar cameras and microphones from a Senate hearing. I do not believe one can find a single Member who has served in the Senate who would seek to go back and bar television and radio from a hearing. If, in the last 40 years, it has done no damage to witnesses in the Senate, what is it we are afraid of that it would do in the House?

The time has come to open the committees, just as when I was a freshman we opened up the House Chamber. Just as C-SPAN was good for the House Chamber, I believe the same coverage in the committees will be good, and I urge every Member to vote for this change, to bring the full light of complete news media coverage into the hearings of the United States House.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question on the resolution.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CALVERT). The question is on the resolution.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and yeas.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5 of rule I, further proceedings on this question are postponed.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the provisions of clause 5 of rule

I, the Chair announces that he will postpone further proceedings today on each motion to suspend the rules on which a recorded vote or the yeas and nays are ordered, or on which the vote is objected to under clause 4 of rule XV. Such rollcall votes, if postponed, will be taken later.

SURFACE TRANSPORTATION EXTENSION ACT OF 1997

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill (S. 1519) to provide a 6-month extension of highway, highway safety, and transit programs pending enactment of a law reauthorizing the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991.

The Clerk read as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Surface Transportation Extension Act of 1997".

SEC. 2. ADVANCES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation (referred to in this Act as the "Secretary") shall apportion funds made available under section 1003(d) of the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991 to each State in the ratio that—

(1) the State's total fiscal year 1997 obligation authority for funds apportioned for the Federal-aid highway program; bears to

(2) all States' total fiscal year 1997 obligation authority for funds apportioned for the Federal-aid highway program.

(b) PROGRAMMATIC DISTRIBUTIONS.—

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect on October 1, 1997.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER] and the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER].

(Mr. SHUSTER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to report to the House that we have concluded our negotiations with the Senate and indeed, essentially the 6-month extension of ISTEA, which passed this House unanimously, as a fundamental basis upon which we now come back to the House with this Senate bill, this compromise bill, which is a 6-month extension of ISTEA, provides for approximately $10 billion in funding that is available from the old ISTEA, plus $5.5 billion in new funds to be distributed in such a fashion that each State will get approximately 50 percent of its 1997 obligational ceiling, which means that we do not deal with the formula issue. That could well be a nuclear war that will take place next spring, but that is fine. That is when it should take place.

This bill is simply a short-term extension which follows the strong view of the House, which is the long-term battle for the future funding of transportation infrastructure in America is a battle that should be fought within the context of the budget resolution next spring. So on a bipartisan basis, we bring this before the body under suspension of the rules and urge its passage.

S. 1519 represents a compromise between the House and the Senate which is the result of difficult negotiations between the two bodies over the past several days. Many hard decisions had to be made in order to ensure that State programs will continue to operate until we can resolve outstanding funding and policy issues after the budget debate next year.

The bill provides $5.5 billion in new budget authority as advances to States, equivalent to 3 months of funding. Funds are distributed in a manner similar to the House bill, based on the fiscal year 1997 distribution of obligational authority.

All advances of new budget authority will be subtracted from each State's ultimate distribution of funding for fiscal year 1998 in the ISTEA reauthorization.

S. 1519 distributes $9.8 billion in obligation authority to the States. Each State receives the higher of 50 percent of its fiscal year 1997 allotment of obligation authority or the total of its unobligated balances—but only in an amount up to 75 percent of its 1997 obligation authority.

This distribution was a concession on the part of the House, but I would note that it is, in fact, the distribution that would have been made by the Federal Highway Administration if no short-term extension were enacted.

The bill imposes a hard deadline on obligations of May 1, 1998. States may obligate Federal funds after that date only when a multi-year reauthorization of surface transportation programs has been enacted.

Because States will have to rely in part on unobligated balances, States are given flexibility to transfer both unobligated funds and new funds from any program category to another program category. However, those funds are required to be paid back once a multi-year reauthorization is enacted.

The bill ensures that a formula change effective for 1998 can be implemented for new budget authority for all States and for obligation authority for virtually all States.

Sufficient funding is provided for nearly a full year of Federal Highway Administration operations, and allocated programs continued in both the House and Senate reauthorization bills are funded at 50 percent of their 1997 levels.

For the transit program, S. 1519 includes provisions as in the House bill providing funding at 50 percent of fiscal year 1997 levels. Formula grant programs are funded at $1.3 billion and discretionary grants are funded at $1.1 billion.

Safety programs and motor carrier safety programs are also funded as in the House bill—with $83 million for the section 402 safety program, $12 million for the Section 410 Drunk Driving Program, and $45 million for motor carrier safety being provided.

I want to recognize the contributions of many groups who have worked diligently toward passing this short term extension.

I particularly want to recognize the Governors—acting both individually and under the auspices of the National Governors' Association—who have played a critical role in our efforts to see a meaningful ISTEA extension.

The Governors have also been prominent advocates for long-term increases in Federal investment in surface transportation programs. NGA passed a resolution this summer calling on Congress to enact legislation that permanently provides that all dedicated transportation user fees and interest be distributed automatically and annually without restriction.

The Governors also organized a coalition called TRUST, “Transportation Revenues Used Solely for Transportation,” made up of State and local government officials, business groups and labor organizations, to push for increased Federal investment in transportation.

The fact that NGA and the National Conference of State Legislatures, the U.S. Conference of Mayors, and the National League of Cities continue to be so vocal on the subject of transportation dollars is a testament to the importance of surface transportation to communities across America as well as the responsibility State and local officials feel to meet infrastructure needs.

I expect that these organizations will continue to be politically energized on this subject as we revisit the program funding levels in the 1998 budget resolution.

Finally, I want to commend my colleagues on the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee—ranking Democrat JIM OBERSTAR, TOM PETRI, chairman of the Surface Transportation Subcommittee, and NICK RAHALL who is the ranking Democrat on the subcommittee.

The Transportation Committee has had a full year seeking to secure adequate transportation resources, developing BESTEA—the Building Efficient Surface Transportation and Equity Act—and now passing this short term extension. And we have our work cut out for us next year as we attempt to finalize a multi-year reauthorization that provides the necessary resources to meet our transportation needs.

Our Senate counterparts, Senator JOHN CHAFEE, Senator JOHN WARNER, and Senator MAX BAUCUS also deserve to be commended for their efforts during these last days of the session to provide the tools necessary for the States to advance critical transportation projects until Congress completes work on a long-term ISTEA reauthorization.

I urge the House to approve S. 1519.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER] and I are of one mind and of one accord on this legislation, as are the chairman of the subcommittee, the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. PETRI], and the ranking Democrat on our side, the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. RAHALL], whom I commend for their unflagging commitment to ensuring that our Nation's surface transportation programs continue with the least possible disruption.

In a spirit of compromise, I think we have shown remarkable creativity and flexibility in working with our colleagues across the way in the other body in crafting an interim measure that will ensure that the States' critical surface transportation projects, highway, motor carrier safety, transit capital needs, transportation research programs, can continue unabated until we deal with the permanent law next spring. We have had a very good discussion with Senators CHAFEE, BAUCUS, WARNER, and BOND, and I commend them for their cooperation in working with us in a constructive fashion to come up with a product that has been the result of extensive and even difficult negotiations.

The key is that we produced a compromise that recognizes that adjourning for the year without a stopgap measure would be an abdication of our responsibility to the Nation. I just want to emphasize for all of our colleagues and all of those who may be listening that this body acted responsibly.

This committee, under the leadership of our chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER] moved legislation in proper time to deal with the Nation's transportation needs. We moved the 6-month extension bill well ahead of the other body. We were willing to work with them to draft what we thought was an answer, in a neutral fashion, for the need to move ahead with the Nation's transportation funding, but on an interim basis until we come back next spring to deal with the 6-year bill.

Clearly, this is a compromise. It includes the important elements that we need to ensure that critical construction, capital acquisition and safety programs continue. The bill allows States unlimited flexibility to use their unobligated balances according to their most pressing needs. I want to emphasize that this flexibility is only temporary, that any transferred funds, any funds moved out of one category into another, will be repaid in full to their original categories.

I also want to emphasize that this bill is only half of what we provided in the House bill. I want to make it abundantly clear that this is only an interim measure. In no way should anyone consider that this prejudices the ultimate multiyear reauthorization of surface transportation programs which we will take up in due course next year. The distribution of funding and the obligational authority in this bill cannot be construed in any way to constitute a statement by Congress about the funding formulas that we will consider next year, or that in any way it would constitute a precedent for next year's reauthorization.

The bill fully preserves our ability to adjust the distribution of remaining fiscal year 1998 funds, ensuring that States will receive their full and their equitable shares. It should not be construed in any way to indicate which existing programs will or will not continue, nor at what funding levels they will continue. This is simply a short-term measure to tide these programs and projects over while we continue to develop the fully funded multiyear bill.

I just want to remind our colleagues, this is not the time to launch into a full-scale reauthorization of the surface transportation programs. We have crafted a bill on which we are in agreement and which we will bring forward at the appropriate time next year. We do good work in our committee. This is an interim step toward completing that good work.

I want to extend my congratulations to our chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER], for his leadership in moving this legislation along, and had this body been of good mind and good spirit 48 hours ago, this would have been done. However, we do all good things in due course.

Again, I congratulate our chairman and thank him for his splendid cooperation.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I certainly want to thank my good friend from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR] for the leadership he has provided to make this a bipartisan legislation.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I rise as the ranking Democrat on the bipartisan Subcommittee on Surface Transportation, which is ably chaired by the distinguished gentleman from Wisconsin TOM PETRI.

In conjunction with our full committee chairman BUD SHUSTER and ranking member JIM OBERSTAR, we are now in the position to consider the pending measure.

This bill provides the States with some ability to continue to obligate federal highway funds until Congress reauthorizes the federal aid to highway program which expired on September 30th.

Since that time, no new contract authority associated with federal highway dollars has been available to the States.

Under this legislation, which represents a compromise with the Senate, $5.5 billion in new contract authority would be provided to the States.

This amount, coupled with the unobligated balances associated with prior year contract authority currently in existence, provides the States with $9.8 billion in federal highway fund obligational authority subject to a May 1, 1988, expiration.

This legislation should be viewed as an interim measure made necessary because Congress did not enact a long-term highway bill this session.

The reasons for incomplete action on the long-term bill are varied.

For our part, the simple fact of the matter is that the bipartisan leadership of the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure intends to keep faith with the American motorist and with our responsibilities to address a crumbling transportation infrastructure in this country.

We do not believe that motor fuel taxes paid by the American people, which are deposited in the Highway Trust Fund for the express purpose of making transportation improvements, should then sit idle in that Trust Fund and be held hostage to the whims of the budgeteers.

Earlier this year, a grave injustice was done to transportation when the Administration and the Republican leadership of the Congress agreed upon a 5-year budget plan.

Simply put, highway spending was not sufficiently provided for placing us in a situation where the surplus in the Highway Trust Fund will continue to grow while highway construction needs remain unmet.

We on the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee feel compelled to fashion a long-term reauthorization of the existing highway law, ISTEA, that provides highway spending levels which more closely track receipts into the Highway Trust Fund.

Because this was not possible this year, we are moving forward with a short-term bill so that we may seek more justice in highway spending next year when the Congress will once again consider a budget resolution.

With that, I urge the adoption of the pending measure.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased that the House is considering this important piece of legislation before it adjourns for the year.

This bill will ensure that key surface transportation programs, including the highway, transit, and highway safety programs, continue to receive funding while a multi-year reauthorization is being crafted by the Congress.

At one point in time this fall, it appeared that there was a good chance that the other body would not even consider an extension.

Fortunately, upon further reflection, they reached the same conclusion that we had reached—that it just isn't good transportation policy to allow these programs to wither on the vine or to allow the Federal Highway Administration to shut down due to lack of funds.

I want to comment briefly on the formula for distributing highway funds.

This bill distributes $9.7 billion in obligation limitation to the States based primarily on the level of unobligated balances each state had at the beginning of the year. This is the distribution method insisted upon by the Senate.

This method is generally less favorable to the "Donor" states than the method included in BESTEA—the bill considered by my subcommittee in September—and the short term extension passed by the House on October 1.

In fact, 21 "Donor" States receive a lower percentage than they did under the House passed bill. Many of these States receive a trust fund return on their obligation authority that is below 80 percent. The House accepted this method of distributing the obligation limitation in return for several concessions on the part of the Senate that we considered important in helping us proceed with the longer term bill next year—including preserving the budget baseline and providing additional contract authority to the States so that they would not be dependent exclusively on balances of unobligated funds.

I hope this serves as a forewarning to the "Donor" States that they need to be vigilant as we continue to develop a final formula for a multi-year bill.

Chairman SHUSTER and I remain committed to modernizing the ISTEA formulas. Current formulas clearly are indefensible and have the perverse effect of reducing overall support for a strong Federal highway program. I urge the House to approve S. 1519.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and if the gentleman is prepared to yield back his time, I will do the same.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER] that the House suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill, S. 1519.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on S. 1519, the Senate bill just considered and passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

AUTHORIZING ACQUISITION OF CERTAIN REAL PROPERTY FOR LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 2979) to authorize acquisition of certain real property for the Library of Congress, and for other purposes, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

(b) SPECIAL RULE FOR INCLUSION OF PROPERTY WITHIN LIBRARY BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS.—The amendment made by section 2 shall take effect upon the acquisition by the Architect of the Capitol of the property described in section 1.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California [Mr. THOMAS] and the gentlewoman from Michigan [Ms. KILPATRICK] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. THOMAS].

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 2979 is an attempt at the end of this Congress, in working with the Senate, and the Senate has a bill they are attempting to move on the other side which would authorize the Architect of the Capitol to acquire on behalf of the United States Government a gift of property located in Culpeper, Virginia.

This property is unique in terms of the uses that the Librarian will make of it. As my colleagues may know, in the early 20th century, the then new technology captured the American experience on film and in various forms of audio retention.

Unfortunately, in the late 19th and early 20th century, the technology produced a product which, over time, can become highly volatile. Many of these early film archives are currently preserved on military bases, much as you would munitions.

Our goal was to seek a facility which would allow the Librarian not only to preserve these artifacts but, in the process of preserving them, make them available for those who might wish to utilize the Library's resources, as they do with books and other artifacts that the Library of Congress now holds.

Since, for example, the acetate film is located on military bases, pretty obviously we cannot just use any building. We are very, very fortunate in having in Culpeper, Virginia, a facility which has been made available which, with relatively minor changes beyond the already wonderful facility that it is, will allow us to accomplish this long-desired goal of the Librarian.

In addition to that, the funds for this facility are a gift. We have some benefactors who are willing to provide the funds that will not only allow us to purchase the Culpeper facility, but funds that will allow us to begin to do the kinds of things that we need to do to it to make it an even more enhanced repository.

So what this bill does is allow us to acquire the property. It provides for the transfer of gifts to the Library trust fund controlled by the authorizing committees, the Committee on House Oversight and the Committee on Rules in the Senate, for appropriated funds controlled by the appropriations committees.

We have incorporated in the bill an amendment that was requested on the Senate side by the minority, agreed to by the chairman of the Committee on Rules, the distinguished gentleman from Virginia, Senator WARNER, and I would ask that all Members support this marvelous acquisition for the retention of these films and audio artifacts.

In addition, Mr. Speaker, I will place in the RECORD a letter from the chairman of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure clearly indicating that, notwithstanding the jurisdiction of that committee, and we certainly acknowledge the jurisdiction of that committee, in the interest of the time line which we need to make this decision, that the committee would not exercise its jurisdiction in this matter but certainly retains its jurisdiction over this subject matter.

The letter referred to is as follows:

COMMITTEE ON TRANSPORTATION AND INFRASTRUCTURE, CONGRESS OF
THE UNITED STATES, HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Washington, DC, November 12, 1997.

Hon. WILLIAM M. THOMAS,
Chairman, Committee on House Oversight,
Washington, DC.

DEAR BILL: I am writing in reference to H.R. 2979, a bill authorizing the acquisition of certain real property for the Library of Congress, which was initially referred to the Committee on House Oversight.

As you know, pursuant to clause 1(q)(11) of Rule X of the Rules of the House, the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure has jurisdiction over measures relating to the construction, reconstruction, maintenance and care of the buildings and grounds of the Library of Congress. H.R. 2979 would expand the Library of Congress's real property inventory, and thus expand this Committee's jurisdictional responsibilities with regard to any form of building repair or improvements.

It is clear that the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure has a jurisdictional interest in H.R. 2979. However, as I do not wish to prevent or prolong consideration of the measure, I will not request a sequential referral of this bill. Nonetheless, this decision should not be deemed a waiver of this Committee's jurisdiction over the subject matter contained in the bill, jurisdictional prerogatives of similar provisions in the future, or the right to be conferees should the bill go to conference.

I would appreciate your response to this letter confirming this understanding with respect to H.R. 2979, and ask that a copy of my letter on this matter be placed in the Congressional Record during consideration of the bill on the Floor.

I am pleased to support the concept of the legislation, and I look forward to working with you on future matters related to the Library of Congress.

With warm, personal regards, I remain
Sincerely,

BUD SHUSTER,
Chairman.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, if I could, the minority side is not represented at the moment, and I would ask to claim the time on the minority side, since we are not represented.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the Chair recognizes the gentleman from Oregon [Mr. DEFAZIO].

There was no objection.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am not particularly aware of the merits of this bill, but I would like to go to the procedure before us.

The House is being kept here because Republicans are unable to get the Committee on Rules to meet and bring forward the appropriations bills. We could bring those bills forward tomorrow in the regular order. There is no reason the House, which was kept in session until midnight or later 3 or 4 nights last weekend while they tried to force the votes on fast track, there is no reason to keep the House here again tonight.

So I would like to suggest, Mr. Speaker, that the other side consider where we are going. The gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON] is here, and perhaps he has some news about the appropriations bill.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. DEFAZIO. I yield to the gentleman from New York.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I most certainly do. Let me say, I may be the most optimistic Member of this body, but let me say I think we are getting out of here tomorrow afternoon. The reason is that the Committee on Rules was scheduled to meet about 45 minutes ago with the minority members, but the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MOAKLEY], a very respected and outstanding Member of this body, asked for another hour to look at two conference reports, one the D.C. appropriations conference report, the other the foreign operations conference report. They are completed. We will meet at 10 minutes of 9:00. Because the gentleman wants me to, I will be down here at 9 o'clock with both of them.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Reclaiming my time, Mr. Speaker, if I could ask the gentleman, he will be out here at 9 o'clock with both the bills. Is that as good a promise as the moving target on fast track last week, which was going to be on the hour or the half-hour for 5 hours?

Mr. SOLOMON. Give or take a few minutes one way or the other.

Mr. DEFAZIO. I thank the gentleman. I accept that rather strong assurance from the chairman that within 40 minutes we will be completing the real business before the House, as opposed to the legislation before us.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of the time to the gentlewoman from Michigan [Ms. KILPATRICK].

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the gentlewoman from Michigan [Ms. KILPATRICK] is recognized to control the time.

There was no objection.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am sorry the gentleman from Oregon characterizes this as not the real legislation before the House. Quite frankly, it is in the best tradition. There are private individuals who are contributing more than $10 million so that all Americans can have access to historical artifacts.

Frankly, the gentleman does a disservice to the House and those individuals who continue to contribute major sums so that the American people can enjoy these kinds of artifacts in a preserved fashion, not just at the time they are produced through the 20th century but for all times.

If the gentleman believes this trivializes the House, then I really wish the gentleman would not claim time if he has no understanding whatsoever of the material in front of him.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. BLILEY].

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CALVERT). The gentleman will state the point of personal privilege.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Having been demeaned by the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, I would like the opportunity to respond.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman demand that words spoken in debate be taken down?

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, would the gentlewoman from Michigan [Ms. KILPATRICK] yield me 1 minute?

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Oregon.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It is not in order for the gentleman to have time yielded at this point.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I control the time.

Mr. DEFAZIO. I will wait for 1 minute later to respond.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. BLILEY], in whose district this facility resides, and whose help was instrumental in acquiring this property for a very attractive price, which allows us to stretch this gift far beyond just the purchase of the property, but to add improvements to the property as well.

Mr. BLILEY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this legislation, which will allow the Library of Congress to accept a gift of the Federal Reserve facility located at Mount Pony in Culpeper County, VA. I also rise today to recognize and thank the gentleman from California, Mr. BILL THOMAS and the gentleman from New York, Mr. JIM WALSH, for their hard work on this important legislation.

The Library of Congress has had statutory responsibility for collecting and preserving audiovisual materials for nearly 100 years. The Library presently holds the most comprehensive collection in the world in all audiovisual formats, from nitrate to digitalized materials. The Library presently stores these materials at scattered locations throughout the United States, including a facility in Suitland, MD.

The General Services Administration has, however, ordered the Library to vacate its 27 nitrate vaults in Suitland by May 1998 in order that they may be torn down. This leaves the Library in a precarious position. They need a place to store the film. They want it to be local, and they want to establish a permanent facility for this material so that they do not have to constantly look for short-term storage solutions.

Located in Culpeper County, VA, which is just a short drive from the Capitol, is a Federal Reserve facility which was created as a high security facility for currency and gold reserve storage.

However, the Federal Reserve back in Richmond has been attempting to sell the property for the past 7 years because it no longer needs it. The Richmond Fed has placed an end-of-the-year deadline on the sale of this facility. If the facility is not sold, they are going to transfer it to the Bureau of Printing and Engraving.

The Library views the Federal Reserve facility in Culpeper as the most cost-effective solution to their problem. It is large enough to accommodate their needs, it is close enough to Washington, and it has the climate controls necessary for storing the material. Essentially, the facility is perfect for the creation of a single, centralized national audiovisual and digital master conservation center. In this center the Library will store, preserve, process, and make accessible the entire national audiovisual collection.

The important thing about this legislation is that it will enable the Library to do what it needs to in order to preserve the material, but it will not cost the American taxpayers any money. The cost of purchasing the facility has been donated generously by the David and Lucille Packard Foundation.

Moreover, the Packard Foundation will provide funds, as the gentleman from California [Mr. THOMAS], the chairman of the committee, has said, will provide funds not only for the purchase of the facility, but they are providing millions of dollars for the restoration and refurbishment of the facility.

This is a good bill and it is a necessary bill, because if we do not act before adjournment, the Richmond Federal Reserve Bank will proceed with the transfer of the Culpeper facility to the BPE. The Library will miss a golden opportunity if we do not act now, so I urge all my colleagues to support this legislation.

I thank the gentleman from California for all of his work.

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Oregon [Mr. DEFAZIO].

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding me the time. I am glad we are back in the regular order and that the ranking member representing the minority is now on the floor of the House.

I am sorry that the majority felt that they had to proceed out of the regular order with this legislation and, in fact, that they felt that they had to hold the House here late in the evening for legislation which could have been dispatched tomorrow during regular business hours.

Mr. Speaker, the legislation, as described by the gentleman from Virginia, whom I do hold in high regard, obviously has merit, and we appreciate the gift. I wish that the Library of Congress did not have to go begging for gifts and that the Republican majority would better fund the Library of Congress, but given the fact that they do not have adequate funds, these sorts of gifts are absolutely vital to maintain our national heritage.

To the gentleman from California [Mr. THOMAS], whom I hold in minimally high regard, I do not appreciate his words, and I would say that they are generally characteristic of his performance on the floor. That is why he is held in minimal high regard by so many Members of this body.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The gentleman from Oregon [Mr. DEFAZIO] does not understand what is going on around here, notwithstanding his ability to come to the microphone and make pronouncements.

We proceeded in regular order tonight. This was scheduled sometime ago by the Committee on Rules. If Members from the minority are not able to be here, I am sure there are good reasons. I said I would wait. I was instructed by the minority to go forward, so the gentleman from Oregon is simply misinformed.

As a matter of fact, we tried to do this last Monday night, but in terms of their unwillingness to move needed legislation, the objections that were heard on his side of the aisle required us to wait until Wednesday to conclude this.

Notwithstanding his involvement in this process and his clear statement on the record that this is not real work, or his attempts to make light of Americans wishing to assist through their ability to contribute to the Library of Congress and to the Smithsonian, this is important legislation, timely legislation, and necessary legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. I, too, believe that this is valuable legislation before us. Any time a citizen of America would want to donate to the better good of this country, we all would welcome that. Certainly we do in this instance.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this legislation which authorizes the acquisition, without cost to the Government, of an existing facility to be used by the Library of Congress. The Library plans to convert a vacant building now owned by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond to an audio-visual preservation center.

The building is located in Culpeper, VA. It will be acquired through a most generous donation by the David and Lucille Packard Foundation. The Packard Foundation will also contribute $4.5 million above the purchase price of $5.5 million to equip and maintain the building.

The Librarian of Congress says he needs this building and its 40 acre site to consolidate the extensive film, video tape, and sound recording materials now stored in five separate locations. This facility will become the national center for the storage and processing of these collections. The Library will then be able to vacate outdated facilities at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, underground vaults in Boyers, PA, three warehouses in the Washington suburbs, and in the main Library itself.

The Library's intent will be to establish a modern audio-visual collections center which will contain the necessary climate controls to process and store nitrate and acetate film and movies, and a variety of multimedia video and sound recordings. It will also be possible to connect the Culpeper facility to the main Library with fiber optic links to make accessible the entire national audio-visual collection.

We have not yet seen the complete scope of the project nor do we yet have a complete cost analysis based on construction design and estimates. The Library, however, has provided estimates prepared by an accounting firm that indicates placing the center at Culpeper will cost less than the additional investments that would otherwise be necessary to update current storage and processing facilities or to build new facilities elsewhere.

The Library and the Architect of the Capitol will prepare the requisite estimates for the normal appropriations cycle. They will be reviewed by the Committee on Appropriations in regular order. It is my hope that most of all of the funds can be derived from additional philanthropic support to minimize the need for taxpayer funding of this new operation. That is the intent of the Librarian, as I understand it.

I support this authorization. The Librarian has made the case for it and I commend the chairman of the Committee on House Oversight, BILL THOMAS, for bringing this legislation to the House.

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, with that, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California [Mr. THOMAS] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2979, as amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. EHLERS] and the gentleman from Michigan [Ms. KILPATRICK] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. EHLERS].

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, these resolutions provide for the following: Senate Concurrent Resolution 61 provides for printing of the revised edition of the publication entitled "Our Flag." This resolution provides for the printing of 250,000 copies, or such number as can be printed, for a total printing and production cost of $150,000. Senate Concurrent Resolution 62 provides for printing of the revised edition of the publication entitled "How Our Laws Are Made." This resolution provides for the printing of 440,000 copies, or such number as can be printed, for a total printing and production cost of $120,000.

All three of these are extremely useful to our constituents and to Members of Congress, and I strongly urge that we adopt these resolutions.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I listened carefully to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. EHLERS]; and I, too, agree that this is a very worthy cause, printing of educational materials, for citizens throughout America. So, Mr. Speaker, I too support this initiative.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time. If the gentleman from Michigan [Ms. KILPATRICK] wishes to yield back the balance of her time, I shall do likewise.

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for speakers, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. EHLERS] that the House suspend the rules and concur in the Senate concurrent resolutions, Senate Concurrent Resolution 61, Senate Concurrent Resolution 62, and Senate Concurrent Resolution 63.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the concurrent resolutions were concurred in.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on Senate Concurrent Resolution 61, Senate Concurrent Resolution 62, and Senate Concurrent Resolution 63.

AUTHORIZING USE OF OFFICIAL MAIL IN LOCATION AND RECOVERY OF MISSING CHILDREN, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

Mr. MCHUGH. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill (S. 1378) to extend the authorization of use of official mail in the location and recovery of missing children, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read as follows:

S. 1378

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. EXTENSION OF AUTHORIZATION OF USE OF OFFICIAL MAIL IN THE LOCATION AND RECOVERY OF MISSING CHILDREN.

The Act entitled "An Act to amend title 3, United States Code, to authorize the use of penalty and franked mail in efforts relating to the location and recovery of missing children", approved August 9, 1985 (39 U.S.C. 3220 note; Public Law 99-87), is amended—

(1) in section 3(a) by striking "June 30, 1997" and inserting "June 30, 2002"; and

(2) in section 5 by striking "December 31, 1997" and inserting "December 31, 2002".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York [Mr. MCHUGH] and the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. FATTAH] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York [Mr. MCHUGH].

Mr. MCHUGH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Senate bill 1378 was passed by the Senate on November 5, 1997. It was referred jointly to the Committee on House Oversight and the Committee on Government Reform and Oversight for consideration of such provisions as fall within the jurisdiction of the committee concerned.

Mr. Speaker, this legislation extends the authorization for use of official mail in the location and recovery of missing children through December 31, 2002. Authorization was initially approved on August 9, 1985, and extended in October of 1992. This authorization will expire at the end of this year.

Mr. Speaker, the legislation enables Members of Congress to mail a photo and description of missing children that are provided by the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children in their franked mail to raise public awareness in an effort to locate these children. Currently, Mr. Speaker, some 20 Members use this authority regularly to mail those types of materials.

There is, Mr. Speaker, understandably great national concern regarding the growing problem of missing children. It is indeed one of the greatest fears for parents throughout this Nation. Because of this concern, a Missing Children's Caucus was organized earlier this year in the House.

Mr. Speaker, the extension of authority of use of official mail in the location and recovery of missing children is a very meritorious program, and would I urge our colleagues to support this legislation thereby extending the current program through the year 2002.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FATTAH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, let me join with my colleague the gentleman from New York [Mr. MCHUGH], the distinguished chairman of the Subcommittee on Postal Service, in urging the House to favorably consider Senate bill 1378. This is a very important and very needed reauthorization of a practice that has already been, as my colleague has mentioned, implemented by many Members here in the House.

The issue of missing children is something that is on the minds of parents throughout this Nation. And in my home city of Philadelphia, unfortunately, there have been several instances in which children have been missing for a long time. The Center for Missing and Exploited Children is a very important establishment, and this provision that allows both Members of the Senate and House to use frank mail in a way in which I am sure even those that have been the most enthusiastic critics of frank mail for this purpose is something that we all would support.

Mr. Speaker, we do not have any further speakers on our side, so we would like to yield back the remainder of our time, assuming that the gentleman from New York [Mr. MCHUGH] is the last speaker on his side.

Mr. MCHUGH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I am, indeed, the only speaker on our side. So let me very briefly, in closing, extend my deepest appreciation to the ranking member, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. FATTAH]. In these times of difficulty in the House and in the Senate, when we are working toward a close of the session, we far too often dwell upon those things that perhaps take us apart. And in this effort, we see something that, as the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. FATTAH] has stated so eloquently, brings us together. And I thank my colleague for his efforts and for that side of the aisle very helpful assistance in bringing this bill to the floor.

I would urge all of our colleagues to support this very, very worthy program through this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York [Mr. MCHUGH] that the House suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill, S. 1378.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. MCHUGH. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on S. 1378.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 1998; TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS

Mr. SPENCE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill (S. 1507) to amend the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 1998 to make certain technical corrections.

The Clerk read as follows:

S. 1507

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS.

(a) IMPLEMENTATION OF ELECTRONIC COMMERCE CAPABILITY.—(1) Section 2302c(a)(1) of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting "of section 2303(a) of this title" after "paragraphs (1), (5) and (6)".

(2) The amendment made by paragraph (1) shall take effect as if included in the amendment to section 2302c of title 10, United States Code, made by section 850(f)(3)(A) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 to which the amendment made by paragraph (1) relates.

(b) COMMEMORATION OF 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF KOREAN CONFLICT.—(1) Section 1083(f) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 is amended by striking out "$100,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "$1,000,000".

(2) The amendment made by paragraph (1) shall take effect as if included in the provisions of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal year 1998 to which such amendment relates.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. SPENCE] and the gentleman from California [Mr. DELLUMS] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. SPENCE].

(Mr. SPENCE asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SPENCE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

This bill makes two technical corrections to H.R. 1119, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998. The first makes technical changes to a provision in the conference report involving electronic commerce. The change is not controversial and would simply restate references to title 10 of the United States Code more effectively by eliminating unnecessary ambiguity.

The second change would correct the ceiling on funding that has been authorized for the Secretary of Defense to begin the planning, coordination, and execution of a program to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Korean war. This original proposal was included in the President's budget request and in the House-passed bill. The conference outcome inadvertently placed an incorrect funding ceiling on this commemorative effort. The conference report currently limits expenditures to $100,000. The bill before us would raise the cap to the correct level of $1 million.

S. 1507 passed the Senate by unanimous consent last Sunday night, and I am not aware of any controversy.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. DELLUMS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the bill S. 1507, a bill to provide for technical corrections for the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998. And I might say, Mr. Speaker, that I concur in the observations made by my distinguished colleague the gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. SPENCE].

This bill makes only two corrections to the authorization bill as passed in the House. One, it makes technical corrections to part B of the bill dealing with electronic commerce; and two, it corrects the amount available to the Army for support of the 50th anniversary of the Korean conflict from $100,000 to $1 million.

With those brief remarks, Mr. Speaker, I would indicate that I support the bill, and I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of it.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SPENCE. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time; and, therefore, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from South Carolina [Mr. SPENCE] that the House suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill, S. 1507.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

PERMITTING MINERAL LEASING OF INDIAN LAND LOCATED WITHIN FORT BERTHOLD INDIAN RESERVATION

(C) LIMITATION.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the application of the Scientific Analysis Team guidelines to any livestock grazing in the pilot project area during the term of the pilot project, unless the livestock grazing is being conducted in the specific location at which the Scientific Analysis Team guidelines are being applied to an activity under subsection (d).

(3) COMPLIANCE.—All resource management activities required by subsection (d) shall be implemented to the extent consistent with applicable Federal law and the standards and guidelines for the conservation of the California spotted owl as set forth in the California Spotted Owl Sierran Provenance Interim Guidelines or the subsequently issued guidelines, whichever are in effect.

(4) ROADLESS AREA PROTECTION.—The Regional Forester for Region 5 shall direct that any resource management activity required by subsection (d)(1) and (2), all road building, all timber harvesting activities, and any riparian management under subsection (d)(4) that utilizes road construction or timber harvesting shall not be conducted on Federal lands within the Plumas National Forest, Lassen National Forest, and the Sierraville Ranger District of the Tahoe National Forest that are designated as either "Off Base" or "Deferred" on the map referred to in subsection (a). The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Idaho [Mrs. CHENOWETH].

Mrs. CHENOWETH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mrs. CHENOWETH asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. CHENOWETH. Mr. Speaker, S. 1079 would facilitate the oil and gas exploration on the Fort Berthold Indian Reservation by allowing the Secretary of the Interior to approve mineral leases affecting individually owned Indian land if a majority of the owners of the undivided mineral interests consent. S. 1079 would supersede a 1909 law which provides that the Secretary may not approve a mineral lease affecting individually owned Indian land unless every single person who has an undivided mineral interest in that land consents.

Approximately 70 percent of the individually owned tracts of Indian land on the Fort Berthold Indian Reservation are owned by groups of 20 or more individuals, and some tracts are owned by 200 individuals. In many instances, these individuals have not been identified or cannot be located. The requirements of the 1909 law have proven to be so difficult to meet that very little oil production has taken place on individually owned Indian land within a geological basin which has produced over 1 billion barrels of oil.

The Mandan Indian Nation and the Hidatsa Indian Nation and the Arikara Indian Nation all support S. 1079. The administration supports S. 1079. And the gentleman from North Dakota [Mr. POMEROY], who has introduced a companion bill, H.R. 2309, also supports S. 1079.

Also, the bill as amended directs the Secretary of Agriculture to conduct a pilot project on designated lands within the Plumas, Lassen, and Tahoe National Forests in the State of California to demonstrate the effectiveness of the resource management activities proposed by the Quincy Library Group and to amend current land and resource management plans for these national forests to consider the incorporation of these resource management activities. The text is essentially that which passed the House on July 9, 1997, by a vote of 429 to 1. It has minor changes as amended by the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources. It has one major change adopted by the Senate that takes the 5-year pilot project and allows it to be cut off sooner after amendments to the land management plans pursuant to subsection (i) of that section of the bill.

This is a good piece of legislation. It solves a big problem created by outdated laws and so forth. I recommend that it pass, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. I thank the gentlewoman from Idaho [Mrs. CHENOWETH], the subcommittee Chair, for her assistance in this matter. She has superbly described S. 1079. I would add, I would have preferred the consideration of this in an unamended form, but I am really pleased that it is before us on the suspension calendar.

I do support the legislation. It is strongly supported by the tribal government at issue. At a time when we are encouraging economic self-sufficiency, the tribal government is eager to explore oil and gas development on tribal lands. Because this reservation wholly lies within the Williston Basin, an area where there has been a lot of successful oil development, their prospects are very good that they will receive leasing activity and the economic development that flows from that; that they will subsequently see oil development and also create a substantial number of jobs in the development of their oil resources.

How cruel our existing policy has been relative to the development of leasing activity within Indian lands. By requiring, as we have done since the 1909 act, virtually every interest owner, no matter how minute, to have to be identified and have them sign off on the proposal, we have essentially shut Indian oil development down cold.

I think that this legislation, which will be so particularly important to the tribe at issue, may also serve as an example that we might follow later on. And so as we help the Fort Berthold Indian Reservation tonight, I believe that we may be doing a favor for all Indian reservations that might be interested in exploring mineral leasing activity in the future. Mr. Speaker, again I thank all in the majority for helping us bring this matter forward.

Mr. MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, S. 1079 is a bill introduced by Senator DORGAN that allows the Three Affiliated Tribes of the Fort Berthold Reservation in North Dakota to take an important step toward future economic development. Congressman POMEROY of North Dakota has sponsored similar legislation in the House.

In an attempt to force Senate action on the Quincy Library Group legislation, the majority has sent S. 1079 to the desk with an unrelated amendment, that with one change is the text of Quincy Library Group bill (H.R. 858) that was reported by the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee last month.

Members may recall that when the House considered H.R. 858 in July, I initially opposed the bill. However, after negotiating with Chairman YOUNG, a number of important changes were made to the bill on the House floor. With those changes I voted for the bill. I recognized at the time that the bill was far from a perfect measure but it was significantly improved.

The Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee has made further changes to the bill. Two of the most important changes were to provide roadless area protection to large areas of the three national forests and to provide the pilot project will end the earlier of when the forest plan is amended or 5 years.

I am pleased to see the language added on roadless area protection. This change provides a statutory basis for such protection but it by no means is the only protection that can be provided. There is no requirement that the Forest Service undertake activities on lands that were not identified as off-base or deferred. The Forest Service has the authority and I expect them to use it to not enter into lands where it has been brought to their attention that such activities would harm either the land or the resources found on those lands.

Likewise, the Senate change on the time limit of the pilot project is an improvement. As I and others had noted, it made no sense to require the Forest Service to continue the pilot project even after the plan amendment process has been completed. This is inconsistent with the normal operation of environmental laws.

Let us not forget, the Quincy Library Group legislation is a pilot project. As such, it sets no precedent for further action on other proposals. In fact, it would be irresponsible to act on other such proposals before this pilot project was completed and we and others had a chance to review its strengths and weaknesses. I still have reservations on this proposal but it obvious that the bill has been substantively improved from where it started out. I expect the Forest Service to see that all environmental laws are complied with, as the bill requires.

Mr. Speaker, I will not oppose the non-germane amendment that is being offered to S. 1079 but I must question the majority's tactic of using this bill as an attempt to force Senate action of the Quincy Library Group legislation. The only thing this strategy has to offer is that the Senate will have before it two Quincy bills before it rather than one.

I regret the S. 1079 is being held hostage. The underlying bill would allow the Secretary of the Interior to approve the mineral lease of lands for individual Indians living on the Fort Berthold Reservation when a majority of interest owners have agreed to the lease. Otherwise, approval of the lease would require unanimous consent of all the interest owners.

Because many of the ownership of interests individual Indian lands have been divided and subdivided into hundreds of shares over the past century, leasing of these Indian lands for any purpose has posed an insurmountable problem because it is nearly impossible for the Bureau of Indian Affairs or the tribes to identify and track down each individual interest owner, much less get their unanimous consent.

Basically, this bill tackles the fractionated heirship problem that plagues many Indian reservations across the country. On the whole it is a good approach and may be considered as one model for national legislation that addresses this problem for all Indian tribes.

Nevertheless, I have two concerns about this bill. The first is procedural. No hearings or other kind of legislative record has been built up here in the House of Representatives. This is not the first time nor, I suspend, the last that Indian bills are going to be handled in this fashion. I just want to point this out for the record.

Second, I remain concerned about a provision in the bill that allows the Secretary to execute a mineral lease on behalf of an Indian owner if the land is in probate and the heirs or devisees have not been determined or cannot be located.

With the extent of fractionated heirship in Indian country, there will certainly be many cases where the heirs have not been determined or cannot be located. In this case, the bill does not impose a requirement that the Secretary make serious effort to determine or locate the heirs. I am concerned that the BIA will simply use this language as an excuse to simply rubber stamp any lease application for lands in probate.

I hope that this will not be the result of this bill and strongly urge the administration to adopt regulations that impose a serious duty to make a good faith effort to give notice to, and determine and locate, those heirs and devises of lands subject to this bill. Furthermore, the administration should also adopt regulations that at least give the probate process a fair but timely chance of working.

Having voiced these concerns, I will support passage of this bill.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mrs. CHENOWETH. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CALVERT). The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from Idaho [Mrs. CHENOWETH] that the House suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill, S. 1079, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate bill, as amended, was passed.

The title of the Senate bill was amended so as to read: "A bill to permit the mineral leasing of Indian land located within the Fort Berthold Indian Reservation in any case in which there is consent from a majority interest in the parcel of land under consideration for lease, to direct the Secretary of Agriculture to conduct a pilot project on designated national forest lands in California to demonstrate the effectiveness of resource management activities proposed by the Quincy Library Group, and for other purposes."

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mrs. CHENOWETH. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the Senate bill just passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Idaho?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN] and the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HAMILTON] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN].

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on this measure.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. GILMAN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, the Iran Missile Proliferation Sanctions Act of 1997 is intended to close loopholes in our counterproliferation laws in order to address a matter of critical concern to our national security, the risk that Iran may soon obtain from firms in Russia and elsewhere the capability of producing its own medium and long-range ballistic missiles.

This legislation enjoys extremely strong support on both sides of the aisle. At last count, over 263 Members had asked to be listed as cosponsors, including both the Speaker, Mr. GINGRICH, and the Democratic leader, Mr. GEPHARDT]. A companion measure in the Senate has 84 cosponsors, led by the Senate majority leader, Mr. LOTT, and by Mr. LIEBERMAN of Connecticut.

The urgency for this legislation is apparent from press reports. For more than a year, our Government has been in constant dialog with the Russian leadership regarding Russian assistance to the Iranian ballistic missile program. The meetings have been going on, more talks are scheduled, more summits are held, yet the Iranian military continues to make rapid progress in developing long-range missiles with critically needed assistance from Russian firms. Unless something happens soon, according to press reports, Iran is likely to achieve the ability to produce its own ballistic missiles within less than 1 year.

It is now time for the Congress to say that enough is enough. We need to back up our rhetoric on nonproliferation with meaningful action. With this legislation, we will be giving Russian firms compelling reasons not to trade with Iran. The sanctions which this legislation threatens to impose will force those firms to choose between their short-term profits from dealing with Iran and potentially far more lucrative long-term economic relations with our own Nation.

To make certain that the President takes a careful look at this legislation, the amendment before us also adds to our Iranian sanctions measure the text of Senate 610, the Chemical Weapons Convention Implementation Act of 1997, which passed the Senate unanimously earlier this year. Unlike the Chemical Weapons Convention itself, which was controversial in the Senate, the implementing legislation is strongly supported all across the political spectrum, from the administration to Senators such as JOHN KYL and JESSE HELMS who have led the fight against the Chemical Weapons Convention.

Mr. Speaker, in the 1980's the world stood by as Saddam Hussein built up the Iraqi arsenal of weapons of mass destruction. This bill will help make certain that Iran does not follow the example of its neighbors in Iraq and become the next threat to international stability. Accordingly, I urge my colleagues to join in support of this measure.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this bill, and I oppose it for 3 reasons:

First, the bill links a missile sanctions bill to the Senate-passed Chemical Weapons Convention implementation legislation. The House should consider these bills separately so that S. 610 can proceed quickly to enactment.

Second, this missile sanctions bill is harmful to current United States diplomatic efforts to stop missile technology transfers from Russia to Iran.

And, third, the bill itself is flawed.

Let me spell out these reasons in more detail.

With regard to the first point, the missile sanctions bill and the Chemical Weapons Convention implementation legislation are separate and distinct pieces of legislation. They deserve separate consideration.

Today the United States is out of compliance with its obligations to the Chemical Weapons Convention and will continue to be out of compliance until this implementation legislation, S. 610, is enacted.

We should act on S. 610 as soon as possible. We should send it directly to the President as a freestanding measure and not attach it to another measure and send it back to the Senate.

The sponsors of the missile sanctions bill, H.R. 2709, have attached S. 610 to it because they believe that S. 610 will lead to the swift enactment of the sanctions bill.

The President's National Security Adviser and the Secretary of State strongly oppose the missile sanctions bill. They recommend that he veto it if it is presented to the President in its current form. They also recommend a veto if S. 610 is attached. I quote from the Statement of Administration Policy:

S. 610 has strong bipartisan support from Members on both sides of the aisle. If S. 610 is attached to H.R. 2709, however, the Secretary of State and the National Security Adviser would have no choice other than to recommend that the President veto the combined bill.

So for those of you who support swift passage of the Chemical Weapons Convention implementation legislation, I urge you to oppose this bill. This bill will delay, not speed up, U.S. compliance with the Chemical Weapons Convention.

Second, I believe that Congress and the executive branch certainly share the same policy goal, to stop the transfer of missile technology to Iran. The question before us is the most effective way to achieve that shared goal.

The gentlewoman from California [Ms. HARMAN] and others deserve credit for their efforts to focus attention on the important issue of missile technology transfers to Iran. I think they have got the right approach, which is to express the strong sense of Congress on the issue. But I do not agree with the approach taken in this bill.

Stopping the transfer of missile technology to Iran requires diplomacy. It requires the President to pursue a high-level diplomatic effort with those countries that provide missile technology to Iran. At the end of the day, this problem is going to be solved by diplomacy.

This is exactly what the administration is doing. The President's envoy, Ambassador Wisner, is conducting negotiations with Russia on this topic. He was in Moscow last week. The administration is working as hard as it can, from the President to the Vice President on down, to stop Russian missile technology transfers to Iran. They believe, the administration, that they are starting to make progress, and they believe they can show a lot more progress between now and January. Senior Russian officials have already indicated that Iranian missiles are not in their interest. Our diplomacy is beginning to achieve results, but we do not yet have a satisfactory result.

That is the view of the Secretary of State, the National Security Advisor, and the Vice President. The Vice President has made a strong plea for a little more time to show results, and we should give it to him. If there is no progress, we can come back to this bill in January.

Third and finally, this missile sanctions bill has several flaws. It establishes too low a threshold for the imposition of sanctions. It would require the executive to report and impose sanctions based on credible information it receives about transfers or attempted transfers of missile-related goods and technology to Iran.

"Credible information" is not defined in the bill and is subject to very broad interpretation. One report or one phone call could be "credible information" and could trigger a requirement to report and to impose sanctions.

The bill does not allow enough time between the requirement to report and the requirement to sanction. Sanctions would have to be imposed no later than 30 days after the date of the required report. In many cases, sanctions can be imposed erroneously, needlessly damaging U.S. credibility with other governments in our efforts to prevent Iran from obtaining missile technology.

The bill has no requirement that actions subject to sanctions be taken knowingly. Sanctions would be imposed on entities unaware that items are going to Iran or will be used in missiles. Such a provision is fundamentally unfair and will undermine U.S.

credibility and the willingness of foreign entities to cooperate with the United States.

The bill's waiver provisions, while a step forward, could be improved further. It lacks flexibility for the President. The bill is retroactive in its application. The bill applies sanctions on U.S. subsidiaries of foreign firms that are sanctioned.

I do not believe Congress has a full understanding of the bill's impact if it is enacted into law. I believe further consultation with the executive branch is necessary. Further consultation would improve this bill so it will strengthen, not undermine, the President's ability to achieve the goals that all of us share to stop Iran's missile program.

So I believe the bill will negatively impact U.S. national interests. It is going to slow down our ability to get the President a bill that he will sign so that he can meet our treaty obligations under the Chemical Weapons Convention. It will be counterproductive to our efforts to stop the transfer of missiles technology to Iran. And as I have indicated, the Secretary and the National Security Advisor are going to recommend that the President veto this bill if it is sent to him in the form that we have it before the House this evening.

I urge a "no" vote.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the Iran Missile Proliferation Act introduced by the distinguished chairman of the Committee on International Relations, the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN].

As the gentleman from New York has noted, this legislation is intended to provide additional leverage for the United States in responding to assistance by Russian institutes and research facilities for Iran's medium and long-range missile programs.

H.R. 2709 will close loopholes in existing U.S. sanction laws as these loopholes have been used in the past to avoid sanctioning firms that have transferred missile goods or technology to Iran. It does not target an entire government but, rather, the individuals and entities which are actually the perpetrators of proliferation activities.

The President would be required to submit a report identifying those individuals and entities where there is credible evidence that they have transferred key missile components of technology to Iran. Thirty days after this report, a number of important sanctions denying munition licenses, dual-use technology licenses, and U.S. foreign assistance to these entities, those kind of things will be imposed for a period of at least 2 years on the identified entities.

Mr. Speaker, our distinguished colleague from Indiana [Mr. HAMILTON] has given quite a list of things that he finds objectionable from the existing legislation. Whether it is this legislation or other legislation, I think it is imperative that this House and the Congress speak out very strongly that we want the kind of proliferation being conducted by Russian entities to Iran to stop. We cannot sit back and be asked simply that the route towards diplomacy be pursued for the next several months. We are at a critical point, and this Congress has a responsibility to say we want action now, it is essential while we are putting much of the Middle East and much of Europe in jeopardy.

Mr. Speaker, the prevention of Iran's acquisition of ballistic missiles and weapons of mass destruction is one of this Nation's most important national security objectives. Iranian possession of ballistic missiles poses an unacceptable threat to the military forces of the United States and its allies throughout the Persian Gulf, Middle East, and southern and southeastern Europe. H.R. 2709 is an important tool to limit the proliferation of the Persian Gulf. I believe it would be irresponsible if we simply took no action, did not express ourself, did not try to pass legislation before we adjourn this year.

Frankly speaking, Mr. Speaker, this legislation would be unnecessary if the executive branch were willing to comply with existing law governing missile technology controls. This is not simply a criticism of this President or this administration, for previous Presidents have been equally reluctant to enforce the law when it comes to sanctions on these crucial matters.

When an administration, this one or a previous one, continually refuses to invoke the law, whether it is the Arms Control Export Act or the refusal to declare that a coup has occurred in Cambodia because the resulting sanctions would reduce the State Department's flexibility, a word we hear often, it demeans the law. It encourages this body to pursue every more stringent sanctions.

Mr. Speaker, this Member hopes that this body can get out of the business of imposing new sanctions, but this will not happen until the executive branch, this one, the previous ones, come into compliance with the law, respect the law as Congress enacts it. This Member therefore would urge the executive branch to adhere to the provisions of H.R. 2709 which I hope this Congress will enact.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from California [Mr. BERMAN].

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. BEREUTER], who is controlling time for the majority, if he would yield an additional 3 minutes to me.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield an additional 3 minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. BERMAN].

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CALVERT). The gentleman from California [Mr. BERMAN] is recognized for 6 minutes.

(Mr. BERMAN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, while I agree with a number of the points made by my dear friend and the ranking member of the Committee on International Relations, I come to a different conclusion on the issue of House passage of this bill, and I rise in support of the passage of H.R. 2930. I think it pays to take a couple of moments to just restate sort of what we know about contributions to the Iranian missile program.

First of all, we know it has been clearly reported, it is not in dispute, that Iran has developed, has a nuclear weapons program. It is also quite clear that Iran has also embarked on a program to develop medium and long-range missiles. The Iranian missile program has been contributed to recently by a number of transfers of technology in parts from the Russian SS-4 intermediate range ballistic missile, and apparently Iran Shihab-3 and Shihab-4 missiles are being designed with Russian assistance to expand to a range of 930 to 1,250 miles. There have been additional reports that Iran is working toward developing a multi-stage intercontinental missile with a range of 3,500 missiles.

When we take their nuclear program and their missile program together, I think everyone in this Chamber can understand just how dangerous this can be if Iran is successful in its pursuits in these areas.

The more sophisticated weapon assistance that Iran receives from abroad, the quicker Iran will realize its goal of a long-range weapon delivery system.

Robert Pelletreau, who was then Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs, testified, only by imposing a real and heavy price can we and other countries convince the Iranian leadership that changing its threatening behavior is in Iran's own interest. That threatening behavior continues, and this legislation is another effort to convince other countries that a real and heavy price must be paid for aiding Iran's weapons program.

I would just like to deal with a couple of the points raised by the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HAMILTON], the ranking member of the full committee. There are some flaws in this legislation, but I think he would agree, the legislation is significantly improved from the form in which it was introduced. The kind of conduct that it has focused on deals now with violations of the Missile Technology Control Regime and other efforts that are governed by that regime that the administration, and only the administration, certify constitutes significant contributions to the Iranian missile program.

The report that is required by this legislation can now be classified at the discretion of the administration, and it is clear from the report language accompanying this bill that the national security waiver, which has been put into this bill, may be utilized where an entity in any country, and specifically in Russia, has made an improper and illegal transfer.

Remember, Russia has committed to adhering to the Missile Technology Control Regime, but when they make such a transfer, if the administration is assured that they will no longer do so and believes that it is important that those sanctions be waived, they are able to use the national security waiver to do that.

So that even with some of the other flaws, particularly the credible information threshold, which is too low a threshold, I think this legislation is worthy of our support, because it is a forcing mechanism and it is a statement by the House of Representatives that this is a critical problem, that our relationships with Russia and its ability to control the entities within that country that are contributing to this program are going to be seriously affected by its future conduct.

There is no doubt that this administration now is heavily engaged in this issue. They are pressing the Russians hard to cut off that aid. President Clinton, Vice President Gore, and Ambassador Wisner have raised our concern with the Russian leadership, although there is some evidence that assistance continues to flow.

I believe the administration should view the House passage of this legislation as aiding and assisting their efforts to persuade the Russians to cut off all aid to the Iranian missile program and to enforce export controls which will ensure no additional aid leaks out.

I wish that the majority had not combined this bill with the Chemical Weapons Convention Implementation Act of 1997. My fear is that the result of combining these two important pieces of legislation will mean that when this bill gets over in the Senate, neither one will pass. That decision to combine has been made. Both bills are important.

I might point out, by the way, that both Russia and Iran have now ratified the Chemical Weapons Convention, so that passage of the implementing legislation is quite important on its own. My only hope is that if the Senate chooses, for whatever reason, to sever the two bills and send the chemical weapons implementation legislation back to us tomorrow and before we adjourn for the year, that we will take that legislation up separately. But both bills are important, and the decision has been made to combine them, and I would urge my colleagues to support its passage.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3½ minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. FOX], a member of the committee.

Mr. FOX of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, we in the House are persuaded that missile transfers from Russia to Iran pose a great threat to the United States and to our allies in the Middle East and Europe. We are especially troubled by reports we received to the effect that Iran is only 9 to 12 months away from achieving an indigenous missile capacity.

We welcome the efforts undertaken with Russia to resolve this problem, but we cannot ignore the reports that we received that since Ambassador Wisner went to work on this problem, the pace of Russian transfers to Iran has increased rather than decreased. At this stage, we therefore feel compelled to act on this matter.

Our legislation is based on a slightly different philosophy than the administration's diplomatic efforts. We are not seeking to coerce the Russian Government to do anything. Rather, we target our sanctions on the Russian entities that are making missile transfers to Iran. Most of these entities are interested in future business dealings with the United States, particularly in the area of aerospace cooperation. The point of our legislation is to tell these entities in no uncertain terms that continued dealings with Iran will be fatal to any future cooperation with the United States.

Our legislation has 263 cosponsors in the House, including its main sponsor, the gentleman from New York, Chairman GILMAN, the Speaker of the House, the Democratic leader; and the companion bill in the Senate has similarly strong support.

The statement of administration policy that has been quoted on the House floor is dated November 7, 1997. H.R. 2709 has been modified since the statement of administration policy was originally written. One of the modifications in the bill was specifically made to address the administration's concerns.

Section 2 of the bill requires the administration to submit a report which identifies those foreign companies where there is credible evidence that they have transferred or retransferred goods or technology or provided technical assistance to Iran's efforts to acquire, develop or produce ballistic missiles.

The bill report from the committee required this administration submit this report in unclassified form. That section now has been modified to allow the report to be classified. The committee is persuaded that such a change will assist the administration's efforts to halt the transfer of missile technology to Iran. We urge the administration to consider this bill modification as it reviews its position on the bill.

I am not surprised the administration does not support the bill. Why? Because the bill does not give the administration the usual loopholes to avoid sanctioning foreign countries that assist Iran.

The administration's statement of policy states that the standard of evidence sanctions and reporting requirements of H.R. 2709 are broad and vague. Nothing could be further from the truth. The committee report details what we mean by the term "credible information." The report details the three sanctions to be imposed, and the report details sanctions required in the bill. These requirements are neither broad nor vague.

Simply put, Mr. Speaker, the administration does not like this bill because they know they cannot ignore it, they cannot shove it under the table, and the sanctions must go forward, if appropriate.

I would therefore urge our colleagues to support H.R. 2709, the Iran Missile Proliferation Sanctions Act of 1997.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Maryland [Mr. CARDIN].

(Mr. CARDIN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the ranking member for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 2709, the Iran Missile Proliferation Sanctions Act of 1997. Iran is the leading sponsor of international terrorism. That is a conclusion that has been reached by our President, by our Secretary of State and by the Director of the CIA. The evidence is also clear that Russian entities are aiding the Iranian Government in its efforts to acquire and develop ballistic missiles. Thus, this legislation is needed.

This legislation appropriately imposes sanctions on foreign persons who transfer key missile components or technology to Iran. I understand the concerns that have been expressed by the ranking member, but I think it is important that this House move this legislation forward, and I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 2709.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, it is my pleasure to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. CUNNINGHAM].

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, although this bill deals primarily with missiles, I would like this body to consider, China just bought 200 SU-27s from Russia, better than our F-14s and F-15s, along with AA-12. China has sold nuclear components and chemical and biological weapons to Iran, Iraq, and Pakistan.

China and Russia are not our friends, and I think it is time that we need to realize that. Yes, we need to engage. I do not think there will be peace in my lifetime in the Middle East, and we need to engage both of those parties, but they are still very, very dangerous.

In Bosnia, there are over 10,000 mujahedin and Hamas surrounding Izetbegovic's government. Yet we in the United States continue to arm the Muslims in that portion of the world, when the balance has gone over.

I would rise in support of this. The Cold War is over, but it is a very, very hostile world, and especially if you look at Russia today is building a first nuclear strike site. Russia today is building under the Ural Mountains a first-strike nuclear weapons site larger than inside the Beltway. That is huge. Why?

Yet we need to arm the President, the White House, and this body, along with the other body, needs to hold firm. While we downgrade our own military, this is a first step in holding the line on proliferation for other countries.

Why downgrade our own military, and let other nations build theirs up, which are not only a threat to us? If you look in Bosnia, that is a threat to Greece, it is a threat to Europe, especially with the mujahedin and Hamas. Yes, we are going to look at some of those same missiles ourselves.

So I laud the gentleman in this bill and rise in support.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from New York [Mr. ENGEL].

(Mr. ENGEL asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ENGEL. Mr. Speaker, I thank my distinguished colleague, the gentleman from Indiana, for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 2709, and I must tell you that I have heretofore resisted any legislation which puts sanctions on Russia or any entities. But I think the time has come that the Congress really needs to take a tough stand.

It is no secret that Russia and Russian companies have been providing technology to Iran and missile goods to Iran. The one thing that strikes me is if you go to the Middle East and you speak with heads of governments of all of the countries, Israel and the Arab States may have many disagreements, but the one thing on which they all agree is that Iran is the threat to the region. You will hear the same thing in Jerusalem, the capital of Israel, as you will hear in Cairo, the capital of Egypt, as you will hear in Riyadh, the capital of Saudi Arabia, and all the Persian Gulf countries. While at the moment we are focused on Iraq and the crisis there with Iraq, the governments will all say the long-range threat comes from Iran.

When we look to see which countries are assisting Iran in developing this technology, we look to China, and the President has had an agreement with the Chinese leadership to stop any kind of transfer of technology to Iran. We look to North Korea, they have done it; and, of course, Russia.

I think that it is very, very important that the Russian Government and the Russian companies understand that our patience has worn thin; that because Iran is not only a threat to the region, but indeed a threat to the world, supporting terrorism, we do not feel that we can simply let the status quo continue.

Iran has the capability and will have the capability in a few months to be able to strike out and hit all the countries that I mentioned if it goes unchecked. Now, it is clear that Russia has already provided Iran with critical know-how and technological support. The question facing us now is whether we can halt any further assistance, and time is short. As I mentioned, we have but a few months to prevent Iran from achieving a significant advance in its missile program.

Most critical in the short term is the prospect of Iran enhancing its ballistic missile capacity. Iranian acquisition of ballistic missiles with a range of 1,300 kilometers or more poses an unacceptable threat to American forces in the Middle East, as well as our allies throughout the Persian Gulf region.

It is hard for me to believe that Russia's assistance to Iran does not violate Russia's international obligations as an adherent to the Missile Technology Control Regime, the MTCR. It is also inconceivable to me that such transfers would not trigger U.S. missile sanction laws.

I think it is time for this Congress to stand tall and to say to Russia and Russian companies that we are not going to permit this transfer, and H.R. 2709 goes a long way in that direction.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from New York [Mr. NADLER].

(Mr. NADLER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 2709. This bill would force the President to impose sanctions on entities that assist Iran's missile program, mostly Russian, perhaps some Chinese entities, perhaps some European entities as well.

Mr. Speaker, others have expressed well the dangers that Iranian missiles, perhaps armed eventually with nuclear warheads, pose to Israel, to some of our Arab quasi-allies, and to American security interests.

Russian help and Chinese help for this development is not a friendly act, and is the most profoundly irresponsible act, and the administration, for all its protestation, has shown a pattern of certifying when Congress passed this law that says, we do not want most-favored-nation treatment, we have seen that when we pass laws that say that this or that should not be done unless the President certifies that human rights are being adhered to or that nonproliferation is being adhered to, the certification comes whether the facts support them or not all too often. So I think it is time for Congress to step in and tighten the legal regime, as this bill does, to make it more clear that these sanctions must be imposed.

I also think that, given the sometimes unclear circumstances as to whether the Russian Government has effective control over these entities, that it is good that this legislation applies directly to these business entities, and not simply to the foreign governments.

So I support this legislation. I regret the necessity of it, but it is time to step in with this kind of legislation to reduce the likelihood that we will be faced with the kind of foreign policy catastrophe that will be presented by Iranian possession and threat of use of long-range missiles.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Oregon [Ms. FURSE].

Ms. FURSE. Mr. Speaker, I think there is an unfortunate problem that has occurred on this bill that Members should be aware of. I was an original cosponsor of the original 2709, but the bill before us is not that bill, because the bill before us also includes the chemical weapons convention implementing legislation.

Now, there is a real problem for this, and Members should know about that. If the President should decide to veto 2709, which there has been some talk of, he will also veto the chemical weapons convention legislation, the legislation that implements it.

For years we have been fighting for a chemical weapons convention. It would be a tragedy if tonight, by just a mistake, if people think they are only voting for 2709. They must know they are putting at jeopardy the chemical weapons convention implementing legislation.

I would urge Members to vote against 2709, even though, as I say, I was a cosponsor, in order to protect that chemical weapons convention. A no vote will protect the chemical weapons convention.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, a bipartisan coalition of Members of this House, a strong one, want to have action on the chemical weapons convention. We also want to see the implementation of it. We also want to see action on the Iran missile proliferation issue.

We understand the larger picture with respect to Russia. We understand the administration's position on that. We understand the importance the administration understandably places on a Russian-American joint space exploration program.

We have listened to the distinguished Vice President of the United States. We have listened to the highest officials in the Clinton administration. We have heard their arguments on this issue.

But collectively, a large majority of people on both sides of the aisle in this House, and indeed in the other body, believe that we have waited long enough to see the imposition of effective sanctions brought to bear upon the Russian entities that seem to be providing missile technology to Iran. We are unwilling to bear the risk of further delays in implementing sanctions.

We are sending a very, very clear message to the government of Russia that we want entities in Russia to stop providing this kind of cooperation to the government of Iran.

Mr. Speaker, because it places in jeopardy very large parts of the Persian Gulf, our allies in the Middle East, and major parts of Europe, we want to have action on this issue. We see the only way to have a likelihood that the President will sign the legislation is attaching it to the implementation legislation for the Chemical Weapons Convention. Alternatively, we can see the Iranians developing the missile capacity that enables them to bring great explosive destruction or even weapons of mass destruction to bear on the Persian Gulf, on the Middle East and Europe. Therefore, we urge our colleagues to support H.R. 2709.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore [Mr. CALVERT]. All time has expired.

The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. BEREUTER] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2709, as amended.

The title of the bill was amended so as to read:

A bill to impose certain sanctions on foreign persons who transfer items contributing to Iran's efforts to acquire, develop, or produce ballistic missiles, and to implement the obligations of the United States under the Chemical Weapons Convention.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] and the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. CONYERS] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS].

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the bill now under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The current bill, H.R. 764, the Bankruptcy Amendments of 1997, consists primarily of technical corrections which are intended to clarify original intent, correct drafting defects, and improve grammar and cross-references in the Bankruptcy Code. Many of these changes are occasioned by minor problems with the language in the Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1994, and will not change the results in future cases.

There are also several more substantive provisions, limited in scope, designed to rectify shortcomings in current law. They are fully discussed in the committee report, and I will only briefly describe four provisions here.

By amendment to section 101(51B) of the Bankruptcy Code, renumbered section 101(57), the present $4 million cap on single asset real estate is raised to $15 million. This will enable creditors in more cases to obtain expedited relief from the automatic stay's bar to foreclosure. This is provided for under section 362(d)(3) of the Bankruptcy Code.

Section 101(54) of the Bankruptcy Code, renumbered section 101(66), is amended to define "transfer" as including the "creation of a lien," which is in accord with a widely held understanding. This will protect a purchase money lender, who has recorded a deed of trust without knowledge of a bankruptcy filing, from the trustee's power to avoid certain post-petition property transfers.

And, section 365(b) of the Bankruptcy Code is amended to give recognition to different policy considerations that are implicated, when there are incurable nonmonetary defaults, in the trustee's power to assume executory contracts and unexpired leases of the debtor.

The Code is amended in section 523(a)(9) to provide, as is now the case with motor vehicles, that any debt for death or personal injury arising from a debtor's unlawful operation of a watercraft or aircraft while intoxicated is nondischargeable in bankruptcy.

Mr. Speaker, it has been necessary to proceed with a manager's amendment to the bill as reported from the Committee on the Judiciary, primarily in order to further clarify the amendment to section 365(b). This has been agreed to by both sides. The manager's amendment substitutes new language for section 11 of the bill as reported. The other 33 sections of the bill remain unchanged.

Section 11(a) modifies the language of section 11, as reported, to clarify that when a trustee or debtor-in-possession is excused from curing a non-monetary default under a real estate lease or executory contract as a condition to the assumption of the contract or lease, the creditor remains entitled to compensation for actual pecuniary loss resulting from the default and to adequate assurance of future performance.

Section 11(b) amends section 1124(2) of the Bankruptcy Code to modify a cross-reference to reflect the clarification made by section 11(a), and to provide that the creditor remains entitled to compensation for actual pecuniary loss resulting from the default for purposes of determining when the creditor's claim or interest arising from the default is not impaired.

Does the Speaker understand fully what I have just described here in the last 5 minutes? If not, Mr. Speaker, I urge the House to pass H.R. 764, the Bankruptcy Amendments of 1997.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I want to commend the subcommittee Chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS], and the ranking member, the gentleman from New York [Mr. NADLER], for working on this measure that was introduced by myself, and the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. HYDE], on the first day of the session, and they have been at it for quite a while.

The long and short of the bankruptcy laws are that there are about 29 technical corrections and about 5 substantive corrections. The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] has mentioned 4 of the 5, and I am in perfect agreement with him.

We are now hopeful that the Senate will be able to meet with us as early as they can in the year and that we can work this to a favorable resolution, because there are more and more bankruptcy issues coming forward in the next year, the last term of this Congress.

Now, I would like to raise to the Members' attention the fact that our colleague from Michigan [Mr. EHLERS] did us a singular honor by tracking a fifth circuit case that required amending, in which one distinguished judge was not able to distinguish that motor boats and airplanes are in the same category as automobiles, and we talk about nondischargeability, and he weighed in in a very important way to bring about the changes that the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] has referred to.

All in all, this bill clarifies many outstanding issues that those who end up in bankruptcy matters, the judges, the trustees-in-bankruptcy, and the whole bankruptcy bar has been looking to have resolved for many years. So I am pleased on behalf of the Democrats on the committee to join with the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] in urging that this measure, H.R. 764, be reported.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. EHLERS].

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Speaker, first I want to thank the gentleman for yielding me this time to speak regarding section 10(2)(B) of this bill. This section would make nondischargeable through bankruptcy a debt incurred as a result of the operation of a boat or airplane while under the influence of alcohol.

This section is taken from a bill I sponsored for several years and which the House passed unanimously last year, but which unfortunately did not receive action in the Senate. My bill, and this section of H.R. 764, seeks to correct what I believe was a bill-drafting oversight involving our bankruptcy laws.

Current law states that if an individual incurs a debt as a result of the operation of a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol, they cannot have that debt discharged through a declaration of bankruptcy. Since this law was originally enacted, the courts have generally interpreted the statute's use of the term "motor vehicle" as meaning "automobile," although some courts have differed with that.

Mr. Speaker, as we know, my home State of Michigan has an extraordinarily robust boating industry. Over the years we have worked hard on the State level, as have many other States, to make it perfectly clear that drunk boating is as serious a crime as drunk driving, and we have consistently written Michigan drunk driving laws to explicitly include drunk boating.

The language in this section simply seeks to extend this notion of equal treatment of drunk driving and drunk boating to the Federal level, as it concerns our bankruptcy laws. Since the courts have ruled that the Bankruptcy Code, as it is currently written, may only refer to automobiles, we seek to specifically add watercraft to this section of the Bankruptcy Code.

In addition, while it does not have the public profile of drunk driving and drunk boating, the operation of aircraft under the influence of alcohol and drugs has also been a problem, with far higher potential for injury and death. I might just mention parenthetically the airplane that crashed into the White House a few years ago when someone was flying under the influence of alcohol and drugs. This bill's language recognizes this and includes the drunk operation of aircraft as well.

I want to note here that it is not my intention, nor do I believe that it is the intention of this committee presenting this bill, to include "watercraft" and "aircraft" in the definition of "motor vehicle," but rather it is the intention to add "watercraft" and "aircraft" to this section of the Bankruptcy Code exclusive of "motor vehicle," and I want the record to reflect this.

Again, Mr. Speaker, while this issue may not garner a great deal of public attention, those that have been negatively impacted by the lack of clarity in this section of the Bankruptcy Code have suffered significantly by not being able to collect judgments that have been given them, and we ought to protect future victims of drunk boating and drunk flying by adopting the simple correction called for in this bill.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2½ minutes to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. KNOLLENBERG].

Mr. KNOLLENBERG. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the chairman of the subcommittee, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS], for the work that he has done on this bill in fashioning it as he did and allowing my inclusion. What I would like to speak about is that H.R. 764 includes a provision, and by the way, I do support this bill, includes a provision that addresses an injustice that exists within Title XI of the United States Code regarding single asset bankruptcies. This provision is similar to legislation that I introduced in H.R. 73, and I thank the entire committee again for bringing this bill to the floor today.

The injustice within Title XI stems from an eleventh hour action, call it 11:59, during the 103d Congress that placed an arbitrary $4 million ceiling on single asset provisions in the bill. The affect has been to render investors helpless in foreclosures on single assets that were valued over $4 million. H.R. 764 will provide some relief to victims of this arbitrary $4 million ceiling by raising the ceiling to $15 million.

While I am glad to see we are moving in the right direction, I frankly believe we should eliminate the arbitrary ceiling altogether. Under this law, Chapter XI of the Bankruptcy Code serves as a legal shield for the debtor.

While in Chapter 11, the debtor will continue to collect the rents on this commercial asset. There is a problem. The problem is that the commercial property will typically be left to deteriorate and the property taxes go unpaid. When the investor finally recovers the property through the delayed foreclosure, they owe an enormous amount of back taxes, they receive a commercial property left in deterioration which has lower rent value and lower resale value, and, meanwhile, the rent for all the months or years they were trying to retain the property went to an uncollectable debtor.

It is also worth noting that H.R. 764 does not leave the debtor without protection. First, the investor brings a foreclosure against a debtor only as a last resort; and, second, the debtor has up to 90 days to reorganize under Chapter 11.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 764. While I feel that we should eliminate the arbitrary ceiling on single-asset bankruptcies, this bill moves us in the right direction by making it harder for individuals to game the system.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I thank our colleague, the gentleman from Michigan, for adding to the impetus of this legislation, and I thank the gentleman from Michigan and the gentleman from New York [Mr. NADLER] for their cooperation.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore [Mr. CALVERT]. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 764, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS TO SECTION 10 OF TITLE 9, UNITED STATES CODE

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 2440) to make technical amendments to section 10 of title 9, United States Code.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 2440

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled.

SECTION 1. VACATION OF AWARDS.

Section 10 of title 9, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by indenting the margin of paragraphs (1) through (4) of subsection (a) 2 ems;

(2) by striking "Where" in such paragraphs and inserting "where";

(3) by striking the period at the end of paragraphs (1), (2), and (3) of subsection (a) and inserting a semicolon and by adding "or" at the end of paragraph (3);

(4) by redesignating subsection (b) as subsection (c); and

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] and the gentleman from New York [Mr. NADLER] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS].

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this is a momentous piece of legislation. I hope the Speaker pays close attention to the content of our presentation.

This bill is sponsored by myself and the gentleman from New York [Mr. NADLER], and there is no controversy associated with it except what I am going to make of it. But, Mr. Speaker, H.R. 2440 is truly a technical corrections bill, which the gentleman from New York and I have introduced, with the agreement of the Office of Law Revision Counsel.

Section 10 of title 9, United States Code, has a typographical flaw which has evaded detection ever since its original enactment. That section enumerates the grounds for vacating an arbitrator's award with each new ground beginning with the word "where." The fifth ground, however, is obviously not a ground for vacating an award but, rather, the beginning of a new sentence.

The error was called to our attention by a law clerk for a justice of the State of New York Supreme Court, the Appellate Division, Mr. Peter Brokowski by name, who had occasion to refer to the statute. This, of course, is in itself heartening as an example of observant and conscientious citizens participating in and having an effect on their government. We want the record to show how much we worked on this piece of legislation. I urge adoption of the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. NADLER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, this bill, as the distinguished chairman said, is a momentous piece of legislation. We refer to it as the comma bill. It clears up the language in title 9 of the U.S. Code without making any substantive changes.

Section 10(a) of the Code sets out four cases under which a court may vacate an arbitrator's award after application of one of the parties. However, section 10(a) contains what appears to be a fifth case in which an award may be vacated. In fact, it is clear from the context that section 10(a)(5) is intended to set out the circumstances under which the court may direct a rehearing by the arbitrators, and not a vacating of the arbitrator's award. It should therefore be placed into a separate subsection. The bill does this and clarifies the law, so I support this bill.

I would only add that the chairman referred to the law clerk who brought it to our attention. He is the law clerk of the Appellate Division justice, the Honorable Richard Wallach, who is a constituent and longtime friend and associate of mine. I am glad that his office was on the ball and brought this to our attention.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I regret that we have no more speakers on this subject, since I wanted a full debate, but I have no further requests for time, so I reluctantly yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2440.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GRANTING CONSENT OF CONGRESS TO THE CHICKASAW TRAIL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT COMPACT

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the joint resolution (H.J. Res. 95) granting the consent of Congress to the Chickasaw Trail Economic Development Compact.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.J. RES. 95

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled. The Congress consents to the Chickasaw Trail Economic Development Compact entered into by the State of Tennessee and the State of Mississippi. The compact is substantially as follows:

CHICKASAW TRAIL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT COMPACT

Article I. The purpose of this compact is to promote the development of an undeveloped rural area of Marshall County, Mississippi, and Fayette County, Tennessee (hereinafter referred to as "Chickasaw Trail Economic Development Area"), and to create a development authority which incorporates public and private partnerships to facilitate the economic growth of such areas by providing developed sites for the location and construction of manufacturing plants, distribution facilities, research facilities, regional and national offices with supportive services, and facilities, and to establish a joint interstate authority to assist in these efforts.

Article II. This compact shall become effective immediately whenever the states of Tennessee and Mississippi have ratified it and Congress has given consent thereto.

Article III. The states which are parties to this compact (hereinafter referred to as "party states") do hereby establish and create a joint agency which shall be known as the Chickasaw Trail Economic Development Authority (hereinafter referred to as the "Authority"). The membership of the Authority shall consist of an appointee of the Governor of each party state, each state's chief economic development official or his/her representative, appointee of each of the member counties board of supervisors/county legislative body, selected from nominees from the county's industrial development board, and an appointee of the property owners' group. The appointive members of the authority shall serve for terms of four (4) years. Vacancies on the Authority shall be filled by appointment by the Governor or the appropriate appointing authority for the unexpired part of the term. The members of the Authority shall serve without compensation or reimbursement of expenses. The members of the Authority shall hold regular quarterly meetings and such special meetings as its business may require. They shall choose annually a chairman and vice-chairman from among their members, and the chairmanship shall rotate each year between the party states. The secretary of the Authority (hereinafter provided for) shall notify each member in writing of all meetings of the Authority in such a manner and under such rules and regulations as the Authority may prescribe. The Authority shall adopt rules and regulations for the transaction of its business; and the secretary shall keep a record of all its business, and shall furnish a copy thereof to each member of the Authority. It shall be the duty of the Authority in general, to promote, encourage and coordinate the efforts of the party states to secure the development of the Chickasaw Trail Economic Development Authority. Toward this end, the authority shall have power to hold hearings; to conduct studies and surveys of all problems, benefits and other matters associated with the development of the Chickasaw Trail Economic Development area and to make reports thereon; to acquire, by gift or otherwise, and hold and dispose of such money and property as may be provided for the proper performance of their functions; to cooperate with other public or private groups, whether local, state, regional or national, having an interest in economic development; to formulate and execute plans and policies for emphasizing the purpose of this compact before the Congress of the United States and other appropriate officers and agencies of the United States and the respective states; and the exercise of such other powers as may be appropriate to enable it to accomplish its functions and duties in connection with the development of the Chickasaw Trail Economic Development Area and to carry out the purposes of this compact.

Article IV. The Authority shall appoint a secretary, who shall be a person familiar with the nature, procedures and significance of economic development and the informational, educational and publicity methods of stimulating general interest in such developments, and who shall be the compact administrator. His/her term of office shall be at the pleasure of the Authority. He/she shall maintain custody of the Authority's books, records and papers, which he/she shall keep at the office of the Authority, and he/she shall perform all functions and duties, and exercise all powers and authorities, that may be delegated to him/her by the Authority.

Article V. Nothing in this compact shall be construed to conflict with any existing statute, or to limit the powers of any party or state or to repeal or prevent legislation, or to authorize or permit curtailment or diminution of any other economic development project, or to affect existing or future cooperative arrangements or relationships between any federal agency and a party state.

Article VI. This compact shall continue in force and remain binding upon each party state until the Legislature or Governor of each or either state takes action to withdraw therefrom; provided that such withdrawal shall not become effective until six (6) months after the date of the action taken. Notice of such action shall be given by the Secretary of State of the party state which takes such action.

In witness whereof, I, Kirk Fordice, have subscribed my signature and caused the Great Seal of the State of Mississippi to be affixed this 9th day of May, 1997.

In witness whereof, I, Don Sundquist, have subscribed my signature and caused the Great Seal of the State of Tennessee to be affixed this 9th day of April, 1997.

SEC. 2. INCONSISTENCY OF LANGUAGE.

The validity of the compact consented to by this Act shall not be affected by any insubstantial difference in its form or language as adopted by the States.

SEC. 3. RIGHT TO ALTER, AMEND, OR REPEAL.

The right to alter, amend, or repeal this joint resolution is hereby expressly reserved.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] and the gentleman from New York [Mr. NADLER] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS].

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the joint resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to join me in approving this resolution, House Joint Resolution 95, giving the consent of Congress to the Chickasaw Trail Economic Development Compact entered into between the State of Tennessee and the State of Mississippi.

As everyone knows by now, the United States Constitution provides that no two States or no number of States may enter into any agreements among themselves without the consent of Congress. That is a constitutional mandate that we have observed faithfully throughout the years. Thus, the Subcommittee on Commercial and Administrative Law of the Committee on the Judiciary, which I chair, has jurisdiction and is happy to announce that this particular proposed compact has its full approval.

Mr. Speaker, the facts are that in 1992 the Marshall County, Mississippi, Industrial Development Authority recognized the need to develop a large regional industrial park in the northern part of the county. The idea of a two-State industrial park materialized when a large tract of relatively uninhabited land owned by only a few individuals was identified on both sides of the Mississippi-Tennessee border. Located adjacent to the Memphis metropolitan area, this region is traversed by three major thoroughfares.

Verbal agreement of the landowners to participate in a public-private partnership and the support of local and State officials for the concept helped to promote the project, which was endorsed in 1995 by our former colleague, now Tennessee Governor Don Sundquist, and Mississippi Governor Kirk Fordice.

In 1996, the Tennessee and Mississippi State legislatures passed enabling legislation creating the Chickasaw Trail Economic Development Compact, subject to congressional approval, and they set up a board of directors for its development.

The industrial park envisioned by the compact is located adjacent to the metropolitan Memphis area, which is in need of available land for future industrial growth. The rural nature of the tract plus its current and planned accessibility make it advantageous for a planned park providing jobs for residents of both States.

Once again, I urge my colleagues to consent to this compact by suspending the rules and passing House Joint Resolution 95.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. NADLER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, this bill gives the consent of Congress to the compact between the States of Mississippi and Tennessee to establish the Chickasaw Trail Economic Development Agency.

The compact establishes an economic development authority to determine the feasibility of establishing an industrial park in Fayette County, Tennessee, and Marshall County, Mississippi, and to assist in public-private partnerships to promote economic development in that bi-State area.

The legislation simply restates the compact, provides that the validity of the compact will not be affected by any insubstantial differences in its formal language as adopted by the two States, and reserves to Congress the right to alter, amend, or appeal the joint resolution giving consent to the compact.

Mr. Speaker, the congressional delegations of the two States support this bill, as do the two legislatures and both Governors. The subcommittee and committee unanimously reported the bill. I urge its adoption.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. BRYANT].

Mr. BRYANT. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the chairman of our subcommittee, the distinguished gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS], and also the distinguished ranking member of our subcommittee, the gentleman from New York [Mr. NADLER], whom I also want to commend for his correct pronunciation of all of these words. Very good.

Mr. Speaker, at the request, as has been said, of our former colleague and the very distinguished Governor of Tennessee, Don Sundquist, and also the very distinguished Governor of the State of Mississippi, Kirk Fordice, I, along with the gentleman from Mississippi, Mr. ROGER WICKER, introduced House Joint Resolution 95, which would give congressional consent to an interstate compact establishing the Chickasaw Trail Economic Development Authority.

Under this compact, the Chickasaw Authority would conduct a study to determine the feasibility of establishing an industrial park which would lie both in Fayette County, Tennessee, and Marshall County, Mississippi. Should the authority issue a favorable report, the States would then negotiate a new compact implementing the details needed to establish a 4,000 to 5,000-acre industrial park. These large tracts of land would come complete with utilities and infrastructure needed to attract and support the more sophisticated high-technology industry for which the two States already compete.

There are many potential benefits to this effort. It is hoped that by disposing of the incentive wars between the States, both Tennessee and Mississippi can capitalize on the advantages of the region that lie on both sides of their border and attract new employment and investment opportunities.

The proposed project will help develop the educational and economic opportunities needed to improve the quality of life of the people living in this area, while at the same time fulfilling the industrial growth needs of the city of Memphis and Shelby County.

Mr. Speaker, this project is non-controversial and represents an innovative approach to the mutual benefit of the two counties and the two States. It has been cosponsored by the entire Tennessee and Mississippi delegations and has passed out of the Committee on the Judiciary by voice vote. Again, I would encourage my colleagues in the House to support its passage.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WICKER].

Mr. WICKER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this resolution to prove the Chickasaw Trail Economic Development Compact. I want to thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] and the gentleman from New York [Mr. NADLER], the ranking member, for acting on this resolution and for allowing it to come before the House so quickly. I also want to thank my good friend, the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. BRYANT], and the majority leader for their help.

Mr. Speaker, this may seem like a simple and straightforward bill, and it is, but the Chickasaw Trail Economic Development Compact is a very important local initiative between Marshall County, Mississippi, and Fayette County, Tennessee.

According to statistics, Marshall County, Mississippi, is economically disadvantaged, without the resources and infrastructure necessary to compete and to attract business and industry. But the people of Marshall County have viewed their present circumstances as a challenge and an opportunity. They put their heads together and came up with a long-term economic development plan to attract jobs and ensure a bright future for the next generation. Included in this vision for the future has been the development of a large industrial park in northern Marshall County, adjacent to the Tennessee line.

At the same time, Mr. Speaker, in an effort to improve the regional economy in Tennessee, the Memphis Area Chamber of Commerce organized the Mid South Common Market, which includes the States of Tennessee and Mississippi and numerous counties around the city of Memphis.

As a result of cooperation and consultation between economic development leaders in these two States, the idea of a regional industrial park was born. The innovative project would be a 4,000- to 5,000-acre industrial park located in both Marshall County, Mississippi, and Fayette County, Tennessee.

Mr. Speaker, I am excited about this project because it will enhance the economy of our region and improve the lives of my constituents who live in Marshall County and the surrounding area. I urge its adoption. I think it is an example of the American can-do attitude.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, in that case, I have no further speakers. I urge the adoption of the bill, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] that the House suspend the rules and pass the joint resolution, House Joint Resolution 95.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the joint resolution was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GRANTING CONSENT AND APPROVAL OF CONGRESS FOR STATE OF MARYLAND, COMMONWEALTH OF VIRGINIA, AND DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA TO AMEND WASHINGTON METROPOLITAN AREA TRANSIT REGULATION COMPACT

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the joint resolution (H.J. Res. 96) granting the consent and approval of Congress for the State of Maryland, the Commonwealth of Virginia, and the District of Columbia to amend the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Regulation Compact.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.J. RES. 96

Whereas the State of Maryland, the Commonwealth of Virginia, and the District of Columbia have adopted amendments to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Regulation Compact relating to public hearing requirements and empowering transit police officers to carry weapons issued by WMATA while in an off-duty status, consistent with limitations imposed by the applicable political subdivision; and

Whereas the Congress has reviewed such amendments and is willing to consent to such amendments: Now therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That consent of Congress is hereby given to the amendments of the State of Maryland (Chapter 489, 1996 Laws of the Maryland General Assembly and Chapter 91 and 699, 1997 Laws of the Maryland General Assembly), the amendments of the Commonwealth of Virginia (Chapter 150, 1995 Acts of Assembly of Virginia), and the amendments of the District of Columbia (D.C. Law 11-443) to sections 62 and 76 of title III of the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Regulation Compact. Such amendments are as follows:

(1) Section 62(a) is amended to read as follows:

“(a) The Board shall not raise any fare or rate, nor implement a major service reduction, except after holding a public hearing with respect thereto.”

(2) Section 62(c) is amended to read as follows:

“(c) The Board shall give at least fifteen days' notice for all public hearings. The notice shall be given by publication in a newspaper of daily circulation throughout the Transit Zone and such notice shall be published once a week for two successive weeks. The notice period shall start with the first day of publication. Notices of public hearings shall be posted in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Board.”

(3) Section 76(b) is amended to read as follows:

“(b) A member of the Metro Transit Police shall have the same powers, including the power of arrest, and shall be subject to the same limitations, including regulatory limitations, in the performance of his duties as a member of the duly constituted police force of the political subdivision in which the Metro Transit Police member is engaged in the performance of his duties. A member of the Metro Transit Police is authorized to carry and use only such weapons, including handguns, as are issued by the Authority. A member of the Metro Transit Police is subject to such additional limitations in the use of weapons as are imposed on the duly constituted police force for the political subdivision in which he is engaged in the performance of his duties.”

(4) Section 76(e) is amended to read as follows:

“(e) The Authority shall have the power to adopt rules and regulations for the safe, convenient, and orderly use of the transit facilities owned, controlled, or operated by the Authority, including the payment and the manner of the payment of fares or charges therefor, the protection of the transit facilities, the control of traffic and parking upon the transit facilities, and the safety and protection of the riding public. In the event that any such rules and regulations contravene the laws, ordinances, rules, or regulations of a signatory or any political subdivision thereof which are existing or subsequently enacted, these laws, ordinances, rules, or regulations of the signatory or the political subdivision shall apply and the conflicting rule or regulation, or portion thereof, of the Authority shall be void within the jurisdiction of that signatory or political subdivision. In all other respects, the rules and regulations of the Authority shall be uniform throughout the Transit Zone. The rules or regulations established under this subsection shall be adopted by the Board following public hearings held in accordance with section 62(c) and (d) of this Compact. The final regulation shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation within the Zone at least 15 days before its effective date. Any person violating any rule or regulation of the Authority shall be subject to arrest and, upon conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction, shall pay a fine of not more than two hundred fifty dollars ($250) and costs. Criminal violations of any rule or regulation of the Authority shall be prosecuted by the signatory or political subdivision in which the violation occurred, in the same manner by which violations of law, ordinances, rules, and regulations of the signatory or political subdivisions are prosecuted."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] and the gentleman from New York [Mr. NADLER] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS].

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on this joint resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I urge adoption of H.J. Res. 96. Just as in the previous case, this is to consider a compact in time among the entities of Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia as it pertains to agreements reached by those entities with respect to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Regulation Compact.

Each one of these entities is a signatory, and by reason of the Constitution, the Congress has to approve the agreements that have been reached. This compact, adopted in 1967, created the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority to plan, finance, construct and operate a comprehensive public transit system for metropolitan Washington D.C. In addition to a subway system connecting the three jurisdictions, WMATA administers an extensive surface transportation network throughout the area.

The Metro Transit Police Department, established in 1976, now numbers 300 sworn members with responsibility for public safety and security on Metro transit facilities. The chairman of WMATA's board of directors, Mr. Jack Evans, gave us some idea of the considerable nature of the department's workload in testimony before the subcommittee when he noted that in the last 3 years, transit officers had issued 12,197 criminal citations and arrested 3,623 individuals for various violations.

As noted, the amendments have already been agreed to by the three jurisdictions who are signatories to the compact. The first amendment modifies the public hearing process relating to fare increases and changes in service to bring it into conformity with other transit properties that follow Federal Transit Administration guidance. Under the amendment, the Authority will continue to be required to hold public hearings on proposals to raise fares or to implement major service reductions. The amendment would eliminate the need for public hearings for minor service changes and thus give the Authority more flexibility to respond quickly to ridership needs. Fifteen days' notice would be required for public hearings, with newspaper publication still required, but other required manner of posting such notice to be established by regulation.

The second amendment removes language from the compact restricting WMATA Metro Transit Police to carrying service weapons while on duty or in direct transit to and from duty assignment. The amendment would allow transit police to join other State and local area police officers who are authorized to carry weapons during off-duty hours. They will, however, continue to be subject to any additional restrictions with respect to use of weapons as imposed on the duly constituted police for the political subdivision in which they are engaged for performance of their duties. Transit police will be allowed possession of an Authority-issued weapon only.

The final amendment merely clarifies the process by which certain WMATA regulations are established, setting out the responsibility of the board to hold public hearings and to publish adopted regulations for conduct on its property at least 15 days before the effective date of such regulations.

Mr. Speaker, I know of no controversy associated with this joint resolution, and I urge its adoption by the House.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. NADLER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, like the last resolution, this resolution gives the consent of Congress to the changes in a local compact, in this case the Washington Metro compact agreed to by Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia; provides for a number of different changes, and the changes have been approved by all three jurisdictions.

Currently, the Metro Transit Police is the only local police force in the tri-State area not authorized to carry either their own weapons or another approved weapon except while on duty. Two jurisdictions, the Metropolitan Police and the Prince George's County Police, require police to carry their firearms when not on duty. The U.S. Park Police and U.S. Capitol Police have the option of carrying a firearm when not on duty.

The current compact allows Metro Transit Police officers to carry their service firearms only while on duty in the system and in direct transit to and from work. The change that we are proposing here would allow the officer to carry the service-issued firearm while off duty, subject to the restrictions placed on local police forces in each jurisdiction while the officer is in that jurisdiction.

A second change would require a public hearing only to raise a fare or rate or to make a major service reduction. The current compact requires there be a public hearing for any fare change, even presumably a reduction in the fare, or for the establishment or abandonment of any service, no matter how minor, with few exceptions.

The notice period for a public hearing is reduced herein from 30 to 15 days, and the requirement that notices be posted in Authority offices, stations, and rolling stock is eliminated. The requirement is retained that the notice be published in a newspaper of general circulation at least once a week for 2 weeks, and further, as the Board may prescribe through regulations.

Finally, the changes provide that criminal violations of any rule or regulation of the Metro shall be prosecuted in accordance with the laws of the jurisdiction in which the violation occurred.

Mr. Speaker, one or two of the changes gives some pause to me, and if this were proposed for the New York City system, I am not so sure I would support it. But since I believe that Congress ought to allow, when there is unanimous agreement among local jurisdictions, two States and the District of Columbia, we should defer to their wisdom. I urge the adoption of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. DAVIS], who has been of immense help in producing this moment.

Mr. DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate my friend the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] for yielding me the time, and I appreciate his efforts to move this to the floor before adjournment.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the proposed amendments to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, WMATA, Interstate Compact. The amendments under consideration have been enacted by all signatories of the WMATA compact, Virginia, Maryland and District of Columbia. The Bipartisan Area Delegation is seeking congressional consent to the proposed amendments, which passed the Committee on the Judiciary by voice vote earlier this year.

The amendments would allow the Authority to conduct its business more efficiently and effectively. This is an effort to streamline the Authority's practices and to provide for an enhanced level of protection for the Transit Authority's police officers. The amendments will both protect the public right to have input in the region's transit decision-making process as well as enhance the public safety throughout the region.

To be more specific, the first amendment modifies the Authority's current public hearing process relating to fare increases and changes in transit service. The proposal will bring the Authority into conformity with other transit properties that follow Federal public hearing standards that have been in place since 1982. Currently the Authority's public hearing practices are far broader than Federal guidelines and inhibits the ability of the Transit Authority to respond to market changes in an efficient businesslike manner.

Under the proposed amendments, the Authority will continue to be required to hold public hearings on proposals to raise fares or implement major service reductions. However, the Authority will not be required to hold public hearings for minor service changes, thus enabling WMATA to adjust to the needs of the riding public in a quick fashion.

The other major change to the WMATA compact is removal of compact language that currently limits WMATA's transit police to carrying their service weapon only when they are on duty or in direct transit to and from duty assignments. Consent to the proposal will allow the transit police to join every other police force in the region, including the Capitol Hill police, in authorizing its officers to carry weapons during off-duty hours.

As the former chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, I can tell my colleagues that the transit police are among the best-trained forces in the region. They deserve to have the ability to defend themselves during off-duty hours. It is an unfortunate reality that the transit police are also dealing with a violence-prone criminal element who sometimes seek revenge after they have been apprehended. We need to respect the transit police, authorize them to carry their weapons that they have been trained to use, and trust that the extensive training that the transit police receive will serve them well if they are confronted during off-duty hours.

These amendments are important to the daily workings of the Washington Metropolitan Transit Authority and the safety of its police officers. I urge my colleagues to support this consent resolution.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. MORAN].

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS], the gentleman from New York [Mr. NADLER], as well as the distinguished gentleman from Virginia [Mr. DAVIS], who just spoke, have adequately described what this bill will do. So out of consideration for the pressing time demands of the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MURTHA], I will keep my remarks as brief as possible.

I will only say that this is a common-sense bill that will save time and money. It will improve customer service and security for those who use the Washington Metropolitan Transit system. I commend the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. DAVIS] for getting it on the consent calendar. I urge all of my colleagues to pass it unanimously.

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia [Ms. NORTON].

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from New York [Mr. NADLER] for yielding me the time.

I thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] and the gentleman from New York [Mr. NADLER] for the way in which they have expeditiously moved this bill forward. I thank the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. DAVIS] for his bill.

The streamline procedures which this bill would provide are precisely the way to improve the efficiency of this vital regional facility. The provision that would allow Metro Transit officers to carry their weapons while off duty is a common-sense use to correct what is surely a waste of skilled person power when these officers are not allowed to carry their weapons with them off duty.

My own D.C. coordination bill would seek to in many ways do the same thing for other Federal officers. This is a high-efficiency bill. I urge all of my colleagues to support it.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS] that the House suspend the rules and pass the joint resolution, H.J. Res. 96.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the joint resolution was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON H.R. 2159, FOREIGN OPERATIONS, EXPORT FINANCING, AND RELATED PROGRAMS APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1998

Mr. DIAZ-BALART, from the Committee on Rules, submitted a privileged report (Rept. No. 105-402) on the resolution (H. Res. 323) waiving points of order against the conference report to accompany the bill (H.R. 2159) making appropriations for foreign operations, export financing, and related programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1998, and for other purposes, which was referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed.

Mr. DIAZ-BALART. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up H.R. 323 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 323

Resolved, That upon adoption of this resolution it shall be in order to consider the conference report to accompany the bill (H.R. 2159) making appropriations for foreign operations, export financing, and related programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1998, and for other purposes. All points of order against the conference report and against its consideration are waived. The conference report shall be considered as read.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CALVERT). The gentleman from Florida [Mr. DIAZ-BALART] is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. DIAZ-BALART. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. HALL], pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 323 is a standard rule for a conference report. It waives points of order against the conference report to accompany H.R. 2159, the foreign operations, commonly known as foreign aid, appropriations bill for fiscal year 1998 and against its consideration. In addition, the rule provides that the conference report shall be considered as read.

Mr. Speaker, many of our colleagues may remember this bill from July when it was considered on the House floor. We made every effort to allow for the consideration by the entire House of almost every amendment submitted to the Committee on Rules. I believe that we have a balanced product in this conference report, and I will defer to the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN], the chairman of the Subcommittee on Foreign Operations, Export Financing and Related Programs, to answer questions about the details of the conference report we have before us and the compromises that have been reached to complete the conference report.

Some matters have been dropped from this legislation, Mr. Speaker, that I believe strongly should not have been dropped, but this is a must-pass bill that I believe we need to pass tonight, and I think it is a good piece of legislation on this critical area that we bring before the House. I thank the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN], the chairman, and the gentlewoman from California [Ms. PELOSI], the ranking member, for their hard work on this important bill. I urge adoption of the rule and the conference report.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HALL of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Florida [Mr. DIAZ-BALART] for yielding me the time, and I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, H. Res. 323 is obviously a rule that provides for consideration of the conference report on H.R. 2159, which is the bill that makes appropriations for foreign operations, export financing, and related programs in the fiscal year 1998. As the gentleman from Florida described, this rule waives all points of order. It provides 1 hour of general debate equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Appropriations.

I want to thank the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN] and the gentlewoman from California [Ms. PELOSI] for crafting this bipartisan legislation. In particular I thank both of them for supporting foreign assistance programs that benefit needy children.

The conference agreement appropriates about $13 billion for foreign operations in 1998. It is an increase of about $1 billion more than last year but less than the President's request. It also includes legislative provisions, including language which gives the President flexibility to negotiate in the Middle East.

Though I am pleased that the conference agreement is slightly more than the House level, I fear that it is inadequate to meet the global challenges facing the United States in its role as the sole superpower. Money spent wisely on foreign assistance is an investment in world security that directly benefits the United States and its citizens. Promoting world stability through foreign aid will help keep us out of more costly wars.

I am particularly pleased that the bill includes $650 million for child survival and disease programs. These programs are really cost-effective, and they save the lives of children in the poorest countries of the world. This represents an increase of $50 million for prevention of diseases such as tuberculosis, AIDS and malaria. The bill provides $100 million for UNICEF, which is an outstanding program with a proven track record of helping the world's needy children.

The bill fully funds the Peace Corps at a level of $225 million, which is an increase of $14 million over last year's level. This is our country's people-to-people diplomatic corps that promotes American goodwill and gives Americans the opportunity to learn firsthand about other cultures while helping others. The bill also appropriates $190 million for international disaster assistance, another high priority account, especially when we have 25 to 26 major humanitarian crises today in the world.

Mr. Speaker, we are a great and we are a wealthy Nation. We can do better than the funding levels in this bill. However, I recognize the fiscal constraints which Congress has imposed upon itself. Therefore, I support this rule.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. DIAZ-BALART. Mr. Speaker, I support this rule, and I urge my colleagues to support it.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The previous question was ordered.

The resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to the rule just adopted, I call up the conference report on the bill (H.R. 2159) making appropriations for foreign operations, export financing, and related programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1998, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore [Mr. LAHOOD]. Pursuant to House Resolution 323, the conference report is considered as having been read.

(For conference report and statement, see prior proceedings of the House of today.)

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN] and the gentlewoman from California [Ms. PELOSI] each will control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN].

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the conference report to accompany H.R. 2159, and that I may include tabular and extraneous material.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Alabama?

There was no objection.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. We are going to be very brief, I think, at least on this side, and in talking with the other side, they too have indicated that we have already basically debated this bill. But we are considering H.R. 2159, the appropriation bill for foreign operations in 1998.

After adjusting for funds that are not scored against the subcommittee due to the budget resolution, the total in discretionary budget authority is $12.787 billion, which is $13 million below our allocation of $12.8 billion.

With regard to funding for population planning assistance, the House and Senate leadership made valiant efforts to reach a compromise with the White House on the Mexico City policy language. Since a compromise was not forthcoming, at their direction we have frozen funding for population programs at $385 million and apportioned funds on a monthly basis. That is a cut of $58 million from the President's request and $50 million from the Senate level. That means that if the Mexico City provisions can be enacted into law later this session or early next session, Mexico City policy will apply to most all of the funds made available for international family planning.

The conference agreement also includes a general provision which for the first time sets a cap on the amount of money in our bill for the Middle East. Last year the Middle East consumed $5.4 billion, or 44 percent of our bill. The new provision in our bill sets a limit of $5.4 billion on funds for the Middle East, thus reducing the Middle East to 42 percent of this year's total foreign operations bill. Israel is not affected. Our bill protects all the funds traditionally provided to Israel, as well as ensuring significant amounts of money for Egypt and Jordan as well. Otherwise, the President can spend this money any way he wants, just as long as he stays under the overall $5.4 billion cap. This important provision will help the President and the Congress to prudently manage our foreign aid dollars, even as it preserves our support for our friends and allies in the Middle East.

The conference report contains very strong language condemning Russia's increased cooperation with Iran in the nuclear and ballistic missile areas. Iran remains a terrorist state committed to both violence abroad and against its neighbors in the Middle East. Russia's irresponsible arms transfer policy to Iran can no longer be ignored, particularly press reports that Russia is providing Iran with sophisticated ballistic missile technology. When this is combined with Iran's already robust nuclear program, this can only be a formula for disaster.

In an effort to encourage peace and renewal in the southern Caucasus, we have provided up to $250 million for that troubled region. Of that amount, $12.5 million is reserved for the people of Nagorno-Karabakh, who have gone without direct American assistance. We have also opened the door to more trade and commercial activities, as well as prodemocracy activities in Azerbaijan.

In addition, the Senate agreed to our proposal to add $50 million to the Child Survival Fund for infectious disease activities. This no doubt is one of the most popular programs that the Congress has enacted in this arena in many, many decades. Many Members of our subcommittee have supported this initiative, and I want to acknowledge their assistance. The gentleman from California [Mr. PACKARD] has been a strong supporter of child survival. In addition, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN] made an important contribution in highlighting the importance of international efforts to combat tuberculosis. They and many Members from both sides of the aisle have written indicating their support for higher funding levels for child survival.

We have also recommended, in report language, the funding for Latin America and the Caribbean to be increased by a modest $20 million. I strongly support additional assistance for the nations of our hemisphere, and fully expect the administration to respect this direction.

We also uphold the House position on the funding for the CAMPFIRE program. As in the House bill, no funds may be available for any activity in contravention to the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species, but we refused to take the anti-hunting language that was in the Senate amendment.

There are a number of other provisions, Mr. Speaker, in the bill that are explained in the Statement of Managers. I only want to add that I very much appreciate the support and input that was provided by all the members of the subcommittee, including the gentlewoman from California [Ms. PELOSI], our new ranking minority member. It has been a pleasure to deal with her, as well as the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY], the ranking member of the full committee, on this very controversial and very difficult bill this year. I would also like the staff on both sides of the aisle to know of my sincere appreciation for all of their assistance.

Mr. Speaker, I include the following tabular material for the RECORD:

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the conference report and commend the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN], our distinguished chairman, for his leadership in reaching consensus on this bill which has been controversial in the past. I commend also the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON], the chairman of the full committee, and the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY], the ranking Democrat on the full committee, for their leadership in reaching resolution on some of these controversial issues.

As our chairman pointed out, all of the members of the committee, Democrat and Republican, fully participated in many of the issues before us. I believe that we have a good bill before us, and am pleased to point out some of the positive accomplishments in the bill as I join the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN] in commending the staff of the subcommittee as well as the personal staffs of Members who worked so hard to bring us to this point.

Some of the positive accomplishments in the bill, Mr. Speaker, include retaining of the traditional amount of funding for the Middle East, with an additional $225 million in assistance for Jordan and appropriate authorities that allow the administration the flexibility to negotiate in that region.

Full funding for the International Development Association, IDA, at $1.034 billion which includes payment in full for our arrears package. The IDA program is the soft window of the World Bank that provides funding for the poorest of the poor countries and projects. I am very, very pleased with the dollar amount in the bill. Our chairman is a tough fiscal conservative and a strict disciplinarian. He watches every dollar spent. I think the priorities established in funding the IDA were important, and I commend him for supporting that increase.

There is $650 million in a separate child survival account which I call the Callahan child survival account. It includes an increase of $50 million for fighting infectious diseases, including tuberculosis, HIV/AIDS and malaria.

It includes full funding for the refugee assistance, disaster assistance, and full funding for the Peace Corps.

Our chairman has pointed out the creation of a new fund for assistance to the countries of the South Caucasus in the New Independent States. The fund would provide a total of $250 million, with close to $90 million each for Armenia and the country of Georgia. Additional assistance is made available for Nagorno-Karabagh, and there is additional money left in the fund when the Minsk process, I hope, brings peace to the region and is concluded successfully.

Our chairman has referenced, and I will too, the provisions for assistance to Russia expressing our concern about Russia's proliferation of missiles to Iran as well as our concern about freedom of religion in Russia. In cooperation with Senator SMITH in the Senate we were able to reach an appropriate compromise on that language.

We have added funds to the request for the Export-Import Bank and fully funded the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, OPIC. As my colleagues know, part of our function as the Subcommittee on Foreign Operations, Export Financing and Related Programs is to fund exports, the insurance and financing of exports, growing our economy by increasing our exports abroad. OPIC and Export-Import Bank are created for that purpose. We also fund the TDA, the Trade Development Agency, administration in this bill. Both of the promotion programs, Export-Import and OPIC, are therefore robustly funded and fully authorized.

Total funding in the bill is at $12.8 billion plus $300 million in international bank arrears, which is very close to the administration's request. Through the Congress working its will through the committee process, we were able to grow the funding that started out at a much lower figure in this House. I think we are at an appropriate level now.

As our chairman suggested, there is a compromise on the Mexico City language. The international family planning provisions of this legislation represent, I think, an appropriate compromise which enables us to reduce the number of abortions worldwide by providing the funding for international family planning with conditions which I consider onerous but acceptable; that is, monthly monitoring; I mean, excuse me, monthly metering of the funding. That is, in any given month, no more than 8.34 percent of the total amount is able to be obligated; that is, one-twelfth of the annual appropriation.

In addition to that, language requiring the full pursuit of war criminals in Bosnia and Croatia as a condition for further assistance to those countries was included. I thank our colleagues, the gentleman from Maryland [Mr. CARDIN] and the gentleman from Maryland [Mr. HOYER], for their leadership on these issues. And again, in addition, appropriate restrictions on aid to Cambodia and the Democratic Republic of the Congo are included.

I am concerned, however, Mr. Speaker, that the committee did not include funding and authorization for the New Arrangements to Borrow. The New Arrangements to Borrow, or NAB, is a set of emergency credit lines, a kind of reserve tank for use by the International Monetary Fund in the event of serious temporary threats to global financial stability.

The multilateral burden-sharing aspects of this new mechanism are impressive. The U.S.'s $3.5 billion would leverage over $20 billion in commitments from 24 other countries. The $3.5 billion in budget authority for the NAB is not scored as a budget outlay and thus neither increases the deficit nor crowds out other Federal programs.

Recent events in Southeast Asia illustrate the continuing risk to the stability of global financial markets and demonstrate the importance of the IMF to the American regional and global interest. The Asian crisis clearly highlights the need for sufficient emergency resources to safeguard stability and protect the financial system and the American economy from the damaging ripple effects of widespread shocks.

The NAB, the New Arrangements to Borrow, in other words known as NAB, is a necessary addition to these resources. Simply put, our national interests and global leadership insist that we support the authorization and the appropriation. However that provision is not in the legislation.

But all in all, I am very, very proud to join with our distinguished chairman, the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN], in supporting this legislation and urge its passage and urge an aye vote from our colleagues.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, we just have a couple of speakers who are going to speak very briefly. We have already debated the bill. It is essentially the same bill that we passed through the House with a few Senate changes.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN], the chairman of the Committee on International Relations.

(Mr. GILMAN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I commend the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN], the distinguished chairman of the Subcommittee on Foreign Operations, Export Financing and Related Programs of the Committee on Appropriations, for bringing this measure to the floor at this time.

However, Mr. Speaker, it is important during the debate to point out what is not being accomplished in this foreign operations appropriations conference, and while I will not oppose this measure, I did want to bring these factors to the attention of the House.

Mr. Speaker, last week the House and the Senate leadership made a proposal to attach four major portions of the foreign relations authorization bill to the foreign operations appropriations conference report, and those sections included the basic authorizations for the State Department and related accounts, the U.N. reform and arrears package, the European Security Act, and the foreign affairs agencies consolidation provisions. Those additions to the appropriations bill reflected the work of the authorization conference.

Regrettably, our conference was not completed because, like the appropriators, we were unable to resolve the Mexico City issue. We have now reached a cease-fire on the foreign operations bill as filed by the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN], and in the final bill they dropped the Mexico City policy, they dropped the U.N. reform measure, they dropped the State authorization bill, they dropped the IMF new arrangements to borrow and the European Security Act; all of them dropped out of the foreign operations conference report, and that action resulted in other losses, including the deadbeat diplomat language and the diplomatic immunity measure, key reports on Cuban immigration and the Libertad Act, the Speaker's language increasing broadcasting to Communist China, and availability pay increases for our diplomatic security agents.

I urged the Committee on Rules and the House leadership to include the State Department authorization along with the European Security Act in the foreign operations conference report. Regrettably, that request was not accommodated, and we come to the end of this session without those important noncontroversial provisions taking effect.

As an authorizing committee chairman, we are frustrated by the actions taken that preserve the Committee on Appropriations at the price of the authorizing committees. This is also true in the case of the upcoming Commerce-Justice-State appropriations bill which is expected to carry a full year waiver of the requirement for an authorizing bill, a full year waiver for authorizations.

The CJS authorization waiver is like a noose around the neck of our authorizing committee and Senator HELMS' committee. As long as a waiver provision is in that bill, the administration is going to find excuses, any excuse, not to deal with us in a straightforward, forthright manner. The administration will always rely on the Committee on Appropriations to bail them out.

To avoid that kind of a problem, I recommend limiting the waiver of the authorization requirement to March 1, 1998, to give us the month of February to work things out under a hard deadline that both the Congress and the administration must meet. If the authorization waiver is not limited, I see little chance for our authorization bill to pass at a later date. That will jeopardize the elimination of ACDA, the consolidation of USIA, U.N. reforms and U.N. arrearages, the European Security Act, and dozens of others of foreign policy priorities that the Congress is concerned about.

I thank the gentleman for having yielded this time to me. As I stated before, I will support this measure. However, I wanted to call these problems to the attention of our colleagues.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY], the ranking member of the full committee; longtime chair of the Subcommittee on Foreign Operations, Export Financing and Related Programs; and I thank him for his leadership in helping us bring this consensus bill to the floor.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for the time.

Mr. Speaker, let me simply say that I am supporting and inclined to support this bill, but I have serious concerns about it. One, Mr. Speaker, is that this bill has consistently, when it left the House, been relatively free of earmarks. But then it goes over to the Senate, and when it emerges from the Senate, it almost looks as though it is a document designed more to facilitate congressional fund-raising than it is to facilitate the promotion of the United States' national interest.

There are numerous earmarks which are added to the point where, for instance, in the portion of this bill which used to be focused on aid to Russia and former republics in the Soviet Union, so much has been earmarked that at this point one individual American, George Soros, will in the next 5 years be giving assistance to Russia which is more effective than that of the United States Government. I do not think that represents a rational allocation of resources on our part.

But I must also say that I think this bill has two serious gaps. What has happened evidently is that in retaliation for the fact that Mexico City language, desired by some Members of the House, is not contained in this bill, because of that fact, we now have in retaliation a determination to eliminate from this bill all funding for the IMF program that has been mentioned by the gentlewoman from California [Ms. PELOSI] and also to eliminate from the State-Justice-Commerce bill any provision providing for funding of our arrearages at the United Nations. I believe that that is definitely not in the interests of the United States.

On the first issue, we right now have seen the beginning effects of the exploding currency crisis in Asia. We saw our own stock market decline by around 500 points, in very large part triggered by the fact that Asian markets are extremely unstable and are likely to remain so for some time to come.

I think it is a grave omission for the Congress, bordering on irresponsibility, for this Congress not to provide at least some bridge authority for the administration to meet any additional currency crisis if it would occur in Asia.

We have three choices. If one occurs, we can either do nothing or we can try to foot the bill largely on our own in order to stabilize the currency situation, or we can try to rely on the multilateral approach which would reduce our own financial exposure. But the congressional majority has determined that that is not to be provided. I think that is a grave mistake.

Secondly, at this moment we are trying to marshal the most united approach possible in the United Nations in whatever action we choose or we find necessary to take against Saddam Hussein. We do not strengthen our leverage in getting effective United Nations action when we do not pay our bills. We have about $900 million in arrearages owed to the United Nations.

It seems to me that at least to put ourselves in a better position to strengthen our leadership in that institution, we should at least provide the $100 million that was requested this year as the down payment on finally ending that arrearage situation.

I find it troubling that we are going to follow a high-risk strategy in both the Asian currency situation and the Iraqi situation simply in order to engage in payback because certain people did not get the language they wanted with respect to Mexico City.

So, Mr. Speaker, I would simply rise to caution Members of the House that we are running a high-risk strategy and this country may pay a very high price for the omission that we are talking about here this evening.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. KNOLLENBERG].

Mr. KNOLLENBERG. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Alabama, Chairman CALLAHAN, for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the conference report to H.R. 2159. Each member of this subcommittee in both the House and the Senate have worked very, very hard in a bipartisan fashion to craft a bill that reflects, I think, our Nation's international priorities, while maintaining the fiscal responsibility.

I commend the House and the Senate chairmen for continuing our strong commitment to the Middle East, and also to democracy in Russia, while addressing the grave concerns we have about Russia and their exports of nuclear ballistic missile technology to Iran. The conference report so stipulates that aid to Russia is contingent upon stopping the spread of any technology which would bolster Iran.

Finally, I am very pleased with provisions in the conference report dealing with the ongoing conflicts in the Caucasus. The conference report provides, and I think most importantly, to include a recommendation for $12.5 million in aid to meet the pressing needs of the people in the Nagorno Karabagh. I commend the managers for recognizing the tremendous humanitarian aid that is needed in the Nagorno Karabagh and look forward to working with the body and administration to ensure that that vital funding is delivered promptly and in accordance with congressional intent.

Members of the subcommittee, I would like to thank all of them, and thank again.

The gentleman from Alabama, Chairman CALLAHAN, the ranking member, the gentlewoman from California [Ms. PELOSI], and all of those who contributed to the difficult decisions made to bring this bill to the floor. I believe the managers have united to craft a bill that will maintain U.S. leadership and strengthen our influence across the globe.

I ask for Members to support this conference report.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from New York [Mrs. LOWEY], a distinguished member of the subcommittee.

(Mrs. LOWEY asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. LOWEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 2159. In deference to our chairman, I will be very brief.

I want to thank our distinguished chairman and the ranking minority member for the really outstanding work they did in bringing together a strong bipartisan bill. We appreciate their efforts. It has been long, and it has been hard, but we are glad that it is coming to conclusion, because this bill does strike a delicate balance on a number of very controversial issues. I thank them for their leadership.

This bill includes, Mr. Speaker, the full $3 billion aid package for Israel, the critical $80 million for refugee resettlement assistance. Although the development assistance account is lower than the administration requested, it does include a critical $15 million increase for international microcredit programs. Microcredit is a critical tool in the fight to eradicate poverty worldwide, and it enjoys bipartisan support in the Congress and this administration.

Providing these small low-interest loans to the millions of low-income entrepreneurs around the world would be a major step toward the eradication of poverty. This is especially true among women, who are very often the heads of households and benefit tremendously from microcredit programs.

This is a critical time for microcredit. We have come a long way this year alone, but we must do more, and the increase in this bill will allow us to help thousands of people pull themselves out of poverty.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to say that I do remain concerned about several accounts in this bill. The critical population assistance account includes onerous restrictions, including monthly metering and a freeze at last year's level that I oppose. I know that our chairman and the chairman of the full committee have worked very hard to come to a satisfactory solution to this issue.

I am also concerned that the administration has not been given the critical new arrangements to borrow that it has sought for the International Monetary Fund. However, Mr. Speaker, on the whole, this bill represents a good compromise between the gentleman from Alabama, Chairman CALLAHAN, the ranking member, the gentlewoman from California [Ms. PELOSI] and all the members of this subcommittee. Again, I want to thank them for the cooperation, and I strongly urge passage of the bill.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN], a member of the subcommittee.

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the conference agreement and thank the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN], for his leadership in bringing this bill to a conclusion.

In this conference report we provide the essential tools to promote and protect America's leadership and interests around the globe. With this bill we maintain our strong commitment to Israel and to the Middle East peace process, we provide critical funding for child survival programs, and we continue America's long-standing support for development assistance for the poorest of the poor, including international family planning programs. We provide support for the new democracies of Eastern Europe, and we place increased emphasis on important priorities in our own hemisphere.

Further, we have provided resources to help American companies enter new markets, to protect global environmental resources, and to combat threat of international narcotics and terrorism from reaching our shores. These investments are made, Mr. Speaker, for less than 1 percent of the overall Federal budget and within the framework of our balanced budget plan.

Again, Mr. Speaker, I congratulate the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN] for all of his efforts.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. PALLONE], who has been a leader on the issue of the Caucasus region, particularly Armenia and Nagorno Karabagh.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I want to urge support for the bill that we are considering tonight. The conference report contains important provisions affecting Armenia and the Caucasus region, most of which I support. I do want to express my respect and gratitude for the gentleman from Alabama, Chairman CALLAHAN, for his willingness to listen to the concerns of the Armenian community, and particularly I want to salute the ranking member, the gentlewoman from California [Ms. PELOSI], and Members of the Subcommittee on Foreign Operations, particularly the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. PORTER] and the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. KNOLLENBERG] for their tireless efforts on behalf of Armenia, the Nagorno Karabagh, and the cause of peace and stability in the Caucasus, and I also want to thank the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN].

This bill provides an unprecedented $12.5 million in humanitarian aid to Nagorno Karabagh. Despite relentless opposition from the administration, the lobbyists for Azerbaijan and Turkey, the bill provides, for the first time, an earmark of humanitarian assistance for the people of Karabagh.

These funds will help refugees, internally displaced persons and needy civilians in Nagorno Karabagh. This is the first time this has been approved by Congress and signifies the beginning of U.S.-administered assistance programs to Nagorno Karabagh.

Earlier this year, I became the first Member of the U.S. Congress to address the Parliament of Nagorno Karabagh, and I expressed regret that the United States had disengaged itself from the courageous people of Karabagh. But this legislation provides a welcome change.

In addition, the bill provides us with $87.5 million for the Republic of Armenia, a former Soviet republic that is making huge strides in terms of democracy and market economy, but still needs our help.

While I am pleased that the bill retains the ban on government-to-government economic aid to Azerbaijan, I regret that the legislation carves out several major exemptions for OPIC, the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, to provide political risk insurance to U.S. companies investing in Azerbaijan, and for TDA, the Trade Development Agency, funding for feasibility studies and other related economic development projects.

The ban on direct aid to Azerbaijan, section 907 of the Freedom Support Act of 1997, is an important law, passed to encourage Azerbaijan to lift its blockades of Armenia and Nagorno Karabagh. Azerbaijan has not complied with the basic condition of section 907, lifting the blockades, so the sanctions should not be relaxed.

While I regret the exemptions to section 907 that have been carved out, I appreciate the fact that the conferees resisted the strong pressure to repeal section 907 outright.

I also want to express my appreciation to the conferees for the $52.5 million discretionary fund established for the Caucasus to restore transportation, communication and other infrastructure between the States of the Caucasus, funds to which Azerbaijan is not entitled until it complies with section 907.

I also appreciate the fact that the House conferees held out for insisting that 50 percent of the aid to Turkey be provided through nongovernmental organizations to promote democracy and build a civil society. American taxpayers have contributed millions to Turkey. It is only right that we should expect that country to respect some of our American values.

Finally, I want to state for the record that I regret that the bill before us relaxes some sanctions on Pakistan which were imposed because of concerns over Pakistan's nuclear proliferation activities. But I do want to thank the conferees for maintaining the prohibition on IMET assistance to Pakistan.

Overall, this is a good conference report, and I urge my colleagues to support it.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Georgia, also a member of our subcommittee.

Mr. KINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say, I think this bill has a lot of good things. It is a product of a great compromise and a lot of work.

One of the things I think is very significant and that is a debate we do not have much in our country is what is going on with the nuclear weapons stockpile in Russia. We often concentrate on a lot of issues, but we never ask ourselves as a country, as free people, what are they doing with all their nuclear arms? This bill starts to address that by withholding assistance to the Russian Government unless we know exactly what they are doing with their nuclear arsenal, and hopefully they are not selling it around the globe.

There are a lot of good things in here. It increases international narcotics control by $17 million over last year, bringing the 1998 level to $230 million.

But there are some things it does not do which have been addressed, and we look forward to working with the administration on that.

We want to address the issue of the U.N. arrearage. We think that the United Nations has taken too big of an assessment against the United States, and we want to work through that. We also want to work with this IMF funding to have stability in some of the developing countries.

We look forward to working with the administration on that and solving these problems, and we also hope the administration will work with us in making sure that none of this money goes to groups who choose to lobby for liberalization of abortion laws, and also groups who may tend to have some of their own moneys used to support abortion.

We think there are a lot of things we can get together with the administration on, and we look forward to that process. Hopefully the authorization bill that will come maybe as early as tomorrow will address this.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. LEACH].

Mr. LEACH. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the distinguished chairman for yielding me time. Let me say I think his leadership on this issue has been nothing less than estimable, and I intend to support his bill, but I think all of us in this body have to understand that the intricacies of single-issue group politics is bedeviling our foreign policy at this time and jeopardizing the national interests of the United States.

If this Congress adjourns without passing fast track, without passing U.N. reform and arrearages, and if we do nothing about the IMF replenishment, there is a distinct possibility that tomorrow will not be the last day of this year's session. The last two issues are of vital significance this week, and we may well be called back into a special session. This Member would support it.

The fact of the matter is we need to address the U.N. at this time. We need to address international economic circumstances as implied in the IMF. I am hopeful we will do so.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I too want to associate myself with the remarks of the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. LEACH] in regard to the IMF replenishment and the U.N. arrearages. I hope that before this Congress adjourns, that those issues will be appropriately addressed and successfully addressed.

I believe that our chairman, the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. CALLAHAN], as I mentioned, has provided great leadership in this legislation, which is almost a match of the administration's request in terms of funding in order to promote U.S. global leadership, promote our exports, maintain the peace, alleviate poverty, and to maintain the peace, I think I said that twice, but it deserves mentioning more than one time.

Mr. Speaker, in the interests of time, we are not going to hear from all of the Democrats on the committee, but I want to acknowledge the distinguished service of the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. YATES] and the gentleman from California [Mr. TORRES], who did not speak, in addition to the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY] and the gentlewoman from New York [Mrs. LOWEY].

But I know I speak for them and our Republican colleagues on the committee when I extend our best wishes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. FOGLIETTA], a member of our subcommittee who today left our committee and was sworn in as the U.S. Ambassador to Italy. I think every Member of this House is very proud of the service of Mr. FOGLIETTA here, wishes him much success in his new endeavor personally, and especially for our great country.

With that, I urge our colleagues to support this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CALLAHAN. Mr. Speaker, it is my intention in just a second to yield back, but I yield myself such time as I may consume to briefly explain that the President requested $16.8 billion, and the House passed $12.26 billion. The Senate sent us a message of $16.8 billion, and the conference resolved it at $13.1 billion, but the net appropriation is $12.7 billion, very close to what we passed in the House.

Some of the remarks that were made about the IMF, as well as the U.N. problem, have great merit and I do not deny that. But once again, this is the foreign operations appropriation bill. We are cutting the President's request by $4 billion. That is basically where we were. At this time, Mr. Speaker, I ask for a favorable vote.

Mr. FOX of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the Foreign Operations Appropriations bill for two main reasons.

First, the appropriation for Israel will help to insure the survival of this thriving democracy in the Middle East. No other country has greater ties to America.

Second, I am pleased that Armenia will benefit from this legislation by increased recognition of its importance to the United States and support by our country.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). Without objection, the previous question is ordered on the conference report.

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the conference report.

Pursuant to clause 7 of rule XV, the yeas and nays are ordered.

Pursuant to clause 5 of rule I, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

REMOVAL OF NAME OF MEMBER AS COSPONSOR OF H.R. 2777

Mr. GEJDENSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to have my name removed as a cosponsor of H.R. 2777.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Connecticut?

There was no objection.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1998

Mrs. MYRICK, from the Committee on Rules, submitted a privileged report (Rept. No. 105-403) on the resolution (H. Res. 324) providing for consideration of the Senate amendments to the bill (H.R. 2607) making appropriations for the government of the District of Columbia and other activities chargeable in whole or in part against the revenues of said District for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1998, and for other purposes, which was referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 324 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 324

Resolved, That upon adoption of this resolution it shall be in order to take from the Speaker's table the bill (H.R. 2607) making appropriations for the government of the District of Columbia and other activities chargeable in whole or in part against the revenues of said District for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1998, and for other purposes, with Senate amendments thereto, and to consider in the House, any rule of the House to the contrary notwithstanding, a single motion offered by the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations or his designee that the House concur in the Senate amendment to the text with the amendment printed in the report of the Committee on Rules accompanying this resolution and disagree to the Senate amendment to the title. The Senate amendments and the motion shall be considered as read. The motion shall be debatable for one hour equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on the Appropriations. The previous question shall be considered as ordered on the motion to final adoption without intervening motion or demand for division of the question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentlewoman from North Carolina [Mrs. MYRICK] is recognized for 1 hour.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Texas [Mr. FROST], pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time is yielded for the purpose of debate only.

Mr. Speaker, while considering the final appropriations bills, the Senate rolled the Commerce, State, Justice appropriations bill and the Foreign Operations appropriations bill into the D.C. appropriations bill and, therefore, created an omnibus appropriations bill.

The House amendment we will consider tonight strikes all provisions out of the omnibus appropriations bill, except for the District of Columbia, and amends that bill with the recommendation of the House Committee on Appropriations.

The rule provides for a single motion by the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, or his designee, to concur in the Senate amendment to the text, any rule of the House to the contrary notwithstanding, with the amendment printed in the Committee on Rules report and disagree to the Senate amendment to the title.

The rule further provides that the Senate amendments to the House bill and the motion are considered as read. The motion is debatable for 1 hour equally divided and controlled by the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON], chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, and the ranking minority member of the Committee on Appropriations.

There is little argument that the District of Columbia is in bad shape. The city suffers from deteriorating infrastructure, high crime rates, a shrinking population, and poor services. We must take bold steps to reform the way this city operates so that it can again take its place among the great cities of the world.

As a former mayor, I know the challenges that come with running a city. It will not be easy to reform, but we must start now.

I was very supportive of the bill that originally passed in the House. I believe that it contains some tough language that will go a long way to changing the face of our Nation's Capital.

The bill met with stiff resistance and has been replaced.

This is a good rule. It allows us to debate D.C. appropriations as a single issue, rather than as part of an omnibus package. We need to take a step toward restoring some of the luster our Nation's Capital city has lost in recent years.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support the rule, and I look forward to the debate about the future of our Nation's Capital.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, it is late in the day and it is late in the session. We are now 43 days into fiscal year 1998 and it is high time that we finish our business for the year. With any luck, we will be able to finish the District of Columbia appropriations this evening, leaving only 1 other appropriations bill outstanding.

The Republican majority has finally seen the light and has given up for the time being, at least, its desire to use the District and its residents as a grand experiment in Republican social engineering on school vouchers.

As I said, Mr. Speaker, it is late in the day and it is late in the session. It is time for the Republican majority to govern. It is time to stop using appropriations to move a legislative agenda that is not supported by a majority of the American people.

Mr. Speaker, the negotiating process on District of Columbia appropriations has resulted in creating a bill which is vastly superior to the product originally passed by 1 vote in the House. I will support this rule only because the bill passed by the Senate and the amendment which is now being recommended as a further amendment address the issues of providing the Federal payment to the District of Columbia, the Nation's Capital, and not the Republican social agenda. It is unfortunate, however, that it has taken this long to reach this point.

Mr. Speaker, because it is late, I will reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. DAVIS].

(Mr. DAVIS of Virginia asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, let me just note, I have further comments in my revisions, but I am happy we have gotten to this point. It has taken a long time. The city of Washington has had to borrow money during the time that we have not been able to move forward with the appropriation, but with a lot of work of people on both sides of the aisle we have come to the conclusion this evening that we have an appropriation bill that I am proud to support.

I want to thank my ranking member of the authorizing committee, the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia [Ms. NORTON], and the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. MORAN], who have worked very closely with us on appropriations to bring this to where it is tonight. The city needs this money. We have an appropriations bill that I would urge all of my colleagues to support.

Our Nation's capital desperately needs this budget bill to be enacted now. Failure to do so would have major negative consequences.

Failure to pass this budget now would cause the District of Columbia to slide even further backward.

Failure to pass this budget now would be reckless and tragic. This is especially so because this Congress and the last Congress have done so much to get the Nation's Capital on the right track.

To defeat the bill at this point would risk doing irreparable harm to our fundamental goals of reform and revitalization of our Nation's Capital.

It is wrong to gamble with the lives of millions in this region who depend on an orderly budget process.

We all know of the D.C. Revitalization Act which passed this Congress as part of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997. Strong management reform measures, Medicaid changes and tax incentives were included as well in that enactment and in the equally Historic Tax Reform Act of 1997. To have enacted such significant reforms, and to see them signed by the President, is a legislative accomplishment we can all take pride in helping to achieve.

With patience and perseverance the reforms we have enacted for the District of Columbia have begun to have their intended effect.

We now have a rare opportunity, sanctioned by both Congress and the White House, to restructure and improve the complex relationship between the Federal Government and the Nation's Capital. But time is of the essence. And we are at a moment of truth.

Many of the issues addressed in the D.C. Revitalization Act are particularly urgent and time sensitive. To take just one example, a Federal trustee must be up and running to help establish reforms in the District's prison system. Just last month the court-appointed monitor said of the medium-security facility at Lorton that "it has deteriorated to a level of depravity that is unparalleled in its troubled history."

It is tragic enough when Congress reaches an impasse in consideration of a budget for one of our executive departments. But if we are unable to enact a budget for the Nation's Capital, that real city which exists just beyond the monuments is placed at a grave risk of immediate harm. And when you consider that most of the District's budget consists of self-generated funds, it makes the spectacle of congressional delay even more difficult to explain.

Some of us have differences with various sections of the bill before us. Many have reservations which I share. But I appeal to you, as chairman of the authorizing subcommittee for the District of Columbia, to join me in voting for this budget bill so we can give the Nation's Capital a chance to survive as a city.

I am pleased that the Victims of Communism Relief Act of 1997 is incorporated in this bill and will become law. The agreement provides that Nicaraguans and Cubans who entered the United States prior to December 1, 1995, will be made eligible for lawful permanent residence provided they apply prior to April 1, 2000.

Guatemalans and Salvadorans, who filed for asylum prior to April 1, 1990, and members of the ABC class, will have their cases reviewed under the less onerous rules in existence before the 1996 Immigration Act [IIRIRA] went into effect. In addition, battered spouses and children in proceedings prior to April 1, 1997, will be processed under the pre-IIRIRA rules.

Guatemalans and Salvadorans will have their adjustments offset by reductions in the diversity and unskilled—nonagricultural—worker programs, which will not exceed 5,000 in each annually. All pending approved petitions for unskilled worker visas will be permitted to adjust under the current 10,000 cap.

Members of the defined categories of Central Americans—Salvadorans and Guatemalans—whose cases are under the jurisdiction of the post-April 1 rules, will have their claims for cancellation of removal adjudicated under the more generous standard of 7 years continuous residence and extreme hardship, not subject to the 4,000-person cap.

All Guatemalans and Salvadorans who meet the eligibility requirements states above will be exempted from the stop time rule, as interpreted by the Board of Immigration Claims' N-J-B ruling. Individuals not within these categories will be subject to the stop-time rule.

Refugees from the former Warsaw Pact nations will have their cases governed according to the same rules which will apply for Guatemalans and Salvadorans.

Mr. Speaker, many Central Americans have made a positive impact in our community in northern Virginia. The inclusion of this legislation in the D.C. appropriation bill will bring a measure of justice to thousands who have fled oppression in their native land to seek the freedom and opportunity offered in this Nation.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 7 minutes to the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK].

Mrs. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this rule. I think it is an unfair rule, and this Congress should know why I think that way.

I went to the Committee on Rules tonight to see if I could get an amendment ruled eligible for the floor which would have turned around an injustice which is in this bill. I think what Congress sees in this bill is what happens when legislators, people in Congress, make rules on appropriations bills. It is always a disaster when that happens, and it is too bad that this particular amendment on immigration, a situation that is so very direly needed in this country, was placed on an appropriations bill, and a very important appropriations bill, for the District of Columbia. The District of Columbia has been banded about in this Congress. I think it is high time we put the kind of precedence and the kind of attention on this particular bill that it should receive.

Now, while I do not oppose the District of Columbia's appropriations bill being passed, I do not oppose the Nicaraguans getting their amnesty on this bill, and I do not oppose the Central Americans getting their amnesty, but what I do reject is the idea that the Haitians in this country that came here under the same credible fear of persecution as the Nicaraguans and the Central Americans and the Cubans are now left out of this particular bill.

I am being told that, number 1, the Haitians were never to be considered. They were not a part of the agreement. As a matter of fact, I have substantive proof to show that they were not a part of the agreement. We lobbied very hard to try to get them included. It is never too late for this Congress to do the right thing.

But there is something that perplexes me, which is, why is it that always when communities of color come up in immigration, they are always overlooked or there is always some excuse as to why they were not in the original agreement? I am asking this Congress, why? That is why I am opposing this rule, because this rule is unfair. Why have Nicaraguans, Cubans, Guatemalans, and Salvadoreans, who will live next door to each other in some of our communities, one will get a green card and the others cannot. One could seek citizenship after 4 to 5 years; the others cannot. Is that fair? My answer is no, it is not fair. It is another step of unfairness in this country.

The reason that it is so unfair is we allow it to happen. We allow these kinds of things to come in on an appropriations bill. We allow the unfairness to be so dominant in the kinds of decisions we make here. If we were fair, that amendment would have never passed the Senate, it would never have come over here. If we were fair, the Haitians would have been given the same time for amnesty as Nicaraguans and others.

I have fought very hard on this floor, Mr. Speaker, for Cubans, for Hispanics, for Latinos in this country. I think it is a slap in the face to the Black Caucus and to the other caucuses which have stood so steadily behind all of the bills that the Cuban Members of this Congress brought here, yet we could not receive any support to include the Haitians. It is wrong, and I will always say it. It is wrong, and we should turn it around.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, will the gentlewoman yield?

Mrs. MEEK of Florida. I yield to the gentleman from Florida.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding.

I also thank her for her commitment to this endeavor and for her leadership that she has demonstrated on behalf of those that she, myself, the gentlewoman from Florida [Ms. BROWN], and countless others in this Congress are supportive of receiving the same consideration as others have under this particular measure.

Reluctantly, I rise in opposition to the rule. Like the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK], said, I will support the ultimate bill because I feel that it is no more than fair to the District of Columbia that has been burdened in an equivalent manner, and in my view has not been treated as fairly as they should be. But all the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK] sought in the Committee on Rules was an amendment that would allow for an up-or-down vote on whether or not the Haitian refugees, particularly those that came through Guantanamo, would receive the same consideration as everyone else.

Neither the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK] nor I take any back seat to supporting all of the efforts of those who we represent in south Florida. I support Nicaraguans, and I think that they should receive an amnesty that they have received. I support Central Americans, and I think that they should receive the amnesty that they are going to be able to apply for and receive. I even support Eastern Europeans and think that it is appropriate that this Nation, the beacon for freedom and fairness, would offer them an opportunity to seek amnesty under appropriate circumstances. However, I totally reject the notion that those that we made a commitment to, that we are not fair enough to continue our efforts to ensure that that commitment is kept.

Once again, I thank the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK] and will vote to reject the rule for the reason that she will reject it, in her efforts to make a simple amendment that asks for nothing but fairness.

Mrs. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I will say in the end that this is an unjust and unfair rule. It is a rule which overlooks the equalness and equality which we push in this country. Having supported every effort to bring about equality in this country for immigrants and everyone else, I reject any statement. That is why I am voting against the rule.

I call on the Members of this Congress who believe in fairness and equity for all immigrants, not just one particular set, to reject this rule, to send a message to the Republicans that they do not choose certain immigrants because they go by the same ethnicity as they do to include in a bill. It is not fair, and it will show an unfairness for the majority party.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. CUNNINGHAM].

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I had the privilege of working on the education provisions of this legislation. I would like to personally thank the chairman, the gentleman from North Carolina, Mr. CHARLES TAYLOR, and ranking minority member, the gentleman from Virginia Mr. JIM MORAN, who not only listened but was cooperative and worked very closely with the committee.

I would also like to thank and I think D.C. and this body owes a great deal of gratitude to Gen. Julius Becton, who has taken on almost an impossible task of cutting through not only economic problems but the political problems of D.C. schools. He has worked tirelessly in changing some of the rules and in helping children in the District. I would like to commend General Becton.

Mr. Speaker, what education provisions are in the bill? It provides $3.3 million for public charter schools, that is good within this bill, but it also adds money for the public schools. The gentleman from Virginia [Mr. MORAN] fought for these provisions along with Republicans, and we find that it is in the best interests and will help.

There is a technical improvement to the D.C. charter schools. There are about four of them. I will not belabor them, but I think these provisions will actually help. It was done on a bipartisan basis, both Republicans and Democrats. The National Education Association will finally pay its fair share of taxes, which is about $1.1 million a year that will go to help D.C. schools. We helped with that.

One of the things that I am saddened by, Mr. Speaker, is that union bosses once again prevailed in stopping and preventing the aid to children in schools within D.C. by waiving Davis-Bacon. The average age of D.C. schools, the average age, is 86 years old, Mr. Speaker, 86 years. The roofs were so bad, schools were delayed. The fire codes are so bad that it was not even placed in the fire department, it is in the hands of a judge.

Yet, union bosses prevented saving up to 25 percent on school construction by giving the school construction authority the ability to waive Davis-Bacon. Once again, the unions chose to line their pockets rather than come to the aid of children. I think that is sickening, Mr. Speaker. It is something that we need to change.

The D.C. Student Opportunities Scholarship, which is not included in this, which my friend said is a Republican strategy or social strategy, is going to be in a freestanding bill to where he can vote up or down on it. Only a liberal would say that he does not want to help education and children have a choice of where they could go.

There is no pay raise for properly credentialed teachers, which we felt was important.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. MORAN].

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I want to suggest to the gentleman from California who just spoke, when he was praising General Becton, he used the term, "I would like to commend General Becton." I think he may want to correct the RECORD. I suspect he meant "commend General Becton." I might like to commend him, but I note that he may want to catch that in the RECORD.

Either way, I agree with the gentleman that General Becton is doing a fine job in a very difficult situation with the D.C. school system, and this bill helps that situation. It will be a long time before we correct all of D.C.'s problems, but certainly this is a step forward. That is why I rise in support of this rule.

I do not disagree with the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK] about the fact that Haitian refugees should get fair, comparable treatment to Central American and Cuban refugees. She argues about something that is not in the rule that she wants in the rule. I do not disagree with the issue, but I do think that this rule should be supported.

We need to get on with the business of providing the necessary funds for the District of Columbia. They are facing a financial crisis. So let us get this rule passed. I find nothing objectionable in it as it pertains to the District of Columbia, and I will address the substance of the bill when the bill is brought up. I do urge a "yes" vote on the rule.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Florida, Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART.

Mr. DIAZ-BALART. Mr. Speaker, with regard to the legislation on immigration that is included in this appropriations bill, I think it is important to point out that it is historic. It is in the great generous and compassionate tradition of the United States.

The process behind the Central American relief legislation began in July of this year, in June and July of this year, after a commitment by President Clinton to the Central American Presidents during a summit in Costa Rica, and also a commitment by the Speaker of the House, Speaker GINGRICH, after a visit to south Florida, precisely commenting on this issue.

The legislation was drafted after serious consultation with the National Security Council and the Department of Justice. It was drafted to prevent the deportation of Nicaraguans and also of Guatemalans and Salvadorans, known as the ABC class, that were denied suspension of deportation by the retroactivity of the Immigration Reform Act that was passed last year.

I want to point out, I would like to point out, Mr. Speaker, that passage of this language, which is included in the District of Columbia appropriations bill, will not in any way hinder efforts to seek similar relief for Haitian refugees in other legislative measures.

Last week, Senator MOSELEY-BRAUN in the Senate put a hold on the Senate D.C. appropriations bill because of the Haitian issue. She lifted her objection after the Attorney General and the White House agreed to provide administrative relief to the Haitian community while Congress considers a legislative remedy.

The agreement reached between the Senator and the administration provides that the President will authorize the Attorney General to temporarily suspend the deportation of Haitians while Congress considers legislation to provide relief to the Haitian community in the United States.

The bill has already been introduced in the Senate by Senator BOB GRAHAM and Senator CONNIE MACK and others, including Senator ABRAHAM, and a House companion bill has been dropped, to my understanding, by the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. CONYERS]. I have agreed to be a cosponsor of that bill, as I have always been a cosponsor of legislation by the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK] on this issue of our Haitian brothers and sisters.

Mr. Speaker, I will request and insist upon hearings not only in the Senate on this legislation but in the House as well and on the basis of this White House agreement of Senator MOSELEY-BRAUN where she lifted her hold and the Senate passed the D.C. appropriations bill by voice vote.

Mr. Speaker, I support, as I always have, the efforts to seek justice for our Haitian brothers and sisters. My distinguished friend, the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK], knows that. I will continue doing so. So as I recommit to do all I can to help our Haitian friends, I seek justice and commend the Speaker and all of those who have been involved, Mr. SMITH, as well as the leaders in the Senate, Senator ABRAHAM and Senator MACK and Senator BOB GRAHAM and others, who have worked on this.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. DIAZ-BALART. I yield to the gentleman from Florida.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, am I understanding the gentleman correctly that we have his commitment that he will push to ensure that the Haitians receive the same consideration that the Nicaraguans have?

Mr. DIAZ-BALART. Yes.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, while the gentleman is answering it, would he be so kind as to tell me, was it not equally possible that we could have included the Haitians in this particular measure?

Mr. DIAZ-BALART. The gentleman is aware of the fact that in the negotiations that led to this legislation, Mr. SMITH made what I consider to have been a very good faith offer with regard to the Haitians. The gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK] was of the opinion that that was not something that should be finalized in the terms that were offered.

But yes, my commitment is there, my distinguished friend, with regard to pushing this issue further.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia [Ms. NORTON].

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to ask for a vote, a positive vote, on the rule on a bipartisan basis.

Mr. Speaker, this is the last appropriation out. By all rights, it should have been the first, considering the condition of the District of Columbia and considering that there is only a token amount of Federal funds. I am coming to this floor to ask permission to spend my own money. I do not know what the rest of the Members would do if they had to do this.

This is a caboose appropriation held up in the Senate, as Members have heard, over an issue completely unrelated. I could not be more in sympathy with the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK]. If my appropriation has been treated regrettably, she has been treated most unfairly, and I pledge to her that I will do all in my power to monitor this matter to see that the compromise that has been achieved is carried out and to see that full justice is done in legislation when we return.

This bill has been cleansed of the issues that would have gotten a veto. Some of them would have been micromanagement of the District. Others would have been ideological issues.

We have gone from micromanaging the District to micromanaging the Control Board. We have to stop that. The Control Board is not above criticism, and I have been among its critics, but the fact is that these are five distinguished people working for no pay who are trying to do an almost impossible job. We ought to reinforce them, unless they get way off the mark. We are not close enough to take what they do and unravel it dollar by dollar.

All sides need to talk and negotiate before the appropriation period, rather than waiting for the appropriation to try to reform the District of Columbia. If Members want to have meaningful participation in the reform and restructuring of the District, let the Committee on Appropriations, the subcommittee, the authorizing subcommittee, the Control Board, and the District sit down and work out their problems before they get to this floor.

Home Rule? Yes, that is one reason this bill must be supported, because it has the support of the District of Columbia, which worked hard to please the Congress in what it has achieved, but it also must be supported because this bill is, in fact, an efficient and reliable way to move the District forward.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Florida [Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN].

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, our colleagues, the gentlewoman from south Florida, Mrs. CARRIE MEEK, and the gentleman from Florida, Mr. ALCEE HASTINGS, have done a formidable job of defending our community, especially the immigrant community, after their many years of dedicated service.

All of us in the south Florida congressional delegation have the great privilege of representing various pockets of the immigrant community, and we try to help all of those communities whenever we can. I commend my colleagues, the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK] and the gentleman from Florida [Mr. HASTINGS], for their leadership. It is because of their firm belief in fairness that my other colleague, the gentleman from Miami, FL [Mr. DIAZ-BALART], and I are going to join with them in working with our Florida Senators, CONNIE MACK and BOB GRAHAM, to get fair treatment for the Haitians.

In January when we come back to debate the new bills, we will continue working with our south Florida colleagues and our Florida Senators to see that the Guantanamo Haitians get the fair treatment that they deserve.

I visited the Guantanamo base in Cuba while the Haitians were there, I know of their plight. It was a great honor for me when I first came to Congress to represent the community of little Haiti. It is a wonderful law-abiding community, and I have supported and will continue to support the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK] in cosponsoring her bill. We have worked with the White House to work out this compromise that no deportations will be taking place while the legislation moves through the proper procedures in the House and the Senate.

However, the bill before us now does save many thousands of lives from the immigration limbo that they are facing, the deportation that has been dividing many communities.

Therefore, I urge my colleagues to support the rule and move this legislation forward, which is going to help so many immigrants. And we look forward to continuing in the new session in supporting other immigrants as well.

As an immigrant myself, as a political refugee who sought freedom and democracy, I know what this country stands for, and I know the beliefs that have brought us here still linger in our hearts. And we practice them every day. So I look forward to working with my colleagues to see this come true.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I would inquire of the time remaining on each side.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). The gentleman from Texas [Mr. FROST] has 19 minutes remaining. The gentlewoman from North Carolina [Mrs. MYRICK] has 18½ minutes remaining.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California [Ms. WATERS].

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Speaker, we find ourselves in a rather unfortunate situation. This is the most cynical kind of public policy-making that I have ever witnessed. I cannot understand for the life of me why the Haitians would have been left out from consideration.

As I understand, the Immigration and Naturalization Service reports that, as of September 30, 1996, applications for asylum were pending for about 18,000 Haitians, 21,000 Nicaraguans, 118,000 Guatemalans, and 191,000 Salvadorans.

How can they just drop the Haitians? It does not make good sense, and then they place it on the D.C. appropriations, where we are desperate to try and get a little justice for the District of Columbia, and they pit people against each other in the most unfair way. There is no rational reason for it. They should not put the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK] in the position of standing up here asking for a no vote on the rule for the District of Columbia, when they know how desperate the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia [Ms. NORTON] is. As a matter of fact, if they had any decency at all, they would pull this rule from the floor and go back and put the Haitians in.

These Haitians were promised. I have got letters here from Haitians whose parents were killed right before their eyes. They are seeking asylum because they were under political massacre from the Haitians down there. And my colleagues would stand here and allow this situation to develop. This is unconscionable. It is unreasonable. It is unfair. It is unjust. It is unkind. It is everything that I can think of when I look at what they are doing.

I cannot stand hear and say, do not support the D.C. rule. At the same time, we have these Representatives from Florida who are sitting here in pain because of what they are doing. The gentleman from Florida [Mr. DIAZ-BALART] and the rest of my colleagues who negotiated this deal, they should stand up like men and women and undo it now and do the right thing.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Texas [Ms. JACKSON-LEE].

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the ranking member very much for his kindness.

Let me, first of all, thank the hard work of the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia [Ms. NORTON] and the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. DAVIS] and the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. MORAN] for working so hard on the D.C. appropriations bill and particularly the charter school effort that I think will help our children in the District of Columbia.

I heard a colleague mention the need for money for construction and accusing unions of taking monies out of the children of the District of Columbia. If my Republican colleagues had voted for the $5 billion infrastructure addition to the budget, we might have had those dollars for the D.C. schools. More importantly, I think it should be well known that this is D.C. money and not our money, and all we are doing is tying it up and not spending it.

Let me move quickly to the Haitian question, because I join my colleagues in a great deal of dissatisfaction with the committee for not allowing this particular amendment of the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK] to be drawn to this rule that would allow the Haitians to be included in the privilege and waiver of allowing them to stay and continue their process of application. This is, of course, a discriminatory process, even though I applaud the White House and Attorney General for the administrative process that will allow them to stay in and the hearings of my colleague the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. CONYERS] and the work of the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. WATT], who is the chair of the Subcommittee on Immigration and Claims.

As a member of the House Committee on the Judiciary, I think this is an unpardonable sin. The Haitians deserve the same kind of freedom and opportunity that other immigrants deserve when they come to this country. Now 11,000 immigrants will be separated from their families. Who is to say that there is not persecution in Haiti as there is in Nicaragua and Guatemala?

I support what has happened to the Nicaraguans' and the Guatemalans' country for freedom. We always have supported this in a combined effort to support those who come here to this country for freedom. My question to my colleagues is, how can you deny this to Haitians? How can you stand up here and separate immigrants who have come here for freedom?

I would ask that this rule be denied and voted down, not because I do not support the District of Columbia, because it is their money, but because they do not even allow the immigrants that are Haitians that come to this country for freedom to get the same privileges of those that are getting the privilege.

I ask for my colleagues to consider the disparate treatment being given to Haitians in this country.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of my colleague the gentleman from Texas [Mr. FROST] how many speakers he has left.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, at this point, we have one speaker remaining.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I do not have any more speakers, so I reserve my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker. I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. BECERRA].

Mr. BECERRA. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Texas [Mr. FROST] for yielding me the time.

I, too, am one who is pleased that there was progress with the D.C. appropriations bill. It is certainly true that the District of Columbia needs the funding. I wish I could stand here and tell my colleagues that we should pass this rule and get on with our business, but I cannot because of many of the reasons that have been stated by some of my colleagues, especially from Florida, with regard to a particular provision which was added to this appropriation bill that really does not have anything to do with D.C. appropriations but, nonetheless, was added.

Let me quote for my colleagues from a letter of the President of the United States of November 4, 1997, where he said with regard to the issue affecting immigrants, principally from Central America and the Haitian community, that he was trying, through the legislation he had provided Congress to work on, he was seeking fair and equitable treatment for these individuals from these countries in Central America and Haiti. He goes on to say, "I am concerned, however, that this legislation, unlike my original proposal, inappropriately distinguishes among nationals from different countries, including those from Central America. It requires continued retroactive application of certain provisions in the 1996 immigration law and does not allow for an adequate transition to the law's new rules. Accordingly, the Congress should provide for a fair resolution of these issues." He goes on to say, "In addition, I strongly urge the Congress to provide to Haitians treatment similar to that provided to Central Americans."

What the President was speaking of was the change from his legislation that came to Congress and was being sponsored by certain Members in the House and the Senate and what is now in this appropriation bill, which is much different from what the President first proposed.

As Cardinal Law from Massachusetts said, "We are putting these immigrants through 'emotional torture.'" Cardinal Law goes on to say, "The United States must provide for equitable treatment to Nicaraguans, Salvadorans, and Guatemalans, as well as justice for Haitians, in emerging immigration legislation."

Mr. Speaker, what a number of us are saying here today is that, when we had a chance to put forth equity, when we had a chance to right the wrongs of last year's immigration law, when we had a chance to show that we respect and dignify people who come to this country to escape persecution and to start a new life, we failed. We failed because we were able to do a great amount for some, and I am very pleased that the Nicaraguans will have a chance to say that they will receive amnesty, but we did not do it for any other Central American constituency similarly situated.

The Salvadorans and the Guatemalans are in no different condition than the Nicaraguans, yet they are being treated differently. And the Haitians are completely shut out of this legislation. That is wrong. We could have cured this. We do not need to wait for future legislation to deal with this. We could have done it today, and we did not.

That is the shame of this bill that we have before us. That is why, unfortunately, some of us have to stand here and say that it is better to vote no on the rule than yes.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, we have no additional speakers at this time. I ask, is the gentlewoman from North Carolina [Mrs. MYRICK] going to yield back her time at this point?

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, yes, I am.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The previous question was ordered.

The resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to House Resolution 324, I call up the bill (H.R. 2607) making appropriations for the Government of the District of Columbia and other activities chargeable in whole or in part against the revenues of said District for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1998, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The fact that an alien may be eligible to be granted the status of having been lawfully admitted for permanent residence under this section shall not preclude the alien from seeking such status under any other provision of law for which the alien may be eligible.

SEC. 204. None of the funds provided in this or any previous Act, or hereinafter made available to the Department of Commerce, shall be available to reimburse the Unemployment Trust Fund or any other fund or account of the Treasury to pay for any expenses paid before October 1, 1992, as authorized by section 8501 of title 5, United States Code, for services performed after April 20, 1990, by individuals appointed to temporary positions within the Bureau of the Census for purposes relating to the 1990 decennial census of population.

SEC. 205. Not to exceed 5 percent of any appropriation made available for the current fiscal year for the Department of Commerce in this Act may be transferred between such appropriations, but no such appropriation shall be increased by more than 10 percent by any such transfers: Provided, That any transfer pursuant to this section shall be treated as a reprogramming of funds under section 605 of this Act and shall not be available for obligation or expenditure except in compliance with the procedures set forth in that section.

SEC. 206. (a) Should legislation be enacted to dismantle or reorganize the Department of Commerce or any portion thereof, the Secretary of Commerce, no later than 90 days thereafter, shall submit to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and the Senate a plan for transferring funds provided in this Act to the appropriate successor organizations: Provided, That the plan shall include a proposal for transferring or rescinding funds appropriated herein for agencies or programs terminated under such legislation: Provided further, That such plan shall be transmitted in accordance with section 605 of this Act.

(b) The Secretary of Commerce or the appropriate head of any successor organization(s) may use any available funds to carry out legislation dismantling or reorganizing the Department of Commerce or any portion thereof to cover the costs of actions relating to the abolishment, reorganization, or transfer of functions and any related personnel action, including voluntary separation incentives if authorized by such legislation: Provided, That the authority to transfer funds between appropriations accounts that may be necessary to carry out this section is provided in addition to authorities included under section 205 of this Act: Provided further, That use of funds to carry out this section shall be treated as a reprogramming of funds under section 605 of this Act and shall not be available for obligation or expenditure except in compliance with the procedures set forth in that section.

SEC. 207. Any costs incurred by a Department or agency funded under this title resulting from personnel actions taken in response to funding reductions included in this title or from actions taken for the care and protection of loan collateral or grant property shall be absorbed within the total budgetary resources available to such Department or agency: Provided, That the authority to transfer funds between appropriations accounts as may be necessary to carry out this section is provided in addition to authorities included elsewhere in this Act: Provided further, That use of funds to carry out this section shall be treated as a reprogramming of funds under section 605 of this Act and shall not be available for obligation or expenditure except in compliance with the procedures set forth in that section.

SEC. 208. The Secretary of Commerce may award contracts for hydrographic, geodetic, and photogrammetric surveying and mapping services in accordance with title IX of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 541 et seq.).

SEC. 209. (a) Congress finds that—

(1) it is the constitutional duty of the Congress to ensure that the decennial enumeration of the population is conducted in a manner consistent with the Constitution and laws of the United States;

(2) the sole constitutional purpose of the decennial enumeration of the population is the apportionment of Representatives in Congress among the several States;

(3) section 2 of the 14th article of amendment to the Constitution clearly states that Representatives are to be "apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State";

(4) article I, section 2, clause 3 of the Constitution clearly requires an "actual Enumeration" of the population, and section 195 of title 13, United States Code, clearly provides "Except for the determination of population for purposes of apportionment of Representatives in Congress among the several States, the Secretary shall, if he considers it feasible, authorize the use of the statistical method known as 'sampling' in carrying out the provisions of this title";

(5) the decennial enumeration of the population is one of the most critical constitutional functions our Federal Government performs;

(6) it is essential that the decennial enumeration of the population be as accurate as possible, consistent with the Constitution and laws of the United States;

(7) the use of statistical sampling or statistical adjustment in conjunction with an actual enumeration to carry out the census with respect to any segment of the population poses the risk of an inaccurate, invalid, and unconstitutional census;

(8) the decennial enumeration of the population is a complex and vast undertaking, and if such enumeration is conducted in a manner that does not comply with the requirements of the Constitution or laws of the United States, it would be impracticable for the States to obtain, and the courts of the United States to provide, meaningful relief after such enumeration has been conducted; and

(9) Congress is committed to providing the level of funding that is required to perform the entire range of constitutional census activities, with a particular emphasis on accurately enumerating all individuals who have historically been undercounted, and toward this end, Congress expects—

(A) aggressive and innovative promotion and outreach campaigns in hard-to-count communities;

(B) the hiring of enumerators from within those communities;

(C) continued cooperation with local government on address list development; and

(D) maximized census employment opportunities for individuals seeking to make the transition from welfare to work.

(b) Any person aggrieved by the use of any statistical method in violation of the Constitution or any provision of law (other than this Act), in connection with the 2000 or any later decennial census, to determine the population for purposes of the apportionment or redistricting of members in Congress, may in a civil action obtain declaratory, injunctive, and any other appropriate relief against the use of such method.

(c) For purposes of this section—

(1) the use of any statistical method as part of a dress rehearsal or other simulation of a census in preparation for the use of such method, in a decennial census, to determine the population for purposes of the apportionment or redistricting of members in Congress shall be considered the use of such method in connection with that census; and

(2) the report ordered by title VIII of Public Law 105-18 and the Census 2000 Operational Plan shall be deemed to constitute final agency action regarding the use of statistical methods in the 2000 decennial census, thus making the question of their use in such census sufficiently concrete and final to now be reviewable in a judicial proceeding.

(d) For purposes of this section, an aggrieved person (described in subsection (b)) includes—

(1) any resident of a State whose congressional representation or district could be changed as a result of the use of a statistical method challenged in the civil action;

(2) any Representative or Senator in Congress; and

(3) either House of Congress.

(e)(1) Any action brought under this section shall be heard and determined by a district court of three judges in accordance with section 2284 of title 28, United States Code. The chief judge of the United States court of appeals for each circuit shall, to the extent practicable and consistent with the avoidance of unnecessary delay, consolidate, for all purposes, in one district court within that circuit, all actions pending in that circuit under this section. Any party to an action under this section shall be precluded from seeking any consolidation of that action other than is provided in this paragraph. In selecting the district court in which to consolidate such actions, the chief judge shall consider the convenience of the parties and witnesses and efficient conduct of such actions. Any final order or injunction of a United States district court that is issued pursuant to an action brought under this section shall be reviewable by appeal directly to the Supreme Court of the United States. Any such appeal shall be taken by a notice of appeal filed within 10 days after such order is entered; and the jurisdictional statement shall be filed within 30 days after such order is entered. No stay of an order issued pursuant to an action brought under this section may be issued by a single Justice of the Supreme Court.

(2) It shall be the duty of a United States district court hearing an action brought under this section and the Supreme Court of the United States to advance on the docket and to expedite to the greatest possible extent the disposition of any such matter.

(f) Any agency or entity within the executive branch having authority with respect to the carrying out of a decennial census may in a civil action obtain a declaratory judgment respecting whether or not the use of a statistical method, in connection with such census, to determine the population for the purposes of the apportionment or redistricting of members in Congress is forbidden by the Constitution and laws of the United States.

(g) The Speaker of the House of Representatives or the Speaker's designee or designees may commence or join in a civil action, for and on behalf of the House of Representatives, under any applicable law, to prevent the use of any statistical method, in connection with the decennial census, to determine the population for purposes of the apportionment or redistricting of members in Congress. It shall be the duty of the Office of the General Counsel of the House of Representatives to represent the House in such civil action, according to the directions of the Speaker. The Office of the General Counsel of the House of Representatives may employ the services of outside counsel and other experts for this purpose.

(h) For purposes of this section and section 210—

(1) the term "statistical method" means an activity related to the design, planning, testing, or implementation of the use of representative sampling, or any other statistical procedure, including statistical adjustment, to add or subtract counts to or from the enumeration of the population as a result of statistical inference; and

(2) the term "census" or "decennial census" means a decennial enumeration of the population.

(i) Nothing in this Act shall be construed to authorize the use of any statistical method, in connection with a decennial census, for the apportionment or redistricting of members in Congress.

(j) Sufficient funds appropriated under this Act or under any other Act for purposes of the 2000 decennial census shall be used by the Bureau of the Census to plan, test, and become prepared to implement a 2000 decennial census, without using statistical methods, which shall result in the percentage of the total population actually enumerated being as close to 100 percent as possible. In both the 2000 decennial census, and any dress rehearsal or other simulation made in preparation for the 2000 decennial census, the number of persons enumerated without using statistical methods must be publicly available for all levels of census geography which are being released by the Bureau of the Census for (1) all data releases before January 1, 2001, (2) the data contained in the 2000 decennial census Public Law 94-171 data file released for use in redistricting, (3) the Summary Tabulation File One (STF-1) for the 2000 decennial census, and (4) the official populations of the States transmitted from the Secretary of Commerce through the President to the Clerk of the House used to reapportion the districts of the House among the States as a result of the 2000 decennial census. Simultaneously with any other release or reporting of any of the information described in the preceding sentence through other means, such information shall be made available to the public on the Internet. These files of the Bureau of the Census shall be available concurrently to the release of the original files to the same recipients, on identical media, and at a comparable price. They shall contain the number of persons enumerated without using statistical methods and any additions or subtractions thereto. These files shall be based on data gathered and generated by the Bureau of the Census in its official capacity.

(k) This section shall apply in fiscal year 1998 and succeeding fiscal years.

SEC. 210. (a) There shall be established a board to be known as the Census Monitoring Board (hereinafter in this section referred to as the "Board").

(5) Upon the request of the Board, the head of any Federal agency is authorized to detail, without reimbursement, any of the personnel of such agency to the Board to assist the Board in carrying out its duties. (i) shall achieve maximum possible accuracy at every level of geography;

TITLE XXVII—EUROPEAN SECURITY ACT OF 1997

SEC. 2701. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “European Security Act of 1997”.

SEC. 2702. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

(a) POLICY WITH RESPECT TO NATO ENLARGEMENT.—Congress urges the President to outline a clear and complete strategic rationale for the enlargement of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), and declares that—

(1) Poland, Hungary, and the Czech Republic should not be the last emerging democracies in Central and Eastern Europe invited to join NATO;

(2) the United States should ensure that NATO continues a process whereby all other emerging democracies in Central and Eastern Europe that wish to join NATO will be considered for membership in NATO as soon as they meet the criteria for such membership;

(3) the United States should ensure that no limitations are placed on the numbers of NATO troops or types of equipment, including tactical nuclear weapons, to be deployed on the territory of new member states;

(4) the United States should reject all efforts to condition NATO decisions on review or approval by the United Nations Security Council;

(5) the United States should clearly delineate those NATO deliberations, including but not limited to discussions on arms control, further Alliance enlargement, procurement matters, and strategic doctrine, that are not subject to review or discussion in the NATO-Russia Permanent Joint Council;

(6) the United States should work to ensure that countries invited to join the Alliance are provided an immediate seat in NATO discussions; and

(7) the United States already pays more than a proportionate share of the costs of the common defense of Europe and should obtain, in advance, agreement on an equitable distribution of the cost of NATO enlargement to ensure that the United States does not continue to bear a disproportionate burden.

(b) POLICY WITH RESPECT TO NEGOTIATIONS WITH RUSSIA.—

(1) IMPLEMENTATION.—NATO enlargement should be carried out in such a manner as to underscore the Alliance's defensive nature and demonstrate to Russia that NATO enlargement will enhance the security of all countries in Europe, including Russia. Accordingly, the United States and its NATO allies should make this intention clear in negotiations with Russia, including negotiations regarding adaptation of the Conventional Armed Forces in Europe (CFE) Treaty of November 19, 1990.

(2) LIMITATIONS ON COMMITMENTS TO RUSSIA.—In seeking to demonstrate to Russia NATO's defensive and security-enhancing intentions, it is essential that neither fundamental United States security interests in Europe nor the effectiveness and flexibility of NATO as a defensive alliance be jeopardized. In particular, no commitments should be made to Russia that would have the effect of—

(A) extending rights or imposing responsibilities on new NATO members different from those applicable to current NATO members, including rights or responsibilities with respect to the deployment of nuclear weapons and the stationing of troops and equipment from other NATO members;

(B) limiting the ability of NATO to defend the territory of new NATO members by, for example, restricting the construction of defense infrastructure or limiting the ability of NATO to deploy necessary reinforcements;

(C) providing any international organization, or any country that is not a member of NATO, with authority to delay, veto, or otherwise impede deliberations and decisions of the North Atlantic Council or the implementation of such decisions, including deliberations and decisions with respect to the deployment of NATO forces or the admission of additional members to NATO;

(D) impeding the development of enhanced relations between NATO and other European countries that do not belong to the Alliance;

(E) establishing a nuclear weapons-free zone in Central or Eastern Europe;

(F) requiring NATO to subsidize Russian arms sales, service, or support to the militaries of those former Warsaw Pact countries invited to join the Alliance; or

(G) legitimizing Russian efforts to link concessions in arms control negotiations to NATO enlargement.

(3) COMMITMENTS FROM RUSSIA.—In order to enhance security and stability in Europe, the United States should seek commitments from Russia—

(A) to demarcate and respect all its borders with neighboring states;

(B) to achieve the immediate and complete withdrawal of any armed forces and military equipment under the control of Russia that are deployed on the territories of the independent states of the former Soviet Union without the full and complete agreement of those states;

(C) to station its armed forces on the territory of other states only with the full and complete agreement of that state and in strict accordance with international law; and

(D) to take steps to reduce further its nuclear and conventional forces in Kaliningrad.

(4) CONSULTATIONS.—As negotiations on adaptation of the Treaty on Conventional Armed Forces in Europe proceed, the United States should engage in close and continuous consultations not only with its NATO allies, but also with the emerging democracies of Central and Eastern Europe, Ukraine, and the South Caucasus.

(c) POLICY WITH RESPECT TO BALLISTIC MISSILE DEFENSE COOPERATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—As the United States proceeds with efforts to develop defenses against ballistic missile attack, it should seek to foster a climate of cooperation with Russia on matters related to missile defense. In particular, the United States and its NATO allies should seek to cooperate with Russia in such areas as early warning.

(2) DISCUSSIONS WITH NATO ALLIES.—The United States should initiate discussions with its NATO allies for the purpose of examining the feasibility of deploying a ballistic missile defense capable of protecting NATO's southern and eastern flanks from a limited ballistic missile attack.

(3) CONSTITUTIONAL PREROGATIVES.—Even as the Congress seeks to promote ballistic missile defense cooperation with Russia, it must insist on its constitutional prerogatives regarding consideration of arms control agreements with Russia that bear on ballistic missile defense.

SEC. 2704. SENSE OF CONGRESS WITH RESPECT TO THE TREATY ON CONVENTIONAL ARMED FORCES IN EUROPE.

It is the sense of Congress that no revisions to the Treaty on Conventional Armed Forces in Europe will be approved for entry into force with respect to the United States that jeopardize fundamental United States security interests in Europe or the effectiveness and flexibility of NATO as a defensive alliance by—

(1) extending rights or imposing responsibilities on new NATO members different from those applicable to current NATO members, including rights or responsibilities with respect to the deployment of nuclear weapons and the stationing of troops and equipment from other NATO members;

(2) limiting the ability of NATO to defend the territory of new NATO members by, for example, restricting the construction of defense infrastructure or limiting the ability of NATO to deploy necessary reinforcements;

(3) providing any international organization, or any country that is not a member of NATO, with the authority to delay, veto, or otherwise impede deliberations and decisions of the North Atlantic Council or the implementation of such decisions, including deliberations and decisions with respect to the deployment of NATO forces or the admission of additional members to NATO; or

MOTION OFFERED BY MR. LIVINGSTON

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I offer a motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the motion.

The text of the motion is as follows:

Mr. LIVINGSTON moves that the House concur in the amendment of the Senate to the text of H.R. 2607 with an amendment and disagrees to the Senate amendment to the title.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 324, the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON] and the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. MORAN] each will control 30 minutes.

The gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON] is recognized.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on the motion to concur in the Senate amendment and that I may be permitted to include tabular and extraneous material.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Louisiana?

There was no objection.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to present to the House the final agreement which we were able to reach with the Senate on the District of Columbia Appropriations Act for fiscal year 1998. The House passed the bill on October 9. And the Senate passed the bill, with an amendment, last Sunday evening.

Our final agreement includes $855 million in Federal funds and is within the committee's overall 302 allocation in both budget authority and outlays. The final agreement is $7 million above the Senate bill and will provide a total of $12 million for the U.S. Park Police.

Mr. Speaker, it is the intent of Congress that this $12 million will be considered as new funding and is not to be offset against any existing appropriations now or in the future.

In District funds, the final agreement provides $5 billion, which includes $270 million for capital programs.

Mr. Speaker, this final agreement includes the charter school language that was in the House bill, with the exception of the provision allowing charter schools to lease D.C. public school facilities for a dollar a year.

I would like to mention that the Senate deleted the $7 million that was in the House bill for school vouchers and passed a separate freestanding bill, Senate bill 1502. I would expect all supporters of the District of Columbia school voucher program to support this bill when it comes to the floor.

I might only add, Mr. Speaker, that as has been indicated in the debate on the rule, title II of the bill provides for the Nicaraguan Adjustment and Central American Relief Act, which is clarification of eligibility for relief from removal and deportation for certain aliens.

I would like to thank all members of the subcommittee, especially the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. TAYLOR], and all the staff that have done such a great job on this bill. I think what we have here is a good agreement with the other body. I urge all Members to support it.

Mr. Speaker, I include the following tabular material for the RECORD:

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. I rise in support of the motion offered by the gentleman from Louisiana to concur in the Senate amendment to the D.C. appropriations bill, with an amendment.

Mr. Speaker, the Senate amendment is essentially what we call the Moran substitute. I offered it on the House floor when the D.C. bill came up. It does include a new title which provides relief for Nicaraguan and Central American refugees.

I totally agree with the comments of the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK], the gentleman from Florida [Mr. HASTINGS], the gentlewoman from Texas [Ms. JACKSON-LEE], and the gentleman from California [Mr. BECERRA]. It is wrong to exclude Haitian refugees in this; there is no question about it. I think that that is very unfortunate.

However, this bill needs to be passed. The reality is, D.C. needs its money. We have a fiscal crisis. This is a substantial improvement over the House-passed bill. We will hear from the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia [Ms. NORTON] shortly. It has bipartisan support. It supports the Federal revitalization package that this Congress passed last year.

With the adoption of the Senate amendment, we have a bill that the President will sign. The Senate amendment has several key features that are similar to the original House bill. It provides the same $828 million. The funds are distributed a little differently but they are just the way that the Control Board and the D.C. government feel they ought to be distributed.

Also, like the House bill, the Senate amendment will ensure that the District continues to make progress to reduce its accumulated deficit. $200 million goes into deficit reduction. This is the bill that was the consensus budget submitted by the D.C. Council, the mayor and the D.C. Financial Control Board.

Most important, these provisions that the Senate amendment has do not contain all the micromanagement and the legislative riders that were in the House bill that caused such problems and delayed consideration of the bill. It drops the authorizing language and appropriations for D.C. vouchers. That would have ensured a presidential veto. It drops the part that forced the closure of the D.C. law school. It keeps Pennsylvania Avenue closed regardless of what Members think about that. That would have been a very controversial issue with the administration.

We are 43 days into the fiscal year. We have got to act immediately. The District of Columbia government is 43 days behind in implementing the management and financial reforms that we all know are sorely needed. The Control Board is eager to begin its work. It cannot do so until we get this bill completed.

Mr. Speaker, the Senate amendment and the amendments that are offered by the chairman of this committee deserve our strong support. The chairman's amendment makes several technical adjustments. It adds the charter school provisions that were contained in the original House-passed bill, with the exception, there is an exception, it takes out the provision that would have sold D.C. school facilities for a dollar a year. That has to be taken out. It is a matter of about $20 million the D.C. school system needs. The D.C. school system agreed with Parents United in the court suit that that money would be spent on rehabilitating existing school facilities.

That was the right amendment, the Senate amendment, with the exception of title II certainly, but the Senate amendment deserves our strong support. The D.C. government deserves better than it has gotten so far in this fiscal year. I do urge all my colleagues to support the motion offered by the gentleman from Louisiana and urge its adoption.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia [Ms. NORTON].

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. I thank him for his hard work on this bill. I thank the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON] and the many people on both sides of the aisle who contributed to finally getting this bill out.

Before I say a word on this bill, I want to thank the gentlewoman from Florida and the gentleman from Florida who have helped us to expedite this bill by not calling for a recorded vote. I want to promise them that I will stand with them so that we get a vote the first week we come back on Haiti.

This may not be a moment of truth but it has arrived. We must get the D.C. appropriation out tonight. We have a bipartisan compromise only because of the hard work of people on both sides of the aisle. No one has gained much. Everybody has given up a lot in order to get this bill through. We have tried to accommodate all reasonable requests.

It is not the bill I would have wanted. No one has had to compromise more than I have, Mr. Speaker. The bill has no new Federal money, only rescue package money. It is $4.2 billion raised exclusively in the District of Columbia, 6 weeks late in getting permission to spend our own money.

Congress, and the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. TAYLOR] in particular, who had the oversight here, openly spoke to the District that it should use the surplus to pay down the deficit, and that is exactly what the District in response to him has done. The city and the Control Board have come forward with a budget that is balanced a year ahead of time, almost all of the surplus used in exactly the way the Congress has suggested.

There is a lot I would change. I want to thank everyone for helping do what I think we will do in a few minutes and get this bill out so that the District of Columbia can begin to spend its own money.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California [Mr. CUNNINGHAM], a distinguished member of the subcommittee.

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia has legitimate concerns. I do not know of anyone in the House that represents a more difficult area, and I believe her when she said she would spend her own money to help.

I would beseech all of my colleagues to take a look especially at the education school system within D.C. You have got the majority of children that start the ninth grade do not finish. You have illiteracy that comes out of your juniors and seniors out of your schools. They need help. They are reaching out.

Regardless of where our politics are on the different education issues, all of us need to reach out. But the average is $10,000 plus per student. The answer is not just more dollars per student but some of the reforms that we are going through to spend the money wisely.

I would like to thank not only the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia for her energy but the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. MORAN], the ranking minority member, for working together on this bill. I urge its passage.

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. In the interest of time we are not going to have other speakers, but I would like to extend our appreciation to some people like the gentleman from Florida [Mr. HASTINGS] and the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK]. They could have delayed their colleagues' time considerably tonight. They chose not to, but it is an issue that they have very legitimate and deep feelings about.

I think the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. TAYLOR] should be recognized for his conscientious effort on this bill. We disagreed on a number of provisions, but he applied himself and spent a lot of time on this; certainly the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON], the chairman of the full committee, and the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY], the ranking member of the full committee.

The staff deserves some recognition: Migo Miconi, he is a walking encyclopedia of the District of Columbia; Mike Fischetti, Mary Porter, Tom Forhan, Cheryl Smith. I would like to give some recognition to Mike Brown, my personal staff person, who spent hours, days, months really working on this bill and he did a tremendous job on it. I should have recognized him last time when it came to the floor. Cedric Hendricks has done such great work on the authorizing committee for the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia [Ms. NORTON].

I would also like to give some recognition to the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. DAVIS], the chairman of the authorizing committee. He has done a real fine job in getting this bill through, and in a way that the President can sign it and give the money to the District that it sorely needs.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. I would point out that I wholeheartedly agree with the accolades bestowed by the gentleman from Virginia. I would like to thank him for all of his cooperation. It has helped bring about this moment. It is overdue. We want to get the District of Columbia adequately funded and pass this bill as quickly as possible.

I want to add a special commendation, though, for the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. TAYLOR], who has had lots of farsighted ideas on how to put the District of Columbia on firm fiscal footing. I think he is a man ahead of his time. Many of his ideas will be adopted but some of them just could not pass through muster at this time.

I thank the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. MORAN], I thank the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. TAYLOR], I thank the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia [Ms. NORTON], the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. DAVIS], and all of the staff who have lent a hand in putting this bill together. I congratulate all the Members of the House and look forward to their wholehearted, enthusiastic passage of this bill.

Ms. BROWN of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call attention to what I believe is a human rights travesty happening right here in this country. First, we should not be considering immigration issues on the appropriations bill for the District of Columbia. Second, we should not be discriminating against our neighbors in this Hemisphere, the Haitians, with regard to our immigration policy.

Mr. Speaker, this bill has provisions to grant certain groups of immigrants permanent residence and others have extensions of time for consideration of their applications. The Haitians have been given absolutely no special provisions, even though many of them have been persecuted, just miles from our shores.

This is a disgrace because it is blatant discrimination, that the conferees failed to correct, and tonight, the Rules Committee failed to correct.

Mr. Speaker, I have seen the Rules Committee make far more drastic changes to bills than what would have been required here to restore fairness to our immigration policy.

Mr. Speaker, correcting the U.S. immigration policy with regard to Haitians should be the first priority in the second session of the 105th Congress. I intend to make sure it happens. We need to treat our neighbors with dignity and respect, and most of all, treat them fairly.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). All time for debate has expired.

Pursuant to House Resolution 324, the previous question is ordered.

The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON].

The motion was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 105th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 143

WASHINGTON, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1997

No. 159

Senate

The Senate met at 12 noon and was called to order by the President pro tempore [Mr. THURMOND].

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Lloyd John Ogilvie, offered the following prayer:

Gracious God, without whom we can do nothing of lasting value, but with whom there is no limit to what we can accomplish, we ask You to infuse us with fresh strength and determination as we press toward the goal of finishing the work of this 1st year of the 105th Congress. Help us to do all we can, in every way we can, and as best we can to finish well. Inspire us all to follow the cadence of Your drumbeat.

Bless the Senators in these crucial hours. Replace any weariness with the second wind of Your spirit. Rejuvenate those whose vision is blurred by stress, and deliver those who may be discouraged or disappointed. In the quiet of this moment, we return to You, recommit our lives to You, and receive Your revitalizing energy. We accept the psalmist's reorienting admonition, "Wait on the Lord; be of good courage, and He shall strengthen your heart; wait, I say, on the Lord!"—Psalm 27:14. In the name of our Lord and Saviour. Amen.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MAJORITY LEADER

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The able acting majority leader, the distinguished Senator from Kansas, is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. ROBERTS. Mr. President, the Senate will be in a period of morning business until 12:30. If there are no requests for morning business, the Senate may recess for several hours, as the Senate awaits House action on the remaining appropriations matters.

As previously announced, no rollcall votes will occur during today's session. If rollcall votes are necessary tomorrow, the votes will be scheduled within a 4-hour time span. The leader is now attempting to ascertain that 4-hour period. Also, if rollcalls will be necessary during Thursday's session of the Senate, Senators will be notified as soon as a decision is made concerning those possible votes on Thursday.

The Senate is also attempting to complete its business for the first session of the 105th Congress. Therefore, many executive and legislative items are in the clearance process. Needless to say, the cooperation of all Senators

REPORT ON THE CONTINUATION OF THE EMERGENCY REGARDING WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION—MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT—PM 80

The PRESIDING OFFICER laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States, together with an accompanying report; which was referred to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

To the Congress of the United States:

On November 14, 1994, in light of the dangers of the proliferation of nuclear, biological, and chemical weapons ("weapons of mass destruction"—[WMD]) and of the means of delivering such weapons, I issued Executive Order 12938, and declared a national emergency under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.), Under section 202(d) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1622(d)), the national emergency terminates on the anniversary date of its declaration, unless I publish in the Federal Register and transmit to the Congress a notice of its continuation.

The proliferation of weapons of mass destruction continues to pose an unusual and extraordinary threat to the national security, foreign policy, and economy of the United States. Therefore, I am advising the Congress that the national emergency declared on November 14, 1994, and extended on November 14, 1995 and November 14, 1996, must continue in effect beyond November 14, 1997. Accordingly, I have extended the national emergency declared in Executive Order 12938 and have sent the attached notice of extension to the Federal Register for publication.

The following report is made pursuant to section 204(c) of the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1703(c)) and section 401(c) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1641(c)), regarding activities taken and money spent pursuant to the emergency declaration. Additional information on nuclear, missile, and/or chemical and biological weapons [CBW] nonproliferation efforts is contained in the most recent annual Report on the Proliferation of Missiles and Essential Components of Nuclear, Biological and Chemical Weapons, provided to the Congress pursuant to section 1097 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 1992 and 1993 (Public Law 102-190), also known as the "Nonproliferation Report," and the most recent annual report provided to the Congress pursuant to section 308 of the Chemical and Biological Weapons Control and Warfare Elimination Act of 1991 (Public Law 102-182), also known as the "CBW Report."

CHEMICAL AND BIOLOGICAL WEAPONS

The three export control regulations issued under the Enhanced Proliferation Control Initiatives [EPCI] remained fully in force and continue to be applied in order to control the export of items with potential used in chemical or biological weapons or unmanned delivery systems for weapons of mass destruction.

Chemical weapons continue to pose a very serious threat to our security and that of countries friendly to us. On April 29, 1997, the Convention on the Prohibition of the Development, Production, Stockpiling and Use of Chemical Weapons and on Their Destruction (the "Chemical Weapons Convention" or [CWC]) entered into force with 87 of the CWC's 165 signatories as original States Parties. The United States was among their number, having deposited its instrument of ratification on April 25. As of November 5, 104 countries had become States Parties.

Russia did not complete its legislative approval process in time to be among the original CWC States Parties. In our March meeting in Helsinki, President Yeltsin did, however, assure me of his understanding of the importance of the CWC to Russia's own security. On October 31, 1997, the Russian Duma (lower house) approved ratification of the CWC. On November 5, 1997, the Russian Federation Council unanimously approved the CWC and the Russian government deposited its instrument of ratification. Russia's ratification makes it possible for Russia to join the United States in playing a leadership role in ensuring that all of the Convention's benefits are realized.

Given Russia's financial situation during this difficult period of transition to a market economy, serious concerns have been raised about the high costs of environmentally sound destruction of the large stocks of chemical weapons Russia inherited from the former Soviet Union. Through the Cooperative Threat Reduction Program, we are working with Russia to help address these complex problems, and we will continue to do so now that Russia has ratified the CWC.

The Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons [OPCW] has been established to achieve the object and purpose of the CWC, to ensure the implementation of its provisions and provide a forum for consultation and cooperation among States Parties. The executive organ of the OPCW, the Executive Council, has met five times since May to oversee decisions related to inter alia data declarations, inspections, and organizational issues. The United States plays an active role in ensuring effective implementation of the Convention.

The CWC is an ambitious undertaking by the world community to ban an entire class of weapons of mass destruction. Its members have committed themselves to totally eliminating chemical weapons stocks and production facilities, prohibiting chemical weapons-related activities, banning assistance for such activities and restricting trade with non-Parties in certain relevant chemicals. Destruction of U.S. chemical weapons stocks is moving forward. Other CWC States Parties have now taken on a similar task, and we are working hard with the other members of the CWC to make membership in this treaty universal.

The United States is determined to ensure full implementation of the concrete measures in the CWC that will raise the costs and the risks for any state or terrorist attempting to engage in chemical weapons-related activities. The CWC's declaration requirements will improve our knowledge of possible chemical weapons activities, whether conducted by countries or terrorists. Its inspection provisions provide for access to declared and undeclared facilities and locations, thus making clandestine chemical weapons production and stockpiling more difficult, more risky, and more expensive.

Countries that refuse to join the CWC will be politically isolated and banned from trading with States Parties in certain key chemicals. The relevant Treaty provision is specifically designed to penalize in a concrete way countries that refuse to join the rest of the world in eliminating the threat of chemical weapons.

The United States also continues to play a leading role in the international effort to reduce the threat from biological weapons. We are an active participant in the Ad Hoc Group striving to create a legally binding protocol to strengthen and enhance compliance with the Convention on the Prohibition of the Development, Production and Stockpiling of Bacteriological (Biological) and Toxin Weapons and on Their Destruction (the "Biological Weapons Convention" or (BWC)). This Ad Hoc Group was mandated by the September 1994 BWC Special Conference. The Fourth BWC Review Conference, held in November 1996, commended the work done by the Ad Hoc Group and urged it to complete the protocol as soon as possible but not later than the next Review Conference to be held in 2001. A draft rolling text was introduced by the Chairman at the July Ad Hoc Group session. Work is progressing on insertion of national views and clarification of existing text, largely drawn from the consultative phase of Ad Hoc Group work since 1994. Three-week sessions are scheduled for January, July, and September of 1998. Another 2-week session will be scheduled for either March or December of 1998. Early completion of an effective BWC protocol is high on our list of nonproliferation goals.

The United States continues to be a leader in the Australia Group [AG] chemical and biological weapons non-proliferation regime. Last year, the United States supported the entry into the AG of the Republic of Korea, which became the group's 30th member in time for the October 1996 plenary.

The United States attended this year's annual AG plenary session from October 6-9, 1997, during which the Group continued to focus on strengthening AG export controls and sharing information to address the threat of CBW terrorism. At the behest of the United States, the AG first began in-depth political-level discussion of CBW terrorism during the 1995 plenary session following the Tokyo subway nerve gas attack earlier that year. At the 1996 plenary, the United States urged AG members to exchange national points of contact for AG terrorism matters. At the 1997 plenary, the AG accepted a U.S. proposal to survey all AG members on efforts each has taken to counter this threat.

The Group also reaffirmed the members' collective belief that full adherence to the CWC and the BWC is the best way to achieve permanent global elimination of CBW, and that all states adhering to these Conventions have an obligation to ensure that their national activities support this goal.

AG participants continue to seek to ensure that all relevant national measures promote the object and purposes of the BWC and CWC. The AG nations reaffirmed their belief that existing national export licensing policies and chemical weapons-related items fulfill the obligation established under Article I of the CWC that States Parties never assist, in any way, the acquisition of chemical weapons. Given this understanding, the AG members also reaffirmed their commitment to continuing the Group's activities now that the CWC has entered into force.

The AG also reaffirmed its commitment to continue to provide briefings for non-AG countries, and to promote regional consultations on export controls and nonproliferation to further awareness and understanding of national policies in these areas.

During the last 6 months, we continued to examine closely intelligence and other reports of trade in chemical weapons-related material and technology that might require action, including evaluating whether sanctions under the Chemical and Biological Weapons Control and Warfare Elimination Act of 1991 were warranted. In May 1997, we imposed sanctions on seven Chinese entities and one Hong Kong company for knowingly and materially contributing to Iran's CW program through the export of dual-use chemical precursors and/or chemical production equipment and technology. In September 1997, we imposed sanctions on a German citizen and a German company determined to have been involved in the export of chemical production equipment to Libya's CW program.

The United States continues to cooperate with its AG partners in stopping shipments of proliferation concern. By sharing information through diplomatic and other channels, we and our AG partners have been successful in interdicting various shipments destined to CBW programs.

MISSILES FOR WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION DELIVERY

During the reporting period, the United States carefully controlled exports that could contribute to unmanned delivery systems for weapons of mass destruction and closely monitored activities of potential missile proliferation concern. We also continued to implement U.S. missile sanctions law, in cases where sanctionable activity was determined to have occurred. In August 1997, we imposed sanctions against two North Korean entities determined to have engaged in missile proliferation activities. Similar sanctions imposed in May 1996 remain in effect against two entities in Iran and one entity in North Korea for transfers involving Category II Missile Technology Control Regime [MTCR] Annex items.

During this reporting period, MTCR Partners continued to share information about proliferation problems with each other and with other potential supplier, consumer, and transshipment states. Partners also emphasized the need for implementing effective export control systems. This cooperation has resulted in the interdiction of missile-related materials intended for use in missile programs of concern.

The United States was an active participant in the MTCR's June 1997 Reinforced Point of Contact Meeting [RPOC]. At the RPOC, MTCR Partners engaged in useful discussions of regional missile proliferation concerns, as well as steps the Partners could take to increase transparency and outreach to nonmembers.

In July 1997, the United States also played a leading role at the Swiss-hosted MTCR workshop on the licensing and enforcement aspects of transshipment. The workshop was successful in focusing attention on the enforcement problems raised by proliferators' misuse of transshipment and fostered a productive exchange of ideas on how countries can better address such activity.

The United States worked unilaterally and in coordination with its MTCR Partners to combat missile proliferation and to encourage nonmembers to export responsibly and to adhere to the MTCR Guidelines. Since the last report, we have continued our missile nonproliferation dialogue with China, the Republic of Korea [ROK], North Korea [DPRK], and Ukraine. In the course of normal diplomatic relations, we also have pursued such discussions with other countries in Central Europe, the Middle East, and Asia.

In June 1997, the United States and the DPRK held a second round of missile talks, aimed at freezing the DPRK's indigenous missile development program and curtailing its missile-related export activities. The DPRK appeared willing to consider limits on its missile-related exports, in return for sanctions-easing measures, but did not engage in discussion of limits on its missile development program. We intend to pursue further missile talks with the DPRK.

In July 1997, we held another round of nonproliferation talks with the ROK. These talks were productive and made progress toward facilitating ROK membership in the MTCR.

In response to reports that Iran had acquired sensitive items from Russian entities for use in Iran's missile development program, the United States intensified its high-level dialogue with Russia on this issue. We held a number of productive discussions with senior Russian officials aimed at finding ways the United States and Russia can work together to prevent Iran's ballistic missile development program from acquiring Russian technology and equipment. This process is continuing.

NUCLEAR WEAPONS

In a truly historic landmark in our efforts to curb the spread of nuclear weapons, the 50th U.N. General Assembly on September 10, 1996, adopted and called for signature of the Comprehensive Nuclear Test Ban Treaty [CTBT], negotiated over the previous 2½ years in the Conference on Disarmament in Geneva. The overwhelming passage of this U.N. resolution (158-3-5) demonstrates the CTBT's strong international support and marks a major success for United States foreign policy. On September 24, 1996, I and other international leaders signed the CTBT in New York.

During 1997, CTBT signatories have conducted numerous meetings of the Preparatory Commission in Vienna, seeking to promote rapid completion of the International Monitoring System established by the Treaty. On September 23, I transmitted the CTBT to the Senate, requesting prompt advice and consent to ratification.

The CTBT will serve several United States national security interests in banning all nuclear explosions. It will constrain the development and qualitative improvement of nuclear weapons; end the development of advanced new types; contribute to the prevention of nuclear proliferation and the process of nuclear disarmament; and strengthen international peace and security. The CTBT marks an historic milestone in our drive to reduce the nuclear threat and to build a safer world.

Formal preparations for the year 2000 Review Conference for the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons [NPT] began in 1997 with the first of three annual Preparatory Committee meetings of the Parties to the Treaty. The United States is committed to working to ensure that the 2000 NPT review Conference will further strengthen the NPT and reinforce global nuclear nonproliferation objectives. Since the 1995 NPT Conference, eight additional states have joined the NPT, leaving only five states worldwide currently outside the NPT regime. The NPT Exporters (Zangger) Committee added China to its membership in 1997.

The Nuclear Suppliers Group [NSG] continued its efforts to upgrade control lists and export control procedures. NSG members confirmed their agreement to clarifications to the nuclear trigger list to accord with trigger list changes agreed to by the members of the NPT Exporters (Zangger) Committee, and the International Atomic Energy Agency published these understandings on September 16, 1997. The NSG also is actively pursuing steps to enhance the transparency of the export regime in accordance with the call in Principles 16 and 17 of the 1995 NPT Review and Extension Conference.

The NSG held an export control seminar in Vienna on October 8 and 9, 1997, which described and explained the role of the NSG (and the Zangger Committee) in preventing nuclear proliferation. The NSG also continued efforts to enhance information sharing among members regarding the nuclear programs of proliferant countries by (1) "officially" linking the NSG members through a dedicated computer network allowing for real-time distribution of license denial information, and by (2) creating a separate session for exchange of information on the margins of the NSG plenary meeting.

NSG membership will increase to 35 with the acceptance of Latvia. The ultimate goal of the NSG is to obtain the agreement of all suppliers, including nations not members of the regime, to control nuclear and nuclear-related exports in accordance with the NSG guidelines.

EXPENSES

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

The following bills and joint resolutions were introduced, read the first and second time by unanimous consent, and referred as indicated:

By Mr. HARKIN:

S. 1522. A bill to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to provide assistance to rural cooperatives; to the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry.

By Mr. MURKOWSKI (for himself and Mr. STEVENS):

S. 1523. A bill to allow for the investment of joint Federal and State funds from the civil settlement of damages from the Exxon Valdez oil spill; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. HARKIN:

S. 1524. A bill require the Secretary of Health and Human Services to conduct an ongoing study of the health consequences of nuclear weapons tests; to the Committee on Labor and Human Resources.

By Mr. SPECTER (for himself and Mr. BIDEN):

S. 1525. A bill to provide financial assistance for higher education to the dependents of Federal, State, and local public safety officers who are killed or permanently and totally disabled as the result of a traumatic injury sustained in the line of duty; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. HARKIN:

S. 1522. A bill to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to provide assistance to rural cooperatives; to the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry.

THE RURAL COOPERATIVE ACT

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I am pleased to introduce the Rural Cooperative Act, a measure proposed by the administration. Under current law, the Rural Business—Cooperative Services within the Rural Development Administration provides a wide variety of services for farm cooperatives. They conduct economic analysis, provide advice on how to form and best operate cooperatives and a wide variety of other services for farm cooperatives, including how to deal with the complex laws under which cooperatives operate.

Farm cooperatives are very important in rural America. They allow farmers to come together to purchase goods, to sell their products, and to process their agricultural commodities under farmer ownership. Some cooperatives only perform one of those functions. Some do two or three of them. In all cases, they allow farmers to come together and more effectively bargain for a fair price.

Funding for cooperative services within the Department of Agriculture has been under considerable constraint in recent years and it is now difficult for the Department to provide the full range of services allowed by law to farm cooperatives. I do not want to see those services reduced. But, I do agree with the administration, that cooperative services should also be available to those in rural areas, in addition to farmers who want to form cooperatives. Therefore, I am introducing the administration-proposed bill to broaden the responsibilities of the Department in this area. I do so, requesting that the administration increase its request for funding to carry out these additional responsibilities and will be urging that the Appropriations Committee appropriately increase funding in this area.

The bill provides that rural residents who are considering forming a cooperative for one of a number of purposes or who have formed a cooperative may receive a variety of kinds of assistance from USDA.

The types of cooperatives that would benefit would include those purchasing consumer goods, business products or services, health care, utilities, communications, child and day care, housing, credit, insurance, or other goods or services. It would also include cooperatives that market goods made by members or goods made by the cooperative.

The Department could provide advice for such cooperatives including conducting economic surveys and analysis of proposed cooperative activities. It would also conduct surveys of cooperatives and issue reports about them as well as promote rural cooperative principles and practices.

The bill authorizes such sums as might be necessary to carry out the purposes of the act.

I urge that the Congress consider and pass this bill in the coming year.

By Mr. MURKOWSKI (for himself and Mr. STEVENS):

S. 1523. A bill to allow for the investment of joint Federal and State funds from the civil settlement of damages from the Exxon Valdez oil spill; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

INVESTMENT OF "EXXON VALDEZ" TRUST FUNDS
LEGISLATION

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I rise to introduce legislation that will allow more sensible investment of the funds jointly received by the Federal Government and the State of Alaska from the civil settlement of damages arising from the Exxon Valdez oil spill.

The settlement provided for Exxon to pay the Federal and State governments a total of $900 million over a 10-year period ending in 2001. Approximately $280 million remains to be paid under this agreement. Under the consent decree, the money is to be used for the recovery of damaged resources, and is to be managed as a joint Federal-State trust fund, administered by the Exxon Valdez Oil Spill Trustee Council, which includes representatives of three Federal and three State agencies. Under the consent decree, moneys not immediately expended are to be placed with the U.S. District Court, Fifth Circuit Court Registry Investment System.

Recently, the trustees requested that Congress adopt measures to allow them to invest this money outside the Court Registry Investment System, in which earnings are limited to approximately 5 percent, and are further reduced by fees of 10 percent of the earnings. In the opinion of the trustees, even extremely conservative investment outside the court registry could yield an additional $20 to $30 million by 2002, which could greatly enhance continuing restoration projects.

This bill responds to the trustees' request. It will allow investment outside the court registry system. Let me emphasize, however, that this authority is entirely discretionary. The trustees may use it to reinvest settlement moneys or not, as they deem appropriate. Further, Mr. President, as an added protection, the district court must approve any reinvestment.

The bill also directs that the earnings on the new investment be used for marine research and monitoring, and for community and fishing industry economic restoration. This provision is needed to ensure attention to these important areas.

Here again, let me make sure I am absolutely clear. The bill I am offering does not prevent the purchase of land or easements. It simply directs that the earnings—and only the earnings—on new investment go to other, equally valid purposes.

The trustee council has already spent a large part of the money received from Exxon on land acquisition and easements that limit the use of land it has not purchased outright. To date, the total is about 424,000 acres, and the trustees' intention is to purchase or restrict as much as 750,000 acres.

The Federal Government already owns 248 million acres of Alaska—more than the eastern seaboard from Maine to Florida, which is home to one-third of the entire population of the United States. Inside the spill area, there already are 20 different parcels of protected State and Federal lands, including the Kodiak National Wildlife Refuge, Katmai National Park and Preserve, and the Chugach National Forest and Copper River Delta Critical Habitat Area.

Many of the trustees' additional land acquisitions have been for the purpose of habitat protection, and are valuable to the trustees' restoration mission, but some have included the purchase of land that has already been logged or land on which public access is restricted despite being purchased by public funds. These purchases are not so easy to justify.

The trustees have already published plans to spend almost all of the $900 million. By the time Exxon makes its last payment, the only money not already spent will be the 12 percent the council is tucking away in a restoration reserve.

After inflation-proofing, interest on this account could provide about $2.1 million annually for long-term research and economic reconstruction projects—or could vanish in more land acquisitions.

Finally, Mr. President, my bill also provides for the new investment authority to sunset in 2002 unless the trustees bring to Congress their thoughts on how an independent board might be created to administer the funds remaining after 2002. Personally, I'd like to see them recommend an independent, scientifically-oriented group to guide a long-term research program—a board that would call for proposals, arrange for scientific peer review, publish findings, and so forth, without the appearance of conflict that exists when the trustees are funding projects in which their own agencies are involved.

This is a responsible approach to a difficult issue. It gives the trustees the additional investment authority they want without prohibiting them from spending principal or the earnings from investments that remain in the court registry system however they choose, including more land acquisition. It does, however, encourage them to look at some areas that are equally important to the task of once again making whole both the resources and the people affected by the oil spill.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent for the text of the bill to be printed in the RECORD. I hope that we can take it up early next year, and urge my colleagues' support.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1523

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, Notwithstanding any other provision of law, upon the joint motion of the United States and the State of Alaska and the issuance of an appropriate order by the United States District Court for the District of Alaska, the joint trust funds or any portion thereof, including any interest accrued thereon, previously received or to be received by the United States and the State of Alaska pursuant to the Agreement and consent decree issued in United States v. Exxon Corporation, et al. (No. A91-082 CIV) and State of Alaska v. Exxon Corporation, et al. (No. A91-083 CIV) (hereafter referred to as the "Consent Decree"), may be deposited in appropriate accounts outside the Court Registry, including the Natural Resource Damage Assessment and Restoration Fund (hereafter referred to as the "Fund") established in title I of the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1992 (Pub. L. 102-154, 43 U.S.C. 1474b) and such accounts outside the United States Treasury consisting of income-producing obligations and other instruments or securities of a type or class that have been determined unanimously by the federal and state natural resource trustees for the Exxon Valdez oil spill to have a high degree of reliability and security: Provided, That any joint trust funds in the Fund and any such outside accounts that have been approved unanimously by the trustees for expenditure by or through a state or federal agency shall be transferred promptly from the Fund and such outside accounts to the State or United States upon the joint request of the governments: Provided further, that the transfer of joint trust funds outside the Court Registry shall not affect the supervisory jurisdiction of such District Court under the Consent Decree or the Memorandum of Agreement and Consent Decree in *United States v. By Mr. HARKIN:

S. 1524. A bill require the Secretary of Health and Human Services to conduct an ongoing study of the health consequences of nuclear weapons tests; to the Committee on Labor and Human Resources.

NATIONAL CANCER INSTITUTE HEALTH STUDY
LEGISLATION

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I rise to introduce a bill requiring studies of the health effects of nuclear weapons testing. This would build upon the study by the National Cancer Institute that was released October 1 of this year.

On October 1, following some major news coverage, the NCI testified before the Senate Labor, HHS, and Education Appropriations Subcommittee on their efforts to connect nuclear weapons testing with thyroid cancer. The NCI testimony and the report released that day were startling. Atomic bomb tests in Nevada during the 1950's exposed millions of Americans—particularly children—to large amounts of radioactive iodine-131. The levels of radioactive iodine exposure is far worse than previously reported by the Government. Hot spots where the iodine-131 fallout was greatest includes many counties far away from Nevada, including New York, Massachusetts, and Iowa.

Hot spots were identified as receiving as high as 5-16 rads of exposure of iodine-131, with children being exposed to a risk up to 10 times higher. Iodine-131, which accumulates in the thyroid gland, has been linked to thyroid cancer. To give some understanding of the enormity of the U.S. atomic tests in Nevada, 116 million curies of iodine-131 were released in the United States above ground tests. This compares to 7.3 million from Chernobyl disaster the former Soviet Union. The NCI report clearly shows that the U.S. atomic tests exposed a lot of people to risks now considered unacceptable.

The topic hits very close to home for me. During the 1950's, I was living in the small town of Cumming located in south-central Iowa. Along with many Iowans, I lived in the hot spots detailed by the NCI study. Further, like many of my neighbors, I drank milk from the cows kept on our farm. This increased the risk faced by myself and my family because radioactive iodine accumulates in milk.

The NCI report has attracted a lot of attention. Much of this stems from the history of nuclear weapons testing. As we all know, the U.S. Government was fairly cavalier with its nuclear weapons program during the early days of the cold war. Historians can argue about the reasons, but most people recognize the terrible toll suffered by the American public because of our nuclear weapons program. Only recently has the extent of exposure to radiation and other hazards to the "down winders" living near nuclear weapons sites such as the Nevada test site, Hanford in Washington State, and the Marshall Islanders in the South Pacific.

So it is no surprise that a report detailing exposure to millions of Americans would attract attention. However, we need to continue the research into the health impact of nuclear weapons testing. That is why I am introducing this bill to require further study by the Department of Health and Human Services.

The HHS study will build upon the NCI study. There is strong evidence that exposure to other radioactive isotopes that were spread by nuclear weapons tests such as strontium 90, cesium 137 and barium 140 could lead to bone cancer, leukemia, higher infant mortality, and a host of other illnesses. This needs to be examined. So do the nuclear weapons tests that took place not only at the Nevada test site, but at other places as well. For example, the NCI report did not examine the nuclear weapons testing conducted by the United States in Mississippi, Alaska, New Mexico, Colorado, or the South Pacific. The studies should research not only the United States nuclear weapons program, but also tests by foreign nations including the Soviet Union and its successor states, France, China, India, and Great Britain.

I also believe that such studies should be conducted in an open manner. For example, this bill will require that the studies fall under the review authority of the Advisory Committee on Energy Related Studies and other entities established by the Federal Government to ensure public accountability over health related studies pertaining to nuclear weapon research, production, and testing. The bill also requires that HHS report to Congress within 90 days of passage as to its plan for completing the studies, as well as report to Congress each year on its progress.

This is a simple bill that seeks some understanding of the health consequences of our nuclear weapons testing program. I would ask my fellow colleagues to review and support this important legislation.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1524

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. ONGOING STUDY ON HEALTH CONSEQUENCES OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS TESTS.

(a) REQUIREMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Health and Human Services shall conduct an ongoing study of the health consequences of nuclear weapons tests.

(2) COVERED TESTS.—In conducting the study, the Secretary shall, to the maximum extent practicable, consider nuclear weapons tests (including above ground tests and below ground tests) by the United States, France, Great Britain, India, the People's Republic of China, the Soviet Union and its successor states, and any other foreign nation that has conducted nuclear weapons tests.

(3) PARTICULAR EXPOSURES.—In conducting the study, the Secretary shall consider, in particular, the following:

(A) The health consequences of exposure to plutonium, strontium-90, iodine-131, radioactive cesium, and any other radioactive element produced by a nuclear weapon test.

(B) The health consequences of exposure to such elements for high-risk populations and for the general population.

(4) REVIEW.—The Secretary shall provide on an-going basis for guidance and review of the conduct of the study, and review of the results of the study, by the Advisory Committee on Energy-Related Epidemiologic Research of the Department of Health and Human Services and by such other entities engaged in the review of governmental studies relating to nuclear weapons activities as the Secretary considers appropriate.

(b) REPORTS.—

(1) PRELIMINARY PLAN.—Not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit to Congress a report setting forth the Secretary's plan for the conduct of the study under this section. The report shall set forth an estimate of the annual costs of the study.

(2) ANNUAL REPORTS.—Not later than one year after the date of the submittal of the report under paragraph (1), and annually thereafter, the Secretary shall submit to Congress a report on the results of the study during the one-year period preceding the date of the report.

(c) FUNDING.—The Secretary of Energy shall transfer to the Secretary of Health and Human Services each fiscal year, from amounts appropriated for the Department of Energy for such fiscal year for weapons activities, such amounts as the Secretary of Energy and the Secretary of Health and Human Services jointly determine appropriate to permit the Secretary of Health and Human Services to conduct activities relating to the study under this section during such fiscal year.

By Mr. SPECTER (for himself and Mr. BIDEN):

S. 1525. A bill to provide financial assistance for higher education to the dependents of Federal, State, and local public safety officers who are killed or permanently and totally disabled as the result of a traumatic injury sustained in the line of duty; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

THE PUBLIC SAFETY OFFICERS EDUCATIONAL ASSISTANCE ACT OF 1998

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I seek recognition today to join Senator BIDEN in introducing the Public Safety Officers Educational Assistance Act of 1998. The purpose of this bill is to build on legislation we passed last Congress and provide education benefits to the families of slain or disabled State and local public safety officers.

Last year, Congress passed the Federal Law Enforcement Dependents Assistance Act. This law provides for the education of the spouse and dependent children of Federal law enforcement officers who die or are totally disabled in the line of duty.

I was moved to introduce last year's legislation after meeting with the widow of Mr. Bill Degan, the U.S. marshal who was killed in the tragic incident at Ruby Ridge. Mrs. Karen Degan, his widow, brought to my attention the fact that the families of slain Federal law enforcement officers were not eligible to receive the educational benefits which the Government gives to the families of slain soldiers in our armed services. My legislation eliminated this disparity.

The program we created last year, however, is only available to the children of Federal law enforcement officers. Yet the idea behind the law applies equally to all public safety officers, Federal, State, or local. When someone gives his or her life protecting the safety and well-being of the general public, it is the very least we can do to ensure that the officer's children and/or spouse can continue on the educational path they would have followed had their parent or spouse not been killed in the line of duty.

Today we seek to remedy this disparity between Federal and non-Federal officers by introducing the Public Safety Officers Educational Assistance Act of 1998. This legislation will extend these same educational benefits to the dependents of all public safety officers—Federal, State, county and local law enforcement officers, correctional officers, and fire and rescue personnel—who have given their lives in the line of duty.

Under this bill, the Attorney General will administer a program which will provide up to $4,485 per child, per year to attend a 4-year college. This is the same amount of educational assistance the Federal Government provides to the dependents of slain or disabled veterans and Federal law enforcement officers. I would note that this program is subject to appropriations and does not constitute an entitlement.

I would prefer that we did not have to worry about death and disabling injuries for public safety officials, but it is a fact of life that every year there are tragic losses. We are obligated to remember the families of those officers who have paid the ultimate price to keep our streets and homes safe.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, last year the Senate passed the Federal Law Enforcement Dependents Assistance Act. A law which provides for the education of the spouse and dependent children of Federal law enforcement officers who die or are totally disabled in the line of duty.

The purpose of the legislation was to remove a significant financial burden from the families of these deceased officers and to allow them to continue on the educational path they would have followed had their parent or spouse not been killed in the line of duty.

This fall, several young men and women were able to go to college under this program. Unfortunately, this program is only available to the children of Federal law enforcement officers.

Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Public Safety Officers Educational Assistance Act of 1998. This legislation will extend these same educational benefits to the dependents of all public safety officers—Federal, State, county, and local law enforcement officers, correctional officers, and fire and rescue personnel—who have given their lives in the line of duty.

Under my bill, the Attorney General will administer a program which will provide up to $4,485 per child, per year to attend a 4-year college. This is the same amount of educational assistance the Federal Government provides to veterans.

It is critical that we remember the families of those officers who have made the ultimate sacrifice to keep our streets and homes safe. This bill is intended to allow the dependents of public safety officers to continue with their education as they would have been able to do had their parent not been killed or totally disabled in the line of duty.

I have long been concerned about the plight of families of public safety officers killed in the line of duty—this summer, I introduced an amendment to the Budget Reconciliation Act which provides for the favorable tax treatment of survivor death benefits paid to the families of fallen officers. In that vein, this legislation offers assurance to those in the public safety profession—and even to those considering service as public safety officers—that their loved ones will be able to attain their educational goals in their absence.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

TRIBUTE TO J. FRED CARBINE

● Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to J. Fred Carbine. Fred died this summer at the age of 59. I had the honor of knowing Fred both as a partner and a friend. He will be remembered as much for his professional accomplishments as for his humor.

Fred began his memorable career after passing the bar in 1962. He served as a Rutland County grand juror and was the first assistant clerk for the Vermont House of Representatives from 1963 until 1968. Fred then filled a seat on the board of aldermen until 1978, during which time he served as board president for 7 years. After his tenure as an alderman, he opened a law practice, at which I had the great pleasure of having him as a partner.

Among his many interests, Fred was a member and governor of the Rutland Moose Lodge, for which he was awarded the order's highest degree in 1985. True to his nature, Fred gave a great deal back to his community. He worked with the Salvation Army, Knights of Columbus, and the Masonic Temple, among many others.

Fred had a marvelous wit and a wonderful sense of humor. He loved to tell stories and always thought the best of everyone.

Fred Carbine had many friends, and I consider myself lucky to be one of them. He was a brilliant lawyer and a wonderful man. I would like to extend my condolences to the family and friends of Fred Carbine.●

THE CHILDREN'S INN

● Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize the Children's Inn of Sioux Falls, SD, and to pay tribute to two women, Connie Kolbrek and Marlene Weires, whose dedicated service has enlightened the lives of many South Dakota women and children.

This fall, the Children's Inn is celebrating its 20th anniversary of providing emergency outreach services to women and children in the greater Sioux Falls community. When the Children's Inn first opened its doors in an unfurnished two-bedroom bungalow, its primary directive was to provide emergency shelter for children who are victims of abuse and neglect. Staff members realized that an unsafe environment for children was also unsafe for adult victims of abuse, and the inn extended its outreach to all victims of domestic violence. Shortly thereafter, it became apparent that the inn's services were in high demand, and the inn moved to larger facilities and expanded its staff. Currently, the inn serves as many as 3,000 people annually and employs 39 staffers. While the inn continues to function under its founding purpose, it has expanded its services to include a crisis phone line, drop-in counseling, support groups for women and children, parenting classes, and classes for abusers.

Mr. President, the Children's Inn clearly has filled a significant void in the lives of many Sioux Falls women and children, and the 20th anniversary is a true milestone. However, none of its success would be realized today if it were not for the tireless work of Connie Kolbrek and Marlene Weires. Connie served as the first executive director from 1977 to 1984. Her dedication and commitment to children helped to transform the inn from a simple idea on paper to a mainstay in the Sioux Falls nonprofit community. Marlene has served as the inn's executive director from 1985 until present, and her selfless service has produced many of the extension services which are available to the public today. Although Marlene is planning her retirement, I am confident that she will maintain her peripheral support. The Children's Inn and the women and children of Sioux Falls were blessed with her many years of service.

Again, I applaud the Children's Inn on its 20th anniversary, and recognize the selfless work of the staff. Mr. President, I yield the floor today, knowing that the Children's Inn is a beacon of hope for many victims of abuse and neglect.●

AWARD DINNER HONORING ORVILLE AND RUTH MERILLAT

● Mr. ABRAHAM. Mr. President, I rise today in recognition of Orville and Ruth Merillat. Mr. and Mrs. Merillat are long time residents of their community, and on Tuesday, November 18, 1997, they will receive the Great Sauk Trail Council of Boy Scouts of America's Award as its Distinguished Citizens of the Year for 1997.

Orville and Ruth Merillat are great stewards to their community. In 1946, they began transforming a small business into the largest one of its kind in the United States. Manufacturing kitchen and bath cabinetry, the Merillats have devoted their time, resources, and financial success to make the community of Lenawee County a better place to live. They have unselfishly committed all they have gained to their business, their employees, and their community.

Therefore, it is with great respect and gratitude that I extend my most sincere congratulations to Orville and Ruth Merillat. Their dedication to their community, and all of Michigan is truly inspirational. It is with great honor that I rise today to recognize the accomplishments of the Merillats as Lenawee County's Distinguished Citizens of the Year.●

IN HONOR OF THE HUGHES' 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

● Mr. MOYNIHAN. Mr. President, I would like to call to your attention a most momentous and joyful occasion. Rose Marie Pitman and John Lawrence Hughes will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on November 27, 1997.

Rose Marie Pitman, daughter of Reine and Hugo Pitman, and John Lawrence Hughes, the son of Margaret and John Hughes, were wed at the Chapel of the Royal Hospital in London, England 50 years ago. Living and working for many years in New York City and Connecticut, the Hughes family includes sons Timothy and Ian, and daughter Sandra.

In an era when nearly half of all couples married today will see their union dissolve into divorce, I believe it is both instructive and important to honor those who have taken the commitment of till death do us part seriously, demonstrating successfully the timeless principles of love, honor, and fidelity.

Mr. President, I ask that you join me, our colleagues, and the entire Hughes family in recognizing the wonderful sense of achievement and happiness that marks the occasion of the Lawrence and Rose Hughes' golden wedding anniversary.●

TRIBUTE TO HENRY CARRIS

● Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to a good friend and great Vermonter, Henry Carris. Henry died on June 25, 1997, at the age of 85. As founder of Carris Reels, a nationally recognized enterprise, Henry was the epitome of everything that is good about business.

He understood the importance of appreciating his good fortune and giving something back to the community. Henry was an active advocate for improved educational opportunities in the Rutland area. Accordingly, he served on the Rutland School Board and was instrumental in developing the Rutland Area Art Association.

In addition, Henry was a member of the board for Rutland's Regional Medical Center and was selected to act as president for the local chamber of commerce. In light of his outstanding achievements and dedication to the people of Vermont, Henry was named "Man of the Year" for Rutland and "Citizen of the Year" for the State.

At a ceremony recognizing his achievements, he stressed the importance of family and friends. Henry clearly understood the secrets to success and was more than willing to share the wealth of his wisdom.

For those of us who had the good fortune to know him, Henry Carris' energy and enthusiasm left an indelible impression. He exemplifies what all of us should strive to achieve. I would like to extend my condolences to his family and friends.●

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA APPROPRIATIONS BILL

● Ms. MOSELEY-BRAUN. Mr. President, on Sunday evening, the Senate completed its work on H.R. 2607, a bill providing appropriations for the District of Columbia for fiscal year 1998.

I have serious concerns with several provisions of this bill—provisions which I, in good conscience, cannot support.

Perhaps these problems could have been resolved had this bill been considered early and passed on time. There is a time to debate, however, and a time to act. This session of the 105th Congress is nearing a close, and that fact means that we must enact a D.C. funding bill—now.

One of my concerns centers on a provision included in the bill that will grant permanent residence to almost 250,000 nationals of Central America and Eastern Europe. Those covered by the provisions, including Nicaraguans, Cubans, Salvadorans, and Guatemalans, fled to the United States and sought haven during the civil wars in Central America in the 1980's. These individuals have been allowed to remain here temporarily under various Government immigration programs and court settlements.

The 1996 Immigration Act, however, denied recourse to permanent residency for most of this class. This provision grants permanent residence to these nationals on a case-by-case basis if their return would pose unusual hardship.

While I support this provision, I must once again state for the record my strong objections to the decision by the conferees to exclude approximately 18,000 Haitian refugees from this provision. This exclusion was not only patently unfair, but suggests almost a tin ear on the racial implications of this action. In the absence of a good reason for this exclusion, I can see no other justification for denying these individuals equal relief. I am certain that this is not the signal this body intended to send.

I am heartened, however, that an agreement has been reached with the Justice Department that will allow these Haitians to remain in the country until this matter is resolved legislatively. I am also encouraged by the commitment made by congressional leadership to take up this issue during the next session of Congress. I encourage all of my colleagues to support legislation that I have cosponsored, along with Senators GRAHAM, MACK, ABRAHAM, and KENNEDY that would resolve this issue.

I am also troubled by a provision in this bill that would prohibit the District of Columbia from using local revenues to fund full reproductive health services for women.

Clearly it is within the jurisdiction of Congress to restrict Federal funds for abortion services. That decision was upheld in 1980 by the Supreme Court in the Harris versus McRea decision. In that same ruling, however, the Court clearly asserted that decisions on abortion services for poor women, financed with State funds, were within the authority of the States.

Unfortunately for the people of the District of Columbia the Court has provided no such protection. The people of this city, therefore, cannot make decisions regarding the use of locally raised revenue, for abortion services or any other purpose.

The result is that the District is used as a guinea pig for Congress' social experiments. In this instance, opponents of full access to reproductive health services, including abortion, for poor women are furthering their agenda at the expense of democracy.

Again, I would have liked to have these matters resolved before the vote, however, I am hopeful that we can rectify them in the next session.●

THE 50-STATE CIRCULATING QUARTER

● Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, the Senate has approved unanimously a bill I introduced with Senator D'AMATO which will permit each State to design the back of the circulating quarter dollar. I would like to express my gratitude to Senator D'AMATO for his work to ensure passage of this proposal before adjournment and to the long list of colleagues who cosponsored this bill.

As we all know, the circulating quarters in use today are Washington/Eagle quarters. They have a bust of George Washington on the "head" side and an eagle on the "tail" side. Under this legislation, beginning in 1999, the mint will strike only statehood quarters until all 50 States are represented. Only the design on the back of quarters will change. There will be no changes whatsoever to the size, weight, or other specifications of quarters. This uniformity is necessary to ensure that these new quarters will continue to work in vending machines, telephones, parking meters, and for other similar transactions.

This program will operate for 10 years, with the mint producing five different statehood coins per year. The order in which States will be represented is based on the order in which States ratified the Constitution and joined the Union.

Some might ask what the purpose of this proposal is; why not leave well enough alone. It is my hope that this proposal will spark interest in every State across our Nation about its unique history. I hope that school children begin to study the history of their States in search of an appropriate individual or emblem to represent their States on the reverse side of these quarters. I hope that artists, coin collectors, historians, and scholars debate and ultimately join together to suggest an appropriate representation for their State.

I know that there are a wide range of appealing options for my own State of Rhode Island. Of course, there is the founder of Rhode Island, Roger Williams or Anne Hutchinson, who, like Roger Williams, dedicated her life to the principles of religious freedom and tolerance. There is the Anchor of Hope, which is our State motto and is shown on our flag. Rhode Island is the Ocean State, so a seascape would be interesting proposal, as would be a lighthouse or a gull.

As the coins are minted, I hope that school children as well as adults will collect these coins, and, in doing so, will become curious about the places these coins represent. This modest proposal could lead to a greater interest in geography and history.

The final design for each State will be selected by the Secretary of the Treasury in consultation with the appropriate Governor, the Commission on Fine Arts, and the Citizens Commemorative Coin Advisory Committee. Each State will nominate a design to the Secretary.

Last year, legislation was enacted which instructed the Secretary of the Treasury to study the feasibility of a circulating commemorative coin. That study found that there is considerable public interest in the circulating commemorative quarter and that collecting such coins would produce significant earnings. The bill that the Senate approved today will implement this program. Identical legislation has been approved by the House, and I urge the President to sign it into law when it reaches his desk.●

TRIBUTE TO GERALD T. LLOYD

● Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to a good friend and great Vermonter, Gerald T. "Giggy" Lloyd. After 40 years of dedicated service as fire chief for Rutland, VT, Giggy retired this summer.

Giggy's memorable career has been spent protecting the people of Vermont against fires. However, his concern about safety extends beyond the people he protects. He is also concerned about the safety of the people in his department. After 13 years as fire chief, Giggy has accomplished many remarkable tasks. When he first became fire chief in 1985, his first concern was for the members of his department. He set out to improve their equipment and better train the employees to protect them against harm, and he has accomplished that task. Since Giggy has been fire chief, there have been no serious injuries within the department. Giggy's dedication and concern for others is an outstanding example for everyone to follow.

Giggy has extended himself beyond being fire chief as well. He became the city's fire prevention officer in 1976 and worked tenaciously to increase the use of safety features such as smoke alarms and fire resistant doors.

Giggy Lloyd has courageously committed his life to protecting the people of Vermont, and he is the finest example of Vermont's commitment to excellence. Once again, I would like to extend my best wishes on Giggy Lloyd's retirement and congratulate him on a job well done.●

ORDERS FOR THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1997

Mr. COATS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today it stand in adjournment until the hour of 10 a.m. on Thursday, November 13. I further ask unanimous consent that on Thursday, immediately following the opening prayer, the routine requests through the morning hour be granted and that the Senate proceed to a period of morning business not to extend beyond the hour of 11 a.m., with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. COATS. Mr. President, for the benefit of our colleagues, tomorrow the Senate will be in a period of morning business from 10 a.m. until 11 a.m. It is hoped that during tomorrow's session of the Senate, the Senate will be able to complete its business for the first session of the 105th Congress.

As Members are aware, the Senate is awaiting House completion of the appropriations process. As previously announced, Members will be notified as to if or when rollcall votes will be necessary during Thursday's session. If votes are necessary, they will be scheduled within a 4-hour time span.

In addition, Members are reminded that there are a number of legislative and executive items that may be cleared prior to Senate adjournment, therefore, Members' cooperation is greatly appreciated in conjunction with that process.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 10 A.M. TOMORROW

Mr. COATS. Mr. President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I now ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in adjournment under the previous order.

Thereupon, the Senate, at 2:36 p.m., adjourned until Thursday, November 13, 1997, at 10 a.m.

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

FIRST QUARTERLY REPORT BY THE UNITED STATES HOUSE
TASK FORCE ON THE HONG KONG TRANSITION

HON. DOUG BEREUTER

OF NEBRASKA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, in response to your directions, I have prepared the following report, the first in a series of quarterly reports by the U.S. House Task Force on the Hong Kong Transition on the status of Hong Kong following its return to the People's Republic of China. It was completed, effective October 1, 1997.

Also at your request, I have formed the House Task Force on Hong Kong's Transition to observe and report on Hong Kong's status following its reversion to China. In addition to myself as chairman, the task force will be bipartisanly balanced and will include Representative HOWARD BERMAN, D-CA; Representative SHERRON BROWN, D-OH; Representative ENI FALEOMAVAEGA, D-AS; Representative ALCEE HASTINGS, D-FL; Representative JAY KIM, R-CA; Representative DONALD MANZULLO, R-IL; and Representative MATT SALMON, R-AZ. As you requested, the task force expects to travel to Hong Kong, Beijing, and other relevant destinations at least every 6 months for the foreseeable future to examine how reversion has affected Hong Kong. The first such visit is expected to take place after the adjournment of the 1997 session but before the end of the calendar year.***HD***Concerns Prior to Reversion

Prior to Hong Kong's July 1, 1997, reversion to Chinese sovereignty, many observers expressed skepticism over Beijing's assurances that it would allow Hong Kong full autonomy in matters other than foreign policy and defense. Skeptics questioned whether Beijing could resist the temptation to meddle in matters related to freedom of expression, for example. They were also concerned about indications that the Beijing-sponsored provisional legislature would roll back forward-looking measures taken by the last colonial Legislative Council [LEGCO] and that the new provisional council would institute election rules less representative than those put into place by Governor Patten in 1995. Businessmen wondered whether China could refrain from meddling in Hong Kong's affairs, either intentionally or otherwise. Maintaining the rule of law and resisting the lure of corruption, so common in China, were key commercial concerns. On the security side, skeptics questioned Hong Kong's continued ability to maintain effective export controls. The future of U.S. ship visits was also in doubt.

IN GENERAL: SO FAR, SO GOOD

While Hong Kong has been under Chinese sovereignty for only 3 months, public confidence is high. Hong Kongers are close to unanimous in expressing relief and pleasure that life has not changed after reversion. The press and media continue to be open, free, and full of criticism and analysis of both the Hong Kong and Beijing governments. Journalists, while wary and suspicious about China's long-term intentions, continue to cover the news much as they did before July 1, 1997. For example, the recent Chinese Communist Party Congress drew extensive commentary. Journalists displayed no hesitancy in voicing views not welcome in Beijing. Nonetheless, the self-censorship that began to creep into coverage in some papers prior to reversion has continued.

Demonstrations—by pro-democracy and pro-Beijing groups and a myriad of local organizations—continue without interference or restriction. More than 150 demonstrations have taken place since the July 1 turnover. Indeed, in an uptick in the number of demonstrations, a gauntlet of demonstrators regularly greets Hong Kong Chief Executive C.H. Tung when he arrives for weekly executive council sessions. However, in a typical Hong Kong twist, Tung invariably trades handshakes and smiles with his critics, who line up behind the waist-high barricades flanking the entry to Central Government Offices as he walks past.

NGO's, including those harshly critical of China, continue to operate freely. Han Dongfan, exiled PRC dissident and leader of workers' groups during the 1989 Tiananmen demonstrations, reports no problems continuing his work in Hong Kong thus far. Commenting in a local newspaper, Han said it was too early to tell what Beijing would eventually do, but "as far as I can see with all the demonstrations by Democrats and others—there is hope for democracy here." Han continues to broadcast regularly from Hong Kong via Radio Free Asia on one of its most popular programs, "The Labor Corner." Amnesty International, Human Rights Watch and Human Rights in China representatives in Hong Kong are encouraged by the continued demonstrations and absence of any Hong Kong Government moves to restrict their operations. Meanwhile, democrats say that the threat to Hong Kong would come from a very slow erosion of the rule of law, not a sudden crackdown on civil liberties or freedom of speech.

Concern arose in mid-September, however, when both the Chinese and the Hong Kong governments objected to the credentialing of two human rights groups to the recent IMF/World Bank meeting in Hong Kong. Since human rights is in the lending guidelines of these financial institutions, participation by the human rights groups was appropriate. The objections of the Hong Kong government are troubling. Ten Members of Congress, led by Congressman BERMAN, wrote to Secretary of the Treasury, Robert Rubin, to express their concern.

APPROVAL RATINGS HIGH

Reflecting locals' belief that life goes on as usual, Tung's approval ratings have continued to climb since mid-June, when only 57 percent of Hong Kongers reported they were satisfied with his performance. By early August, a reliable local poll showed 78 percent of Hong Kongers were satisfied with Tung. That number rose to 82 percent in early September. Even among survey respondents who said they would vote for pro-democracy parties, 80 percent indicated they were satisfied with the chief executive, rivaling prominent pro-democracy advocate Martin Lee's 82 percent rating.

LOCAL AUTONOMY RESPECTED

The central Chinese Government appears to be taking seriously President Jiang Zemin's pledge at the handover that no mainland government officials "may or will be allowed to interfere" in the affairs which Hong Kong should administer on its own. Premier Li Peng reiterated that pledge and gave a strong vote of confidence to Tung in mid-September while hosting the IMF and World Bank meetings in Hong Kong. Far from being heavy-handed or insensitive, Beijing appears to have absented itself from active involvement in Hong Kong affairs since the handover. Again and again, China has gone out of its way to project a benign "smiling face" image on Hong Kong-related matters.

LOW-KEY APPROACH

After installing the urbane Ma Yuzhen as head of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs [MFA] office in Hong Kong, and the low-key diplomat Jiang Enzhu to replace the always pugnacious Zhou Nan at the Xinhua News Agency, the de facto MFA representative in Hong Kong prior to reversion, China has stood back and refused to become embroiled in local issues. Xinhua, once a source of constant criticism and commentary on Hong Kong Government policy, has fallen silent. MFA head Ma Yuzhen has deferred to the Hong Kong Government on virtually all matters. His contacts with Hong Kong Government officials have reportedly been strictly limited to protocol matters.

If China is attempting to influence certain issues, it is doing so in a manner that is not public. Political debates China has avoided commenting on or attempting to influence publicly include:

The plight of illegal immigrant children with the right of abode in Hong Kong. China has allowed the Hong Kong courts and government to interpret the Basic Law's provision of the right of abode in Hong Kong to certain Chinese nationals. Citing administrative efficiency and preventing overcrowding in schools, Hong Kong will not allow unrestricted entry of PRC nationals who received the right to live in Hong Kong when the Basic Law comes into force on July 1.

Displaying the "Republic of China" Taiwan flag in Hong Kong. Ma Yuzhen, when pressed by a reporter, said the issue would be for Hong Kong to decide.

Hong Kong Government spending. Hong Kong pledged one billion United States dollars to the IMF Thailand bail-out and committed over seven billion United States dollars to a railway construction project. Chinese scrutiny of government spending under the British was intense, usually hostile, and raised fears that China would not stay out of Hong Kong's affairs after reversion. The IMF pledge and the rail project are early indications that China does not always act like a "control freak"—one of Governor Patten's favorite descriptions—and will honor the pledge to respect Hong Kong's autonomy. It should be noted, however, that China also pledged one billion United States dollars to Thailand and therefore would not likely be opposed to Hong Kong's assistance.

SINO-U.S. COOPERATION

In one of the most notable examples of China's smiling face approach to Hong Kong, China outdid itself both in making arrangements for the first visit of a U.S. naval ship to Hong Kong after the handover and in projecting an image of friendliness when the U.S.S. Blue Ridge and Seventh Fleet Commander Natter were in town. Subsequent visits by other ships, including nuclear powered ships, were equally successful. No effort was spared to demonstrate China welcomed ship visits as much as British forces did. Appearing conscious that their presence raises the anxiety level in Hong Kong, the PLA garrison has stayed out of sight—and even reduced its numbers—except for carefully scripted appearances by smiling senior officers.

BUSINESS AS USUAL

Reflecting business confidence that Hong Kong's economy will continue to prosper after reversion, Hong Kong's first and second quarter 1997 real gross domestic product growth reached 6.0 percent and 6.1 percent, respectively, thus out-pacing analysts' forecasts for the year of 5.5 percent. This compares to real gross domestic product growth figures for 1996 and 1995 of 4.7 and 4.8 percent, respectively. The Hong Kong Government attributes the first half improvement to a revival of domestic demand, reflected in buoyant stock and property markets, modest improvement in exports, especially services, and increased investment, some of it related to construction of the new Chek Lap Kok Airport. The inflation picture has also somewhat improved in 1997. Consumer price increases declined from 6.0 percent in 1996 to 5.9 percent in the first half of 1997. Unemployment dropped from 3.2 percent in 1995 to 2.8 percent in 1996 and recently stood at just 2.4 percent, May–July 1997, largely due to recovery in the retail sector.

Hong Kong's normally strong financial markets weathered recent currency and stock turmoil during this period but demonstrated they are not immune from shocks. While the Hong Kong dollar remains strong, in late July, the government felt compelled to vigorously defend a brief attack on its dollar by expending 1.0 billion United States dollars of its reserves and jacking up interest rates. Some believe the real target was not the dollar, but an attempt to influence the Hong Kong stock market. Hovering around 14,500 in mid-September, the stock market was volatile in recent months, scoring a record high in August of 16,802, while registering record turnover. The sell-off of Hong Kong shares is partly attributed to meeting cash margin calls in other markets such as those in Thailand and the Philippines. Another major contributor, however, was a feeling that the prices of China-related shares were badly inflated. Most applaud Hong Kong's one billion United States dollar commitment and its leadership in the Thai recovery program, citing the need to help neighbors while simultaneously strengthening its own defenses.

Assessments of the recent regional currency turmoil on Hong Kong suggest modest nearterm costs. One observable increased cost was the rise by 30 to 50 basis points above regular levels of 20 points in Hong Kong's interest rate risk premium. Long-term concerns include potential shifts in trade and investment as Hong Kong's goods/services become relatively dearer. This is also true of Hong Kong's important re-export trade to/from China. Analysts say currency problems might shave just one-tenth to one-half a point off gross domestic product growth next year, while a greater concern might be reduced commitment from China to reforming its financial system.

Despite regional currency turbulence and stock market volatility, monetary figures show no signs of capital flight or panic. Total deposits in all institutions in July 1997 stood at 343 billion U.S. dollars, up 15.9 percent from a year earlier, with Hong Kong dollar deposits exceeding foreign currency deposits 59.6 to 40.4 percent, respectively. The Hong Kong dollar, pegged to the United States dollar, has been steady at around 7.74 Hong Kong dollars per United States dollar and the Hong Kong Monetary Authority is confident it can effectively defend the peg.

The fact that things remain relatively stable despite regional turbulence does not guarantee that there will not be continued rough going ahead, particularly if the currency situation in Southeast Asia remains volatile. The continued overinflated value of Hong Kong real estate could also contribute to currency instability. A certain amount of volatility, of course, is a part of any mature economy. This should not affect Hong Kong's democratic process.

Signs so far indicate that America's substantial commercial interests in Hong Kong are benefiting from Hong Kong's continued post-reversion prosperity. U.S. companies have 16 billion U.S. dollars in direct investment and billions more in portfolio investments. The United States exports to Hong Kong totaled 14 billion United States dollars in 1996 and 7.5 billion United States dollars in the first half of 1997. U.S. Department of Commerce figures showed an estimated 4.1 billion U.S. dollar U.S. trade surplus with Hong Kong in 1996. The first quarter 1997 U.S. surplus reached 1.4 U.S. dollars. The American Chamber of Commerce's recent Annual Business Confidence Survey showed confidence in Hong Kong's future up and high—95 percent—though tempered by concerns about prospects for the rule of law, the free flow of information and corruption. Specifically, many businessmen, both foreign and local, fear that as the mainland's influence in Hong Kong increases, so will the corruption which has become endemic in many parts of China.

CONCERNS REMAIN

a. Election law

Despite indications that China is refraining from interfering in Hong Kong affairs, a number of serious concerns remain. One primary concern is proposed changes to electoral laws. On July 8, the government of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region released proposals, prepared by the Beijing-appointed Preparatory Committee, for new electoral arrangements to govern the spring 1998 elections which, while adhering to the major electoral requirements set forward in Sino-British agreements on Hong Kong, are controversial because they dismantle key portions of the electoral reforms put into place by Governor Patten in 1995. The proposals maintain the original formula of 20 Legco members to be directly elected by popular vote, 30 to be elected by "functional constituencies"—initiated by the British in 1985—and 10 to be chosen by a special Election Committee. However, the proposals would shrink the "functional constituent" electorate from approximately 2.7 million voters under the 1995 British electoral reforms to as low as approximately 180,000, according to some estimates. For the 20 directly elected seats, the proposals would also scrap the United States-style "winner-take-all" style system introduced by the British in 1995 and substitute a European-style "proportional representation" system. Critics fear that the new arrangements will dilute the political power of the Hong Kong's Democratic Party and favor pro-China candidates and that seems likely to be the case. Aware of this criticism, C.H. Tung, during his September visit to the United States, outlined his plans over the next decade gradually to expand to 50 percent the number of directly elected Legco seats—now one-third—and to expand the size of the committee which will select a new chief executive.

b. Export controls

Another area of concern is Hong Kong's ability to maintain its high regulatory and monitoring standards in controlling the transfer of sensitive technologies. Currently, United States export control policy toward Hong Kong is less restrictive than that applied to China, based on Hong Kong's past demonstration that its export control policies were sufficiently effective. This policy is based on the Hong Kong Policy Act, which calls for continued separate treatment of Hong Kong in export controls as long as it is able to protect United States technology and equipment. Of course, monitoring Hong Kong's continued autonomy in this field is critical to assessing the risk to United States nonproliferation interests. The General Accounting Office points out that key indicators to watch will include changes in the composition and volume of United States exports of controlled items to Hong Kong, which could signal efforts by China to obtain sensitive technology such as the optical sensors that it has previously been denied. Hong Kong officials maintain that China's desire to see Hong Kong continue to succeed economically will restrain such activity. To date, United States officials report no change in the performance of Hong Kong customs officials in both pre- and post-license checks.

c. Customs

Hong Kong cooperation in customs enforcement is another issue that bears watching. Increased instances of textile transshipment through Hong Kong led United States Customs to impose special administrative restrictions on textiles from Hong Kong in June 1996. This "wake up call" pressured the Hong Kong customs authorities to crack-down on transshipments and institute new procedures. By June 1997, Hong Kong had made enough progress to persuade United States Customs to lift their special administrative restrictions. Observers see no change to date between pre- and post-reversion performance on the part on Hong Kong customs authorities.

Mr. Speaker, in conclusion, Hong Kong has been under China's sovereignty for only 3 months. It is too early to judge the reversion. Nonetheless, indications to date are hopeful. Civil liberties continue largely unaffected. The economy continues to thrive. U.S. ship visits continue with little change and are indeed, welcomed with open arms. However, we continue to be concerned about the potential over time for the constriction of democracy, media self-censorship and the loss of hard-won rights. Chinese and Hong Kong authorities are acutely aware that the eyes of the world continue to scrutinize their post-reversion actions. That continued scrutiny is well warranted and will help ensure that all concerned continue to value and maintain Hong Kong's autonomy.

CONGRESSIONAL BIOMEDICAL RESEARCH CAUCUS

HON. GEORGE W. GEKAS

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, on September 10, the Congressional Biomedical Research Caucus conducted its 57th briefing on the subject of the "University of Genes: The Bits of DNA That Make Us What We Are." Dr. H. Robert Horvitz, Howard Hughes Medical Institute investigator and professor of biology at MIT, and Dr. Philip Heiter, professor of medical genetics of the University of British Columbia, Vancouver, spoke about the similarity of genes across species and how this discovery assists in biomedical research.

I was particularly pleased to have Dr. Horvitz participate because as a member of the Joint Steering Committee—a coalition of five basic biomedical research societies: the American Society for Cell Biology, the American Society for Biochemistry and Molecular Biology, the Biophysical Society, the Genetic Society of America, and the Association of Anatomists—he has played a significant role in supporting the caucus briefings.

Congressman JOSEPH KENNEDY of Massachusetts introduced Dr. Horvitz and was joined in attendance by myself, Congressman STEVE HORN, Congressman JOEL HEFLEY, and Congressman TOM PETRI, as well as a room full of senior health staff.

I believe our colleagues will find Dr. Horvitz's remarks useful.

ALL CREATURES GREAT AND SMALL: THE UNIVERSALITY OF GENES

I. INTRODUCTION

First, I would like to thank the organizers of this Caucus for inviting Phil Heiter and me to talk with you today. The title of this Caucus is "All Creatures Great and Small: The Universality of Genes." What we are going to discuss today is one of the most striking discoveries in the history of biomedical research: genes—the bits of DNA that make us what we are—genes are so remarkably similar among different organisms that we can study what they do in a microscopic worm or in a yeast that is used to make beer to learn how they work in us.

II. GENES

Let me start with a few introductory remarks about genes. Genes define hereditary traits. Each gene can exist in different forms, and such variations in the forms of genes result in variations in traits. Some such variations we consider simply to be what make us different from one another: for example, eye color and blood type are defined by genes. Similarly, our sexual characteristics, whether we are boys or girls, as David Page put it in an earlier Caucus, are determined by our genes. Variations in other genes result in variations in other traits: for example, dwarfism, deafness and color blindness can be caused by variations in genes. Variations in still other genes results in variations in our traits that we label "disease": Huntington's Disease is caused by one such gene; variations in other genes cause or predispose one to cancer, cardiovascular disorders, asthma, cystic fibrosis, premature aging, Alzheimer's Disease, bone loss, and many, many other diseases.

So, genes are important to us, and crucial to our health. How can we learn about our genes, what they do, and how they sometimes go wrong? One approach is to study our genes—human genes—directly. Biologists do this. (I do this.) But the study of human genes is in many ways very slow and inefficient. Furthermore, some types of genetic studies are simply impossible to do with people. For example, the classic method of genetics is to cross individuals with different gene variants (called mutation); this we cannot do with people.

III. UNIVERSALITY

Fortunately, biology has provided us with an approach that is feasible: genes are strikingly conserved among organisms, so we can study genes in experimental organisms and in this way learn what genes do in us. Let me show you an example from my own research. I study two organisms, human beings and the nematode roundworm known as C. elegans. My focus in humans is on Lou Gehrig's Disease, or ALS, the devastating disease that killed Lou Gehrig, Jacob Javits, David Niven, and many others. Four years ago, with a team of collaborators, we found a gene responsible for ALS, a gene known as SOD1. SOD1 in humans is strikingly similar to SOD1 in my worm, as can be seen by the large number of boxed identities in the sequence of the protein products of these genes. Such similarity is seen in SOD1 in many organisms: the gene in spinach is essentially the same as well. To understand what SOD1 does, and how it goes wrong in ALS, one can study the gene in whatever organism is best suited for a particular line of inquiry, and SOD1 is now being studied in worms, in brewer's yeast, in fruit flies and in mice in attempts to understand how it causes ALS in humans. Let me generalize from this example and show you more broadly the degree to which genes are conserved among organisms.

The next slide is from an article written by Phil Heiter, our next speaker. This table shows a list of 84 human genetic diseases, from A to Z (really from A to W: achondroplasia or dwarfism is No. 2 on the list, while Wornor syndrome, which results in premature aging, is 4 from the bottom). The columns show matches (in color) with genes found in those organisms commonly used for laboratory studies of genetics: the mouse, the fruit fly, the nematode roundworm, brewer's yeast, and the intestinal bacterium E. coli. What you can see is that almost all of these human genes have a counterparts in the mouse, that many do in the fruit fly and worm, and that quite a few do in the yeast and bacterium. This table underestimates the degree of similarity with mice, fruit flies and roundworms, since many genes remain to be characterized in these organisms and some will no doubt provide additional matches. It is now clear that almost every human gene has a mouse counterpart, that the majority have fly and worm counterparts and that many have yeast counterparts. These kinds of observations, coupled with findings that genes that look similar act similarly, have led to the use of experimental organisms as models for human biology and human disease.

IV. ORGANISMS

If all organisms have similar genes, how do scientists decide which organisms to study? The short answer is that different organisms have different experimental advantages and that by studying a variety of organisms biologists obtain different types of data that together help us understand what genes do. To provide some concrete examples of how studies of these simple organisms are helping us to understand as well to prevent and cure human disease, Phil Heiter and I will now talk about work involving "our" organisms, the brewer's yeast and the roundworm. The next slide summarizes my perspective on using roundworms to study human disease, given what we know about human genes and worm genes: "Worms are little people in disguise." So let me start with the neurodegenerative disorders, such as Alzheimer's Disease, and on cancer.

V. ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE AND THE PRESENILINS

First, let's talk about Alzheimer's Disease. Some, but not all, cases of Alzheimer's Disease are clearly genetic, i.e. pass from parent to child. Most genetic or "familial" AD is caused by changes in a single gene, known as PS-1, for "Presenilin gene number one." In 1995 this gene was isolated biochemically. What does it do? How can we find out? Simply having access to a gene is not enough to tell us what it does unless it is sufficiently similar to a gene we already know about.

PS-1 is similar to four other known genes. One, called PS-2, is a second Alzheimer's gene isolated in 1995. The other three are all in the roundworm C. elegans. How similar are these worm genes to the human genes? In one experiment, researchers at Columbia University in NYC showed that the human PS-1 gene could work in the worm, substituting for one of the worm genes it looked like. This finding says that the human AD gene and the worm gene are functionally interchangeable. They are very similar. Thus, figuring out what the worm gene does should give us a very strong clue about what the human gene does. Studying this worm gene is now a important effort in both academia and the biotech industry.

VI. CANCER AND THE RAS PATHWAY

Let me turn now to cancer. Cancer, like familial AD, is caused by variants in genes. The first human cancer gene was identified in 1981. This gene was called Ras. Biomedical researchers actively analyzed Ras and desperately wanted to know what it does and, in particular, wanted to know the pathway through which Ras acts. This concept of pathway is key for the development of pharmaceuticals: if you can block the action of a disease gene, either directly or indirectly, i.e. either by acting directly on that gene or by acting later in the gene pathway through which that gene acts, you should be able to prevent the disease.

What is the Ras genetic pathway? The answer emerged not from studies of human Ras but from very basic and apparently unrelated studies of animal development, in particular studies of the development of a sexual organ of the roundworm and of the eye of the fruit fly. It turned out that a gene that controlled worm sexual development as well as a gene that controlled fly eye development were both strikingly similar to human Ras. The levels of identity were approximately 80 percent. Furthermore, at the time it was discovered that a Ras-like gene was involved there had been very extensive studies of these processes; as a consequence within a few years detailed gene pathways were completed. Together these studies, which were done in my laboratory at MIT, at CalTech, and at Berkeley, revealed the pathway of action of Ras. Now cancer biologists and drug companies alike are using this knowledge of the Ras pathway both for further studies of how Ras causes cancer in people and for the development of drugs, drugs that can block the various steps in the Ras pathway.

VII. PROGRAMMED CELL DEATH,
NEURODEGENERATIVE DISEASE AND CANCER

The third example I'll offer from worms relates both the cancer and to neurodegenerative diseases, which include AD. This example again is one in which studies of a basic biological phenomenon in the roundworm have had a major impact on our understanding of and approach to human disease. The biology in this case involves a phenomenon called "programmed cell death." For many years, biologists assumed that cells died because they were unhappy, i.e. because somehow they had been injured. However, a variety of studies revealed that many cells die during the normal course of development. For example, as our brains form, as many as 85 percent of the nerve cells made at certain times and certain parts of our brains die. Such death is a natural phenomenon and for this reason is often referred to as "Programmed Cell Death."

Given that cell death is a natural aspect of development, some years ago my colleagues and I reasoned that like other aspects of development, PCD should be controlled by genes. We sought such defined a 15-gene genetic pathway that controls programmed cell death in the worm. It now appears that a least some of these genes correspond to human genes that caused disease. For example, we talked earlier about neurodegenerative diseases, such as AD, Huntington's Disease, Lou Gehrig's Disease and Parkinson's Disease. Many researchers believe that these diseases, which are characterized by the death of nerve cells, are diseases in which the normal process of PCD has gone amok. Specifically, the normal pathway that causes cells to die by PCD during development for some reason may be unleashed in nerve cells that are not meant to die.

How might we stop such deaths? By blocking the killer genes responsible! And what are the killer genes? We have ID'd two such genes in the worm, genes we call CED-3 and CED-4, for "cell-death abnormal." Given these worm genes, others have gone on to find similar genes in humans that also act to cause cell death. These genes have now become major drug targets: many companies in the pharmaceutical industry are attempting to block the action of these killer genes, with the goal of preventing such neurodegenerative diseases.

It turns out the genetic pathway for PCD we have defined is relevant not only to neurodegenerative disease but also to cancer.

Let me explain. What is cancer? In brief, cancer reflects an uncontrolled increase in cell number. How can you get such an increase? One way is to make too many cells. This is precisely what happens when the Ras gene, which we just discussed, is mutated. However, it turns out there is another way to make too many cells. The number of cells in our bodies is really an equilibrium number. Cells are always being added to our bodies, by the process of cell division, but cells are also always being taken away, by the process of programmed cell death. So, we can generate too many cells—as in cancer—not only by too much cell division but also by too little cell loss.

How can we bet too little cell loss? One of the genes we identified as controlling cell death in the worm is not a killer gene but rather a protector gene—it protects cells from dying by PCD. If a gene like this is too active, too many cells would survive, and cancer would result. In fact, there is a human cancer gene that is very similar to this worm protector gene, so similar that the human gene can work in worms to protect against worm cell death and to substitute for the worm gene. Given such protector genes, how might one prevent? Again, this is precisely the approach that is now being taken in the pharmaceutical industry, and there is great hope that by learning to control such protector genes it will be possible to control certain cancers.

VIII. CONCLUSIONS

Let me conclude very briefly by summarizing what I've said. First, a gene is a gene is a gene. Genes in humans are fundamentally no different from genes in other organisms and are so similar in many ceases that a human gene can be put into another organism and work just fine. Second, genes are much easier to analyze in experimental organisms than in people. In few years, the Human Genome Project, sponsored by the NIH, will tell us what all of our genes look like. But what do they do? To find out, we must study experimentally tractable organisms. Third, time and time again truly basic studies of genes in experimental organisms have proved directly relevant to human diseases and disease genes, once we knew what those human genes looked like. An investment in such basic studies is an effective investment indeed, as it means that knowledge will proceed at an enormous pace once a human disease gene is identified. Finally, knowledge of what the counterparts of human disease genes do in an experimental organism can be directly used both in the understanding of what that gene does in people and also in the application of that knowledge to the development of a treatment of cure. I thank you for your time.

EXTENDING CERTAIN PROGRAMS
UNDER THE ENERGY POLICY AND CONSERVATION ACT

SPEECH OF

HON. HENRY J. HYDE

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Sunday, November 9, 1997

Mr. HYDE. Mr. Speaker, I ask that this exchange of letters between me and Chairman BLILEY be placed in the RECORD following debate on H.R. 2472.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON COMMERCE,

Washington, DC, November 8, 1997.

Hon. HENRY J. HYDE,
Chairman, Committee on the Judiciary, U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR HENRY: Thank you for your letter regarding H.R. 2472, a bill to extend provisions of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act (EPCA) through September 1, 1998.

EPCA is one of the legislative cornerstones of our national energy security policy. Among other things, it authorizes the operation and maintenance of the Strategic Petroleum Reserve and provides limited immunity to American oil companies to participate in activities pursuant to the International Energy Agreement. In light of current actions in the Middle East and the important activities authorized by this Act, prompt passage of this EPCA extension is necessary.

I appreciate your interest in H.R. 2472 and I acknowledge that I will bring it to the House Floor in the form of a simple extension through September 1, 1998 without any substantive change to the antitrust provisions. I also acknowledge that your action in allowing this legislation to go forward does not affect any future rights of the Committee on the Judiciary. Consistent with the Judiciary Committee's jurisdiction over antitrust issues under Rule X and with the Commerce Committee's jurisdiction over energy issues under Rule X, I would be pleased to work with you to develop legislation which ensures an effective national energy security policy.

In keeping with your request, I will place your letter and this response in the record of the debate on H.R. 2472.

Sincerely,

TOM BLILEY,
Chairman.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,
Washington, DC, November 8, 1997.

Hon. TOM BLILEY,
Chairman, Committee on Commerce, U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR TOM: I understand that today or tomorrow you intend to move to suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendment to H.R. 2472 with an amendment.

The version of H.R. 2472 you plan to bring up would extend through September 1, 1998 certain provisions of the Energy Policy and conservation Act, 42 U.S.C. §6201 et seq. Under Rule X, the Committee on the Judiciary has jurisdiction over provisions of the Act: the antitrust defense provided in Section 252, 42 U.S.C. §6272, the participation of the antitrust enforcement agencies in activities under that section, and any amendment, extension, or expansion of these provisions or any other antitrust immunity provided in the Act.

Because of the urgency of passing this important national security legislation, I am willing to waive this Committee's right to a sequential referral of H.R. 2472. I will allow this legislation to go forward so long as it remains a simple extension through September 1, 1998 without any substantive change to the existing antitrust defense or the participation of the antitrust agencies. However, my doing so does not constitute any waiver of the Committee's jurisdiction over these provisions and does not prejudice its rights in any future legislation relating to these provisions or any other antitrust immunity provided in the Act. I will, of course, insist that Members of this Committee be named as conferees on these provisions or any other antitrust immunity provided in the Act should the bill go to conference.

If the foregoing meets with your understanding of the matter, I would appreciate your placing this letter and your response in the record during the debate on H.R. 2472. Thank you for your cooperation in this matter.

Sincerely,

HENRY J. HYDE,
Chairman.

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. VELÁZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the marvelous work of the Institute for Community Living, on the occasion of its 11th anniversary. For over a decade, the Institute for Community Living has helped people with mental and developmental disabilities to function successfully in different living, learning, working, and social environments. Through its operation of housing, rehabilitation and support services, it has helped improve the quality of life for countless mentally and developmentally disabled adults at various stages of the rehabilitation process.

ICL is a participating agency of the United Way of Greater New York and a member agency of the Association for Community Living and the Coalition of Voluntary Mental Health providers. ICL has also been recognized nationally for its success—its recent accolades include the Hospital and Community Psychiatry Significant Achievement Award and the National Center for Disability Services Exemplary Program Award.

The Institute for Community Living has succeeded in providing an array of secure, community-based residential programs in which mentally disabled people can pursue their own rehabilitation plan. By making it possible for these individuals to live a life of independence and dignity, ICL serves as a shining example of service to the mentally and developmentally disabled community. I urge my colleagues to join me in commending the Institute for Community Living and in extending our best wishes for its continued success.

ON THE RETIREMENT OF FLOYD
FLAKE

HON. JERROLD NADLER

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to bid farewell to a very distinguished Member of my State's delegation. FLOYD FLAKE has served in the House with honor, with sincerity, and with unwaivering commitment. He can serve as a model to all of us in this body: for over a decade, he has fulfilled a calling to public service, fighting the fights he believes in, representing his constituents with passion and nobility.

In leaving this body, FLOYD FLAKE is leaving this Nation richer for his service. The moral guidance he has given us and the example he has set for us will echo through this Chamber in the coming years, resonating with its obligation to the people of this country after he has gone.

Now, our colleague is about to respond to another calling. With the chance to devote his full energies to the needs of his congregation, he will continue his lifelong commitment to service and justice. And though he will be in a new setting, he will continue to be an inspiration for us all. I can only say that it has been an honor serving with him, and I wish him all the best.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. GEORGE P. RADANOVICH

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. RADANOVICH. Mr. Speaker, as a result of being detained while in the service of my constituents in my district, I may have been unable to cast votes today on measures before the House of Representatives. I would like to take this opportunity to explain my support for three key areas of public policy, which were likely voted on in my absence.

H.R. 867, the Adoption Promotion Act.—I support this measure, as I believe it emphasizes the need for foster children to be adopted by a permanent family. Also, the Adoption Promotion Act requires States to expedite the process that governs the adoption of a foster child. The bill provides for increased stability for foster children and encourages a strong, healthy family structure. All foster children deserve the opportunity to be adopted to secure a sound future.

H.R. 2709, the Iran Missile Proliferation Sanctions Act.—Credible reports have drawn attention to the fact that Iran is pursuing plutonium separation and gas centrifuge enrichment in its nuclear program. Iran has also taken aggressive steps toward purchasing nuclear weapons-related material. Potentially, this development poses an enormous threat to our Middle East allies and other peaceful countries around the world. Therefore, we must take the appropriate steps to prevent Iran from obtaining a nuclear missile capability. H.R. 2709, the Iran Missile Proliferation Sanctions Act, goes a long way toward accomplishing this objective. The legislation requires the President to submit a report to Congress, within 30 days of enactment, identifying nations or entities about whom there is credible information that they transferred missile goods or technology to Iran. Sanctions against entities involved in the attempt or transfer of missile technology to Iran include denying arms exports licenses and eliminating all United States assistance for 2 years. The bill also expresses a sense of Congress that the President should exercise existing authorities and available funds to prevent the transfer of weapons-related material and delivery systems to Iran. I believe the actions taken in this bill will check Iranian arms proliferation and enthusiastically support its passage.

S. 1519, Extending the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act.—S. 1519, Extending the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act [ISTEA], is an important piece of legislation. The measure provides $9.7 billion in new transportation money to States, thus continuing transportation funding to the States until Congress passes a regular, 6-year ISTEA bill next year. Extending ISTEA for this temporary duration is important to ensure that California, as well as the other the States, continues to provide for the transportation needs of its residents during this time.

SUNSHINE IN THE COURTS

HON. CHARLES E. SCHUMER

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. Speaker. In April of this year, I along with my distinguished colleague from Ohio, Congressman CHABOT, introduced H.R. 1280, the Sunshine in the Courtroom Act. H.R. 1280 allows photographing, electronic recording, broadcasting, and televising to the public of Federal court proceedings at the discretion of the presiding judge. This legislation is key to opening our Federal courts to cameras in order to educate the public and increase understanding of our Federal judicial system.

Allowing sunshine into our Federal courtrooms is one of the best ways to expand public knowledge on how our Federal court system operates. In recent years, there has been an increasing concern regarding our courts. Changes of judicial activism are eroding confidence in the legitimacy and fairness of Federal court proceedings. If the public continues to be kept in the dark about what occurs behind the doors of Federal courtrooms, these concerns and criticisms will surely mount. The availability of televised courtroom proceedings will increase public confidence in our Federal system, as demonstrated already within State courts around the Nation. Decisions made in Federal courts have the capability to affect every citizen's life. The public should have the opportunity to see and understand how these cases unfold.

In 1997, the House of Representatives passed a House resolution to televise House floor proceedings and committee hearings to the public to create a greater degree of accountability of Members of Congress to their constituents and to enable the public to obtain a greater appreciation for the work that occurs on Capital Hill. C-SPAN coverage of the House allows citizens to watch and learn about the legislative branch for themselves, instead of relying solely on the media to interpret for them what is happening in Washington, DC.

I was elected to the House of Representatives for my ninth term last election by the citizens of my district in New York, and I continue to be accountable to every one of my constituents. Through C-SPAN coverage, they can see for themselves the issues I fight for and against on their behalf. It is time to take this idea of cameras for accountability and expand it into the judicial branch of the Federal Government.

I would also like to emphasize to everyone that H.R. 1280 does not in any way encroach on the powers of even one Federal judge. Quite the contrary, it is a pure grant of discretion, empowering the Federal judge to open or close proceedings that today are closed regardless of the judges desire and willingness to open the proceeds to public view. The Sunshine in Courtroom Act allows cameras in Federal courts only upon the approval of the presiding judge in each specific case. There are certain cases that are too sensitive to allow full media coverage of its judicial proceedings, such as trials involving minors, or cases in which a witness or members of a jury need to be kept confidential in order to protect them from harm. I do not want there to be any confusion on the fact that H.R. 1280 leaves judges total power to deny or limit television coverage of these types of cases.

Mr. Speaker, my fellow Members of Congress, the Sunshine in the Courtroom Act is legislation that is long overdue. Opening up our Federal courts will allow the public to see how our justice system really works and to gain a greater appreciation and trust in our Federal courts. In the second session of Congress we need to make H.R. 1280 a priority by holding hearings on this issue and then, passing this legislation into law. We, as Members of Congress, need to assert our dedication to keeping the Federal Government open and accessible to the public by letting sunshine into our courtrooms.

TRIBUTE TO REPRESENTATIVE
FLOYD FLAKE OF THE SIXTH
CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

HON. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, my departing words for a good friend, Congressman FLOYD FLAKE are marked with good wishes and sadness. While Allen A.M.E. Church is gaining a great minister who will work full-time for his congregation, the United States House of Representatives will be losing a man of conviction, compassion, and remarkable legislative skill. I will miss him, as will this body, not only as a lawmaker but as a valued friend.

Congressman FLAKE has brought together the spirituality of the church, the innovation of the private sector, and the laws of the Government to produce economic revitalization for his congregation and the entire Sixth Congressional District.

November 7, Congressman FLAKE said his formal goodbye to the House of Representatives. For the first time, he told Members as well as the C-SPAN viewing audience about his inspirational road to success in the ministry, academia, and Congress. Never until that day had he told people about his long days of work and long nights of studying to earn his undergraduate degree or his doctorate of ministry. This is how we will remember Congressman FLAKE. We will remember a man who did not speak about his difficult road to success, rather, he spoke proudly about his service to God, his family, his district, and his country.

Congressman FLAKE was born in Los Angeles on January 30, 1945, and came to Houston, TX, to attend public school. After growing up in the great State of Texas, he studied at Wilberforce University in Ohio, earning his undergraduate degree. He continued to broaden his educational experiences in graduate programs at Payne Theological Seminary and Northeastern University. In 1994, he earned his doctorate of ministry degree from the United Theological Seminary in Dayton, OH.

Congressman FLAKE evolved from student to educator, serving as dean of students and university chaplain at Boston University in 1976. He served as the director of the Martin Luther King, Jr. Afro-American Center at Boston University from 1973 to 1976. From 1970 to 1973, he served as the associate dean of students, director of student activities at Lincoln University. Moving to business, he served as a market analyst for Xerox and as a sales representative for Reynolds Tobacco Co. He also served as a social worker for an early child development/Head Start program.

Mr. Speaker, Congressman FLAKE has lent his talents, energy, and concern for others to many activities. Congressman FLAKE always says that he has been blessed to have enjoyed so many successful endeavors. Personally, I would say that he has been blessed so many people in so many areas.

Legislatively, I will remember his work on the Committee on Banking and Financial Services and increasing investment opportunities for undeserved communities through the Bank Enterprise Act and the Reform of the Community Reinvestment Act.

Congressman FLAKE has done more than lecture and preach about the merits of self-sufficiency and job creation. Through his church, he has created local jobs, affordable homes, schools and multiservice centers that provide health care.

Mr. Speaker, it has truly been a pleasure to serve with the Congressman from New York's Sixth Congressional District. It will be even more of a pleasure to hear and witness his continued work in helping his community. Along with the many other Members of this body, I would like to give Congressman FLAKE my wishes of good luck and blessings.

HONORING IDA ECKHAUS

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Ida Eckhaus, a pioneer in providing community living for people with mental disabilities.

Mrs. Eckhaus has always been committed to bringing vital services to the people of New York City. Through her efforts, she was one of the founding members of APRIL, the Association of Parents for Rehabilitation and Independent Living. She and her husband Sam, along with three other couples, got together with the simple plan of obtaining housing for persons who suffered mental illnesses. In those meetings, they found there were many more needs for the mentally ill. Out of those meetings, the organization grew to become one of the largest affiliated in the State.

In addition to her community advocacy, she enjoyed working with families and their loved ones. For years her personal telephone at home was a crisis hotline. No hour was too late, no problem too difficult, no person too distraught for her. She was always there to help in any way she could. Even after the installation of the APRIL Hotline, Mrs. Eckhaus continued to take her calls at home.

Mrs. Eckhaus was a person of superlatively high standards, complete integrity, and boundless enthusiasm for whatever task she undertook. Throughout her service, she also served on numerous boards including the Institute for Community Living and AMI/New York State and she also founded Summit House of Brooklyn.

Mr. Speaker, please join me in honoring Mrs. Ida Eckhaus and all her contributions to the community of Brooklyn.

CONGRATULATIONS TO LANCASTER LABORATORIES

HON. JOSEPH R. PITTS

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. PITTS. Mr. Speaker, today I would like to honor Lancaster Laboratories, a company in Lancaster, PA, recognized in the October issue of Working Mother magazine as one of the 100 best companies for working moms.

Even through the transition that Lancaster Labs has undergone over the past few years, this family-begun business has not only kept its emphasis on quality, but it once again has proved to be a successful company which values the family. By believing that a company can be committed to providing state-of-the-art services, and still manage people in a way that accommodates the hectic and activity-laden lives of working mothers and fathers, Lancaster Labs has succeeded in keeping their dedicated employees.

Lancaster Labs has been measured against standards of child care, flexibility, pay, opportunities to advance, and other family-friendly benefits. Although the company came out strong on each one of these, it is not because they attempted to meet some arbitrary yardstick, but because Lancaster Labs believes in creating a company that has fairness and family at the core of its existence. With fair pay, advancement for women, onsite child care, and the promotion of adoption, Lancaster Labs is an exemplary and prosperous part of our community.

Mr. Speaker, I congratulate this exceptional company for its holistic approach to the working environment. Many companies would be wise to learn from the Lancaster Labs' example, which says that enhancing the lives of working moms can significantly improve the overall performance of the company. I wish the very best to Lancaster Labs in the future.

CHARITABLE INCENTIVE GIVING ACT OF 1997

HON. JENNIFER DUNN

OF WASHINGTON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Ms. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, in this time of fiscal constraints, I am introducing today legislation that would encourage greater private sector support of important social, educational, nutritional, medical, and other necessary programs in local communities by restoring incentives for charitable giving of closely-held stock.

Governments on all levels, Federal, State, and local, are reducing spending throughout their budgets, including social programs. At the same time, society's needs for these programs cannot be overlooked. Congress should do all that it can reasonably do to encourage private philanthropic efforts at this critical stage in restructuring Government and returning responsibility to our local communities. Many of these services can be provided at the local level by charities that know the community best and can supply the most efficient and competent delivery of services. Public charities and private foundations already distribute funds to a very diverse, wide-ranging group of social support organizations at the community level on a timely basis.

To meet the resulting deficit in unmet social needs, Government cannot merely expect the private sector to fill the gap, but must provide the leadership for the use of private sector resources through changes in the Tax Code. One source of untapped resources for charitable purposes is closely-held corporate stock. Today the tax cost of contributing closely-held stock to a charity or foundation is prohibitive, and it discourages families and owners from disposing of their businesses in this manner.

This legislation would correct this problem by once again permitting certain tax-free liquidations of closely-held corporations into one or more tax exempt 501(c)(3) organizations.

Under current law, the problem with giving closely-held stock to charity is that the absence of a market for such stock and the typical pattern of small and sporadic dividends paid by such closely-held companies make it difficult for a charity to benefit from ownership of such stock. Accordingly, if such stock is given to a charitable organization, and in particular if a controlling interest is given, the corporation may have to be liquidated either by statutory requirement or to effectively complete the transfer of assets to the charity for its use. Under current law, such a liquidation would incur a corporate tax at a Federal rate of 35 percent. This cost is imposed as a result of the tax law changes made in 1986 that repealed the "General Utilities" doctrine and this imposed a corporate level tax on all corporate transfers, including those to tax exempt organizations. The charitable organization could also be subject to unrelated business income taxes. These tax costs make contributions of closely-held stock a costly and ineffective means of transferring resources to charity, and these are the costs I propose to eliminate in order to free up additional private resources for charitable purposes.

The legislation I introduce today eliminates the corporate tax upon liquidation of a qualifying closely-held corporation if certain conditions are met. Most importantly, qualification would require that 80 percent or more of the stock must be bequeathed at death to a 501(c)(3) tax-exempt organization. This bill also clarifies that the charity can receive mortgaged property in a qualified liquidation free from the unrelated business income tax for a period of 10 years. This change parallels the exemption from the unrelated business income tax [UBIT] for 10 years provided under current law for direct transfers by gift or bequest.

By eliminating the corporate tax upon liquidation, Congress would encourage additional, and much needed transfers to charity. Individuals who are willing to make generous bequests of companies and assets they have spent years building should not be discouraged by seeing the value of their gifts so substantially reduced by taxes. There will be a revenue cost to this legislation, probably in the hundreds of millions of dollars based on work the Joint Committee on Taxation has done on this concept over the past year. But it is crucial to remember that this cost represents charitable giving of many times that amount; by the same techniques used to estimate tax cost, it's estimated the giving stimulated to be as much as seven times the revenue cost, placing its value in the range of $2 to $3 billion. In short, this revenue impact represents the expectation of significant transfers to charity as a result of the legislation.

Good tax policy would advocate the broadest support of charitable giving. It is worthwhile to note that the individual donor does not receive any tax benefit from the proposal. All tax savings go to the charity. By inhibiting these charitable gifts, the Government not only hurts those individuals that most need the help of their Government and their community.

I welcome my colleagues' support and sponsorship for this legislation. I urge each Member to talk to their constituents about it and learn for themselves the response received from those individuals and families in local communities in a position to make such a charitable gift of their business.

Mr. BALLENGER. Mr. Speaker, on Saturday, November 8, I missed rollcall votes 617 (H.R. 2631) and 618 (H.R. 2534). Had I been present I would have voted "yea" on both.

TRIBUTE TO EUGENE LESESNE

HON. WILLIAM J. COYNE

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. COYNE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to one of my constituents, Mr. Eugene Lesesne of Pittsburgh, PA.

Eugene Lesesne, a U.S. Army veteran of World War I, will be 100 years old on November 19. Born in Sumter County, SC, he served in the Quartermaster Corps in France in the final months of the First World War. He moved to Pittsburgh shortly after his discharge in 1919 and has lived there ever since.

A quiet, unassuming person, Mr. Lesesne lived a life of hard work as a laborer. He was married twice, widowed twice, and was a father of four. Mr. Lesesne attributes his long life to the good habits instilled by his parents, whom he describes as "good Presbyterians who taught me to stay away from bad things." A longtime member of Grace Memorial Presbyterian Church, in 1968 he joined with church people of different races to form the Community of Reconciliation, an interracial, interdenominational church. He continues to sing tenor in that church's choir to this day and is noted for the natty way he dresses.

I commend him to this body as an example of a man who served his country overseas in his youth and came back home to lead an exemplary salt-of-the-Earth life.

COMMEMORATING THE 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE GREAT LAKES WATER QUALITY AGREEMENT

HON. STEVE C. LATOURETTE

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. LATOURETTE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the Great Lakes Water Quality Agreement [GLWQA]. This groundbreaking agreement between the United States and Canada was signed on April 15, 1972, by President Richard Nixon and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau as a binational pledge to reduce and prevent Great Lakes pollution. The GLWQA grew out of a need to reverse the decades-long trend of decline in the health and beneficial uses of the Great Lakes.

My constituents have been especially impacted by water quality since my district includes the longest Lake Erie shoreline of any Ohio congressional district. In the late 1960's, Lake Erie was considered to be a dead lake, with stinking mats of algae growing profusely, and huge parts of the lake rendered uninhabitable for fish due to lack of oxygen. After a comprehensive study of this problem was conducted, it became apparent that these problems were the result of eutrophication, or the overfertilizing of the lake. Too much phosphorus was being dumped into Lake Erie from various sources, including farms, factories, and private homes. The 1972 GLWQA included provisions for the reduction of phosphorus loadings into Lakes Erie and Ontario.

As a result of the 1972 GLWQA, phosphorus levels significantly decreased in the Great Lakes. In Lakes Erie and Ontario, phosphorus loadings have been reduced by almost 80 percent. The United States and Canada achieved this binational goal through improvements in sewage treatment, lowering the levels of phosphorus in detergents, and reducing agricultural runoff.

In 1978, the GLWQA was revised and the two countries pledged to restore and maintain the chemical, physical, and biological integrity of the waters of the Great Lakes basin ecosystem. Toxic substances were a major concern by the late 1970's, and the two countries committed themselves to achieving zero discharge of toxic substances in toxic amounts and the virtual elimination of persistent toxic substances. These persistent toxics bioaccumulate in organisms and increase in concentration up the food chain. Some of these substances, such as PCB's and dioxin, have been shown to cause adverse health effects in humans and wildlife.

Again, my constituents have been impacted by the constant plague of persistent toxics which were dumped into the lakes during a time when the consequences of pollution were not understood. The Ashtabula River and harbor in northeast Ohio was a dumping ground for toxic waste for years.

The 1987 protocol to the Great Lakes Water Quality Agreement reinforced the 1978 commitments of the United States and Canada and highlighted the importance of human and aquatic ecosystem health. Provisions were added to clean up 42 local areas of concern in the Great Lakes and included the development and implementation of remedial action plans [RAP's] and lakewide management plans [LaMPs].

The Ashtabula River and harbor was designated as an area of concern by the International Joint Commission [IJC] in 1985, and a remedial action plan has since been developed to clean the river up. Under the leadership of the IJC, a coalition of interested parties has worked continuously to make the Ashtabula River and harbor one of the first successful cleanup sites in the Great Lakes. The Ashtabula River Partnership has made great strides in recent years to secure the commitment of the Army Corps of Engineers to safely dredge the sediments and dispose of them in a manner consistent with our obligation to protect the environment.

The accomplishments under the GLWQA extend beyond my constituents' corner of the Great Lakes. As a result of the United States and Canadian commitment to reducing toxic substance releases, cormorants in the Great Lakes region have significantly increased in population from the 1950's to the 1970's levels when the number of nesting pairs of cormorants dropped by 86 percent. Concentrations of DDE and PCB, both persistent toxic substances, decreased in cormorant eggs by more than 80 percent between 1971 and 1989. Concentrations of chlorinated compounds, such as dioxins and furans which are used in the bleaching process of pulp and paper mills, have decreased in the Great Lakes by 90 percent since the late 1980's.

On November 1, 1997, in Niagara Falls, NY, the International Joint Commission, with Canada and the United States, celebrated the 25th anniversary of the GLWQA. This event was attended by many people in the Great Lakes community hailing from United States and Canadian Government agencies, environmental organizations, public interest groups, and industry. The key speakers at the celebration were Deputy Secretary John Garamendi, United States Department of Interior, and the Honorable John Fraser, Canadian Environment Ambassador, as well as a member of my staff, Mr. Brett Kaull.

At this landmark anniversary of the GLWQA, we must not rest on the laurels of the accomplishments of the past, for there is still much to be done to restore the environment of the Great Lakes. This effort will require vigilance and commitment from the United States and Canada, Federal and local governments, industry, and the public. In 1999, the United States and Canada will review the agreement's objectives and terms to determine whether to update its scope. Let us continue to work together in a concerted effort to achieve the goal of bringing back the Great Lakes to their former preeminence as a natural resource to be enjoyed for generations.

TRIBUTE TO RODGER MEIER

HON. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to a constituent and good friend Mr. Rodger Meier, this year's recipient of the Russell H. Perry Free Enterprise Award. It is very difficult to be brief when paying tribute to Rodger Meier, a man who has championed so many noble causes.

I know him as an advocate of entrepreneurial initiatives, community service and public policy issues that has produced opportunities for the citizens of Dallas. The Wright amendment was established to protect the economic opportunities and financial well-being of the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport. Rodger was right there and never fails to express his feelings about keeping the economy strong in the Dallas area.

In addition, he is a long-time supporter of DART and has led to my constituents enjoying better transportation and environmental opportunities while producing more dollars for area businesses and allowing passengers to reach key destinations without clogging our highways and freeways.

And so, it is truly fitting that he is being honored this year with the Russell H. Perry Free Enterprise Award. This award salutes entrepreneurial spirit and how it fosters opportunities, service, and civic responsibility. After all,

Rodger embodies all of these traits. And I shall never forget how he worked so hard and put in all of his efforts in passing into law, the 1985 education bond election. It was critical and he was there.

He was there because he believed in education and that no child should be left behind and that all children must be included in education. Rodger is just so good in every area and he really understands the needs for all of the people. And in addition to all his caring, he has been the No. 1 Cadillac salesperson in all of the country, and we all like Cadillacs.

I first met Rodger when we both were on the board of trustees at Texas Christian University where we both graduated from. And that friendship will never end. I have so much respect for him as a husband, father, Christian man and civic person extraordinaire. In addition to a few things that I have pointed out, Rodger is involved in so many more. He never forgets the young people, whether handicapped or not.

He never forgets to be caring as it relates to any issue and I think that the committee has decided this year to give honor to the award by citing Rodger Meier.

It is my pleasure to congratulate you Rodger, and in addition to congratulating you, I thank you. I thank you for all that you have done to make this world a better place and to make Dallas a better community. The award does itself honor in honoring you. I thank the awards committee. Rodger, my friend you have earned it, you deserve it and I hope that you enjoy it.

HONORING ADAM ARLEN

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Adam Arlen, a pioneer in providing community living for people with mental disabilities.

Mr. Arlen was born in Poland where he was educated in economics. After experiencing years of hardship during World War II and the oppression of the subsequent Communist government, in a dramatic personal adventure, he escaped to the United States to start a new life in 1966.

During his first years in America, following formal training, Adam Arlen became a nursing home administrator. In the early 1970's, seeing that large numbers of individuals with mental illnesses were being discharged from State hospitals into the community with inadequate aftercare, he pioneered the development of this type of community living in New York State. For almost two decades, he stood out among his colleagues as a supporter of the highest quality of services for individuals under his care. In his role as advocate, he testified before legislative and administrative bodies and supported the creation of award-winning mental health programs. As a founding member of the Institute of Community Living's Board of Directors, he has continued to speak out on behalf of those with mental disabilities offering unique and practical advice that stems from his special personal history and as well as professional interests.

Mr. Speaker, please join me in honoring the zealous and faithful advocacy of Adam Arlen on behalf of individuals with mental disabilities.

PATRICIA STARK OF RIVERHEAD, SELECTED AS PERSON OF THE YEAR

HON. MICHAEL P. FORBES

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. FORBES. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to join my friends and neighbors on eastern Long Island as we pay tribute to Patricia Stark, of Riverhead, in honor of her designation as 1997's Person of the Year by the Paumanok District of the Suffolk County Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Pat Stark's good work is so extensive, it might be more apt to declare her Person of the Decade. She is being honored by the Suffolk County Boy Scouts because they recognize her selfless and seemingly endless contributions of time and energy to the entire Riverhead community. Pat has worked tirelessly to improve the quality of life for all her neighbors, whether through supporting the arts, beautifying our community, improving education, protecting the environment, or preserving her hometown's historic legacy.

After a career in education where she taught in several Long Island schools, Pat has directed her talents to private business and is now the vice president of Storage Town East. But she is most loved and respected for her tremendous pride in her community, one that has inspired her devotion to Riverhead. Pat founded the Riverhead Country Fair, serving as the event's cochair for 7 years, with the goal of the focusing the townspeople's attention on the special gifts of the Peconic River. With the help of her friends and neighbors, that purpose was attained and today the riverfront has come alive with the bustle of boaters, fishermen, residents, and tourists.

Pat also served as chairperson of Riverhead Townscape, an organization responsible for allocating the funds raised by the fair on beautification projects. Some of the beneficiaries those efforts include the Peconic Riverfront, Lombardi Park, the flower boxes, trees and plantings along Main Street, plantings in Grangebel Park, the gardens and grounds of the East End Arts Council, and the Riverhead Preservation and Landmark Society.

Pat's other efforts includes serving as cochair of the East End Arts Council's Suffolk Theater advisory committee, the Riverhead Business Improvement District's downtown planning strategies committee, and as president of the Riverhead Revitalization and Preservation Corp., which has just completed a vital historic restoration project on Roanoke Avenue.

Completing her prodigious list of volunteer efforts, Pat is a member of the advisory board of the Hallockville historic site, serves as director of Confraternity of Christian Doctrine for St. John's Roman Catholic Church and is still a prodigious fundraiser for many local non-profit organizations. Patricia has been recognized in the Senate by AL D'AMATO for her efforts in housing restoration and it is altogether fitting that the House of Representatives honor her contributions.

That is why, Mr. Speaker, that I ask my colleagues in the House to join me honoring Patricia Stark and recognize her commitment to promoting and protecting the quality of life of Riverhead and the entire east end of Long Island, for her family and for her community. We are truly blessed to count her as our friend and neighbor.

DESIGNATION OF THE "EUGENE J. MCCARTHY POST OFFICE BUILDING"

HON. BRUCE F. VENTO

OF MINNESOTA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. VENTO. Mr. Speaker, I rise with the support of the Minnesota delegation in the U.S. House, to introduce H.R. 2836, a bill to designate the U.S. Post Office Building in downtown St. Paul, MN, as the "Eugene J. McCarthy Post Office Building."

Eugene J. McCarthy served as a U.S. Representative from Minnesota's Fourth Congressional District, the seat that I've been honored to represent. He also served for many years as a U.S. Senator from the State of Minnesota. He served for over two decades in Congress and was a much celebrated candidate for the Democratic nomination for President of the U.S. in 1968. Gene McCarthy's role in this 1968 campaign was the catalyst that set in place major change in United States and global policy in Southeast Asia and electoral politics in our Nation.

Eugene McCarthy was a teacher in the public schools in Minnesota and a professor at St. John's University in Collegeville, MN. He was also an instructor of economics at the College of St. Thomas in St. Paul and a distinguished author of numerous books on subjects ranging from children's literature to history and most renowned for his poetry.

The State of Minnesota is the home of many great leaders, however, few have touched as many lives as Minnesota's Eugene McCarthy. Senator McCarthy is a tireless leader and throughout his recent illness his fighting spirit persists. Therefore I, as well as, the Minnesota delegation and the people of the great State of Minnesota want to honor the accomplishments and service of this historic Minnesota leader from the area of St. Paul, MN, that catapulted him onto the national stage and into the U.S. Congress.

I welcome the support of my colleagues and this Nation in recognition of the career and public service of this great American.

WALTER CAPPS WAS A JOYOUS MAN

HON. DOUG BEREUTER

OF NEBRASKA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, on October 28 the House of Representatives lost an extraordinary Member. That loss was felt here, and it was felt across the country. Earlier in October the gentleman from California, Mr. Capps, had visited this Member's home State of Nebraska and the city of Omaha, where he was born and grew up. Not surprisingly, Nebraskans responded enthusiastically to his warm and generous spirit. This Member commends to his colleagues the piece by Roger Bergman which appeared in the Omaha World-Herald on November 8, 1997.

[From the Omaha World-Herald, Nov. 8, 1997]
WALT CAPPS "WAS A JOYOUS MAN"

(By Roger Bergman)

Even as the lights were coming back on in our house and around Omaha on Oct. 28, another kind of light was being extinguished. Our friend—really a member of the family—Congressman Walter Capps was dead. He suffered a heart attack in Dulles Airport in Washington, D.C.

It seemed impossible that someone so vital—so full of life and with so much to offer—could be claimed by darkness so suddenly, so unexpectedly, so early. Even at 63, even after barely surviving a head-on collision with a drunken driver more than a year ago, Walt Capps was not someone you expected to die. My wife, Dr. Wendy M. Wright, a Creighton University theology professor for whom Capps was an intimate friend and mentor, expressed it well: "He was such a joyous man."

During his recent visit to his native Omaha to attend family and high school reunions and to speak at his boyhood church and at Creighton University, Walt remarked to me that no less a figure in Western civilization than St. Augustine had written both "The Confessions" and "The City of God," respectively classics of spiritual autobiography and political theology.

A longtime and influential professor of religious studies at the University of California at Santa Barbara, Capps was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives less than a year ago. As he said in his lecture Oct. 12 at Creighton, he was trying in his own way and however modestly to bridge the gap between spiritual values and the concerns of public life. That an accomplished scholar and master of the lecture hall would even consider such a challenge at the time in a career when most of us would be thinking of retirement attests to his insatiable thirst for life generally and to his faith in the democratic ideal specifically.

It was also Augustine who proclaimed that a Christian should be an "alleluia from head to foot." Walter Capps was such a man.

And his joy in life and hope for America in a time of cynicism about politics was infectious. After spending the evening of Oct. 12 listening to the congressman speak enthusiastically of the quality of people he was getting to know in Washington and of the genuine care and concern of so many elected officials and their often young and idealistic staffs to do the right thing, one Creighton political science professor remarked that she had not felt so hopeful about Congress for years. Although 15 years my senior, Walt, with an almost boyish verve for an overwhelmingly difficult job, made me feel somewhat jaded by comparison.

Perhaps some of Walt Capps' hopefulness came from the healing and reconciliation he saw taking place in his course on the Vietnam War. Vets who had never told their stories before were invited to share the podium with him. Students whose fathers were unknown to them personally were sent as emissaries of the class to the Vietnam Memorial in Washington to touch those precious names on the black marble. Sen. Bob Kerrey, Nebraska's then-governor, took an active role in the class for years, becoming a close friend to Capps and mentoring him into political life.

Capps quoted Kerrey in his lecture at Creighton. Politics is often defined as the art of compromise. But Kerrey, reported Capps, described politics as the art of the possible.

The congressman's own philosophy corresponded well with that. Especially after his near-fatal crash in 1996, he said he woke up every morning just grateful for the new day and the opportunities it offered.

He approached his legislative role in Washington in the same spirit: Whatever small advance I can help to make for the general welfare of the people of this country, let me be ready to do it. Not a bad philosophy for the rest of us.

Of Capps' 14 books, the most recent was on the Czech playwright and president, Vaclav Havel, another fine intellect who responded to the call of public service. Havel's most recent book is titled "The Art of the Impossible." Walter would have appreciated that perspective on self-government, too. One of his own books was significantly titled, "Hope Against Hope."

But Walt Capps was not merely a dreamer. He wanted to make a difference. And so he put up with the arduous demands of the campaign trail (and the insults of his opponent, which he did not return) and the daily frustrations of an idealist in the powerbroking world of the national capital. If he tilted at windmills, it was only after being sure it was for the good of his own constituents and the country generally.

Like a combination of Don Quixote, St. Augustine, and Vaclav Havel, our friend Walter Capps dreamed a possible dream. He believed that citizens could govern themselves despite deep moral and ideological disagreements. Perhaps felled by the strenuous schedule that belief demanded of him as a citizen-representative, Walt Capps is a reminder to all of us that democracy has no sidelines.

Professor Capps—he took a leave of absence from his university post rather than give it up entirely—had a more personal dream, too. After several terms in Congress, he wanted to return to the University of California at Santa Barbara to teach about democracy.

Democracy, he said, is not something we inherit as a lifeless monument from the past. It is something we create and recreate every day. Or at least that is the challenge.

He will not be able to fulfill that personal dream—to the loss of all of us, but especially to those UCSB students who will know of him only by reputation. My wife and I are immensely grateful that our children, his godchildren, were touched by his life.

But like the image of a flame that lingers in the mind's eye even after the wick has been snuffed, Walter Capps' joyous, hopeful, generous spirit will linger long after his life has gone out.

May he rest in peace. And may the rest of us get to work.

VETERANS DAY IS AMERICA'S DAY

HON. NICK J. RAHALL II

OF WEST VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to commend to my colleagues an article that was published in the Charleston Gazette of Charleston WV. The article was written by a constituent of the Third Congressional District of West Virginia and a national vice commander of the American Legion, Mr. Robert Vass, Sr., of Huntington, WV.

I am sure that many of my colleagues spent yesterday the same way that I did, visiting with constituents to celebrate Veterans Day. Entire communities come together on November 11 each year to honor those who have served our Nation in the Armed Forces. Veterans Day is an opportunity to remember those who have given their life in service and to remind ourselves of our responsibility to care for those veterans who still need assistance.

As Mr. Vass writes, veterans continue to serve our Nation, even after leaving the military. Not only are they ready to serve in time of war, they remain active in times of peace. Veterans and active-duty personnel alike are active in our communities by volunteering at hospitals, sponsoring scouting and athletic programs for youths, providing scholarships or students and donating thousands and thousands of hours in volunteer service in their communities.

I share my good friend's column with my colleagues because it reminds us that Veterans Day is not just a day for veterans and their families; it is America's Day. It is a day for Americans to "express appreciation for the contributions of all veterans upholding the values for which these patriots sacrificed." And it is a day for all Americans, to be like veterans, and to involve themselves in their communities.

Mr. Speaker, I have included a copy of Bob Vass column and ask that it be printed following my statement.

[From the Charleston Gazette, Friday, Nov. 7, 1997]

VETERANS DAY IS AMERICA'S DAY—HOLIDAY HONORS THOSE WHO SACRIFICED

(By Robert E. Vass, Sr.)

I'm proud to be one of countless Americans who in the tradition of the citizen-soldier fighting for America's independence, served in our nation's armed forces. I served in the U.S. Army Air Corps during World War II.

Veterans Day, Nov. 11, is not only my day; it is American's day. On this day, in events ranging from solemn to spectacular—in sprawling cities and in small towns—Americans will honor those who sacrificed for freedom.

Men and women of all races, creeds and social stations have stood in harm's way in World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam, Lebanon, Panama, Grenada and the Persian Gulf. More than a million of them, including my wartime contemporaries, forfeited all of their tomorrows in their youth so that the core values of our nation—freedom, justice and equality—might grow old.

A simple gesture of gratefulness is all veterans want on Veterans Day. Whether you a veteran or not, you can poignantly express appreciation for the contributions of all veterans by upholding the values for which these patriots sacrificed.

I and my comrades in the American Legion support traditional American values here and in thousands of other communities nationwide. We carry on a tradition of community service dating back to the Legion's founding in 1919.

We advocate policies upholding law and order, a strong national defense, a full accounting of those listed either as missing in action or as prisoners of war, and just compensation for veterans, with service-connected disabilities. The latter includes thousands of Gulf War veterans who went to the region healthy and returned with ailments of mysterious origin.

We volunteer in Department of Veterans Affairs hospitals. We help veterans file claims for benefits. We sponsor programs which instill traditional values in young people, including Scouts, high school ROTC, American Legion Baseball, American Legion Boys State and Boys Nation, Junior Shooting Sports, and the National High School Oratorical Contest.

West Virginia Legionnaires last year donated 38,436 hours of service to their communities, awarded $63,664 worth of scholarships to 70 deserving West Virginia students, and donated 459 pints of blood to West Virginia blood collection centers.

Above all, consistent with our support for the Constitution, Legionnaires believe "we the people" must have a voice in how our nation is governed. On this premise, the U.S. Senate should do what the House did in June: Pass a constitutional amendment to return to the people the right to protect the flag of the United States from physical desecration.

Ordinary citizens must reinforce America's core values through service to God and country and participation in our governance. That's what the American Legion is all about on Veterans Day and every day. And that's what we all must be about on Veterans Day and every day.

Veterans Day is America's day.

SCHOOL CHOICE

HON. LEE H. HAMILTON

OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to insert my Washington Report for Wednesday, November 12, 1997, into the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

SCHOOL CHOICE

Education has always been a defining issue in American politics and a matter of the highest importance. Everyone believes that in America every child should get a good education. Politicians of all stripes have yearned to be known as "education presidents" or "education governors". The often heated debates swirling at the local school board level also testify to how central an issue education is at all levels of government.

Now a further debate within this larger education debate is taking place in statehouses and schoolhouses across the country. That debate is over school choice. At a fundamental level, school choice involves giving parents the ability to select which schools their children attend. But despite the relatively simple definition, school choice involves many different and competing options, and the debate is heating up.

WHAT IS SCHOOL CHOICE?

School choice encompasses a broad spectrum of educational initiatives and models, from modest tinkering to expansive reorganizations. The most popular include school vouchers and charter schools.

School vouchers provide assistance to families, often in the form of coupons, to be used to pay either a portion or the entire cost of private school tuition. Cleveland and Milwaukee have voucher programs supported with taxpayer dollars. These programs are targeted to low-income families. In Indianapolis there is a limited voucher program funded through private funds.

Charter schools are independent public schools usually started by parents, teachers, and administrators. These schools are freed from some of the bureaucratic rules and regulations that drag down performance, but in return they are responsible for meeting certain standards. Over the past several years there has been an intense debate in the Indiana state legislature over the issue of some charter schools possibly restricting admission.

CONGRESSIONAL DEBATE

Currently in Congress the school choice debate is a popular topic and will certainly continue to be a lightning rod for years to come. Supporters claim that choice injects competition and accountability into the educational system. They ask why the poor should not have the same chance at better schools as the well-to-do. They believe that choice will, through competition, prod the public schools to get better.

American parents are deeply concerned about the quality of their children's education, and are searching for ways to improve the system. School choice is one such option. Billed as a way to increase parents' control over where their children enroll while also creating incentives for reform in our public schools, the numerous school choice proposals promise to shake up our educational system. In this day and age, when we often hear calls to increase the efficiency and responsiveness of government, the free enterprise themes that characterize school choice proposals resonate with many Americans.

Opponents, on the other hand, argue that choice, at its least, unduly weakens public schools and, at most, is unconstitutional. They argue fairness: since States will never have the money to help all the poor children who want it, most poor children will never be able to take advantage of the choice, and they will be left behind in a public system more starved for money than ever before. For them, public funds should be spent to improve public schools, not spent to help students leave them.

Critics also argue that most Americans do not want tax dollars subsidizing private schools, and they believe that vouchers create instant church-state problems. They say that using public funds for religious-affiliated schooling is a violation of the First Amendment's separation of church and state which is at the center of the American political heritage.

Critics also point to the practical difficulties in implementing school choice. In urban areas, where there are not only more schools to choose from but also greater accessibility to public transportation, it is easier to implement school choice reform. Could this work in rural southern Indiana where schools are often separated by at least an hour's drive? What about parents unable or unwilling to choose, or troubled students who are less desired by the schools? How do you find enough resources to make choice really meaningful, so even the poorest or worst behaving or lowest achieving student would have a chance to enroll in a good school?

ASSESSMENT

When it comes to the education of American children, I believe we should be willing to experiment and creatively address the challenges of making sure they receive the world-class education they deserve. The idea of school choice is certainly an attractive one, at least in general. By allowing parents to send their children to any school in any neighborhood, many schools will shape up and bright students can shop around to escape inferior schools.

But I also believe that choice is not a cure-all for American schools. It must not stand as a substitute for a strong commitment to a sound education for all of our children. If school choice is going to be an effective alternative, we must address the fundamental issues which surround it, and local leadership must take the lead in designing the programs. In general, I think school choice works best when it is arrived at gradually, locally, and voluntarily—not by top-down mandates.

The verdict is still out on whether school choice programs already in place have been ultimately successful. For this reason, school choice needs to be a gradual experiment, and local leaders need to look long and hard at a variety of innovative strategies aimed at improving public schools.

What we do not want in the end is a school choice system that leads to further segregation by race or income, or a choice system that creates a few favored schools for the elite. To bridge the gap between the ideal of school choice and the reality of fundamental educational reform, we need to carry on with this timely experiment.

WHY BETTER CERTIFICATES OF MEDICAL NECESSITY ARE NEEDED TO HOLD DOWN MEDICARE FRAUD

HON. FORTNEY PETE STARK

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, on October 7, I introduced H.R. 2633, to require the Secretary of HHS to develop and require the use of standard forms by which physicians certify that a course of home health or hospice care is necessary and appropriate.

Today, doctors just sign for such services without a clear statement that the patient qualifies or is eligible for the course of treatment. Often a doctor is nagged into approving the course of treatment by the family or patient, and I know that many doctors would like to be able to explain to patients why they cannot casually certify an expensive Medicare benefit, but instead, various conditions of medical need must be met.

A clearer, consistent statement of CMN can help reduce fraud. For example, there is the complaint of the United States versus Joseph Ari Kirschenbaum, filed this October 14 in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois (Eastern Division), No. 97 CR 702. In the grand jury's charges and in the complaint, Mr. Kirschenbaum is charged with defrauding Medicare of millions of dollars by providing—or not providing—hospice benefits to Medicare beneficiaries.

Following is one of the many charges from the grand jury. It is important to note that Doctor K and the other doctors mentioned in this charge are not—to my knowledge—being charged with the hospice owner. A reformed and strengthened CMN system, as provided in H.R. 2633, would help ensure that doctors would not casually sign such stacks of paper, and if they did, would be liable for false certification.

58. It was further part of the scheme that defendant KIRSCHENBAUM hired a Medical Director for Samaritan Care who, in exchange for a modest salary, was willing to sign every patient certification form that was presented to him without examining the patients or reviewing the patients' medical records. This Medical Director, referred to in this indictment as "Doctor K," had no involvement in the hospice other than signing his name to patient forms every two weeks at the Samaritan Care office. Often the patients had been receiving hospice care for several days before Doctor K first learned of the patients when he received the certification forms to sign. Kirschenbaum never informed Dr. K of the extensive responsibilities of the Medical Director as set forth in the Policies and procedures, and Dr. K did not fulfill these responsibilities. Kirschenbaum later employed other Medical Directors at modest salaries who signed certification forms without seeing patients or reviewing their medical records.

TRIBUTE TO JOE PAULINO

HON. ROBERT A. UNDERWOOD

OF GUAM

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to one of Guam's educators, and a former colleague of mine, Jose "Joe" E. Paulino, who was called from this life on October 14, 1997.

Following his graduation from George Washington Senior High School in 1956, Joe attended the College of Guam before transferring to Fresno State College in California where he earned a bachelor of arts in physical education and a minor in recreation in 1961. After his graduation, Joe returned to Guam and began his teaching career at Inarajan Junior High School. He spent the next 3 years teaching at the former Tumon Junior-Senior High School, prior to commencing his affiliation with the College of Guam in 1964.

The following year, Joe was granted a year of paid educational leave by the college's then president, Antonio C. Yamashita, to pursue a master's degree in physical education at Indiana University. Upon receiving his degree in 1966, he returned to the College of Guam and was promoted to an assistant professor position. Joe continued his teaching career, achieving associated professor status at what would eventually become the University of Guam in 1977, and subsequently achieving tenure in 1982.

Later that year, Joe took leave from the university to become the director of the department of parks and recreation, but continued to teach one course per semester at the University of Guam through 1984.

In 1984, he returned to the University of Guam campus on a full time status accepting the position of advisor to then university president, Jose Q. Cruz, on the management and operation of the newly built University of Guam fieldhouse. President Cruz subsequently appointed him as the fieldhouse manager, a position he retained until his retirement in 1991.

During Joe's distinguished academic career, he served on a majority of the University of Guam's planning committees. He also held responsible administration positions, including chairman of the Division of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance, and assistant to the president.

Joe also played a major role in the establishment of sports organizations, such as the Guam Sports Federation, the Guam Tennis Club, the Guam Table Tennis Association, the Guam Volleyball Association, the Far East AAU, the Guam Amateur Sports Association and the Guam Amateur Baseball League. He was one of the driving forces behind Guam's involvement in the 1966, 1969, and 1975 South Pacific Games, the Chamorro Open Tennis Tournament as well as the activities for refugees as part of Operation New Life.

Throughout his teaching career, Joe Paulino consistently demonstrated the kind of care and commitment to students expected for all good teachers. Joe reached out not only to Guam students but also to hundreds of young men and women from our neighboring Micronesian islands. Whenever necessary, he took these visiting students under his wing during their stay on Guam. He also spent many summers teaching courses in Kosrae and Chuuk. Joe Paulino's distinguished service, his active involvement and his contributions to the University of Guam and to the people of Guam are well deserving of recognition and have in fact moved the Guam legislature to enroll him in Guam's "Guma Onra" or House of Honor.

My sincere condolences go out to his wife, Pauline, and his children and their spouses, Mark and Pauliana, Brian, Andre and Melissa Mendosa.

THE VIETNAM WAR: THE MISSING CHAPTER IN AMERICAN HISTORY BOOKS

HON. DONALD A. MANZULLO

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. MANZULLO. Mr. Speaker, yesterday, my family and I had the opportunity to attend the commemoration of Veterans Day held at the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, DC. My children, ages 9, 11, and 13, don't know the meaning of the word "Vietnam," though several times we have talked to them about the Vietnam war.

Gen. Barry McCaffrey, Vietnam war veteran, and now head of our Office of National Drug Control Policy, gave a stirring speech about the ones who fought the war, reminding us that the price of freedom is very high. I also heard the incredible speech of Ann Cunningham, a nurse who served two tours of duty in Vietnam and who shared her experiences of the war.

Then I met a group of Vietnam veterans in the rotunda of our Capitol, and they advised me that in many school history textbooks the Vietnam war is relegated to a simple paragraph. The memory of the 58,000-plus men and women who perished in that war deserves more than cursory comment.

Therefore, I am requesting the speeches given by Gen. Barry McCaffrey and Ann Cunningham be included in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD for today. I trust that they will be read by children and serve as a missing chapter in our history books.

REMARKS FOR VETERANS DAY, VIETNAM WAR MEMORIAL

(By Gen. Barry McCaffrey)

INTRODUCTION

Senator Hagel, Jan Scruggs, distinguished guests, ladies, gentlemen, fellow Veterans of the Vietnam War.

In particular the assembled soldiers of B Company, 2-7th Cav who I was privileged to serve with in Vietnam during 1968-1969—thank you for your courage and dedication in combat and the joy of our reunion during the past two days.

I am especially honored to be here with our keynote speaker, the Honorable Charles Hagel, Senator from Nebraska, who courageously served in Vietnam as a squad leader in the 9th Infantry Division. He is one of the seven U.S. Senators and nine Congressmen, members of Congress, who fought in Southeast Asia.

Today we honor all those who served in Vietnam—both the living and those who never came home.

A ceremony at this site brings to mind the images of the nearly three and a half million men and thousands of women who served in the Vietnam theater. It also brings into sharp focus the faces of mothers, fathers, young wives, and children who braved the uncertainty of that conflict, waiting with anticipation for the return of loved ones.

Our country did not treat any of you with the respect, support, and compassion you deserved. It was a shameful blot on our history to send our country's young men and women off to this terrible conflict and then use our soldiers as objects of blame for the divisive political struggle that ripped the nation apart for a decade.

The names inscribed on this monument are those of men and women who went to Vietnam with their futures ahead of them and who came back home only as memories to their loved ones.

More than 58,000 died and over 303,000 were wounded. The bloodshed was terrible, and the suffering has not ended. At least 80,000 of our ranks still suffer from severe service-connected disabilities; around 6 percent of our Vietnam War comrades suffer from drug abuse or dependence; 11 percent suffer from current alcohol abuse; many are homeless; and others still suffer from war-related psychological and physical problems.

This continuing heavy human toll demands that we Americans vigorously support the finest possible health care in our Veterans' Administration facilities and sustain strong outreach programs to assist Veterans suffering from drug and alcohol dependency and physical and emotional wounds. Our nation needs to make the sacrifice for those who sacrificed so much in Vietnam.

WHO WE WERE

Who were we, who went to war in Vietnam? We were young. Our average age was 19. 60 percent of those killed were 21 or younger. In my unit, B Company 2-7 Cav, 1st Cavalry division, almost all of the troops were between 18 and 22—basically young men who rapidly turned into hardened combat soldiers.

We represented the face of America. We were men and women, rich and poor. 11 percent of our ranks were African-Americans. 5 percent were Hispanic.

We were the best educated troops our nation had ever sent to war. 79 percent of us had a high school education.

Most of us were volunteers. Many of our best combat soldiers were drafted. More than 70 percent of our killed in action were volunteers. United by circumstance and choice, we risked our lives for fellow soldiers and country.

We paid a high price for service to our country. A grunt in the 25th Infantry Division had a 75 percent chance of being killed or wounded. One in four marines became a combat casualty. We suffered amputations or crippling wounds at 300 percent the rate of our world War II forbears.

We served honorably. 97 percent of us received honorable discharges.

We have been successful. Vietnam Veterans enjoy incomes higher than our non-veteran counterparts. We also have an employment rate  $\frac{1}{3}$  higher than those who never served in the armed forces.

WHAT WE LEARNED

The Vietnam War officially ended in 1975, more than twenty-two years ago. For many of us, nearly three decades have passed since our time in Vietnam. The historians may still be sifting through mountains of documents. However, most of us assembled here already know what we learned from the War.

1st—We must not commit our youth to war without the support of the American people. For in a democracy, lack of such support produces catastrophic divisiveness and weakening of national will, which are essential to winning.

2nd—We must not send our sons and daughters to war without a clear understanding of national aims and the costs for achieving them. For failing to articulate these requirements leads to flawed strategies and higher casualties.

3rd—Victory will be paid for in blood by the men and women who serve and by loved ones at home who must bear separations, recoveries from wounds, and ultimate sacrifices.

And 4th—As individuals, we learned that to survive and succeed when conditions are appalling and your life is on the line requires: moral and physical courage, competence, self-discipline, and trust in your buddies.

THE FUTURE

Our nation needs your help:

1st, Help Vietnam Veterans in need. Get involved in state, local, and Veteran organizations. Offer your energy, time, money, and support.

2nd, Battle the evil of illegal drugs. Get involved in state, local, and community anti-drug efforts.

3rd, Improve your community. Get involved in other activities to make your community better. Our nation's leadership system works from the bottom up.

ENDING

We stand before this black marble wall with row after row of names and salute fallen comrades for their courage. We remember the words of poet Laurence Binyon, who wrote at the end of World War I:

"They shall not grow old, as we that are left grow old,
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn,
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them."

Thank you Vietnam Veterans for your service to America.

SPEECH OF ANN CUNNINGHAM

Today is Veterans Day—a day set aside to honor the men and women who have served this country.

Today is also the 15th anniversary of the dedication of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial—the Wall—which at the time of dedication was scorned and ridiculed as a black gash of shame and today is the most visited of any Memorial in Washington.

Today is also the 4th anniversary of the dedication of the Vietnam Women's Memorial—which took 10 years to build and I feel would never have been built but for the tenacity and determination of Diane Carlson Evans. People ask me which of the three women remind me of myself. They all remind me of myself at one time or another, but the one I am most drawn to is the kneeling figure. If you look closely at her face you will see pain, sadness, exhaustion, and compassion reflected there. All the women who served in Vietnam and during the Vietnam War had these traits—from the nurse in the operating room, to the nurse in the ICU unit.

From the Red Cross women who read books and wrote letters for wounded GI's, to the Air Traffic Controllers who brought the planes home after their missions, from the women who counted and tallied up the casualties daily, to the women in Special Services.

Thirty years ago I was in Vietnam. I was a young, naive 22 year old, a year and a half out of nursing school when I joined the Army Nurse Corps. I was two and a half weeks out of basic training the day I landed at Bien Hoa Airbase with about half of my basic class and a greener 2nd Lt. you would never find.

I was a trained operating room nurse, but I had never seen a trauma patient, let alone a mass casualty situation. Needless to say in the next 12 months I saw many such situations. It was the best of times and the worst of times and it took me 15 years to talk about it. When the Wall was dedicated, I didn't even know about it because I didn't read about Vietnam or watch Vietnam movies.

When I did see the dedication on TV, part of me was sad that I wasn't there, but in 1982 I wasn't ready to face Vietnam.

I look at the Wall behind me and I see the names of people I know—Bruce Kennedy and Charlie Warner—I grew up with in Santa Monica, CA. We all went to school together.

I look behind me and I see the names of people I served with: Leroy Pitts, Al Gaidis, Zeddie Dulin, Chuck Springer, Lowell Morgan and Phil Schmitz.

I look behind me and I see the names of women who cared enough to volunteer to help other Americans: Carol Drazba, Annie Graham, Elizabeth Jones, Hedwig Orlovski, Eleanor Alexander, Pamela Donovan, Mary Klinker and Sharon Lane.

I look behind me and I see the name of Gary Jones, a person I loved very much. We went to Vietnam, I came back and he didn't.

I look behind me and I see the name of patients we were unable to save. One, I especially remember, he is engraved in my mind forever. I was able to find his family and I wrote them a letter. His mother wrote back and these were her words, "when we received word that our son was wounded, I wanted to go to him, to somehow be there for him, but I could not be there. That is a mother's worst nightmare. You will never know what it means to us to know that before he died, someone was there to care. Thank you for all you did."

I think of the friends who have died since Vietnam, whose names are not on the Wall, but maybe ought to be, of BT Collins, whose contributions to the living and the dead will live on forever and of Doug Colliander, who was a friend and died too soon.

I look behind me at the memorial and think of the friends who have been dead now longer than they lived and of the impact they made on my life.

To the veterans in the audience today, the veterans of World War I, World War II, Korea, Desert Storm, Somalia, Bosnia and Vietnam, especially Vietnam, I say "thank you for your service and your sacrifices for your country and welcome home. You are very special people."

INDIA FACES THREAT OF SELF-DETERMINATION, PROFESSOR SAYS, FACES NO EXTERNAL THREAT

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I noted with interest the recent remarks of Dr. Ainslie Embree, a professor at Columbia University, at a seminar on "India's Regional Security"

Professor Embree stated categorically that India faces no external threat. The imminent threat to India is the movements for self-determination throughout the subcontinent, he said. He cited the freedom movement in Kashmir as the most immediate, but also cited the freedom struggles in Nagaland, Tamil Nadu, and Punjab, Khalistan. India takes the position that self-determination movements are only used legitimately against a colonial power, but that once a country is independent no part of that country can claim its independence, as the Sikh nation did on October 7, 1987, when it reclaimed its freedom, forming the separate, sovereign country of Khalistan. Sikhs ruled Punjab until the British annexation in 1849 and were to receive sovereign power in 1947 when India was made independent, so clearly it is now India that is the occupying colonial power in Khalistan, as well as Kashmir, Nagaland, and many other countries in South Asia. In fact, there was no political entity called India until the British created it in the nineteenth century.

Professor Embree said that India will have to resolve the Kashmir issue by letting the people of Kashmir exercise their political will through the referendum they were promised in 1948, but which India has never allowed to be held.

Despite facing no external threat, India is building up its military might, especially its nuclear capacity. Two Indian scientists admitted in mid-October that India's supposedly peaceful nuclear explosion in 1974 was a bomb. In addition, the chief of the Indian infantry said on October 23 that the Indian military is being trained in nuclear and chemical warfare. A secret report, revealed on October 16, shows that Indian plans to produce enough plutonium for 50 nuclear bombs within three years.

These frightening developments raise a troubling question: If India faces no external threat, why is it producing nuclear weapons and training its troops for nuclear war? There are only two possible answers. Either these weapons are a means of tightening the repression or India is planning to start a war with a neighbor, presumably Pakistan. I would warn India right now: The world will find any nuclear attack unacceptable and a war will only strengthen the hand of the freedom movements in the countries India occupies.

In light of these revelations, especially since India refuses to sign the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty, India should be declared a nuclear threat to the world and appropriate security measures should be taken. We should place tough sanctions on India, cut off its aid, and support the movements for self-determination in Khalistan, Kashmir, Nagaland, and all the nations of South Asia. We must support freedom wherever and whenever we can. We can make a real difference in South Asia now.

I am inserting an article from the news service NNI on Professor Embree's remarks into the RECORD.

INDIA FACES INTERNAL THREAT NOT EXTERNAL; AMERICAN EXPERTS
(By Ainslie Embree)

WASHINGTON, October 28 (NNI).—The only threat to Indian security is internal not external, and the internal threat is the "self-determination threat," said Dr. Ainslie Embree Professor Columbia University speaking at a seminar held at Henry Stimson Center Washington. The topic was "India's Regional Security". He was the key-note speaker.

Dr. Ainslie said India as well as Israel had been driving for commercial and cultural hegemony over the world. Focusing on Indian claims, he pointed out that in the brief 50 years of independence, India had already lost the role that the sub-continent played in the region during the Mughal and the British rules.

He said that during early days of independence Nehru defined India's problems as the communal problem, the caste problem and the language problem, but Nehru failed to mention the self determination as India's biggest problem. He said ironically, India itself was a big supporter of self determination in those days, and would support all the liberation movements against the colonial powers in Africa, Asia or Latin America.

India changed its position on self determination in 1966, said Dr. Ainslie. He said that since 1966 India pronounced the self determination movement as a movement against an alien occupation, foreign occupation or a colonial occupation only; and once a country was independent, no part of that country could claim independence, and thus no self determination movement was acceptable.

The first self determination example of South Asia is Pakistan, said Dr. Ainslie, adding Pakistan was the result of self determination movement by the Muslims of the sub-continent. He said apart from several self determination movements of South Asia stretching from Nagaland to Tamilnad to Punjab, the most important, most lasting one is the self determination movement of the Kashmiris.

He said India will have to resolve the Kashmir issue, even if it considers the UN resolution as an extreme position and impracticable, India cannot ignore the movement and will have to let Kashmiris exercise their will.

Dr. Ainslie emphasized that Kashmir is the core issue between Pakistan and India, and no one in Pakistan is interested in the small matters like visa or trade facility, while is not ready to accept the Kashmir problem as a problem.

On Siachen, Dr. Ainslie said that Pakistan's position was logistically better than India's, so that Pakistan had to spend much less than India. India is bleeding at Siachen, he added.

Dr. Ainslie Embree is also a member of Kashmir Study Group, and the team leader who recently visited Pakistan, where he met with Foreign Minister Gohar Ayub, Information Minister Syed Mushahid Hussain, Minister of State for "Agenda 2001" Ahsan Iqbal.

TRIBUTE TO THE BLACK ARCHIVES, HISTORY AND RESEARCH FOUNDATION OF SOUTH FLORIDA, INC., ON ITS 20TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. CARRIE P. MEEK

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mrs. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to the Black Archives, History and Research Foundation of South Florida, which is celebrating its 20th anniversary on Saturday, November 15, 1997.

This is indeed a milestone in the history of this organization, given the countless struggles and challenges that ushered its humble beginnings. And as I join my community in recalling the role of Miami's Black Archives Foundation, I also would like to honor Dr. Dorothy Jenkins Fields who serves as the catalyst behind its emergence as a respected institution. Almost singlehandedly, Dr. Fields helped turn around a neglected part of Miami's cultural heritage into a living, breathing lesson about the black experience in south Florida for students, adults, and researchers alike.

In preparation for the celebration of our Nation's 200th birthday, she conceived and developed the concept that hastened the establishment of this cultural institution. Incorporated on November 17, 1977, as a private, nonprofit organization, the Black Archives, History and Research of South Florida, Inc., is presently governed by a board of directors and supported by a board of trustees. Funded solely by its members, donations and grants, the foundation is dependent upon its volunteer help.

This institution serves as a manuscript/photographic repository of south Florida's African-American communities. The materials in this repository are collected for educational purposes for users, which include students, teachers, scholars, researchers, the media, and the public-at-large. The memories of the pioneers, family albums, photographs, documents, souvenir programs from churches and organizations are preserved in its burgeoning files. Additionally, it identifies historic sites for nomination to local, State, and national designation. As a result of the collected documentation, the historic Overtown Folklife Village and Dade County's Black Heritage Trail came to fruition.

It also works in conjunction with the Dade County Public Schools by providing content for the Infusion of African-American history into existing curriculum utilizing source materials for school children of all races throughout the school year. It also initiated the restoration of several historic sites including the Dr. William A. Chapman, Sr. residence. Located on the campus of Booker T. Washington High School, the house was restored for reuse as the Ethnic Heritage Children's Educational Center.

One of the more recent joint ventures it worked out with the Dade County Public Schools is the creation of a district-wide, multi-cultural and multi-ethnic research and educational facility for students, teachers, and the community. The objective is to provide opportunities for students at all grade levels to celebrate the rich variety of cultures in Dade County. This program enables students to record the past in relation to the present, as well as ponder the possible events of the coming century.

The documented materials that now form the wealth of the Black Archives Foundation collectively represent a stirring graphic journey into the inner sanctum of some of the most vivid life-experiences of African-Americans in Dade County. The soul-searching representation captivated by its historic documents personify not so much the black destination, as much as the episodic journey of our pioneers to that destination. Together they evoke the truism of a revered African Ashanti proverb that " * * * until the lions get their own historian, the story of the hunt will always glorify the hunter."

Mr. Speaker, I am truly proud of the pioneering efforts and resilient spirit of Dr. Dorothy Fields that nurtured the spirit of the Black Archives Foundation in south Florida. The significance of the role of the foundation is premised on the paradigm in that when you stifle the remembrance of your people's past, you will have silenced the promise of their future. Conversely, however, I am exultant that under the aegis of this revered institution our community has truly become redemptive and knowledgeable of the struggles and sacrifices of our African-American forbears.

As we honor them through the celebration of the 20th anniversary of the Black Archives Foundation, we will have become once again their partners in exploring the journey they begun. In the convergence of our spirits and memories with theirs, we will be enriched because through our understanding of the many and varied messages they left us through their life's journeys, we will be inextricably linked closer to them.

On this occasion, I want to congratulate the board of directors and the board of trustees for their steadfast efforts and genuine resilience throughout the Black Archives Foundation's 20-year history. I would like to reiterate our community's utmost gratitude for giving us the privilege of maximizing our knowledge of the vast richness and nobility of our African-American heritage.

INTRODUCTION OF THE POLICE PURSUIT AND RESCUE SUPPORT ACT

HON. CAROLYN C. KILPATRICK

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, today, along with Congressman MARTIN FROST and Congresswoman JUANITA MILLENDER-McDONALD, I am introducing the Police Pursuit and Rescue Support Act. This legislation is very simple: it will allow for our financially strapped police departments to utilize Department of Defense helicopters and other equipment to pursue felons or rescue citizens.

High-speed police pursuits are an unfortunate consequence of the very difficult job that our local police officers must do everyday. In 1996, 377 persons nationwide were killed as a result of these high-speed pursuits, with 107 of these fatalities being occupants of other, uninvolved vehicles or innocent bystanders. Two persons in my congressional district have died as a result of these high-speed pursuits this year. Their deaths inspired me to seek a reasonable and workable solution to this challenge. Helicopters have been shown to be a more cost-effective and efficient device in high-speed pursuits. However, the high expense to purchase and maintain a helicopter is prohibitive to many local police departments.

The Police Pursuit and Rescue Support Act will allow local police departments to utilize helicopters or any other equipment from the local Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, or Coast Guard branch to pursue fleeing criminals or rescue citizens. Upon the submission to the Department of Defense of high-speed pursuit and rescue guidelines by the local police department, the Department of Defense will make helicopters and other equipment available, with a pilot and maintenance person, free of charge, to the local police department. This would be a mutually agreeable arrangement: the local police department and the local Army, Air Force, Coast Guard, or Navy base both must conclude that this arrangement is practical, feasible, and financially responsible.

The Police Pursuit and Rescue Support Act is a voluntary program that allows local police departments to draft their high-speed pursuit and rescue guidelines, submit these to the Department of Defense, and upon approval of these guidelines, work with their local branch of the Department of Defense to establish exactly how, when, and where this emergency equipment would be used. Each local police department would have the flexibility to design and develop their own high-speed pursuit guidelines. As a former elected Michigan State legislator, I am sensitive to mandates in a one-size-fits-all fashion coming from Washington, DC, and stringently avoided any such prerequisites in the Police Pursuit and Rescue Support Act.

Finally, this bill will make Department of Defense equipment available for the rescue of citizens. Many of our cities have high-rise office buildings that are inaccessible by the longest hook and ladder fire trucks. There are those accidents and catastrophes that are only accessible by the high technology, advanced vehicles available to our armed services.

It only makes sense for our financially strapped police departments to have access to that equipment, already paid for by taxpayer dollars, to safely pursue criminals and rescue citizens. My bill gives local police departments the flexibility to design policies that will protect citizens, police officers, and save taxpayers untold sums in wrongful death lawsuits.

10TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE EDISON INDUSTRIAL SYSTEMS CENTER

HON. MARCY KAPTUR

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the 10th anniversary of the Edison Industrial Systems Center. On November 6, 1997 EISC will celebrate its long history of achievement and contribution to the businesses and citizens of Ohio at a celebration to be held at the center of science and industry in downtown Toledo, OH.

EISC has been a tremendous force in helping to link companies to high tech resources in Ohio and throughout the Nation. These connections have been instrumental in increasing production and in improving the quality of products and employee skills in industry.

One of EISC's major accomplishments is the revolutionary and much acclaimed Toledo Technology Academy. The academy's goals are to prepare high school students for high-tech careers or for further education in engineering disciplines.

Food production is Ohio's largest industry and EISC's food technology centers work to modernize food producers who still rely on outdated technology for quality control. Modernization provided by EISC through this program vastly improves plant safety, product consistency and profits.

Among the innovations created under the food technology centers are several new types of food sensors that measure quality. Germ free packaging methods instructed by EISC are another helpful addition to the industry, improving the safety of our food.

The center for technology commercialization offers a variety of services to firms. Attorneys, accountants, and financial institutions maintained by this division are available to companies as a form of cost-effective support.

Companies in the city of Toledo, OH, and throughout the Nation are indebted to EISC for its work. I will be pleased to join my community on November 6, 1997, to commemorate the strides EISC has made in 10 years of growth and betterment to industry.

HONORING ASSEMBLYMAN JAMES F. BRENNAN

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the work and achievements of Assemblyman James F. Brennan.

Jim Brennan represents the 44th assembly district containing section of Park Slope, Flatbush, Kensington, Parkville, Midwood, and Windsor Terrace. Since 1994, Jim has chaired the assembly standing committee on mental health, mental retardation and developmental disabilities. Mr. Brennan also serves on four committees: corporations, authorities and commissions; education; and real property taxation.

In his 12 years in the legislative, Mr. Brennan has sought to champion consumer protection, energy conservation, and social and economic justice. He is well known for his expertise on budget matters, school aid, and utility regulatory matters. He is the author of a major piece of budget reform legislation, the tax expenditure budget. This law, passed in 1991, requires the Governor to submit an itemized list of every special tax break that exists within the State tax code as part of the budget. This gives the legislature and the public the opportunity to scrutinize each tax break and to determine if it has a benefit to the public as well as to the private parties involved. Mr. Brennan also authored the exemption from the vault tax for New York City homeowners and the exemption from the New York City personal income tax for poverty level taxpayers.

Mr. Brennan maintains an active presence in his district, participating in the many civic, school, and community improvement efforts with his constituents. To better serve his constituency, he maintains two district offices. He was first elected to the assembly in 1984 after working for his predecessor, Joseph Ferris.

Mr. Speaker, please join me in congratulating Assemblyman Jim Brennan for all of his years of faithful service to his country and to the 44th assembly district of Brooklyn, NY.

CONGRATULATIONS TO C.W. "BILL" JONES AND THE WESTERN DIVISION OF WILBUR-ELLIS CO.

HON. GEORGE P. RADANOVICH

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. RADANOVICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate C.W. "Bill" Jones and the Western Division of the Wilbur-Ellis Co. as they are presented with Fresno Agriculturist and Fresno AG Business of the Year Awards. Bill Jones and the Wilbur-Ellis Co. exemplify excellence in the agriculture industry.

Bill Jones, originally from Big Spring, TX, graduated from the University of California, Davis with a bachelor of science degree in agriculture. After being honorably discharged with the rank of captain from the U.S. Army Air Force, Bill Jones returned to the Central Valley where he worked as a fertilizer salesman. In 1949, Jones acquired 1,200 acres of farmland in the Firebaugh Canal Co. and started J & J Farms. In 1968, Bill was appointed to the California Water Commission by then-Gov. Ronald Reagan. During his time of service on the commission, he was known for recognizing the importance of water development throughout the State. J & J Farms has continued to grow and add a number of crops to its production ledger, including cotton, melons, alfalfa, corn, tomatoes, onions, garlic, broccoli, lettuce, and other vegetables.

Bill Jones played a key role in the formation of the San Luis and Delta-Mendota Water Users Association in 1977, and was elected president of its board of directors at the first meeting. He held the position for 20 years, retiring in June 1997. Under his leadership, the association expanded its membership to include urban contractors such as the Santa Clara Valley, the city of Tracy and the Grasslands Water District.

The Western Division of the Wilbur-Ellis Co., headquartered in Fresno, has been serving the San Joaquin Valley and Arizona for 51 years. The company was selected by a committee representing the AG Fresno Advising Board, the Baker, Peterson & Franklin [BP&F] AG Department, and other organizations as a winner of the 1997 BP&F AG Business Award.

The Western Division of the Wilbur-Ellis Co. is actively involved in testifying, lobbying, and helping to influence legislation for the reform of the Endangered Species Act, pesticide safety, water issues, and tax reform. They encourage their 400 employees to be actively involved in community service. The company also provides its employees company time to pursue their interests. The company sells pesticides and fertilizers through 18 branch locations, and its AMC subsidiary manufactures spray rigs and equipment. The company prides itself on the exceptional service to their customers.

Mr. Speaker, it is with great honor that I congratulate both C.W. "Bill" Jones and the Western Division of the Wilbur-Ellis Co. as they are presented with the Fresno Agriculturist of the Year and the AG Business of the Year Awards. The hard work and dedication of both Mr. Jones and the Wilbur-Ellis Co. serve as a model for all Americans. I ask my colleagues to join me in wishing Mr. Jones and the Western Division of the Wilbur-Ellis Co. the best for the future.

IN MEMORY OF ANNE DOYLE

HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the memory of Anne Doyle of Brecksville, OH. A Cleveland native, Anne successfully managed a family, a career, and several community activities.

In 1959, Anne was named Mother of the Year by the Southeast Mothers of Twins Club. She gave birth to twin sons, one of whom had Hodgkin's disease, only 11 months after the birth of her first child. She and her husband, Bertram, welcomed their fourth child when their oldest was starting kindergarten. Juggling an active household with four young children and budgeting her time to include activities such as Cub Scout den mother and singing with the Sweet Adelines prepared Anne for her later career. She served as an administrative assistant of parking and security for Cleveland State University for 9 years.

Anne's strong family values, and her exceptional Czechoslovakian recipes, will endure in her three surviving sons, Michael, Kenneth, and William, and her five grandchildren. She will be greatly missed.

IN MEMORY OF JOHN MILSTEAD

HON. BILL McCOLLUM

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. McCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, I rise with great sorrow over the loss of a good friend of many of us in the Florida delegation, John Milstead, and to give condolences to his family. On Sunday, November 9, 1997, John suffered a massive heart attack while at home. He passed away that night at the age of 62.

John Milstead was the executive vice president of the Florida Bankers Association [FBA] for the last 24 years. In that role he was instrumental in many of the major changes in the banking industry over the last quarter century. John was government relations for the FBA both in Washington and Tallahassee.

Legislators of all stripes knew and liked John, and he will be missed by many. It was always a pleasure to visit with him, both in Washington and back home in Florida. His lack of pretense and absolute sincerity in personal and professional relationships made him a special person. John always knew the issue and argued his cause, but he was never abrasive. He was warm, generous, and thoughtful with everyone with whom he came in contact. Mr. Speaker, no words could do justice to how fine a person John Milstead was.

Our sympathy goes to John's wife Chris, his two sons, three daughters, and six grandchildren.

IN MEMORY OF HON. JUDGE ANGELO DARRIGO

HON. BENJAMIN A. GILMAN

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, it is with deep regret that I inform our colleagues of the passing of a truly outstanding member of the bar in my congressional district, a credit to the bench, the Honorable Judge Angelo Darrigo.

Angelo was first elected town justice in the town of Newburgh, in Orange County, NY, in 1957. He was reelected every 4 years since and accordingly served on the bench for nearly 40 years. It is a credit to the high regard in which he was held that he was unopposed for reelection. In fact, he was reelected without opposition to his 11th 4-year term on the bench just last week, 4 days prior to his passing.

Angelo was a combat veteran of World War II, serving in the Army Air Corps. When he and I came to know each other, when we were both studying law in New York City, we shared many memories of our experiences as Army Air Corpsmen.

Angelo was known not only for his compassion and fairness on the bench, but also as a skilled legal practitioner whose door was open day or night for anyone seeking his wise counsel and advice. Angelo will be sorely missed.

Mr. Speaker, I invite our colleagues to join with me in expressing condolences to Angelo's widow, Antoinette, their three sons, Carl, Michael, and Anthony, their two granddaughters, Angelo's sister Mary Russo, his brothers, Frank and Thomas, and their many other family members, loved ones, friends, and admirers who recognize that Judge Angelo Darrigo will be sorely missed.

FAST TRACK

HON. MARCY KAPTUR

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, by defeating fast-track negotiating authority, the House holds a rare and, in fact, profound opportunity—after nearly two decades of growing pleas from the American people—to define a new and responsible American free trade policy where trade becomes a two-way corridor—where reciprocity reigns; where America's trade ledgers move from deficit to surplus again; where fair treatment and a living wage is afforded people who work, and where the wages and benefits earned by America's workers rise again; where the rule of law gains ascendancy on a global basis; where respect for the world's environment is fundamental; where we as Members of Congress uphold our own sovereign constitutional responsibilities as this Nation's chief lawmaking body on trade.

Congress must respond to the plight of people like Ethel Tyner or David Filipiak or Griselda Rodriguez—our fellow citizens who have paid the price of flawed trade agreements. Our trade policy cannot abandon people such as Wanda Napier of Missouri, who had worked for Lee Apparel for 14 years and whose job was terminated and moved south of the border.

Like millions of other Americans who remain invisible to the persistent proponents of fast track, Wanda was on the losing end of fast track. Vanity Fair Corp., parent company of Lee Apparel which has been expanding its operations in Mexico and other foreign countries while terminating 1,650 more jobs in the United States, suddenly announced in September 1996 it was closing the plant where Wanda had worked for over a dozen years, throwing 350 Americans out of work.

President Clinton, after failing to acknowledge her plight for nearly 2 years recommended the fast-tracker's panacea to Wanda—retraining. Well, she went for retraining. In her own words,

We were ridiculed and humiliated by the local division of Employment Security. Even though most of us had never asked the United States government for a dime in their lives, we were treated like we were worthless and had our hands in the government till. We were told we couldn't go the schools we wanted or take the training we needed. We were told that the only training we could have was the quickest, the fastest, and the cheapest.

Today Wanda works for two-thirds her former wage and receives no health benefits or pension.

A vote against fast track is a vote of conscience that puts a human face on trade. It is a vote that says where trade is not a two-way street, serious human casualties prevail. The President claims that fast-track trade agreements create "good, high-paying jobs at home." What jobs? The Economic Policy Institute has identified almost 400,000 more lost U.S. jobs, 19,000 in Ohio, just from NAFTA. In just the last 3 months, nearly 3,000 more jobs have been moved to Mexico alone. Yes, Mr. President, more people are working but they are working harder for less—4 percent less since NAFTA and GATT even in this time of economic growth, and 20 percent less over the last 20 years.

Just ask thousands of Americans whose jobs are being fast-tracked outside the United States as we conduct this polite debate—the 279 recently terminated workers at Eveready Battery in Fremont, OH; or the 350 terminated workers at Jansport in Burlington, WA; or the 1,500 workers that got pink slips at Fruit of the Loom in Louisiana this Tuesday; or the 10,000 at Kodak in Rochester, NY and elsewhere who await their layoffs this week; or the thousands of vegetable farmers and production workers in Florida whose futures have been permanently altered because our Government failed to respond in a timely manner to the import surges that wiped out over 225 farm operations since NAFTA's passage. Talk to the hundreds of thousands of terminated workers whose jobs have been fast-tracked, and who if they have been re-employed, now earn $2 less per hour on average than on their previous job, many of them working part-time, or for reduced hours with lower or nonexistent health and pension benefits.

On the global front, it's time for a realignment of U.S. trade policy that goes beyond the narrow tariff and investment focus of NAFTA and GATT. America must not trade away its middle-class jobs. Expanding trade must be linked to democracy building and social development abroad—free trade among free peoples.

As John Kennedy taught us, "economic growth without political freedom elsewhere remains an empty promise" in history's long struggle toward the liberation of subjugated people. Tonight, we demand an international trade policy that respects people as much as it respects capital.

Will the trade rules that govern that global market ensure that trade does not become a race to the bottom, undermining America's jobs, wages, and consumer and environmental protections? Will it lead to the development of democracy and the rule of law in other nations or simply enforce plutocracy? The question for the 21st century is whether the world trade regime will foster a global village or a global plantation. So far, U.S. trade negotiators have been successful in safeguarding capital rights—foreign investment, copyrights, and corporate prerogatives but unsuccessful in safeguarding people's rights—a living wage and decent working conditions, a safe environment, and a lift in the standard-of-living for our people as well as those from other lands. If America keeps its markets open while other global markets remain highly hurdled, we will continue to erode our middle-class standard-of-living and degrade the world's environment. America has a moral duty to assure that the global marketplace benefits everyone, not just those capital interests with the deepest pockets.

U.S. TRADE DEFICITS HAVE EXPLODED

Let us look for a moment at the ledger. For a century, America has been the world's leading trading nation. We still are. Whether the United States will lead the world in the next century is not the question. The question is where will we lead. Until the mid 1970's, U.S. trade accounts had been generally in balance.

But over the last 20 years, particularly since, fast track has become a device to end run Congress, America has amassed enormous trade deficits that today lop one full point off of U.S. GDP, representing $1 trillion in lost income.

The pattern is familiar. Dole Pineapple, for example, closes down all its production in Hawaii, abandoning thousands of employees, moves its operations to low-wage havens such as Vietnam and Thailand where field workers are paid with three meals a day. Dole's female processing workers earn pennies an hour, and the pineapple they can is then shipped here to the United States for sale. All the while the price-per-can increases. Dole stock rises on Wall Street, but the workers on Hawaii's main street get pink slips, while the productive capacity of Hawaii is diminished. The story is the same whether it is a Japanese corporation such as Bandai, or Nike, or dozens of others who trade off people's sweat for money.

What we see is a handful of giant global firms, many with assets larger than nation states, who hold no national allegiance and gravitate to the lowest common denominator in wage scales. They are the ones who have the front row seats at the World Trade Organization in Geneva. They continue to monopolize the benefits of the current trade regime.

I can understand why these groups support fast track and other means to limit congressional debate and perusal of these vital agreements. What other measures that come before Congress are subject to after-midnight votes, Congress being held hostage, and such arm-twisting. Let me remind you these global firms have not created a single net new job here at home in the past quarter century. So isn't it time for us to take account of their ledger, and demystify it for the American people.

What has happened in the past 25 years is that the United States has become the residual importer for world markets that largely remain closed to us. The important figure is the net of exports minus imports. On this the United States has been the clear loser for over two decades.

The United States racked up a $170-billion trade deficit for 1996. Add this to the deficits of the previous 20 years and the trade debt represents $1.8 trillion of wealth transferred from the American people to foreign creditors—a massive loan from foreign countries which must eventually be repaid. Our trade deficit with China will surpass $40 billion this year; post-NAFTA, our surplus with Mexico has fallen to an $18-billion deficit; our annual $50-billion deficit with Japan remains intractable. In fact, for every country with which the United States has negotiated a fast-track agreement, our Nation has fallen into deficit. Since the United States hold a positive trade balance with Chile and the MERCOSUR nations, why rock the boat? Shouldn't Congress exercise its responsibility to correct that which is wrong with the current system before expanding it?

If the trade deficit keeps growing at this rate for another decade, the United States will essentially be paying the equivalent of 2.5 percent of our GDP in trade debt service—virtually all of the recent annual increase in the GDP! This means our people pedal harder but their bicycles still slip backward. Moreover, this continued hemorrhaging of U.S. jobs and industry hollows out our manufacturing and agricultural base. There is a difference between Wall Street's paper money and productive wealth.

If the United States does not take the initiative to modernize our trade policies at this historical moment at the dawn of the 21st century, I ask, what country will? Who will carry the burden to root our trade agreements in our fundamental national values, beginning with individual dignity and justice for all.

The ongoing fast-track debate has served to illuminate the deficiencies of oldstyle trade agreements. It cannot pass on its merits. The frantic wheeling and dealing by the White House and the Republican leadership that characterized the last 100 hours of the debate shows the opponents of fast track have already won a great moral and intellectual victory. So in a historic and troubling last-minute search for votes, every conceivable lure has been used to dangle in front of undecided members—Christmas tree provisions in appropriation bills, threats to take away Members' chairmanships, tax breaks for southern towns, bridges, roads through national forests, financial help in upcoming primary and general elections, trade preferences for sub-Saharan African nations, tobacco subsidy guarantees, wheat and wine deals—you name it; it's on the table.

It my 15 years in Congress, this type of tawdry, unyielding pressure convinces me just how powerful the forces resisting change are. It also tells me how strong are the oaks in this Chamber who have stood against the wind. We have scored a real victory for the American people and light a roman candle for the dignity of working people everywhere.

DOES THE PRESIDENT NEED FAST TRACK?

This and preceding administrations have negotiated over 220 trade agreements without fast-track authority. The Uruguay round of the GATT proceeded for several years without fast track. The Clinton administration is currently negotiating a multilateral agreement on investment without fast-track authority. The United States-Israel Free Trade Agreement was negotiated without fast track. The President has constitutional authority to negotiate with other sovereign nations. The only reason the President needs fast track is so he doesn't have to seriously consult or negotiate with Congress.

Think about it. Without fast track, U.S. trade negotiators will be in a stronger position vis-à-vis our trading partners if they have to sell the deal to Congress. The suggestion that our trading partners won't deal with us without fast track is ludicrous. If President Clinton can say, "I want to do this, but Congress is insisting on inclusion of these provisions . . ." doesn't that strengthen his hand?

Congress certainly is capable of dealing with extremely complex legislation. Each year, we pass 13 highly complex appropriation measures, thousands of pages in length. Each year, we adopt a defense authorization bill thousands of pages in length. And hasn't Congress dealt with budget and tax measures thousands of pages in length, controlling hundreds of billions of dollars in spending and taxes?

MAKING IT THERE AND SELLING IT HERE

The United States represents about 4 percent of the world's population and enjoys about 22 percent of the world's products. To maintain our standard-of-living, it is argued, we have to sell to the other 96 percent of the world's population. But of the world's 6 billion potential consumers, 80 percent are only window shoppers, low-wage workers or subsistence farmers. Under the fast track agreements, we don't sell a net positive balance of consumer goods to other countries; we send capital and capital goods out of our country where goods are assembled by low-wage workers often employed for "hunger wages," and then re-exported back to the United States and sold here at high prices—U-turn goods. Mexico is the prime example. NAFTA assured that Mexico would become one of the primary low-wage export platforms to the United States market, presently surpassed only by China. Nearly 3,000 plants have located just south of the border and they are called "in-bond" plants. I agree; labor is held in bondage. Since NAFTA, the Mexican domestic market has shrunk but its export market, primarily to the United States, has expanded dramatically. This process keeps putting severe downward pressure on United States living standards. If Europe and Japan maintain positive trade balances with Mexico, why is it only the United States that keeps digging a hole of debt with Mexico deeper and deeper? And with China? And with Canada?

HEALTH, SAFETY AND DRUGS

What does a fast-tracked trade policy mean for the quality of American life? Danger. Since 1990, food-borne outbreaks in the United States from imported food have included: shigellosis from imported green onions; salmonella from imported cantaloupe and imported alfalfa seeds; cyclospora from imported raspberries; and cholera from imported coconut milk. In Michigan earlier this year, more than 200 cases of hepatitis A were associated with frozen strawberries imported from Mexico and illegally labeled as United States grown. Strawberries imported from Mexico were found to have an 18.4 percent violation rate for illegal levels of pesticides in 1993. A 47-count indictment was brought against a California firm for fraudulently labeling Mexican grown strawberries as United States grown. On May 29 the Centers for Disease Control reported that imported raspberries were the cause of a 1996 outbreak of hepatitis.

Yet inspection of produce for pesticides on imported food has been reduced. The absolute number of imported food sample inspections decreased from 6,463 in 1993, to 5,448 in 1994, and to 5,032 in 1995—a decrease of 28 percent over that period. Inspection of imported Mexican produce declined from 1,820 samples in 1993 to 1723 samples in 1995 even though imports doubled. The food provisions of NAFTA constrain food safety and agricultural disease and pest inspections. NAFTA specifically forbids imported food from being inspected at the border more thoroughly than the same domestic commodity.

Moreover, under NAFTA we have not just opened our southern border to unsafe food. We have thrown the door open for the importation of the illegal drugs that degrade and destroy our communities. Key provisions for cross-border trucking have been relaxed resulting in Mexico becoming the primary route for the importation of drugs into the United States. The vast majority of trucks entering the United States from Mexico enter without inspection.

During the closing moments of the NAFTA debate in 1993 when it was clear that our position was on the short end of the votes, we promised the American people during that singularly compelling moment here in the House that our fight would continue in the tomorrows to come—a fight against the narrow visions of the elites and Wall Street who would abandon those who work in our factories, on our farms, and on Main Street. We have continued valiantly in our efforts, and we can be proud as we vote here today. For it is in our hearts, that reside the truest principles of democracy, prosperity, and respect for ordinary people of extraordinary spirit. Our victory gives hope to those in our world who struggle for democracy, for labor rights, for human health and safety in the workplace, and for the right to speak out as we have spoken out today.

When the vote on GATT occurred, we said when that vote was over, it would not be over. Its consequences would be felt for years to come. As a result of the elections of 1994 and 1996, we have been joined by many new Members of Congress, on both sides of the aisle, who fought to be our new partners and in that fight to forge a new American responsible trade policy. These colleagues did not share our experience as we battled NAFTA in 1993 and GATT in 1994. But they have heard the will of the American people as they campaigned for the seats they now hold, and they have made the difference.

Out of these many battles in a long struggle has come a deep awareness on the part of the American people that trade and jobs are inextricably linked and that people matter more than profits. On the floor of this House, we not hear the voices of those who bear the pain of NAFTA, the indignities of GATT. We must now proceed to constructively fashion a trade policy that moves America and the world into an era of trade-linked advancement for people or ordinary means.

I said in 1993 and again in 1994 during the GATT debate—also scheduled after midnight during a lame duck session of Congress—that working people would remember those votes. I say again America's working families will remember this vote as well. Let history show it was here, together, in the people's House where the journey began to enshrine in trade laws the highest ideals of a free people. Let us inspire a world where the majority long for a better way of life along the path that leads, not back to the 19th century, but forward to the 21st.

RELIEVE THE TAX BURDEN

HON. BOB SCHAFFER

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. BOB SCHAFFER of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to share some thoughts about taxes. The tax burden on Americans is out of control and not being eased fast enough. As we debate the best way to give Americans much needed tax relief I urge my colleagues to consider the comments of a constituent of mine, Brandi Graham, of Fort Collins, CO.

In 1914 the United States was preparing to enter into the most mammoth war the world had ever seen. She was strapped for the necessary cash to fund the unprecedented development, training, and transport of troops and weaponry across the globe. It was invariably the greatest financial challenge the growing nation had faced.

Congress took to radical measures. Among others, it enacted a temporary federal tax on income. It was a spirited debate that produced the 16th Amendment.

The first tax rate was a flat one percent of all income earned. An amendment was offered that would have capped the all-time federal tax rate at two percent. Unfortunately, the amendment was defeated. Many of the legislators wondered if allowing the federal government to tax individual income would be the slippery slope toward a government that would confiscate the earnings of its citizens. Tragically, their fears were to become realized.

In 1997, Americans worked through the month of May just to pay the tax collector. Only after June, did the Feds actually allow us to begin providing for our own families. In the hands of congressmen, the flat, one percent tax rate has become a cruel monstrosity bearing all the modern trappings of "progressive" taxation, loopholes, and shelters.

The tax code itself contains over 1,000 pages and requires legions of accountants to comprehend. "Progressivity" has caused citizens who work harder to find inexplicably that they only have less take home pay because they have achieved a higher tax bracket. Others discover that their savings are taxed at higher rates, or that they pay more to the government now simply because they decided to marry.

The scramble to escape the clutches of the income tax has approached the absurd. Billionaires exchange U.S. citizenship for tax breaks and companies move their operations to countries offering less confiscatory ways of raising national revenue. Our system is a disaster beyond repair.

So what would the authors of the 16th Amendment do if they were in Washington today? Well assuming they could recover from the shock of seeing the Frankenstein-like mutation of their quaint little income tax plan, they would almost certainly call for tax relief. They would urge the elimination of the myriad of loopholes and write-offs. But such a lesson might better persuade them that the original dissenters were right: That any income tax allows for government repression of its people. They might opt for the old and proven way of funding the federal government.

Today, seemingly all Americans agree that the tax code is hideous except for those who make the laws. Politicians seem to like the power confirmed by the prodigious code. They seem to enjoy the contributions from interests seeking to tweak the tax laws here and there for their selfish advantage.

But the nation's true leaders are those who understand the history of American taxation. They understand how hard Americans work to pay their government's largess. They realize that our nation once did well to rely on national sales taxes (we called them tariffs then) to fund all government operations. And our best leaders recognize today that a nation which ventured beyond a national sales tax has become perpetrator of a sick irony, embracing the very precepts against which it once rebelled, denying the fruits of real liberty with an arrogance of royalty and all the while crushing its people under the weight of oppressive taxation.

Mr. Speaker, as we move forward in our quest to relieve the tax burden, let us keep these comments in mind. Taxpaying Americans desperately deserve to make their own decisions on how their hard-earned money should be spent.

A COMPACT FOR AMERICA'S FUTURE: SAVING SOCIAL SECURITY FOR OUR GRANDCHILDREN

HON. NICK SMITH

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. SMITH of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, a few months ago, I received a letter from one of my constituents, Betty Dowdling of Marshall, MI, urging me to continue working on preserving Social Security for future generations. "It is most certainly not fair to leave big debts for our children and grandchildren," she wrote. She's exactly right. The good news is that more and more people are coming around to Betty's point of view.

There has been a lot of talk in the last year about the future of Social Security. It is an issue that, in some way or another, affects every American, young and old. If you're currently working, you pay tax into Social Security—listed as FICA on your paycheck stub. And if you're retired, you probably regularly received a Social Security check.

When President Franklin Roosevelt enacted Social Security in 1935, it was meant to provide modest assistance to the Nation's most elderly—those over 65—paid for by the current work force. At that time, the system worked wonderfully. Most people never made it past the age of 61, and, as it worked out, about 42 workers contributed to the system for each retiree.

Today, Social Security is the Nation's largest budget expenditure. Thanks to advancing technology and improved health care, the average life expectancy for Americans is no longer 61, but a record 74. Instead of 42 workers paying taxes to support each retiree, there are now just three workers for each retiree. Instead of the old 1 percent payroll tax enacted in 1935, the tax is now 12.4 percent. In just the past 26 years, in fact, the payroll taxes all workers pay has been hiked 36 times—that is on average more than once a year. As the so-called baby boom generation starts to retire at the turn of the century, the ratio between workers and retirees will continue to get smaller and the propensity to increase taxes will continue to be greater. As early as 2005—less than 8 years from now—the Social Security trust fund will start spending more than it takes in. That is unless we take some action now to change the system.

Shortly, and with support from Democrats and Republicans, I intend to introduce a bill that would allow workers to use a portion of their current Social Security payroll tax for private investment. This bill would give you the option of investing your own earnings in stocks or bonds and with the guidance of a professional money manager, with potentially far greater returns that you would ever get in the current system. The average annual rate of return for stocks and bonds in the last 70 years has been 9 percent. That is almost five times the rate of return from Social Security. By allowing you to invest more of your money as you like—and your Social Security payroll tax after all is still your money—you could amass substantial savings.

Senator BOB KERREY, a Democrat from Nebraska who is also working on this problem, likes to tell the story about Gladys Holm. Ms. Holm was a secretary who in her whole life never earned more than $15,000 a year. When she died last year at 86, she was worth over $18 million. Her secret? She just put aside a little bit of money each month throughout her working life and put it in private investment. Through compound interest—and unusually wise investments—Gladys Holm had become a millionaire.

Though that example is probably atypical, we could do similar things with our Social Security system. By allowing private investment—as England does with great success—every American could actually have a strong safety net when they reach old age. Even better, the money you would invest and save would be your own—not the Government's. It is yours to invest, yours to spend, yours to pass on to your kids and grandkids or charities or whatever else you like. Private investment means more power to you.

If we enact these needed reforms, Social Security may finally create the retirement security President Franklin Roosevelt envisioned in 1935. This year, a Federal memorial opened in Washington honoring FDR. I think the better tribute to Roosevelt would be if we worked this year to preserve his most important legacy for his great-grandchildren, our great-grandchildren, and many generations to come.

“PAKISTAN SHOULD CONDUCT A FULL INVESTIGATION INTO THE MURDER OF UNION TEXAS PETROLEUM EMPLOYEES

HON. GENE GREEN

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. GREEN. Mr. Speaker, earlier this morning, I was saddened to learn of the murder of four Americans in Pakistan who were employed by Houston-based Union Texas Petroleum. In addition, their Pakistani driver was also murdered. Although no direct link has been found, many suspect that this deliberate act of cold-hearted murder may be revenge for the murder conviction of a Pakistani in Virginia. I would like to express my heart-felt condolences to the families and friends of Ephraim Egbu, Joel Enlow, Larry Jennings and Tracy Ritchie. You are in our thoughts and prayers.

The murder of these courageous Americans is an outrage, and I call on the Pakistani Government to conduct a full and exhaustive investigation into this tragedy and to punish all those responsible. Justice delayed is, truly, justice denied. We must always remember, in the words of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., an injustice anywhere is an affront to justice everywhere.

This is a terrible and tragic loss. In Congress, we speak of the many tragedies that occur all over the world, especially to Americans. Although Americans continue to be at risk in many parts of the world, they faithfully carry out their duties and are not deterred by senseless instances, such as this one. The Union Texas employees stationed in Pakistan are no exception. Union Texas Petroleum has been active in exploring for, developing and producing oil and gas in Pakistan for over 20 years. The company has approximately 600 employees in Pakistan, 21 of whom are American citizens.

The management and employees of Union Texas have been leaders in supporting the communities in Pakistan where Union Texas operations exist and have funded the construction of numerous schools, colleges for young women and young men, medical clinics, and mosques, and have provided relief during natural disasters and other emergencies in Pakistan. Union Texas has been a good corporate citizen in Pakistan, and it is sad that such a needless and tragic event has been targeted at a company dedicated to sharing its resources with their host country.

This is a terrible loss for the families and friends of the victims, and for Union Texas.

CONCERN ABOUT FEDERAL SUBSIDIES

HON. BOB SCHAFFER

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. BOB SCHAFFER of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to share with you the thoughts of a fellow Coloradan who is concerned, like all of us, about Federal subsidies. As the proposal to privatize Amtrak proceeds, Mr. Scott Slusher of Colorado has composed sensible views on this subject which I now submit for the RECORD.

Congress is currently working to reauthorize the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act which lays out the federal government's plan for the nation's transportation infrastructure. The legislation affects everything from highways and interstates to airports and waterways. One of the more contentious topics is the future of railroad policy and more specifically, Amtrak and passenger rail service.

On one side of the argument are train enthusiasts and boosters of the rail service, and on the other side are critics such as Sen. John McCain who argue it is time for the federal government to get out of the railroad business.

What is ignored is that the free market, individual citizens, and American industry have already made their choice. The truth is that the country's railroad industry can be divided into two parts—one healthy and competitive, the other perennially on the brink of bankruptcy. The privately owned and operated freight rail companies continue to make a substantial contribution to the nation's economy, and their future as a mode of freight transportation is secure well into the next century. On the other hand, passenger rail service, though heavily subsidized by the government, continues to lose passengers to faster and more cost-effective means of travel.

The numbers themselves make this contrast clear (statistics from 1993). Measured by the volume of freight transported, railroads accounted for 38.1 percent of domestic transport and were the number one method for transporting goods. Truck accounted for 28.1 percent of goods transported and were the second most common method of transporting freight. The private rail freight companies are clearly an essential part of our economy, and their continued success is a result of adapting to the modern economy and providing a competitive and cost effective service.

Passenger rail service, however, has been less successful. In 1993, intercity railways accounted for approximately 0.4 percent of the total number of passenger-miles traveled in the United States. Comparatively, private automobiles on the nation's highways and interstates accounted for 80.8 percent, and domestic air travel was responsible for 17.4 percent. Even intercity bus travel, with 1.1 percent, was more successful at attracting passengers.

The relative inability of Amtrak to attract passengers comes in spite of the $18 billion in subsidies the federal government has given the railroad since its creation in 1971. While the initial plan was for Amtrak to be self-supporting in two years, it has consistently lost money for the last 25, and as it is currently managed, is not expected to ever be profitable.

While there was a time in which intercity railways carried the bulk of people across the country, the advent of cheap, fast airline travel, and the construction of the vast interstate highway network, has given Americans many more choices. They have responded by relying on the convenience of their automobiles, or availing themselves of the ability to travel from coast-to-coast in a few hours, as opposed to a few days.

The relative measure of passenger miles bears this fact out, but it also points out an opportunity to strengthen the vibrant portion of the railway industry. By allowing private freight companies the freedom to compete without undue government interference, and by encouraging innovation in the railway freight industry, we can assure a place for America's railroads in the 21st century.

Clearly, passenger rail service will continue where it is economically viable. Capital assets could be sold to private companies all along the Northeast corridor between Boston and Baltimore. The commuter railroads in major urban centers would continue uninterrupted. However, spending scarce tax dollars on a service that the traveling public has rejected clearly must come to an end.

Mr. Speaker, as we continue the debate on the Federal funding of Amtrak I ask my colleagues to keep these comments in mind as we search for solutions.

PROVIDING RELIEF TO THE AMERICAN VICTIMS OF THE APRIL 1994 BLACK HAWK FRATRICIDE INCIDENT

HON. MAC COLLINS

OF GEORGIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. COLLINS. Mr. Speaker, on Monday, I introduced legislation that would equalize the treatment of United States and foreign personnel killed in the April 14, 1994, shootdown of two U.S. Army Black Hawk helicopters by two U.S. Air Force F-15 fighters over Iraq. Following the incident, U.S. Secretary of Defense William Perry found it inappropriate to compensate the families of the Americans who were killed in the tragedy citing the Feres doctrine—a legal principle denying compensation for death or injury incident to military service.

However, Secretary Perry provided payments of $100,000 to the families of each of the foreign nationals involved in the accident, in spite of the Feres doctrine. These voluntary payments, made under the Secretary's emergency and extraordinary expense authority were characterized as humanitarian gestures offered in recognition of the unique circumstances surrounding the incident.

It is time that we offer the same gesture to our own citizens who were involved. In the interest of fairness and justice, the law must be applied in an equal fashion. If it was appropriate to pay the foreign nationals involved, then it is also appropriate to pay the Americans. It is outrageous that the United States Government would treat British, French, and Turkish soldiers better than our own.

If enacted, H.R. 2986 will require the Secretary of the Treasury to make $100,000 payments to the families of each of the Americans killed in the April 1994 Black Hawk fratricide incident. I urge my colleagues to support our troops and families by supporting this important relief measure.

CAMPAIGN FINANCE REFORM

HON. RON KIND

OF WISCONSIN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. KIND. Mr. Speaker, another week and still no campaign finance reform. We are now down to the final days before we adjourn for the year, if we don't take action now on campaign finance reform next year will be too late.

On Monday of this week, I spent the day on several University campuses in my district. I had an opportunity to meet with students who are concerned about a variety of issues, including student financial aid, the environment and their future job prospects. I was struck, however, by the feeling among students that their voice doesn't matter. They believe that the influence of money on the political process means only the rich and powerful special interests have access to Members of Congress. I have tried to do my part, through meetings like the ones I held Monday, to change that perception. But, we will not be able to completely change that image until we adopt comprehensive campaign finance reform.

These students represent the future. If we expect them to be the leaders in the next century, we must give them hope that they can make a difference. To achieve that goal we must pass campaign finance reform, and we must do it now.

Mr. Speaker, the people of western Wisconsin refuse to accept "no" as an answer. Please do not let them down, schedule a vote on campaign finance reform.

THE FURTHER POLITICIZATION OF THE NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

HON. DOUG BEREUTER

OF NEBRASKA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, this Member hopes that his colleagues might read and they remember the following editorial from the October 11, 1997, edition of the Omaha World-Herald next month when the Nobel Peace Prize is formally awarded. It will be used as an unreasonable and irresponsible point of pressure or attack on the American use of landmines in the demilitarized zone on the Korean peninsula by both domestic and foreign critics.

[From the Omaha World-Herald, Oct. 11, 1997]

NOBEL DECISION RAISES QUESTION: WHAT ABOUT PEACE IN KOREA?

The Nobel committee awarded the Nobel Peace Prize to the international committee promoting a treaty to halt the use of anti-personnel land mines. A more appropriate recipient, in our opinion, would have been the U.S. government for its 44 years of preventing war along the demilitarized zone that separates North and South Korea.

Mention of Korea is appropriate in connection with the Nobel committee's decision. By honoring the anti-mine campaign, the Nobel people have implicitly condemned one of the tools used by U.S. forces to prevent invasion or infiltration of South Korea by troops, saboteurs or assassins from the north.

President Clinton had asked treaty sponsors to exempt Korea, allowing the U.S. to sign the treaty and still maintain the option of using mines along the DMZ. When his request was refused, he said the United States could not sign the treaty.

So the awarding of this year's Nobel prize to the anti-mine campaign is a slap at Clinton, too, and a slap at the hundreds of thousands of American troops who have rotated through the U.S. divisions in Korea since the 1950s. (During part of that time, the head of the anti-mine committee, Jody Williams of Putney, Vt., was campaigning against U.S. efforts to keep Central America from going communist.)

The United States, of course, is not the cause of the land-mine problem to which Princess Diana called attention. She went to Angola and hugged children who had been maimed by exploding mines left over from that country's civil war.

U.S. forces don't scatter land mines at random, leaving them to be exploded years later by grazing animals or playing children. That's the behavior of terrorists, dictators and guerrilla groups. Iraqi military units. The Viet Cong. East African warlords. Balkan terrorists.

By contrast, America, like most other western nations, is pledged to follow the 1947 Geneva Convention, which requires armies to record the placement of mines and remove the devices when no longer needed.

The United States halted exports of land mines years ago, even to its allies. U.S.-made mines are manufactured to defuse themselves after a certain time, usually 60 days. Older mines in the U.S. inventory are being destroyed. Fewer mines are being used in Korea, although the United States wants to keep the right to use them.

In Korea, 35,000 U.S. troops augment the South Korean army in holding back the million-man army of the north. They guard a 487-square-mile demilitarized zone that stretches more than 100 miles through rugged mountains, steep valleys and forested hills.

Many times over the past four decades, infiltrators from the north have tried to slip across the DMZ into the south. Minefields stand in their way. Some people say that the United States must give up such defenses to persuade outlaw nations and terrorists not to scatter mines across the countryside. This argument fails to account for the fact that the United States is a superpower to which other nations, often by default, have entrusted certain responsibilities. Giving up a tool for carrying them out is more difficult for a superpower than for nations that have fewer international obligations.

Our suggestion that the United States receive a Nobel prize was only half-serious. The award is generally reserved for individuals and institutions.

In terms of contributions to the peace of the world, however, America's role on the Korean peninsula has few parallels. Because South Korea was kept out of a Soviet or Chinese orbit, democracy and free enterprise took root there. Because Japan didn't need to arm itself against a Soviet or Chinese threat based in South Korea, Japan emerged from its post-war recovery as a peaceful industrial democracy. Other nations around the Pacific rim took inspiration from the economic success of South Korea and Japan. Much of the region is now prosperous, non-communist and free.

The careful use of mines played a role in that success. It's unfortunate that the anti-mine people will now have yet another forum, the Nobel ceremonies in December, from which to paint the U.S. position as irresponsible.

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE HOSPICE OF SAINT JOHN, LAKEWOOD, CO

HON. SCOTT McINNIS

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, it is a high honor and privilege to allow my colleagues to know of the wonderful work being done by the Hospice of Saint John in Lakewood, Colorado. Twenty years ago, in 1977, this program was founded by Fr. Paul von Lobkowitz, a priest of the Sovereign Order of Saint John of Jerusalem, Knights of Malta, to serve the sick and the dying. This month the Hospice of Saint John celebrates twenty years of caring. In those years its staff of professionals have cared for more than 12,000 dying patients and their families.

The Hospice of Saint John was only the second in-patient hospice program to be opened in the United States. It has stood the test of time in a medical environment that favors the bigger corporations. The Hospice of Saint John continues to be independently run and directed by the Order of Saint John of Jerusalem and its professed and lay members.

The Hospice of Saint John was the first hospice program in the state to provide care for AIDS patients when many other programs of the day refused to care for them. Today the Hospice's commitment to AIDS patients and their families and friends remains as strong as ever, as does its care for every one of its patients. Many of its patients include young men and women whose lives are cut short by ravaging diseases. In its twenty years the Hospice of Saint John has never turned away a single patient for a lack of financial means.

Remarkably, it has never received a dime of federal money other than Medicare and Medicaid funds.

This program is worthy of our collective recognition. For the past twenty years Fr. Paul and his staff at the Hospice of Saint John have cared for those who we sometimes tend to forget. They have toiled in the trenches for all humanity. They deserve our respect and support and on this occasion of their twenty years of dedicated service to my state I ask you to join with me in saluting them and their service to us all.

AMERICA NEEDS THE PAYCHECK PROTECTION ACT

HON. BOB SCHAFFER

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Mr. BOB SCHAFFER of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, during a recent weekend of site visits in the eastern Colorado congressional district I represent, a constituent approached me and posed a sensible question, "Why am I forced to contribute my hard-earned dollars to my union's political activities?" He went on to explain that for him, every paycheck includes a deduction for union dues. These dues pay for legal services and collective bargaining costs. Dues, he agrees, are useful to promote his trade. He has no problem with union dues so long as they are used for their intended purpose.

He objects, however, to the millions of dollars his union puts toward political causes he does not support and at the expense of thousands of union members like him. Most union members disagree with giving their wages to political activities because they are excluded in deciding how their money is spent.

Something needs to change.

In 1947 Congress passed the Labor-Management Relations Act, also known as the Taft-Hartley Act. This legislation prohibited so-called closed shop workplaces, where one could not be hired without first joining a union.

Calling the act a "slave labor bill," President Harry Truman vetoed the measure. Subsequently, Congress voted to override the veto, thereby enacting Taft-Hartley into law.

Convinced the bill would destroy the labor movement, union members felt justified in circumventing the legislation. Rather than require workers to join the union prior to employment, labor bosses instead required union membership after the worker was hired.

The Taft-Hartley Act challenged the unions' ability to maintain membership which no longer rested upon the utility of their collectivism, but upon the ability to lobby Congress. Thus, unions became proficient political machines.

Union bosses recruited and supported candidates who would pledge allegiance to the unions. In return for loyalty, unions produced money and manpower to aid political campaigns. The tactic proved decisive. For many years, Congress operated in lockstep with the unions.

Workers who opposed the unions' political antics turned to the Supreme Court. In 1988, the Court ruled in Communications Workers v. Beck, 487 U.S. 735, that nonunion members can only be required to pay for the costs of collective bargaining, contract administration, and grievance adjustment but not political activities. Unions made little effort to educate their members about Beck, and found ways to keep workers from exercising their Beck rights.

Today, many union members continue to pay for more than just collective bargaining. They are also paying for politics. During the 1996 congressional and Presidential campaigns, for example, labor unions spent more than $400 million on political activities. A recent poll indicated that 68 percent of union members are unaware of the Beck decision.

Testimony before Congress confirms the difficulty workers have had exercising their Beck rights. This past spring, worker after worker told Congress of the near-impossible task of actually recovering hard-earned wages.

Under current laws, the only way some union members can refuse contributions to political activities is to quit the union, which also means quitting their jobs and risking their livelihoods.

Saying "no" should not come at such a high price. That is why I introduced H.R. 2608, the Paycheck Protection Act. The Paycheck Protection Act protects workers who are forced to contribute to political activities by way of their union dues. The Paycheck Protection Act requires separate, prior, written, voluntary authorization before any money can be deducted from a wage earner's paycheck for political activity. By requiring prior approval, the wage earner is given a choice. Furthermore, the bill applies to corporations just as it does unions.

More than one-third of the U.S. House is already cosponsoring the Paycheck Protection Act, and over 70 percent of working Americans express support for the Paycheck Protection Act. I believe we may finally have a chance to help American workers by protecting their paychecks.

TRIBUTE TO ROBERT PALMER
INGRAM

HON. KAREN MCCARTHY

OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, November 12, 1997

Ms. MCCARTHY of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, my colleague, Mr. DREIER, and I, rise today to pay tribute to the life of a man who has touched so many lives and who has contributed so much to our community: Mr. Robert Palmer Ingram.

We submit into the RECORD an article in honor of Mr. Ingram's memory and contributions as recounted by Diane Stafford in my hometown newspaper, the Kansas City Star:

Robert Palmer Ingram, an indefatigable salesman and civic leader, died Tuesday in his sleep at his Kansas City home. He was 80 years old.

Since arriving in Kansas City in the mid-1940s, Ingram founded or led more than a dozen companies, was a director of at least seven others, served as a trustee or a governor of six major civic or educational organizations, was an honorary consul to Belgium and held offices or memberships in many other clubs, councils and committees.

Fueled by his voracious reading, Ingram brought curiosity and wise counsel to wide-ranging endeavors. He shunned the spotlight but left a public imprint as the former owner and publisher of Ingram's, the Kansas City monthly business magazine that continues to carry his name.

To classical music lovers, Ingram was known as the man who poured millions of dollars into classical music radio station KXTR, keeping it on the air for years despite unprofitability. He also owned KBEA, which had a "Music of Your Life" format. He sold those properties in 1996.

Henry Bloch, co-founder of H&R Block Inc., said that many times through the years, including Monday, he saw Ingram eating lunch alone and reading at the River Club.

"I've known him for a long time, and I can say he did a lot for Kansas City—in real estate, with the radio stations and the magazines," Bloch said. "He was a very nice person."

Quick-thinking, quick-moving and often slightly disheveled, Ingram whirled his thin frame from meeting to meeting, wedging in reading and note scribbling whenever time would allow. He and his wife, Beth Ingram, at one time said they subscribed to as many as 150 periodicals.

"He slowed down recently, but he stayed so upbeat about Kansas City," said Mike Morrissey, past chairman of the Greater Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, who sometimes ate lunch with Ingram at the Kansas City Club. "He was very supportive of anything you ever wanted him to help you with. He and Beth were very generous in the Kansas City community, not only financially but with their time."

Former Kansas City Mayor Richard L. Berkley said he admired Ingram "for remaining active and participating in so many civic, cultural and political activities. . . . It was impressive to see him still come to the Civic Council meetings and other events he was involved in, even when you knew it was getting more difficult for him to move around."

Ingram's energy left a brick-and-mortar legacy for the city. One project, TenMain Center, a downtown redevelopment effort in the 1960s, nearly ruined his wealth and his health after the intended prime tenant (the Kansas City Board of Trade) and fellow investors pulled out.

Ingram stuck with the office tower project, though, and saw it through to fruition.

At one time he owned 10 downtown buildings but in later years retained ownership only of the Argyle Building, a renovated tower that housed the offices of Ingram Properties and his publishing enterprises.

Ingram eschewed many outward trappings of wealth but admitted a fascination with high society. Even in failing health in recent months, he attended a swirl of benefits and functions.

His interest in wealth and society, in part, led to his ownership of The Independent, the area's society journal.

The Lyric Opera of Kansas City was a major beneficiary of the Ingram's philanthropy since it founding in 1958. Ingram money turned the old theater library into a luxurious gathering space for benefactors.

Ingram largess also created a new music library for the Kansas City Symphony.

He was born in Norfolk, Va., and grew up in a suburb of Pittsburgh, where, he said, he began selling door to door "anything he could" by age 8.

By age 10 he was following the stock market and buying his first stocks. And by age 12, he grandly noted later, he had learned to use rejection as a spur to do better.

He studied journalism at Washington and Lee University and at the University of Pittsburgh but left college without getting a degree because, he later said, he thought he needed a job more than he needed more education.

His first job was in sales at Anchor Hocking Glass Co. The company dispatched him to Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan and back to Pennsylvania before sending him to Kansas City.

He decided to plant roots and in 1947 founded Robert P. Ingram & Co., an independent manufacturers' representative specializing in housewares and toys. Soon thereafter, he met and married Beth (Mary Elizabeth Renfro).

The Ingrams had two children, Marsha Jill Ingram Reynolds and Robert Palmer (Chip) Ingram III, both of whom live in the Kansas City area. There are four grandchildren.

Always spurred by the desire to do civic good, Ingram sometimes was thwarted. In the 1960s, for example, he was part of an investor group that was outbid by Charles O. Finley to buy the Kansas City Athletics baseball team.

In the 1970s he was unsuccessful in working for an ice hockey and convention center downtown.

On balance, Ingram's successes predominated. From operating the locker concession at Kansas City International Airport to becoming a major investor and director of Rubbermaid, Ingram earned notice for his entrepreneurship and intelligence.

"There are very few things in life that have given me the same pleasure I have received from starting and growing businesses," Ingram said in a promotional ad for Ingram's not long before his death.

Always, he told interviewers, he considered himself a salesman. In any setting Ingram might be seen thumbing through a wad of business cards, searching for the appropriate one among his many interests and passing it out to a prospective customer.

Ingram's sales acumen was acknowledged in 1969, when he received the Saleman of the Year award from the Advertising and Sales Executive Club of Kansas City.

In recent years Ingram made a few concessions to age. Once prone to getting speeding tickets, he hired a driver to shuttle him from appointment to appointment.

But despite increased frailty, he took pride in working in his office from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. every Monday through Friday he was in Kansas City, said Marie Brown, his executive assistant.

In recent years he and his wife split time between their residence in The Walnuts, near the Country Club Plaza, and their condo in Palm Beach, Fla. They also had an apartment in New York.

A lifelong Republican, Ingram relished his 1969 appointment by Richard Nixon as metro chairman of the National Alliance of Businessmen. He also was a member of the Points of Light Foundation.

A roundup of Ingram's business presidencies in addition to Robert P. Ingram & Co. includes Ingram Investment Co., Lasalle Leasing Co., KBEA Broadcasting Co., KXTR Broadcasting Co., Kansas City Bus Advertising Co., Security Locker Co., TenMain Center, Dow Research, Econo-Car Rental and the Argyle Building Co.

He was chairman of Ingram Media, Custom Publishing by Ingram's and Ingram Properties.

He was publisher emeritus of The Independent and the former publisher of Ingram's and its predecessor, Corporate Report/Kansas City magazine. He sold Ingram's this year.

He was a past director of Rubbermaid, Harzfelds, Gilbert/Robinson, Baltimore Bank & Trust Co. of Kansas City, American Cablevision of Kansas City and Country Club Bank.

At the time of his death he was a director of FLM Industries and the Housing Development Corporation and Information Center in Kansas City.

On the civic scene, Ingram's participation was wide and deep.

He was trustee of the University of Missouri-Kansas City, the UMKC Conservatory of Music and Midwest Research Institute.

He was on the board of governors of the Straight Theatre Association, the American Royal Association and the Urban League of Kansas City.

He was a member of the business council of the Nelson-Atkins Museum of Art and the museum's Society of Fellows.

He was a member of the Lyric Opera Guild, the Fine Arts Guild of William Jewell College and the Friends of the Kansas City Symphony.

He was a member and director of the Civic Council of Greater Kansas City.

He was a past president of the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Kansas City and Downtown Inc.

Ingram was appointed to two significant public-service commissions in the late 1960s. He was one of five men on a six-month commission to study civil disorders in Kansas City in 1968, and a year later he accepted an appointment to the Capital Requirements for Public Schools Committee for the Kansas City School District.

He held memberships in the 711 Club, the Man of the Month Fraternity, Alliance Francaise, the Friends of Vieilles Maisons Francaises, the Carriage Club, the Kansas City Club, the Vanguard Club and BENS.

Friends and family attended his funeral on October 24th at Country Club Christian Church, 6101, Ward Parkway.

Congressional Record

The public proceedings of each House of Congress, as reported by the Official Reporters thereof, are printed pursuant to directions of the Joint Committee on Printing as authorized by appropriate provisions of Title 44, United States Code, and published for each day that one or both Houses are in session, excepting very infrequent instances when two or more unusually small consecutive issues are printed at one time. ¶Public access to the Congressional Record is available online through GPO Access, a service of the Government Printing Office, free of charge to the user. The online database is updated each day the Congressional Record is published. The database includes both text and graphics from the beginning of the 103d Congress, 2d session (January 1994) forward. It is available on the Wide Area Information Server (WAIS) through the Internet and via asynchronous dial-in. Internet users can access the database by using the World Wide Web; the Superintendent of Documents home page address is http://www.access.gpo.gov/su\_docs, by using local WAIS client software or by telnet to swais.access.gpo.gov, then login as guest (no password required). Dial-in users should use communications software and modem to call (202) 512-1661; type swais, then login as guest (no password required). For general information about GPO Access, contact the GPO Access User Support Team by sending Internet e-mail to gpoaccess@gpo.gov, or a fax to (202) 512-1262; or by calling Toll Free 1-888-293-6498 or (202) 512-1530 between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. Eastern time, Monday through Friday, except for Federal holidays. ¶The Congressional Record paper and 24x microfiche will be furnished by mail to subscribers, free of postage, at the following prices: paper edition, $150.00 for six months, $295.00 per year, or purchased for $2.50 per issue, payable in advance; microfiche edition, $141.00 per year, or purchased for $1.50 per issue payable in advance. The semimonthly Congressional Record Index may be purchased for the same per issue prices. Remit check or money order, made payable to the Superintendent of Documents, directly to the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. ¶Following each session of Congress, the daily Congressional Record is revised, printed, permanently bound and sold by the Superintendent of Documents in individual parts or by sets. ¶With the exception of copyrighted articles, there are no restrictions on the republication of material from the Congressional Record.
